Local author to sign copies of new release

Book on American Indian treaties across Upper Great Lakes region

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix's Round Lake Bookstore will host a book signing event with local author Chuck Cleland. Copies of his recently released book, "Faith in Paper: The Ethnohistory and Litigation of Upper Great Lakes Indian Treaties" will be signed for participants.

The book-signing will be 5-6 p.m. Saturday, June 14, at 216 Bridge St., in downtown Charlevoix. Refreshments will be served.

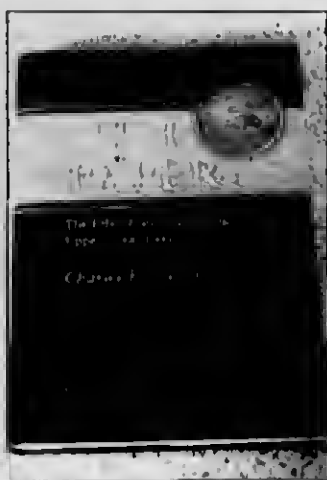

The book is published by the University of Michigan Press. "Faith in Paper" provides a detailed history of scores of major American Indian treaties between the United States and the Native American tribes of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

During the last quarter of the 20th century, native people of the Great Lakes region made numerous complaints that their long-standing treaty agreements with the United States were being ignored by their state and local governments. "Faith in Paper" explores the epic clashes in the federal courts that led, in most cases, not only to the reaffirmation of the historic treaty agreements, but also to new-found tribal sovereignty.

This fascinating story is told through historical narratives that describe many of these treaty agreements, the conditions of negotiations, the different understandings of the contents, and the effects on native indigenous American Indian tribes, plus provides context in the fields of history, anthropology and the law.

The book is organized around eight of the region's most important treaty lawsuits, including those affecting Northern Michigan. These lawsuits include cases about fishing and hunting rights, reservation boundary issues and the rights of American Indians on tribal land.

"Faith in Paper" is both an invaluable contribution to the scholarship of American Indian law and history, but also a rich resource for native people as they strive to retain or re-gain rights eroded during past years.

Charlevoix church welcomes new priest this month

CHARLEVOIX — Christ Episcopal Church welcomed a new priest on Sunday, June 8 — the Rev. Tom O'Dell.

O'Dell came to Christ Episcopal Church from Omaha, Neb., where he served as rector at All Saints Episcopal Church. Prior to that call, he served Episcopal parishes at St. Francis in the Fields in Harrods Creek, Ky., St. John's in Roanoke, Va., and R.E. Lee Memorial in Lexington, Va. O'Dell earned a bachelor's degree from Murray State University, a law degree from Washington and Lee University, and a master's degree in divinity from General Theological Seminary.

While in Omaha, in addition to his parish responsibilities, O'Dell served on the standing committee, executive commission and bishops and trustees for the Diocese of Nebraska, and as board chairperson for Habitat for Humanity of Omaha. He enjoys biking, running, hiking, Nordic skiing and kayaking. O'Dell was born and raised in a small Kentucky town of 2,500.

"I feel like I am returning home," he said.

O'Dell maintains a particular interest in both local and global mission. For more than 30 years he remained active in Habitat for Humanity, including serving as president of the board in Omaha. He developed a ministry with the many Sudanese refugees in Omaha.

O'Dell also served on the diocesan standing committee in both Virginia and Nebraska. He served the church in Northern Ghana in West Africa, developing a reformation project to fight back the encroaching Sahara Desert. He led seven mission trips, taking parishioners to Ghana to further the work and get to know the people. As a result, lifetime friendships forged in this common mission keeps part of his heart always in Ghana, O'Dell said.

He is active in ministry in the Dominican Republic, as well. While at All Saints, O'Dell led four mission trips to the Dominican Republic.

In addition to O'Dell serving as a new priest the second Sunday this month, Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix also that day awarded three $1,000 scholarships to Charlevoix County students. Those students include Paul Esch-Laurant from Boyne City, Dustin Hejka from East Jordan, and Jackson Buday from Charlevoix. Paul is headed to Michigan Technological University, Dustin to Hope College and Jackson to Michigan State University.

The church is one block west of the main downtown traffic light at the corner of State and Clinton in Charlevoix. For more information about the church and its services, call (231) 547-6322 or go to www.christepiscopalchurch.net online.

Friends of the Jordan will carry on, but John will be greatly missed," said Greg Reising, chairman of the Northern Michigan Environmental Action Council.

That nonprofit agency twice awarded Richter for his efforts to protect the Jordan River environment. First, that group named him Environmentalist of the Year in 2008 and then granted him its Clarence Kroupa Lifetime Achievement Award last year. Richter also was named East Jordan's Citizen of the Year in 2008.

Richter once described why he put so much effort toward Jordan River Valley protections, whether or not they be water-related.

"There's an old proverb that says that 'a river or lake is the memory of the lands through which it flowed' and one of the things that Friends of the Jordan recognized from the beginning is that to manage water resources, you need to be concerned about the lands around it, which is why our name is Friends of the Jordan River Watershed," Richter had said.

"The watershed is the land area drained by that distinct water body, the Jordan River, and the South Arm (of Lake Charlevoix) is the recipient of that. And that translates into issues like land use, erosion, sedimentation, nonpoint source pollution, point source pollution, a whole host of things, like water conservation, road crossings, which then get into things like fisheries, wildlife, forestry. The watershed group is far more than just a river group or a forest group, you have to look at the whole package," he had added.

Through his conservation efforts, Richter made lasting impacts on other area environmental advocates, as well as schoolchildren, volunteers and others with a passion for the Jordan River.

"Always deep in thought — you could see the cogs turning in his head — he always proposed the right questions at the right time and also personally challenged me to be a better river steward, to take care of the resource/watershed for all of us," said Brian Kozminski, of Boyne City, who met Richter when he served as president of the Miller-Van Winkle Chapter of Trout Unlimited.

"He was soft spoken, but his words carried weight. We always talked about doing more for the Jordan River, to heal it and make it a better fishery, to improve habitat and educate recreational users. I believe now is the proper time to put our words into actions and carry out some of those ideals," Kozminski said.

Darcie Dietrich, of East Jordan, also closely worked with Richter last year with the Friend of the Jordan's annual photography contest. She said the strength of Friends of the Jordan is rooted in Richter's deep-seeded love for the area, its wilderness and its beauty.

"All along, that was all him. It's going to take a lot of people to fill his shoes because he was very passionate," she said. "It's important that his passion carries on."

And not only was Richter an environmental crusader, he was a compassionate and caring veterinarian who took as good of care of his animal patients as he did their human owners. He was especially kind when it came time for Dietrich to euthanize a beloved pet cat, she said.

"He had a way of making you feel like you'd made the right choice, which was comforting," Dietrich said.

A celebration of Richter's life is planned for 1-4 p.m. Saturday, June 14, at the Jordan River Watershed Center, 101 Union St., in East Jordan. Handicapped parking will be available at the center and others are asked to park at adjacent Sportsman Park.

Federally tax-deductible memorial contributions in Richter's honor can be sent to Friends of the Jordan River Watershed, P.O. Box 412, East Jordan, MI 49727, or be made online at www.friendsofthejordan.org under the link for donations.

zoning regulation.

"What type of liability can the city incur?" said Dave Novotny, planning commission member. "That's my concern, especially if they've got a rack or a table out there."

Additionally, planning commissioner Judy Clock said, "If we want to be uptight and a neat town ... it looks less cluttered."

But not everyone on the planning commission is completely behind the rule. Planning commissioner John Elzinga said he'd prefer to see some leeway with the outdoor merchandise restriction.

Part of the concern is that some downtown shop owners actually own up to 2 feet of space between their building and the official city sidewalk. Spencer said some suggest with some empty storefronts, why not allow those merchants who remain in business some latitude? It's only really a problem when the sidewalks are crowded with summertime visitors.

Planning commissioner Keith Sherwood said city officials should distinguish between those who use their own property and those who use "even 1 inch" of public sidewalk.

Spencer said he would draw up in coming weeks some possible zoning language for planning commissioners to consider in June. A public hearing on any proposed zoning changes is tentatively planned for 7 p.m. Monday, July 14, at city hall, 210 State St., in downtown Charlevoix.

Other topics the planning commissioners discussed include: sandwich boards and whether to allow the plastic type onto which plastic letters can be slid into place; portable plastic bins, closets and sheds and whether to regulate them as structures; and, whether to allow with special use permits second dwelling units within the city, sometimes called "granny flats," Spencer said.

Charlevoix Photography Club to exhibit at Circle of Arts

MICHAEL KADE MORROW
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Circle of Arts will host the sixth annual photography exhibit, featuring the works of dozens of local artists, that all fall under the theme of Michigan: Its Places, Spaces, People and Things.

Opening night begins with a reception from 5:30-7 p.m. Thursday, June 19. The exhibit will remain on display through July 27.

The exhibit features the works of photographers from all over the state, many are local residents, and several are new artists whose works will be seen for the first time. The works were juried, and prizes will be awarded and given out in numerous different categories.

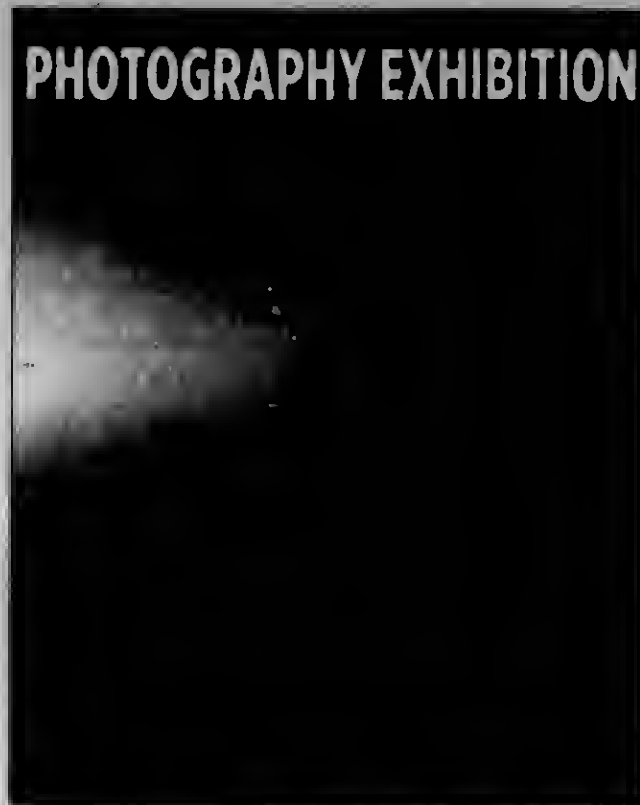

Opening night includes awards presentation, wine, beer and hors d'oeuvres, plus some of the artists will be attending to speak with visitors.

"This exhibit's most unique attribute is that it is open to everyone," said Mark Heveman, co-chairman of the Charlevoix Photography Club. "We had around 120 entries this year, and we were able to have them all displayed, nothing was rejected."

The club promotes photographers to expand beyond their normal practices, officials said.

"Our club's mission is to encourage artists to become photographers and photographers to become artists, and we will display as many entries as space will allow," said Mike Schlitt, Charlevoix Photography Club president.

The theme of this show is about recording what this state has to offer.

"We live in a beautiful state, filled with exciting places, spaces, people and things. We want the exhibition theme to inspire photographers in recording those people, places, spaces, and things," said Suzanne LaBeau, steering committee member.

With the propensity people today have of bringing an image-capturing device with them at all times, whether it be a smart phone, a tablet or other similar device, there is a special category to submit images captured with those devices this year.

"The smart phone/tablet category is new this year," said Brice Voran, a member of the steering committee.

"We want our show to continue to innovate and we feel that smart phone/tablet photos are certainly a wave of the future. We hope this category will encourage a new population of photographic artists who are already photographing Michigan to display their work in our show."

It's about encouraging youth.

"Our goal with the smart phone/tablet category is to encourage participation by younger photographers," said Kris Balasz, another steering committee member.

Jeff Rahidoux, a professional photographer based in Glen Arbor, serves as the juror for the photography show.

"We are indeed fortunate that Jeff has agreed to make time in his busy schedule to help us with the show," Heveman said. Rahidoux's photography is centered on his exploration of life on the 45th Parallel, which makes him a uniquely qualified judge. He will attend the June 19 opening reception to discuss the process of judging the exhibition.

The Circle of Arts is at 109 Clinton St. in downtown Charlevoix. More information can be found at www.charlevoixcircle.org online.

Jill Dipert, Chamber Scholarship Recipient

Congratulations to Jill Dipert, winner of this year's Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Scholarship.

Jill, the daughter of Kirby and Jacqueline Dipert, is a 2014 graduate of Charlevoix High School and will be attending Aquinas College in the fall to earn her degree in Sustainable Business.

We wish her the best of luck and look forward to what she will bring to Charlevoix in the future. Following is the required 200-300 word essay. Jill submitted describing her personal goals and aspirations after college and how her education and talents could benefit the business environment in Charlevoix County.

"My name is Jill Dipert and I will be attending Aquinas College in the fall of 2014. My goal is to earn a degree in Sustainable Business and return to my beautiful hometown of Charlevoix. A Sustainable Business degree teaches how to restore environmental quality, promote stable and healthy communities while increasing long term profitability for both business and government.

Coming from a family of retail merchants, it is my dream to open the first 100% green clothing store in Charlevoix. I would use my education in sustainability to run my business consuming the least amount of energy possible. I envision my store being furnished out of all recycled materials found in the area. The merchandise I will carry will be made with eco friendly or recycled products. As part of my college studies at Aquinas, I plan to study abroad as much as possible. Eventually, I will use that experience to travel the globe in search of merchandise and ideas that leave a low carbon footprint.

I know the winters in Charlevoix County are long and slow for the retail businesses. I plan on using my degree in Sustainable Business to consult with fellow entrepreneurs and local government on ways to make their output environmentally friendly and also more profitable in the long run.

I would love to be involved in a movement of sustainability and healthy community in Charlevoix County. It is a trend that continues to draw a young population and I believe that is what Charlevoix County needs to thrive. Starting with me."

face of opposition."

This new marina steering committee is charged with researching additional options for an expansion, particularly in the area north of Pier A. Spencer told the planning commissioners.

The marina expansion idea initially arose in an effort to accommodate larger boats and yachts as a means to stimulate economic growth downtown and throughout Charlevoix. Three various options would have added new dock space to Pier A in varying lengths, from 33 to 160 additional feet of dockage to create between 1-11 new boat slips and a couple of extended ones.

The proposal and its options spurred widespread opinions across the community, some in favor of the plan and others diametrically opposed. Those who spoke at public meetings argued an increase in boat traffic for an economic boost to the community, versus the need to prevent additional visual, navigational or environmental impacts to the already busy Round Lake.

Members of the new marina steering committee include Spencer, along with city manager Rob Straebel, community economic development director Bethany Pearson, harbor master Hal Evans, city councilors Shane Cole and Peggy Brennan, plus a consulting marine engineer. No members of the public sit on the committee, Spencer said, though all sessions are open to the public and will include opportunities for feedback from the community.

something she could count on every year."

She added the show has grown and will include fashions from eight stores including: Half Way To The Top, The Clothing Company, J Phillips, Elements, Color Wear, Ga Ga for Kids, Glik's and Mettlers.

The event will include a catered lunch by Matter of Taste and a raffle. Tickets cost $50 per person and can be purchased at the participating stores and Third Day Fellowship.

"The response from the business owners of our town was overwhelming and their participation has been fantastic," Lemerand said. "We know not everyone has thousands to give so this fundraiser is a way for someone to help donate in a small way."

The funds raised will go toward the operational cost of the house, which Stevens estimates at $25,000 a year. The house is an operational 501 (C)3, nonprofit organization. Stevens said the home is for women who are homeless or about to be homeless because of a lack of resources or life skills. Residents can live in the home for 6-18 months and are required to learn the life skills they lack.

An innkeeper has been hired who will inhabit the home for 24-hours a day seven days a week.

Donations are tax deductible and can be mailed to P.O. Box 174 in Charlevoix.

to have the verdict thrown out and a new trial ordered.

Royster's defense attorney Bryan Klawuhn had filed a motion for a new trial based upon information that came to light shortly after the trial wrapped up.

According to an affidavit and a letter in the court file, at the conclusion of the trial, the jury foreman reported that during deliberations, one of the jurors informed the other 11 that he had done some research online about the possible penalty for the first degree criminal sexual conduct charge that Royster was originally facing.

During trials, jurors are instructed not to read any media reports about the case, talk to anyone about the case, do any research or experiments concerning the case, or even discuss the case among the group until the time for deliberations comes.

According to the affidavit, and the letter, the juror who did the research was also the lone holdout in what was initially an 11-1 vote to convict on the first degree charge.

The main component of the defense's argument for a new trial was that the other 11 jurors coerced or bullied the lone holdout into agreeing to vote to convict on the four lesser third degree charges, by threatening to tell the judge about his misconduct involving the online research.

Because of this, the defense contends that Royster was denied his right to be tried by an impartial jury.

Rayders take runner-up at state finals

STEVE FOLEY
NEWS-REVIEW

BATTLE CREEK — The Charlevoix High School boys' golf team picked a perfect time to put together their best round of the season.

The Rayders shot a season-best 321 Friday during the opening round of the Michigan High School Athletic Association Division IV state finals at Bedford Valley in Battle Creek.

As a result, the Rayders held a six-shot lead over White Pigeon in the 15-team field heading into Saturday's final round.

White Pigeon, however, shot a 326 on the second day while Charlevoix shot 21 strokes higher as White Pigeon ended up winning the Division IV state title at 328-326-654, while Charlevoix placed runner-up at 321-342-663.

Lincoln-Alcona, who topped the Rayders in both districts and regionals, also shot 663 (334-329), but Charlevoix ended up placing second overall because of a better fifth-man score.

The Charlevoix High School boys' golf team placed runner-up Saturday at the Michigan High School Athletic Association Division IV state finals at Bedford Valley in Battle Creek. The Rayders — who finished with a 321-342-663 behind champion White Pigeon's 328-326-654 — second place finish was the program's best since the 2000 team placed third in Division III. Team members are (from left) Montana Thompson, Matt Good, Ryan Joy, Noah Jeakle, Brad Rizzo and coach Keith Grunch.

The state runner-up finish for the Rayders was the team's best-ever finish in a state final tournament. Charlevoix's previous best finish came in 2000 when they placed third in Division III at the Emerald in St. Johns.

"It was very exciting," Charlevoix coach Keith Grunch said. "The 321 was the lowest we've scored on the year. We averaged a 345 as a team and we've been playing well the past two or three weeks, averaging a 335 at districts, regionals and our conference tournament."

Grunch said getting off to a solid start Friday was something he and his team will never forget.

"To be in first place after the first day was an unbelievable feeling," Grunch said. "We've never won

Charlevoix's Rex Jr., Drost set for Michigan Amateur at Belvedere

STEVE FOLEY
NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — When the 103rd Michigan Amateur Championship opens next week at Belvedere Golf Club, the field will have two familiar names amongst the field of 156.

Charlevoix residents Tom Rex Jr. and Wyatt Drost both made it into the field of the annual Michigan Amateur Championship, which this year marks the 40th time the state championship will be contested at Belvedere Golf Club.

The Belvedere Golf Club will host the 103rd Michigan Amateur Championship June 15-20.

Rex Jr., 61, is not unfamiliar with competitive amateur golf. Beginning in 1970, Rex Jr. competed annually in the Michigan Amateur Championship for 16 straight years — all of which were hosted at Belvedere Golf Club.

Rex Jr.'s best finish was a quarterfinal appearance in 1984 which was eventually won by Roy Schultheiss of Bay City. He made another run at the state championship in 2004 at Grosse Ile Golf & Country Club and is looking to what probably probably will be his final Michigan Amateur appearance this year at Belvedere.

Drost, 21, is a junior on the Saginaw Valley State University men's golf team and was named to the 2013-14 Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) first-team this past season.

Drost earned first-team plaudits in a year where he claimed the Individual medalist honors at the 2013 GLIAC Championships in the fall. A former Charlevoix High School standout in golf, Drost tied for the top spot in the third NCAA regional event as well, eventually falling in a three-man play-off.

Drost had seven top-10 finishes and a 73.7 stroke average for the season, the second-best mark in program history. He also helped lead the Cardinals to a third place finish in the NCAA Division II Midwest/Central Super Regional, qualifying for the 2014 Division II National Championships where the Cardinals finished 19th overall.

While playing for the Rayders from 2009-2011, Drost competed all of his home high school matches at Belvedere Golf Club and really looks forward to this year's Golf Association of Michigan (GAM) Amateur Championship and taking advantage of his local course knowledge. This will be Drost's second time qualifying for the Michigan Amateur Championship.

Other Northern Michigan players who qualified for the tournament field include the defending 2013 Michigan Amateur champion Andrew Chapman of Traverse City, along with other Traverse City players Gates Muller, Winton Monch, Cameron Murray and Alex Scott.

Gaylord's Adam VanOosten is also in the field.

Practice rounds for the tournament begin Sunday, June 15, while medal play opens on Monday, June 16, and Tuesday, June 17. The top 64 players will make it into match play Wednesday, June 18, which will conclude with the championship match Friday, June 20.

On Wednesday, June 18, the top 64 contestants will be paired according to their medal play scores. Similar to the NCAA basketball brackets, if you win you move on and by the end of the day Wednesday after two rounds of match play only the sweet 16 will remain.

On Thursday, June 19, the 16 finalists will be cut to the final four and on Friday, June 20, the final four will be played as well as a champion crowned.

A dinner and awards banquet at the Belvedere Casino will honor the 16 finalists and Dan Pohl will be the guest speaker and talk about his experience in the Michigan Amateur, his time on the PGA Tour and playing in the Masters. Pohl lost in a playoff in the 1982 Masters to Craig Stadler.

The last time Belvedere hosted the Michigan Amateur was in 2003, when Colby Beckstrom of North Muskegon won 5 and 3 over A.J. Balulis of Baldwin.

Belvedere has hosted more Golf Association of Michigan Michigan Amateurs than any other club in the state by far, with the next closest being Saginaw Country Club with eight times as host.

In 1906, the first Michigan Amateur Championship was contested at Kenosha Country Club in Grand Rapids. Since that inaugural event, the prestigious Michigan Amateur Championship has been contested annually 102 times — only suspending play for two years during World War I and four years during World War II.

Belvedere Golf Club head golf professional Dennis "Marty" Joy II is the two-time defending champion at the Belvedere Hickory Open, which opened Thursday at Belvedere in Charlevoix. The ninth annual tournament featuring golf played with hickory clubs and players dressed in 1910s-1930s appropriate apparel including knickers, ties and jackets, will run through Saturday, June 14.

Hickory Open set to open Thursday at Belvedere

STEVE FOLEY
NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — The Belvedere Golf Club will host the ninth annual Belvedere Hickory Open beginning Thursday and running through Saturday, June 14.

The two-day competition is played with authentic pre-1935 hickory shafted golf clubs and competitors dress in period appropriate apparel which includes knickers, ties and jackets.

The competition is held under the auspices of the Society of Hickory Golfers, a national hickory organization which celebrates and promotes the hickory game of the 1910s-1930s.

Belvedere Golf Club professional Dennis "Marty" Joy will look to defend his 2012 and 2013 hickory championships this year, while some 60 hickory golfers will take part in the tour-namment ranging from Northern Michigan to 17 states and parts of Canada. Participants in previous Hickory Opens have come as far away as Manchester, England.

Belvedere has been selected as a major hickory venue and is now part of the Hickory Championship Series. The Hickory Championship Series attracts hickory golfers to compete at four major a tournament all year and Lincoln-Alcona has pretty much dominated throughout the season.

"We finally had four good scores together and played good on the same day," Grunch said. "That score was a reflection."

Paced by freshman Matt Good's team-best 75, the Rayders took a six-stroke lead into the final round, but a sluggish start to the closing round proved to be too much to overcome.

"On day two, I knew the kids would be nervous," Grunch said. "We've never been in a position like that, let alone in a state finals. We had some early triple bogeys and after that I knew it'd be a battle the rest of the way."

"I know the guys were disappointed not to win first place, but to bring home a trophy is almost as good as first place."

Senior Bradley Rizzo closed out his career with the Rayders as he shot a two-day team best 81-82-163; while sophomore Montana Thompson shot 84-81-165.

"Brad Rizzo really played steady his last four rounds," Grunch said. "From districts on, he shot 79, 80, 81 and 82. Montana Thompson then really exceeded expectations. He was averaging around 92 on the year and to shot 84, 81 as a sophomore in your first final was nice to see."

Good ended up shooting 75-92-167, while junior Noah Jeakle shot 81-87-168.

"For Matt to shoot 75 shows just how much potential he has," Grunch said. "On Friday he started out making good pars, had a few bogeys but then made back-to-back birdies and was 2-over with three holes to play. He has all the potential to be one of the best golfers in the area if not the state.

"Noah I know was disappointed in his play," Grunch said. "He averages around 80 and shot 81, 87, but I told him if it wasn't for him, we wouldn't even be here. He shot 74 at regionals and he has one more shot at it. He has nothing to hang his head about and he'll be back next year."

Ryan Joy, a junior, ended up at 104-106-210, and his score bettered that of Lincoln-Alcona's Jacob Riggs 100-113-213, which ultimately secured the runner-up finish for Charlevoix.

"We were tied with Alcona and it went to the fifth man where Ryan Joy's score was better," Grunch said. "Alcona was one of the favorites going into the tournament. Having five seniors and having the experience with those guys, it felt good to beat them even if it came down to a tie-breaker."

"They (Lincoln-Alcona) were kind of our rival for the season."

Joel Sneed of Leland was the Division IV individual state medalist as he shot 74-73-147; while Pentwater's Sam Wagner shot 75-76-151 to place second along with Jackson Christian's Noah Schneider, who shot 70-81-151. Suttons Bay's Devin Capron was fourth overall at 77-77-154.

White Pigeon was led by Riley Olsen who shot 81-76-157; while Andrew Mann was at 76-82-158, and Jordan Olsen shot 84-81-165.

"White Pigeon deserved the title, they played well one through four," Grunch said. "For us, it was a good year. We started out shooting in the 360s and to squeak past in districts and regionals and get into the finals and finish as high as we did was something."

venues throughout the year, beginning with the Mountain Valley String Water Championship held at Pinehurst Resort in Pinehurst, N.C. and ending at the Mid-Pines Hickory Open in Pinehurst, N.C.

Points are accumulated at these major venues and tallied similarly to the PGA Tour's year ending FedEx Cup point system. Belvedere is hosting the third major of the year and was preceded by a stop in Birmingham, Ala. and followed by a stop at Asheville, N.C.

Hickory golfers vary in their aptitude, but all have a great passion for the old game. The champion at Belvedere including Joy has historically had to put two rounds in the mid to low 70s together to become champion.

Belvedere Golf Club, established in 1925, is the perfect hickory venue as it was built in the heyday of hickory golf. All of Belvedere's greens are accessible in front and the bunkering is laid out precisely were hickory clubs want to send errant golf balls.

Major golf champions Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour, Horton Smith, Denny Shute, Jock Hutchinson and Leo Diegel have all competed at the Belvedere Golf Club with hickory clubs.

Tom Watson, a modern day major champion, is an honorary member of the club and still considers Belvedere Golf Club as one of his top three favorite courses in the country.

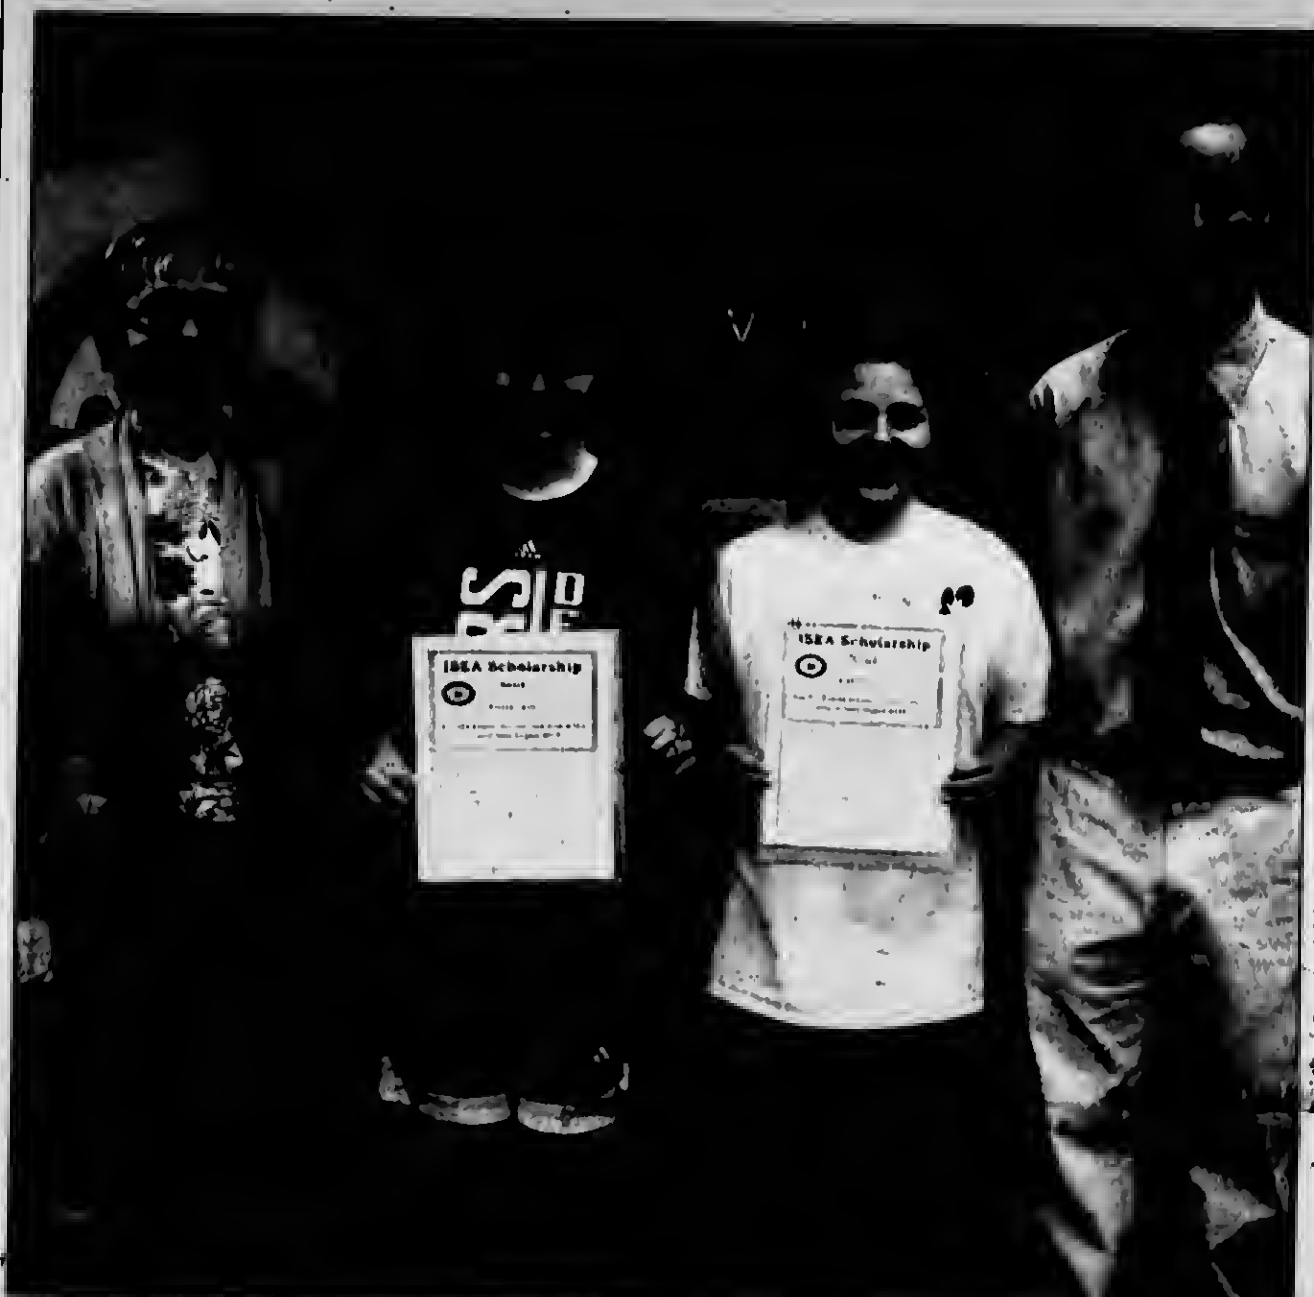

Tee times for both Friday and Saturday rounds begin at 9:30 a.m. and spectators are welcome to walk the course and take in the competition at no charge.

Next week, Belvedere Golf Club will host its 40th Michigan Amateur Championship beginning Monday, June 16.

Throughout the 102 championships, only 28 golf clubs have had the honor of hosting the Michigan Amateur with Belvedere set to host its 40th tournament. After hosting the Michigan Amateur 12 times from 1930-1958, Belvedere was the permanent host for the championship from 1963-1988.

Andrew Chapman of Traverse City won the 2013 Michigan Amateur at Muskegon Country Club and is the defending champion.

Petoskey's Joey Garber — who this week is making his professional golf debut at the Michigan Open at Prestwick Village — became the youngest winner of the tournament as he won in 2010 at Oakhurst Golf and Country Club, and was the tournament runner-up in 2011.

The public is welcome to walk and watch the competition. Parking is available at the Charlevoix High School and a shuttle van will be available to transport spectators to the golf club.

Also, Belvedere Golf Club is looking for volunteers for the tournament. For more information, contact Marty Joy, (231) 547-2611.

Mushroom House historical district?

City leaders OK pursuit of special architecture zone

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — City council members agreed by consensus to seek special state recognition for Charlevoix's picturesque Earl Young homes.

City planner Mike Spencer on Monday proposed the city seek a state historic district designation for the parts of Charlevoix where the stonies homes are found with their signature wonky roofs.

"These structures contribute to Charlevoix's charm and serve as a significant tourist attraction for visitors," he said.

There are 16 official Earl Young-designed homes within Charlevoix city limits, including three commercial properties — Weathervane Restaurant, Weathervane Hotel and the Lodge Hotel.

The 13 residential homes — known as the Mushroom Houses of Charlevoix — are the target of this proposal, as five years ago the com-

Charlevoix leaders instead seek internal fixes for Mount McSaubia

CHARLEVOIX — City council shot down asking for outside input on Mount McSaubia to improve efficiencies at Charlevoix's parks and recreation facility in the North Pointe neighborhood, which tends to annually run into the red by upwards of $90,000.

City manager Rob Straebel on Monday proposed during the Charlevoix City Council meeting a draft request for proposals to explore partnerships or a different management structure for the beloved local ski area. He found little support from elected city leaders, whom allowed the question to fail for lack of support.

"It is important to note that our efforts at this point are to explore creative options for the ski area. We are not advocating for privatization of the operations at this point, nor are we recommending specific changes," he said. "We owe it to the taxpayers to look at ways to make it self-sufficient, since not all residents use the facility."

Straebel emphasized the intent is to ensure Mount McSaubia's future "because it's a tremendous community asset," despite its failure to turn a profit.

Most city council members balked at the mere suggestion of privatization or even asking for a consultant report on how to reduce costs and boost revenues.

"I don't agree with this privatization at all," said Shirley Gibson, 3rd Ward council member.

"I don't think there's anyone out there with a magic wand," said Leon Perron, 2nd Ward council member.

Council member Jeff Porter, of the 1st Ward, suggested the city should charge the same rates at Mount McSaubia for disc golf as it does for regular golf at the municipal course, including adult and children's rates.

Bo Boss, who managed winter operations at Mount McSaubia for the last 38 years, said he believes the city can pursue improvements to make the facility more efficient, but that when he's made suggestions in recent years, it's like "talking to a wall." He continued to say that if his ideas are heard, they haven't been implemented.

"Snow-making is killing us and we didn't have to make snow 20 years ago," Boss said, specifically recommending investment in the facility's water system to the snow guns.

But despite these financial struggles, Mount McSaubia saw increased participation during the 2013-2014 winter with the newly installed ski and snowboard features, he said.

Township first to take land swap stand

Officials send resolution to Michigan DNR

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP — The five members of the Charlevoix Township Board are the first elected officials to take an official stand against any possible land swap between Fisherman's Island State Park and adjacent St. Marys Cemetery.

The board members unanimously voted June 6 to adopt a resolution that "supports the continued access to Fisherman's Island State Park on Lake Michigan from Bells Bay County Road and the retention of the 416.3 acres of Fisherman's Island State Park as forest and wildlife habitat within Charlevoix Township." That document will be forwarded to state authorities.

Local dancers attend summer intensives

DANIELLE MCINTOSH
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

Rather than taking the summer to rest, dancers from Petoskey's Crooked Tree Arts Center preprofessional program will be hard at work, training at notorious dance programs across the country.

Ten area dancers — under the direction of Heather Raue and Karjie Benedict — were accepted to summer intensive programs. Among these dancers is 13-year-old Aidan Flynn, of Charlevoix, and Boyne City native, Rebekah Bearrs, 19.

Flynn began dancing at just 3 years of age, and said she became serious about a professional dance career by the fifth grade. She dances five to six days a week, up to six hours each day during the school year. This summer she will travel to Texas to attend the Houston Ballet Academy's six-week summer program in downtown Houston's theater district. The academy's Center for Dance is currently the largest professional dance facility in the United States.

"I'll be spending six days a week, six to eight hours a day, focusing on ballet technique, learning classical variations and repertoire, and taking supplementary classes in modern dance, jazz, character, musical theater and social dance," Flynn said.

Besides giving up a summer of fun in the sun, Flynn noted other sacrifices dancing at her level requires.

"I started homeschooling two years ago to help manage my time more wisely. Pointe shoes are roughly $80 and last about two weeks, so it can get rather expensive. I'm very thankful my family is so supportive of me," she said.

This year, the young dancer was also accepted to Miami City Ballet, Washington Ballet, Boston Ballet, LINES Ballet and Suzanne Farrell's Cedar Island Program.

past 10 years.

"She is an incredible talent and will thrive at Houston Ballet Academy this summer," Raue said.

Raue went on to highlight another area dancer, Rebekah Bearrs.

"I began working with Rebekah over a year ago. Deeply Rooted Dance Theater was her first audition, held this March. Rebekah's acceptance is a testament of her great work ethic."

Though Bearrs started her training later than most, she is focused on going forward with a career in dancing.

"I have been dancing for almost three years and thank God for every moment of it. I have gotten a lot better, but that doesn't mean it is easy. I could look back with regrets and throw myself a pity party about not starting earlier, or I can be glad that God has given me the desire and ability to dance."

Deeply Rooted's Summer Dance Intensive is located in downtown Chicago, and offers technical rigor and artistic development within disciplines of dance. Over four weeks, participants are exposed to a strong curriculum based in ballet, traditional African dance and contemporary movement.

"During the intensive I will be in class for six hours, six days a week. I anticipate being very, very sore, but it will be worth it," Bearrs said.

Through this experience, Bearrs said what she hopes to gain most is confidence.

Bearrs also was homeschooled and graduated in 2012. She is certified as a nutritional therapist and currently works on her family's farm in Boyne City.

"I am hoping that the rest of the family will take care of my veggie garden so that when I get back from Chicago it is not overrun with weeds," she said with a chuckle.

Both ladies recently performed in CTAC School of Ballet's full-length ballet, "Cipollino," on June 13-14 at the Harbor Springs Performing Arts Center, before their summer intensive programs.

CRAFTING TRUST SINCE 2010

In northern Michigan, we don't run make-or-buy businesses. Our vision was simple, and my hands don't understand that. So when I was ready to expand, I needed a team that knew my market and wanted me as much as I wanted them — a team that kept their promises, year-round. Right away I found The Bank of Northern Michigan was different. They'll drive 30 minutes to pick up a deposit or even at the drop of a hat for anything I need. They just can't say that about many banks anymore. Now I have complete trust and know my business and my bank are better together.

Arts group now owns Carnegie building

ERICA RAKOWICZ
NEWS-REVIEW

EAST JORDAN — After nearly 10 years of negotiations and talks about the Jordan River Arts Council (JRAC) owning the Carnegie library, it has become a reality. The council paid the city of East Jordan a dollar for the building.

The Jordan River Arts Council has been based in the Carnegie library building for 25 years, and 10 years ago the council prompted negotiations with the East Jordan Library, which owned it at that time.

Ownership of the building was then given to the city. In December of 2013, the president of the arts council, Sylvia Walworth, said common ground was found quickly.

"It became very clear that a whole bunch of us were on the same page," said Walworth.

Walworth has been on the Jordan River Arts Council board for 12 years now and next year marks the 100th year of the Carnegie library building's existence.

and primarily businesses on the main street in town, Walworth said much appreciation was shown toward the Jordan River Arts Council and their ideas to own the building.

"We bring in lots of business and we like that and they like that," she said.

On top of the ownership, Walworth and Jordan River Arts Council have plans to expand the building and spruce it up.

"It's an old treasure but as an old treasure it has a lot to be redone," said Walworth. "Everyone has a feeling of fondness for that old Carnegie library."

The plan is to leave the facade as it is, but the gallery size will double as well as make the building handicapped accessible. Additionally a new handicapped accessible bathroom will also be built.

"A number of our shows draw a large amount of people to town," said Walworth. "That was a motivator."

It's one of the oldest arts councils in Michigan, Walworth said. "Our volunteers work very very hard and are

NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix County Democrats club is inviting interested voters to attend a general membership dinner later this month where three Democratic candidates for state office will speak.

The event runs from 5-8 p.m. on Thursday, June 26, at the Argonne Supper Club in Charlevoix, as those in attendance will have an opportunity to meet the candidates and then hear from them later that night.

Phil Bellfy, a retired college professor from Sault Ste.

Marie, and Jimmy Schmidt, of Central Lake, will face off in Michigan's 37th state Senate district Democratic party Aug. 5. The winner will move on to the November general election against one of two Republican state lawmakers — Greg MacMaster, of Kewadin, or Wayne Schmidt, of Traverse City.

In addition to Bellfy and Jimmy Schmidt, who has no relation to state Rep. Wayne Schmidt, Gaylord Democrat Jay Calu will speak at the dinner. Calu is the lone Democratic candidate running for the state House's 105th district seat, which MacMaster is vacating to run for state Senate.

The evening begins at 5 p.m. with a social hour. Dinner is served at 6 p.m. and then club business will be conducted from 6:30-7:15 p.m. A question and answer session will follow that until 8 p.m.

Anyone wanting to attend should RSVP by emailing democrats.charlevoix@gmail.com or calling (231) 753-8411 before Saturday, June 21. The Argonne Supper Club is located at 11929 Boyne City Road.

Car hits Beaver Island house, injures two

BEAVER ISLAND — Two people received injuries early Tuesday when the vehicle they were driving veered off the road and struck a house attached to Daddy Frank's Restaurant on Beaver Island.

According to a release from the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, at 1:52 a.m. deputies were dispatched to the area of Forest Avenue and King's Highway for a vehicle and a house injury accident. The vehicle, a green Chevrolet Blazer, was occupied by two people. The driver, Briana Maudrie, 22, of Beaver Island, sustained a neck and back injury and was flown off the island to Charlevoix Area Hospital for further treatment. The passenger, Shane Miller, 22, of Boyne City, sustained a head injury and was also flown off the island to Charlevoix Area Hospital for treatment.

Nobody in the house was hurt.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, neither occupant of the vehicle appeared to be wearing their seatbelt. Alcohol may have been a factor in the accident, which is still under investigation.

OPINIONS yours & ours

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Free speech is expensive

In this country we cherish freedom of speech, but maybe it is time to reconsider.

In 1919, Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. stated famously and eloquently that freedom of speech does not extend to shouting "fire" in a crowded theater. What he meant, of course, was that your freedom of speech does not allow you to bring potential harm to another.

It seems to me that at present, we live in a very large theater, and that an increasing number of people are shouting "fire," in some way. Radio, television and increasingly, the Internet media, allow anyone who wants it, the opportunity to shout "fire" to millions of people. Certainly broadcasting or distributing the names and addresses of doctors who perform abortions, along with the suggestion that they are committing murder, is much like shouting "fire" in our crowded theater.

It is worth being reminded that both the First and Second Amendments have limitations. The freedom to purchase and possess firearms does not extend to sawed-off shotguns or to fully automatic machine guns. Just so, freedom of speech is not unlimited.

The loudest voice in our society often means the voice with the largest purse. A voice shouting "fire" to several million people through public media such as television or radio, is somehow different from the lone voice, even in a small crowded theater. Maybe we need to accommodate that difference in our laws.

I continue to believe that the solution to objectionable or dangerous speech is more speech rather than less. However, without some balance of voices, the one with the largest audience and the most money has a dramatic advantage. Maybe we need some mechanism to allow or insist that inflammatory speech has some equally public balancing voice to ensure that free speech is protected. If public speech is purchased by those with large amounts of money, and alternative points of view have less purchasing power, the public good might best be served by something like required equal time.

Freedom of speech should mean that all voices have a chance to be heard, whether we agree or not. We may need to redefine just what shouting "fire" in a crowded theater means in our media-saturated world. The physician's creed, "First, do no harm," may be a good place to start.

Roger Knutson is a professor emeritus of biology from Luther College in Decorah, Iowa, where he taught for 30 years. He holds master's degree and a doctorate from the botany department at Michigan State University.

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

Charlevoix's third schoolhouse was built in 1873 on a plot of land midway between Clinton and Mason streets and east of Grant Street. In February of 1889, at 9:30 a.m. on a Wednesday, it burned to a crisp. The fire destroyed the entire building and its contents, including "fully $500 worth of school books," according to the Charlevoix Sentinel newspaper. It was determined to have started in the basement, but the cause was never discovered. So in this school's place went up a much larger structure faced with white brick, here seen before the sod was laid around it. It cost $22,000, contained seven rooms and a "recitation room," was made "in native woods, and excites the admiration of every visitor." The primary grades here were meant to "develop the perceptive powers" through "objective teaching," the middle grade's work "appeals to the imagination and memory," while the high school's aim was "to develop the thinking power of the student." The belfry was blown apart by lightning in early April of 1903 and repaired without its steeple. The building was torn down in 1945 and the site is now part of Charlevoix Public Library's parking lot.

Benefit rally to scoot through town

Camp Quality fundraiser hosted by Charlevoix Elks

CAROLYN SHERK
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — The second annual Scooter Rally hosted by the Charlevoix Elks Club will take place on Sunday, June 22, beginning at the Elks Lodge, 104 Mason Street downtown.

Members of the Elks Lodge organized this event to benefit Camp Quality Michigan on Beaver Island. This exceptional program provides kids — ages 4 to 17 years old diagnosed with cancer — and their families with a week filled with plenty of fun, friendship and laughter.

Registration for the event begins at noon at the Elks Lodge and the number of scooters will be limited to 25, while anyone that cares to follow the procession around scenic Lake Charlevoix in their vehicle are welcome to join in on the cruise. Scooters on this ride must be 50 cc or less to participate. The cost to participate in the Scooter Rally is a donation of $25 which includes a chance to win a brand new scooter in a drawing after the event and dinner. Tickets to participate in just the drawing for the scooter are available for $5 each or 3 for $10 from Elks members and dinner will be available for a donation, as well.

The rally will begin at 1 p.m. and will start at the Elks Lodge in the Beacon Center and will proceed to the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road and will venture on the tour clockwise around the Lake Charlevoix with four stops along the way. The first stop is in Huron Bay and then on to a stop in Advance, East Jordan Tourist Park and then Kelsey B's in Charlevoix.

The final stop will be back at the Elks Lodge, where hats, hiked jeans and apple pie will be served. The drawing to win the scooter will be at 7 p.m.

"Let's help these brave kids have a life changing experience at Camp Quality on Beaver Island," said Ed Rugalla, among the event organizers.

The Charlevoix Elks Club seeks to collect a goal of $5,000 in donations for this event to help Camp Quality continue its mission.

Kristyn Balog is the executive director of Camp Quality of Michigan and she explained how the program is a nonprofit support organization established to sustain ongoing programs for children with cancer and their families for the past 27 years. She said she is so very appreciative of the community support that helps support the largest national pediatric oncology camp in the country.

Camp Quality currently supports some 200 patients and their families with a full medical care facility that allows some children who are still in treatment to participate with their doctor's permission.

"Events like the Scooter Rally at the Charlevoix Elks Lodge help us maintain activities throughout the year along with three groups of week-long campers on Beaver Island," Balog said.

Proceeds help to provide young cancer patients with a chance to be a kid again, as well as help to create memories with friends and family that in turn improve the quality of life.

Anyone with questions or whom would like to make a donation can call the Elks Lodge at (231) 237-0200.

EAST JORDAN

Annual Freedom Festival starts Tuesday

DEBBIE MCGUINNESS
NEWS-REVIEW

EAST JORDAN — East Jordan celebrates America during its annual "Freedom Festival" Tuesday through Saturday, June 24-28, along the shores of Lake Charlevoix. The family-friendly festival features parades, prizes, carnival rides and music and culminates with Saturday evening fireworks launched from a barge in the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix and synchronized to music.

"Proud to be an American" is the theme of the 2014 festival. Musical act Donny and the Dorsals will feature the All-American sounds of surf rock music with songs such as "Surfin' Safari" and "Little Deuce Coup" recorded by the Beach Boys and "Wipe Out!" the seminal surf-rock instrumental recorded by the Surfaris. Donny and the Dorsals will perform 8:30 p.m.-dusk on Saturday, June 28, in Memorial Park, followed by the fireworks display.

"I think Donny and the Dorsals will be fun for everyone," Shannon Fender, office manager of East Jordan Chamber of Commerce said.

"They are very crowd-friendly and everybody will know all the lyrics."

Other music performances during Freedom Festival will be Audio Circus performing 8:30-10:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 26, in Memorial Park; Tom Zipp & the Bullpen 7:30-9:30 p.m. Friday, June 27, on the Main Street Stage, Sault Ste. Marie Pipe Band 4-4:30 p.m. Saturday, June 28, followed by the Pistol Whips from 4:30-5:30 p.m.

New this year to the festival, Fender said, is a new night, Tuesday, added to the schedule. The film, "Despicable Me," will be shown free, out-of-doors at sundown, about 9:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 24, in the adult softball field, across from Marty's Cakes & Carry-Out. "Despicable Me" features the voice of Steve Carrell and is 1 hour, 36 minutes in length.

"The Grand Parade on Saturday will still take place along the same parade route," Fender said. "There is construction on the bridge, and with one lane open, we're not letting that slow down the parade."

The Shoc Club of East Jordan Middle School will be the parade marshals this year.

With the fireworks budget increased by $18,000, this year's dazzling display will cap Saturday night. The fireworks will be launched from a barge in Lake Charlevoix.

Northwest Academy names new principal

Teacher promoted to leadership position

CHARLEVOIX — Northwest Academy of Charlevoix has a new principal.

The Northwest Academy Board of Education voted unanimously on June 11 to name long-time teacher Phoebe Gohs school leader. Board member Claire Rasmussen was absent.

"I am excited for this opportunity to lead Northwest Academy in a new direction that will include a pre-kindergarten through eighth-grade Montessori program and an innovative arts-integrated high school," said Gohs, who taught early elementary classes at the school for eight years and has also been both curriculum director and school improvement coordinator.

"We went with someone who is known and who we have worked with and appreciated for a number of years," said Northwest Academy Board of Education president Joe Seidel. "The board made her appointment official at last night's meeting and, immediately following, we had quite a bit of discussion of how we could be doing business in the fall."

He added, "She has, in a very short time, presented a number of very good, positive ideas of how to carry us on into the new school year ... and we are looking forward to them coming to fruition."

Seidel said the tuition-free public school academy currently has openings for new students interested in a positive, close-knit environment.

According to Gohs, Northwest Academy's new approach to education is a time-tested and sought-after way of combining core content including reading, writing, mathematics and social studies with performing and visual arts.

"With the budgetary challenges both traditional and charter public schools are facing, often the arts are the first thing to be cut," Gohs said. "At Northwest Academy, we will embrace the arts as a vital aspect of the complete education each student receives."

She added, "We will offer band, choir, drama, arts classes and dance classes, and we will incorporate the arts in our core content lessons."

Gohs also has plans to revamp how the school's online learning offerings are structured.

"Instead of using prepackaged curriculum, our teachers are going to use course management software to create online classes," she said. "The advantage to that will be that we can customize content to fit our students' needs. And, our teachers will be more familiar with the lessons and expectations for each course than they are when they are simply administering a one-size-fits-all course."

Gohs

Gohs said the new approach will ensure students have the same course expectations whether they are working at home online, are blended learners or are full-time, in-building students.

To help meet the goal of arts-integrated education, Northwest Academy will be turning its north building into an arts center with classrooms for dance, band, choir, drama and more.

"We're instituting a lot of new programs but ultimately our mission remains the same, and that is to individualize education while maintaining small class sizes," said Gohs. "If a student needs extra support, we have the time and the staff to provide the scaffolds they need. Conversely, if a student is ready to move ahead in the curriculum, we have the ability to work individually with students to meet their educational needs."

Northwest Academy of Charlevoix plans to implement the pre-kindergarten through third-grade Montessori program in the fall and will continue implementing Montessori into the higher grades until they have a complete pre-kindergarten through eighth-grade Montessori program — expected by the 2016-2017 school year.

Unlike a traditional classroom, which focuses on offering education to students based on their chronological age, Montessori programs use multi-age classrooms to create a more authentic learning environment that includes hands-on learning opportunities that teach multiple concepts at once.

"Students don't learn subjects in isolation. They learn subjects in concert with one another," Gohs said. "In a Montessori classroom, all instruction is presented in small groups or individual lessons."

Examples of arts-integrated learning include students performing a play that teaches them about social studies, or writing a research report based on a science experiment they conducted.

In addition to holding a Bachelor of Arts degree in elementary education and a Master of Arts degree in reading and literacy K-12, Gohs has a Master of Arts in school principalship with an emphasis in charter school administration.

She is a highly-qualified elementary teacher, a certified reading specialist K-12, and a certified school administrator.

Gohs is also certified as a Montessori teacher for ages 6 to 9 years.

Gohs, who is married and has two college-aged children, also served as an adjunct professor for five years in Petoskey and Gaylord for Spring Arbor University.

She was chosen following a search for a new school leader after former Northwest Academy administrator Matt Saunders resigned from the position citing health issues in late winter. Steve Overton served as interim school leader while the search was conducted.

"I would like to thank Steve Overton for his leadership during this interim period," said Gohs. "He was integral in guiding us through this transition period."

Call Gohs for more information or a tour of the school at (231) 547-9000.

BOYNE CITY

Humane society to host inaugural WoofStock event

BOYNE CITY — Boyne City-based Charlevoix Area Humane Society will host its inaugural WoofStock music and pet festival on Aug. 1 at the Mackinaw Trails Winery along U.S. 101, just south of Petoskey.

Organizers anticipate about 2,000 people to attend throughout the course of the day and evening event lineups. There will be 10-12 bands which will perform live music during the day and early evening on three stages, an open mic stage, activities and a close-out headline act under the big tent.

Additionally, there will be animal agility demonstrations, sheep herding, pet contests and a full pet-friendly festival.

Food, craft and pet-related vendors will have the opportunity to sell their products and services.

Mackinaw Trails Winery will provide beer and wine sales during the event.

BlissFest verbally committed to helping sponsor a few of the bands for this first year's event. Several local musicians also already committed to donate their services for the cause.

Organizers expect this to become an annual event with the potential to draw thousands of music and animal lovers in the area. The hope is for this to become a two- or three-day festival, supporting local musical talents, pet-related business vendors and services, local food businesses, the local lodging industry and the winery.

Each stage will have corporate sponsorship and there are additional sponsorship options. Visit www.charlevoixhumane.org online for more details.

EAST JORDAN

Foundation announces area scholarships

EAST JORDAN — Charlevoix County students planning to enter trade schools and collegiate programs this fall are feeling the support of the community as the Charlevoix County Community Foundation awarded more than $162,000 in scholarships to help support their postsecondary educational endeavors.

More than 130 scholarships were recently awarded to area graduates from special funds held by the community foundation. Each fund has been established by local citizens or groups — to honor family members, civic leaders, educators and others who valued the benefits of a quality education.

Over the past 22 years, the foundation awarded merit scholarships in outstanding local students. Those scholarships have supported students entering skilled trades, community colleges, colleges and universities. These students have demonstrated their eagerness to succeed beyond high school and have shown promise in their work ethic and in their academic achievement.

The foundation now holds 248 different funds, 58 of which are designated for scholarships. Established by local citizens in 1992, the community foundation serves as a charitable resource for the entire county, and has distributed grants and scholarships totaling more than $15.9 million to benefit area residents.

For more information about the community foundation, or any of its funds, call the foundation office at (231) 536-2440.

For a complete list of the 2014 scholarship recipients, visit www.c3f.org and click on the links for grants and scholarships.

BELLAIRE

Farmers benefit from professional guilds

Small farm guild organizes Twilight Tours

BELLAIRE — From steep financial challenges to high demands for labor, equipment and new skills, farming has its share of professional difficulties.

To help meet these persistent needs, area small farmers are banding together to forge solutions through the Small Farm Guild, a professional network organized by farmers, for farmers. Like medieval artisanal guilds, the Small Farm Guild provides professional support that includes mentorship, demonstrations, peer-to-peer learning, workshops and conferences.

Guild members also rely on each other to swap and barter, share work and celebrate community. The Small Farm Guild receives organizational support from the Institute for Sustainable Living, Art & Natural Design (ISLAND), and operates in three regions of Northern Michigan.

This summer and fall, Little Traverse Bay area guild members have joined together to produce a series of Twilight Farm Tours, where farmers have the opportunity to visit each other's farms, learn from one another's practices and share a meal.

"It's a great chance for farmers to get a close-up view of how things work on other farms," said Jen Schaap, Food and Farming Programs Coordinator for ISLAND.

In 2014, Twilight Tours are taking place on wide-ranging topics, from the use of sheep in the management of organic hop-yards, to applications of solar and geothermal energy on small farms, passive solar hoop-houses for extended growing seasons, and organic orcharding.

By looking at these best practices, Bellaire-based ISLAND hopes that more farms can become more resilient, more profitable, and that their proliferation will help the region to grow and source more food locally.

"As we work toward the Michigan Good Food Charter goal of sourcing 20-percent of our local food from local sources by the year 2020, we must start building these critical networks," said Wendy Wieland of Community Food Systems, Greening Michigan Institute of Michigan State University Extension.

The Little Traverse Bay chapter of the Small Farm Guild is based in Emmet and Charlevoix counties. East Bay members hail from Antrim, Otsego and Kalkaska counties, and the West Bay group comes from Leelanau, Benzie and Grand Traverse counties.

In addition to the Small Farm Guild, ISLAND also supports guilds for beekeepers, fiber growers and artists, mushroom-growers, green building enthusiasts and orchardists. The only requirement for membership in the guilds is a desire to learn.

For more information on the Small Farm Guild or to join, contact Jen Schaap at jen@artmeetsearth.org or by calling (231) 622-5252. A full list of guild events can be found at www.artmeetsearth.org/events.html online.

loyal to us," she said.

"We have a reputation of a place that does good art shows," said Walworth.

At times, the Jordan River Arts Council has seen more than 600 people come through the door for a single show.

"We have consistently worked with children," said Walworth. Jordan River Arts Council's involvement in the community is something the group prides themselves on.

"To go into 10 schools and work with 500 kids said that our outreach and value of the arts is very important," she said.

The next step is to get people interested in funding the building and getting donations for the building, Walworth said. In order for this process going, community advisor group has been meeting on behalf of Jordan River Arts Council.

"We'll expand those activities within the next year," said Walworth.

"It's not quite real for any of us yet. But wow, tonight will be our first board meeting."

mercial landowners vehemently opposed the idea of an inclusive historic district for all 16 structures.

"Ultimately, if the historic district were established any new construction project that would alter the buildings would have to come before the Historic District Commission for approval and the construction would have to meet specific design standards to make sure the historic resource was protected and preserved," Spencer said.

Opinions among the homeowners varied in 2009 and some changes happened since then, he said, so city officials must approach the situation afresh.

Bob Heath, of the city's standing historic district study committee, underscored how the possible historic district restrictions that potentially could be placed on Earl Young property owners would apply exclusively to the homes' exteriors.

"An owner can do anything they want on the interior," he said, save for causing the structure to collapse.

That historic committee pushed this idea forward onto the Charlevoix City Council's table.

Also if eventually approved, these homeowners would receive federal tax credits, Heath said.

Council member Jeff Porter, of the 1st Ward, asked whether there is an effort to connect with the adjacent township and its Earl Young structures. Spencer said it might be easier to achieve if the city pursued its district first, then expanded to the township.

Council member Lyle Gennett, also of the 1st

Ward, agreed he also wanted to see the township become involved in this historical preservation effort. Additionally, council members Leon Perron and Peggy Brennan of the 2nd Ward said they support such a historic district.

Council member Shirley Gibson, of the 3rd Ward, said under most circumstances she is a property rights advocate, but this situation is unique.

"I think it's protecting our assets," Gibson said. "Sometimes there are sacrifices to be made to preserve things for future generations."

Spencer said the city's historic committee will meet again, now with direction from city council, but this project "is going to take some time."

Every senior's dream: A friendly and safe seniors' residence!

How to choose the right place

Whether it's chosen made for yourself or for another, choosing a long-term care facility can be a difficult task. Both the person and the family must take enough time to visit the facility, meet with staff and social service professionals, weigh the pros and cons, and consider the future and what could occur in the future before making a decision.

Unfortunately, this is not often the case. Generally, people move into a long-term care facility when their health is deteriorating. So here are some questions to ask when choosing a long-term care facility; a place which will become the person's home.

First of all, start by talking to friends and family who have lived through a similar experience. Find out about the various facilities available in your area by contacting the Social and Adult Services agency in your area. Two questions should be asked in order to find the right home for the person in question: what type of care is required and what kind of lifestyle is the person looking for?

By asking all the possible questions and taking the time to visit the facility, you will be able to choose the best place for the person in question. The house which most appropriately fits the person's needs and the family's wishes.

A long-term care facility becomes the home, the living environment and the community of a person who has lost their independence. (Photo SP) plus the local ski team moved their practices to the city facility, as well.

"I'd appreciate it if you've give us a little more time," Boss said.

Straebel then said city officials "do listen to Mr. Boss on his ideas," but both he and city treasurer Joe Zielinski remain concerned about returns on any investments at Mount McSaubu.

Boss said he submitted a list of suggested expense reductions and ways to streamline ski area operations, and Straebel confirmed for councilors those recommendations came to city hall after the last ski season.

Council member Peggy Brennao, of the 2nd Ward, said she would like to see what proposals the city would get back, making her the sole elected official keen to pursue Straebel's pitch.

"At least get some ideas — put it out there and see what's out there," Brennan said, adding that between outside input and the ideas Boss put forward, there could be substantive talk about options.

However, council member Lyle Gennett, of the 1st Ward, said he wants to first turn to the Charlevoix community with the issue and ask for help, then later revisit the idea of consultant input or possible partnerships. Gennett served as the meeting's leader in place of the absent mayor Norm Carlson Jr., who was excused.

Amanda Wilkin, of the city's parks and recreation department, pointed out how this year's city budget doesn't allow for any improvements at Mount McSaubu. She suggested commissioners may wish to revisit the city's books — "go back to the drawing board" — should they wish for city employees to make facility changes independently and with money from its own coffers.

LAND SWAP

community debate about the pros and cons of such a land exchange, often pitting loyal park users against business growth advocates. Company officials in recent months pitched during public meetings their idea to both city and township leaders, who in turn received an abundance of public feedback on the point.

Charlevoix Township even hosted a public hearing to record official testimony.

"It was important we make a good decision. It was important that we hear from our constituents," said Nancy Rajewski, a township trustee who said she formerly cross-country skied at Fisherman's Island State Park in her younger years.

"There is a high usage level out there," she continued. "You have to think of everybody who would be impacted."

Chuck Center, township supervisor, said the impassioned comments from the public about preserving the state park as it is now obviously is born from the community's collective love of the park. He also acknowledged Charlevoix Township is the first municipality to choose a side of the fence in this case.

"We felt that we were knowledgeable of the subject and could give our opinion," Center said.

However, Center underscored how the ultimate decision — should a land swap proposal ever be submitted to the state by St. Marys — will not be made by local leaders.

"It's only a resolution and we'd hope it has some sway with the DNR director, but it's ultimately up to him," Center said.

Dirk Cox, of St. Marys, confirmed the company has not yet submitted a land exchange proposal to the DNR because "we haven't even finalized any kind of a concept," he said.

Cox said he is not surprised by the township board's approval of the resolution.

"I think everybody is entitled to their opinion and they made theirs clear," he said. "I think it's premature, but they are entitled to their opinion."

Meanwhile, Cox said the company completed the second phase of an archeological study, while currently a biodiversity study is under way to catalog the area's flora and fauna. Finally, the community committee to study the issue which the company wants to establish is expected to be facilitated by Michigan State University Extension, he said.

Rex Jr., Drost open strong at Michigan Amateur

STEVE FOLEY
NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — It was a homecoming of sorts for both Charlevoix's Tom Rex Jr. and Wyatt Drost.

Both local players opened play Monday at the 103rd Michigan Amateur Championship under sunny, yet breezy conditions at Belvedere Golf Club and put themselves in solid position to advance to match play beginning Wednesday, June 18.

Drost, a 21-year-old senior-to-be at Saginaw Valley State University, finished with an opening round 4-over-par 74, while Rex Jr., 61, shot a 5-over-par 75.

Drost was tied for 44th with 10 others, while Rex Jr. sat at 55th entering Tuesday's final round of stroke play.

The top 64 players advanced to match play which will take place today, Thursday, and Friday with the championship match set for Friday afternoon.

For Rex Jr., playing in the Amateur at Belvedere, which is hosting the tournament for a record 40th time this year, isn't anything new.

However, it has been awhile.

"The last time I played here in this tournament, my caddie here (son Tom Rex III) who's now 30 was just born," Rex Jr. said. "He's 30 and now here I am playing again."

Rex Jr., who was granted an exemption to the tournament via the championship committee, had a birdie — which came on the par-4 460-yard No. 7 — and two bogeys on the front nine, then followed by bogeying four of his first five holes on the back nine.

"I played good today," Rex Jr. said. "On the front nine I hit everything and hit every green in regulation, then I kind of lost focus. I have a huddy here and we started talking business walking down No. 10 and I made bogey, then bogeyed the next two."

"I was able to get it back. For me, 75 is a good round, it's OK."

Rex Jr. not only had his son, who made the trip north from Indianapolis to be on his bag, but his father follow him hole-for-hole.

Tom Rex Sr., 87, lives in Dearborn and still plays as much as he possibly can, Rex Jr. said.

"He (Tom Rex Sr.) hasn't played in these things since the late 80s — he played in this tournament about 30 years ago," Rex Jr. said. "He shoots his age now every day. He's shot his age about 300 times. He's always been part of this with me and he'll stay for tomorrow's round and turn around and drive back home."

"To play with my son and have my dad drive up, it's wonderful," Rex Jr. added. "I remember about 30 years ago, we'd come up here on Father's Day and it'd be fun to be with him. We'd stay at a little hotel here, watch the Tigers in our underwear on a small black and white TV. I thought it was the greatest thing ever."

After residing in Detroit and Chicago, Rex Jr. moved to Charlevoix permanently six years ago.

"Charlevoix is just the greatest area to be and years ago my dad said he knew I was going to move here," Rex Jr. said.

This year marks his 18th Michigan Amateur championship appearance, as he competed in 16 straight tournaments from 1970-1986, as well as the 2004 Amateur in Grosse Ile Country Club. His best finish was a quarterfinal appearance in 1984 which was eventually won by Roy Schultzeiss of Bay City.

"I've made the cut eight times, so I'm about 50-50," Rex Jr. said. "I was pleased Wyatt Drost of Charlevoix lines up a putt on No. 4 during the opening round of the 103rd Michigan Amateur Championship Monday at Belvedere Golf Club in Charlevoix. Drost, who just finished his junior season at Saginaw Valley State University where he earned All-GLIAC honors, shot an opening round 4-over par 74 and followed with an 9-over par 78 Tuesday to finish at 13-over 152.

with it and I'm looking forward to playing again with these kids. A lot of them are less than half my age."

In fact, Rex Jr.'s playing partners Monday were, as Joe Balaskovitz II of Montague is 30, while David Smith Jr. of Highland is just 19.

"It was a fun day," Rex Jr. said. "I got to believe if I shoot 75 tomorrow that should be a good number, but you never know. I came in here hoping 150 or 151 would do it, but I haven't played enough up here to know whether or not I could shoot that."

Rex Jr. had to get creative in his preparation for the tournament, which involved finding the only piece of available grass he could find in the area in mid to late April.

"I drove all around Charlevoix to find some open grass and I got down to the football stadium where it was all grass, but there was still two feet of snow around the field," Rex Jr. said. "I took an astroturf mat, laid it down on the sidewalk and started hitting balls over the concession stand onto the football field."

"That was the end of April and that was the only thing I could do to prepare," Rex Jr. said. "You have to get creative up here sometimes."

Rex followed his opening round 75 with a 13-over 82 on Tuesday to finish at 157. He did not advance to match play.

Drost, a former Charlevoix High School standout, said he was pleased with his opening round 74.

Drost opened on No. 10 and was 4-over after his first nine holes with a double bogey and two bogeys before finishing with two birdies and two bogeys on the front nine.

"First day was good," Drost said. "I kind of struggled hitting my irons, I hit driver really well and was in good position all-day, was able to get up and down a few times to save my round."

"I made a few mistakes in the middle of the fairway that I'll try to clean up," Drost said. "Overall, it was still a pretty good round. A 74 out here today with the wind is a good score."

Drost, who is coming off a fine junior season at SVSU as he averaged 73.7 for the season — second-best in program history — mentioned Belvedere was playing much different than his high school

Defending champion Chapman earns top seed for match play at Belvedere

GREG JOHNSON
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

CHARLEVOIX — Defending champion Andrew Chapman is apparently serious about defending in the 103rd Michigan Amateur Championship.

He shot a tournament-record 63 at Belvedere Tuesday that will likely earn an asterisk because of course adjustments made in the wake of heavy rainfall and two delays during the second round of stroke play qualifying.

Par was adjusted to 69 after early morning rain from 70, which has been adjusted for the championship from the par 72 the members play on a regular basis.

Nevertheless, Chapman grabbed the No. 1 seed and was awarded the Charles Kocsis Medalist Trophy for topping the field over 36 holes of stroke play.

Andrew Chapman of Traverse City shot a tournament-record 63 Tuesday during the second round of stroke play to earn the Charles Kocsis Medalist Trophy for topping the field over 36-holes of stroke play at the 103rd Michigan Amateur Championship at Belvedere Golf Club. Chapman's 135 36-hole total was clear of the field by three shots.

The cut to make match play fell at 150 and forced a playoff of 13 golfers for the final five spots. Match play started Wednesday, with 64 players in 32 matches. Just the "Sweet 16" golfers remained at the end of the day. Two more rounds of match play Thursday and again on Friday will determine the champion.

"It's neat, a nice accomplishment, but I would trade being medalist for another year with the Staghorn Trophy (champion's trophy) in a minute," said Chapman, a 28-year-old financial planner and native of Grand Blanc.

Chapman's 36-hole total of 135 was clear of the field by three shots.

Brandon Barrows, a senior-to-be at Rochester Adams High School, and Jacob Johnson, an Oakland University golfer from Holt, each shot second consecutive 69s to finish at 138.

Also at 138 was Indiana

Hickory Open title goes to Wisconsin's Ernst

DREW KOCHANNY
NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Knickerbockers, newsboy caps, sweaters and argyle socks filled the Belvedere Golf Club of Charlevoix for the ninth straight year Saturday, with the annual Belvedere Hickory Open final round taking place.

A two-day golf tournament which uses hickory-shafted golf clubs and leather bags of some 80 years ago, the event celebrates the rich tradition and history of the game of golf.

Belvedere golf professional Dennis "Marty" Joy had previously won the 59-under Open Championship Division for the last two years, but gave way to an opponent this season that had been chasing a string of second place finishes, in William "Ernie" Ernst of Neenah, Wis.

"I had to laugh, because my wife said to me this morning, 'you know what, you in finish second a lot' I said, yeah. She said 'don't do that.' That was pretty funny," said Ernst. "So it's nice to win one."

Finishing with a gross score of 156 for the two days, Ernst shot a 79 on Friday and followed with a 77 on Saturday.

As for Joy, who had been busy preparing for the event after a late melt of winter snow, he earned a 162 two-day total.

"I like running tournaments and preparing for them, making everyone happy," said Joy. "It's fun to do, fun to put on. The tournament was great. It's their favorite tournament in the country."

Part of a Hickory national tour of five courses which begins in Pinehurst, N.C., and goes to Alabama, New Jersey, Michigan and back to Pinehurst, the Charlevoix event is clearly always a favorite by many who venture north.

"This is the best hickory tournament that we play in the United States," said William "Ernie" Ernst of Neenah, Wis., watches his putt on the 13th hole of the Belvedere Golf Club of Charlevoix during the ninth annual Belvedere Hickory Open on Saturday. Ernst finished first in the 59-under division with a two day score of 156.

Ernst. "Members embrace us, Marty runs a great operation, it's just beautiful. This is one tournament I'll never miss again."

Hickory players from Miami to Canada, even as far as Scotland, traveled to Belvedere, which was hosting the event in their fourth year of a major Hickory tournament. Along with Joy, four other Charlevoix residents took part in the tournament.

Getting the course ready for play came at quite the challenge for Joy, though, who like many around the area, got a late start to the golf season.

"The course has come a long way in the last three weeks," added Joy. "To even be able to have this tournament, was a struggle. But this was perfect. Guys came up from North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Florida, Texas, Scotland. This is different weather for them."

Playing through weather that dipped into the 50s on Friday, Ernst, being from Wisconsin, didn't mind a little extra breeze while playing with so many travelers from warmer climates.

"I got here yesterday and looked at the southern boys and said advantage northern boys," Ernst added with a laugh.

Riding the momentum from his first modern hickory win, Ernst will head to a match play event in Philadelphia next, after already having played tournaments in Arizona, Illinois — both second place finishes — and now Michigan.

For those who haven't yet tried the much more challenging game, Ernst strongly recommends it.

"It's just a great time," he said. "I love this golf course, love what they do with it. If you've never tried hickory golf, you should try it. Don't let the outfits scare you."

Local golfers playing in the event included Dick Weller of Torch Lake, who finished with a 158 in the 70-plus division and Mike DeVries in the 59-under division with a 180.

In the 60-69 division, Jeff Porter of Charlevoix, shot a 196; Jim Gels, Charlevoix, 171; Steve Braun, Charlevoix, 175; Paul Fiedorek, Charlevoix, 168; and Fred Muller, Traverse City, 159.

Call them the fearsome foursome.

Four area hockey players from Harbor Springs and Charlevoix earned spots on the recently announced Team North Snipers U19 girls hockey team which will represent Northern Lower Michigan at the State Games of Michigan June 19-22 in Grand Rapids.

Defenseman Alyssa Hunt of Harbor Springs along with Harbor's Jackie LaFave and Maddie Hunt, both forwards, and Charlevoix's Alexis Smith, a forward, are on the Snipers roster.

The State of Michigan Games girls hockey tournament features six teams (Upper Peninsula, North, Central, South, East and West). Any girls with a 1995 or younger birthdate who did not play Tier I/AAA during the 2013-14 season comprise the teams.

The Team North Snipers members had three practices in Traverse City, Gaylord and Alpena leading up to the Grand Rapids event June 19-22, where six teams from around the state will compete in a minimum of four games.

The top four teams will vie for the medal round.

This season marks the second year the State Games of Michigan includes girls hockey, and the Team North Snipers will skate in front of college scouts from at least five NCAA or ACHA programs.

Girls from Traverse City, Manton, Interlochen, Cheboygan and Alpena make up the remainder of the Snipers.

"With this being the first year a team from Northern Lower Michigan will compete in the State Games, I truly didn't know what to expect from our tryouts," Northern Michigan's District 7 head coach Jake Martin of Alpena said. "Frankly, all of the girls made selecting this team far more difficult than I imagined. Our coaching staff looked for speed, determination and commitment and we believe we've selected a team for a run at the gold medal."

"Girls hockey is the fastest growing female collegiate sport and the Michigan Games gives our northern players exposure to multiple college programs from around the Midwest," Martin added.

The State Games of Michigan features athletes in more than 30 different Olympic-style sports and embodies the values of participation, sportsmanship and healthy living among residents of the State of Michigan.

University golfer, Max Kollin of Farmington Hills and Johnson's Oakland U. teammate Evan Bowser, who each shot 66.

The 139 group included two past champions in Tom Werkmeister (2009), who shot 71, and Greg Davies (2006), who shot 72. Henry Do, a University of North Carolina golfer, netted his 139 with a 68.

The youngest player in the field, 15-year-old James Piot of Canton shot 70 to join the group at 139.

Three golfers — University of Tennessee golfer Mike Nagy of Manistique, Grand Valley State golfer Austin Eccleton of Jackson and Kory Roberts of Battle Creek — were at 140. Nagy shot 70 and Eccleton shot 73. Roberts shot 68.

Brian Hayward of Grand Rapids and Reed Hryniewicz, who each shot 73, finished at 141 with Saline's Mike Ignasiak, who was last year's runner-up. He shot 72. Also at 141 was Novi's Casey Baker, who shot 71.

Charlevoix's Wyatt Drost, a senior-to-be this fall at Saginaw Valley State University, shot a second round 9-over par 78 and finished at 13-over 152, tied for 80th.

Also, Tom Rex Jr. of Charlevoix shot a second round 13-over 82 to finish at 157, tied for 121st. Gaylord's Adam Van Oosten finished tied for 140th at 84-77—161. Drost, Rex Jr.

and Van Oosten all failed to make the cutline, which was set at 150.

Ironically, Chapman netted the Kocsis trophy after his 63 appeared to top the revered Belvedere course record of 64 set in 1964 by Kocsis while playing a fall round at the course.

In 2003, Andy Ruthkoski of Muskegon shot a Michigan Amateur qualifying round record 64 in winning medalist honors in the 92nd Michigan Amateur at Belvedere.

The course was adjusted to a par 70 for the championship by the Golf Association of Michigan, just as it has been adjusted this year for the championship. Members play the course at par 72.

The course, being played as a par 70 over 6,870 yards for the championship, was adjusted to a par 69 for the day because of standing water on the No. 15 fairway.

The 465-yard par 4 was changed to a 190-yard par 3 for the round after two heavy bouts of rain in the early morning. The No. 16 hole, a 346-yard par 4, was also adjusted to 290 yards using a forward tee position because of water.

Chapman, who birdied No. 15 and 16 with shots to within one-foot on each, said it was nice to shoot a low score — a record or not.

"It's been a while," he said after seven birdies against one bogey. "To do it here is very special and to do it in the Michigan Am is very special. Today was an important round for me because I've kind of limped into match play the last few years. I wanted to go out and just commit and play sort of trusting golf, which I don't always do. I do that in match play, but for whatever reason I don't always do it in stroke play."

Chapman was the No. 33 seed last year after a 151 at Muskegon Country Club and worked his way through the bracket to the championship.

"There are so many good players in the state that I'm not sure the seeding really matters," he said. "I just wanted to go in playing well."

Jeff Champine of Rochester Hills had perhaps the shot of the day. He made a hole-in-one on the reconfigured No. 15 in a 72 for 151. He missed the cut.

Andrew Yeager of Grand Rapids made the biggest move of the day shooting a 65 after a first-round 82 for a 147 and a spot in the bracket.

"When I was in high school this course played to about 6,600 yards, now it's close to 7,000," Drost said. "Some holes were a lot longer and the greens are faster than what they've been. I struggled on the green a little bit."

More than anything, Drost just wanted to have fun and enjoy the experience with his younger brother, Walker Drost, as his caddie.

"It's the first time he's (Walker) got to do that with me," Drost said. "I'm on my home course and I just wanted to have fun and see what I could do."

Drost is hoping to continue to play much like he did this year at SVSU, where he helped the Cardinals advance to the NCAA Division II nationals. He was an individual medalist as the 2013 GLIAC Championships in the fall season and earned All-GLIAC honors for the 2013-14 season after tying for the top spot in the third NCAA regional event, eventually falling in a three-man playoff.

Drost had seven top-10 finishes last season.

"I had a really good year. I won a tournament in the fall and had a couple of top four finishes and in the spring had a really good scoring average," Drost said. "Overall, it was a really good year. I was happy with how I did and it's something I can be proud of, but there's always room for improvement."

Drost closed stroke play Tuesday with a second round 9-over-par 78 and finished at 13-over 152.

Charlevoix hospital to pursue closer relationship with Munson Healthcare

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors announced a decision to build on the hospital's current affiliation with Munson Healthcare and pursue a closer relationship. The board voted unanimously to "authorize management to enter into a letter of intent with Munson Healthcare to explore a fuller affiliation agreement without specific detail as to the ultimate structure of such affiliation."

The board agreed strengthening the hospital's relationship with Munson Healthcare could be the most effective way to ensure ongoing hospital success in the changing health care environment.

"This decision was a result of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board's proactive evaluation of the strategies needed to ensure the hospital remains a successful provider and economic engine for the region," said Dr. Ruth Golf cart to blame for blaze?

Garage and house fire erupts in Belvedere Club

CHARLEVOIX — Fire officials in Charlevoix believe a golf cart may have been the cause of a fire that caused extensive damage to a home in the Belvedere Club on Saturday.

Charlevoix Fire Chief Paul Ivan, said firefighters were called to the home of the club's administrator, David Gray, at 512 Belvedere Ave., at 10:19 a.m. Saturday to a report of a fire in the attached garage.

Ivan noted that although many of the department's firefighters were busy attending to medical emergencies associated with the Charlevoix Marathon, which was going on at the time the fire call came in, an engine was en-route to the scene within three minutes of the dispatch and crews were on the scene within five minutes.

The first fire crews on the scene found the garages to be fully on fire and focused their efforts on preventing the fire from spreading to the house/office portion of the building.

Because Charlevoix fire crews were already spread thin, fire officials called in crews from the Charlevoix Township and the East Jordan fire departments to assist with the fire.

Ivan said the fire did spread into the attached house, but was extin-

Charlevoix band program growing

Director seeks instrument donations from community

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix band program is alive and well, hearkening back to the glory days when hand was booming.

For starters, participation is growing. After one year, Charlevoix band director Gary Stutzman, former Charlevoix band student and band director in the 1970s and '80s, injected a shot of renewed energy into the program. He came out of retirement last year and hit the ground running.

"In the fall, we only had 14 band members on the field at the first football game. The kids didn't even sit in the student section."

This fall there will be about 30 students in the marching band and they'll be cheering on the team.

"I am reaching out to student leaders," Stutzman said. "I want the kids to know that they can have it all: sports and band. I want the band to support other activities as well and I strive to make band members respected among their peers."

This year was the first year that the band members played in the Charlevoix auditorium's orchestra pit, for the performing arts production of "The Sound of Music."

"Five members of the Great Lakes Symphony joined the band in the pit," Stutzman said. "It was an amazing experience for the kids."

The only struggle Stutzman faced is scheduling conflicts.

"Requirements sometimes cause conflicts," he said.

But how to move toward a strong band program is the impetus that drives Stutzman's dedication.

"Band success is a tradition of Charlevoix High School and the community," Stutzman said. "Just look at the plaques and trophies on the walls of the former middle school. Beginning with Max Smith in the '40s, who also created the City Band, and continuing on with Clarence Odmark, the reputation for band excellence in Charlevoix has become well established."

Stutzman hopes to lay the foundation for his program by next year

Charlevoix fairy doors installedSHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — The pixies are coming to town. Twelve-year-old Emma Wachler is preparing for her Bat Mitzvah this summer and as a part of it, came up with a pretty fantastical idea — fairy doors in Charlevoix.

"When I was in Ann Arbor this past year, I learned about the fairy doors," she said. "I thought it would be fun to give them a summer home here in Charlevoix."

The more than two dozen urban fairy doors in Ann Arbor are a special project in that metropolitan area, with more details available online at www.urban-fairies.com.

"I've sold a total of five. One business bought two. I'm donating a total of 12," Emma said.

The idea is if a business wants to participate, somebody there fills out a form Emma created and makes a $50 donation to any charity of their choice in Northern Michigan. Then Emma will bring the business its very own fairy door.

"I think it is so sweet you are doing this," said Darsi Lee, owner of The Lake House shop, to Emma as she worked to place the bright yellow door and accompanying framed artwork in the decided location.

Emma's parents are Glenn and Ellen Wachler, the former who said they permanently moved to Charlevoix eight years ago to become year-round residents after a lifetime of wonderful vacations spent here "Up North."

Glenn Wachler also said that should Emma's project prove to be very popular, the family members are thinking about ways to keep her Charlevoix Fairy Door project going, even beyond the first dozen pixie-sized doors Emma committed to organize for her Bat Mitzvah project.

Emma is a student at St. Mary School in Charlevoix and in the fall will be in eighth grade. She participates in the school's Builder's Club, she said.

Anyone interested in the Charlevoix Fairy Door project can call Emma and her family at (231) 360-5768 to participate or ask questions.

Because of a reporting error, an article in the June 20 edition of the Charlevoix Courier misquoted Charlevoix City Council member Shirley Gibson as saying she is a property rights advocate, when it was council member Peggy Brennan who made those remarks. Additionally, it was Bob Heath of the historic commission who said, "Sometimes there are sacrifices to be made to preserve things for future generations."

OPINIONS yours & ours

What's there to worry about?

I have always been a bit of worrier, a planner and anyway, who needs luggage when you have a basket case.

The umbrella that hangs over all our worries is anxiety. For most of the human population we have some anxiety when making decisions or we are faced with life's challenges. We may worry about our children when they leave home or worry because they don't. Whether it's concerns about work, family or friends, the general population worries about something — you are not alone. Generalized worry takes the form of thoughts running through your mind, but when our bodies react physically, fear and panic set in and these are the physiological aspects of anxiety. I try to avoid the latter two. Sometimes dwelling too much about the future and what could go wrong can cause loss of sleep. What does help is to be more in the moment and reframe your thoughts to, "Well, what's the worst that could happen?" Then self-talk about what you would do if this scenario played out and then refocus on the here and now rather than what might not ever happen.

It takes practice, my friend, to focus on the here and now. To do it well you need to actually look at your body language, take in your surroundings, colors, aromas and sounds, then take a deep breath and sit down and relax.

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

There actually is a good form of worry just as there is a good form of stress. The type of person who does this is who we refer to as the planner worrier. They are the ones that think about the next day's events and plan for them by doing things such as getting gas in the car, making reservations, reading about the place they will be traveling to, or planning a menu for an upcoming gathering rather than waiting until the last moment. Planning is much better than the actual worrying part. In the grand scheme of things what we all need to realize is that whatever the case may be, life does go on and the world will not end because of what we are worrying about.

We all come up with our own decisions on how to handle different situations and we all follow our own paths so don't compare yourself to anyone else.

A few months ago I came upon an accident which closed the expressway for five hours. I was able to meander off onto a ramp and took a side trip. Eventually I came to a town that I had never visited before and then noticed a coffee shop. I pulled into the parking lot and decided that what I really needed was a change of scenery from the expressway. I proceeded to find a comfy chair, sat down, put my feet up and said OK I guess I was meant to sit and smell the coffee. Turning life's misadventure into life's adventures will help give you a positive perspective. It took me longer to get to my destination, but the journey of discovering a new town wasn't so bad and after making a few phone calls, life went on.

Whether you are a planner worrier or anxious warrior, remember to keep things in perspective, good does come out of bad, karma is real and solutions come about when you talk to yourself or anyone who will listen.

LETTER to the editor

Oil and gas benefits Michigan

Editor:
Ann Zukowski's May 30 letter was intended to ridicule the oil and gas industry's economic contributions. Let's look at reality.

Energy production currently provides more than 8,000 industry-related jobs in Michigan, while paying an estimated 15,200 private mineral owners more than $150 million in royalties annually.

The State of Michigan has also received more than $1.25 billion in oil and gas income (royalties, rentals and lease bonuses) since 1927, and more than $78 million yearly in severance taxes and oil and gas fees. Local property taxes from oil gas wells, pipelines and surface facilities number in the millions each year. And let's not forget the $7.2 million that the state receives in privilege fees each year, which underwrites the Department of Environmental Quality's Office of Geological Survey.

The leasing of state owned land also has provided more than $1 billion to the DNR's Land Trust Fund, from which Charlevoix County alone has received 22 grants totaling over $7.8 million since 1976.

Ms. Zukowski also makes a feeble attempt to mock long-term growth in the industry, but since she brought it up, let's take another peek into reality.

According to IHS Global Insight, by the year 2035 more than 63,000 Michigan jobs will be supported by the oil and gas industry. There is currently over $1.8 billion in total labor income generated by the industry, projected to increase to $4.1 billion by 2035.

These benefits accrue to real working families, to real men and women who value Michigan's environment and support a stronger economy to benefit us all.

Ms. Zukowski and her friends use sarcasm to discuss the industry, probably because childish mockery is the only recourse they have, given that their constant warnings of environmental apocalypse have been definitively proven false.

CHARLEVOIX HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

The Belvedere Hotel, once located on the resort grounds at the turning of Belvedere Avenue onto Ferry Avenue, began life as the future Belvedere Club clubhouse in 1879, a de facto hotel for resort members and their guests only. After this building burned in 1886, the resort constructed a 40-room public hotel called the New Belvedere the next year. With the arrival of the railroad five years after that, the resort realized the need for a greatly expanded and modified hotel. So the building grew to 84 rooms and suites by 1902, and quickly established a reputation as one of the finest resort hotels in the Midwest alongside Charlevoix's other two large ones, the Beach and the Inn. Finally, old age caught up with it along with the nationwide decline of seaside resort hotels after World War II caused by the advent of the jet age. A decade went into exploring possibilities, but in 1959, the resort determined that at least $100,000, the equivalent of more than $1 million today, would be needed to bring it up to snuff for a highly uncertain future. The club reluctantly decided that 1960 would have to be the last season, and down came the Belvedere, as shown here, beginning in December that year. Most of the interior furnishings were sold off, both for use and as souvenirs. All that is left is the lawn where the Belvedere once stood.

Hestia awards grant to mentor group

Big Brothers Big Sisters of Northwestern Michigan has received a grant from the Hestia Women's Giving Circle, a donor advised fund of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, to support its mentoring services to girls in Charlevoix and Emmet counties. The grant will support Big Brothers Big Sisters school-based mentoring services to girls throughout its school sites in the Charlevoix and Emmet county areas.

"Hestia Women's Giving Circle helped us last year begin a new school-based program in Boyne City, which saw nine students matched with a mentor. Those relationships will continue this next school year," said Cecilia Chesney, executive director of Big Brothers Big Sisters of Northwestern Michigan. The main purpose of this year's support is to continue to increase mentor services to girls in both Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

"We are pleased to have the support of the Hestia Women's Giving Circle to be able to reach more female students in need of a mentor," said Chesney.

"With our professional guidance, our mentors provide the friendship and opportunities that help children realize their potential in school and in life."

Big Brothers Big Sisters encourages men and women throughout the Charlevoix and Emmet county areas to consider becoming a mentor in their community. Historic talk upcoming on area hotel

SEAN MILLER
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

BOYNE CITY — Boyne District Library will at 1 p.m. on Saturday, June 28, present its fourth History Speaker Series event on the historic Wolverine-Dilworth Hotel.

The guest speakers, Bob Morgridge, Patrick McCleary and Boh Grove, will provide an in-depth look at the history of the hotel in downtown Boyne City. It opened in 1912, and as part of the celebration, the Charlevoix County History Preservation Society is working to compile a record of the complete history of this historical landmark to not only preserve its history, but to share it with the community.

The speakers will present a PowerPoint presentation that gives information about the hotel that will span the past 100 years. The owner of the hotel, Boh Grove, will present his future plans for the historic building and the preservation process.

Aside from the presentations, guided tours will be given to show the building as it stands today, offering a glimpse at the hotel and the history. This is an exclusive opportunity, as renovations are scheduled to begin in coming months.

BEAVER ISLAND

Foundation awards grant to Beaver Island Baroque festival

BEAVER ISLAND — Beautiful music received a boost with a $6,500 grant to support the Beaver Island Cultural Arts Association's signature event, the Baroque on Beaver Festival.

The award was announced by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation in late April 2014. The Baroque on Beaver Festival of classical music celebrates its 13th season in 2014.

"The continued support from The Community Foundation reflects our shared belief in the value of the arts and is due in large part to their new Wisser-Saworski fund established to support arts and culture in Charlevoix County. BICAA is honored to partner with c3f in our efforts to promote and encourage participation in the cultural arts in the Beaver Island community," said Anne Glendon, BICAA board chair.

The Beaver Island Cultural Arts Association was formalized as a nonprofit corporation in 2006, six years after the first Baroque on Beaver concert was performed in the little log cabin chapel of the Beaver Island Episcopal Church. The annual Baroque on Beaver (B-on-B) Festival runs over a 10-day span, this year from July 25 through the first weekend of Aug. 3.

In 2009, Baroque on Beaver became a "Pure Michigan" enterprise, contracting with professional musicians from across the state.

The award from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation is to be used to assist BICAA with several efforts, chief among which is to acquire equipment and materials needed to erect a temporary band shell during the festival to safely accommodate well more than 400 participants — musicians and audience — at the first outdoor performance, A Star Spangled Evening, which will launch the yearlong celebration of

Leap at Ellsworth Community Schools

ERICA RAKOWICZ
NEWS-REVIEW

ELLSWORTH — Ellsworth Community Schools finished its fourth year of Lancer Leap, a program based around broadening student options for classes and activities as well as allowing time for credit recovery for those who need it.

The idea behind Lancer Leap is to shorten each semester by two weeks and have three and a half to four weeks of time at the end of the year to dedicate to interactive and elective type classes and credit recovery.

As those few weeks come to an end, many students participate in the Lancer Leap Showcase. The showcase allows for students to show off their weeks of hard work by either hanging up their work, letting visitors stop by their booths, or going on stage to perform their craft.

"We have fantastic families here with great community support," said Aaron Gaffney, principal and superintendent.

The program is also used to keep students and teachers fully engaged during a time of the year when they're both anxiously awaiting the last school bell. This brand of engagement has proven able to keep students out of trouble and in attendance.

Throughout the year, Lancer Leap also serves as an incentive for students to maintain a strong work ethic to be able to participate in the end of the year program. Students who happen to fall behind are able to make up their credit during this time period, as well, due to the credit recovery option.

Michigan Association of School Administrators (MASA) recognized Ellsworth Community Schools in their 2013 Winner's Circle for Lancer Leap.

Classes available in the Lancer Leap program are canoe building, forensic science, photography, public relations, dance, jazz ensembles and more.

Gaffney said the program owes its success to the teachers and staff because of their flexibility.

"If you work at a small school you have to wear a lot of different hats," he said.

After finals, a lot of students go home kind of grumpy and Ellsworth Community Schools doesn't see this as a good way to end the school year.

Gaffney said that when students leave after the event they're usually happy and excited about the past year while looking forward to the next.

"You leave on a really good note," he said.

In addition to the program's success, Ellsworth Community Schools also saw enrollment reach the highest numbers in a decade.

This year rounded out with 247 K-12 students. Last year's total was 217 students. In comparison, 2002 saw 248 students.

Ellsworth Community Schools also saw the highest number increase of students this year in the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, said Dianne Litzenberger, director of communication services at the ISD.

"We have a positive reputation for being a small school," Gaffney said.

Two credit unions looking to combine

Bay Winds Federal Credit Union membership vote pending

RYAN BENTLEY
NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Two Northern Michigan financial institutions, Bay Winds Federal Credit Union and Members Credit Union, announced Tuesday that they're working to combine into a single larger entity.

"It's a merge of the two organizations," said David Leusink, president and chief executive officer of Charlevoix-based Bay Winds. "We like to think partnership because we're a lot alike."

Leaders of the credit unions described the new arrangement — which is subject to financial regulators' approval as well as a Bay Winds membership vote — as something that would enhance convenience and offerings for members, as well as cost savings for the operations.

"Every single effort our credit unions undertake is rooted in providing exceptional value to our memberships," Members CEO/president Andrew Kempf said in a press release. "We will provide increased long-term value to our membership by offering more relevant financial products, user-friendly technology solutions and additional service locations."

The larger new organization would have 13 branch offices. Bay Winds would bring six of these — two in Petoskey and one each in Charlevoix, Boyne City, East Jordan and Bellaire — to the arrangement. Members would provide seven branches — four situated around Traverse City, as well as locations in Kalkaska, Manistota and Manistee.

The combined new institution would have deposits exceeding $400 million and more than 75,000 total members, about 29,000 of those coming from Bay Winds. Credit union leaders note that the new organization's larger scope would offer a high level of financial safety and stability for members.

The new organization is expected to begin operating under a yet-to-be-revealed new name by late 2014, pending the needed approvals.

In the meantime, Bay Winds marketing director Keith Carey said Bay Winds members can expect business as usual, and share input for what they'd like to see in the new organization.

"We think this is an excellent opportunity to have something of a referendum on our offerings and what we do for the members," he said.

Members and Bay Winds plan to maintain all of their staff positions — a combined total of 160 — when they enter the partnership.

"Our institutions were created to serve our members and we couldn't do so without excellent teams," Kempf said. "This partnership is expected to result in cost savings, but no staff layoffs or reductions are planned. In fact, the partnership will provide our staff members with enhanced professional development channels and opportunities for specialization in areas of interest."

Each credit union's full board of directors would be combined into a larger one for the new organization. Leusink would fill the CEO's role going forward, while Kempf would serve as president, Michael Slater, who currently chairs the Members board of directors, would head the new combined board. His counterpart at Bay Winds, Bridget Brown-Powers, is to be named vice chair.

"Our members value who we were before and who we are now," Leusink said. "At the same time, they also expect us to anticipate and provide timely products and services to meet their families' needs."

"Our credit unions are excited about this opportunity to offer the same types of conveniences found at national financial institutions, while maintaining the same high-quality, personalized service that has made us the preferred partners of thousands of families across Northern Michigan."

The Bay Winds and Members boards recently decided to approve a merger agreement following an extensive third-party review of both organizations. This agreement allows the proposal to proceed toward a needed vote of Bay Winds members this fall. Like Members, the combined new credit union would be a state-chartered institution, and Bay Winds — which has a federal charter — would need approval from its members to enter into the other type of arrangement. Finalizing the new partnership also will require consent from the Michigan Office of Financial and Insurance Regulation and the National Credit Union Administration.

While other financial institutions sometimes have entered mergers when facing distress, Carey emphasized that the proposed Bay Winds-Members combination isn't driven by necessity.

"We want to make sure folks understand that this is an elective direction," he said. "We're not reduced to taking this path."

BOYNE FALLS

Resort offers new adventures

Boyne Mountain has mountain biking, kayaking

BOYNE FALLS — Boyne Mountain Resort introduced two new adventures for guests this summer.

The resort partnered with Boyne River Adventures to provide convenient access to the Boyne River for day kayak excursions, and now also offers guided resort mountain hiking trips.

Kayak Adventures are offered daily with departures at 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Guests meet at the Adventure Center at Boyne Mountain and are transported to the Boyne River, a mile from the resort, where kayaks, paddles and flotation jackets await. After an overview of the river's landscape, kayakers are sent down the river for a float that's approximately five miles.

The beginning third of the trip is faster and requires some maneuverability so a moderate understanding of kayaking and paddling is recommended, and then the river widens and slows for a leisurely float before flowing into the mouth of Lake Charlevoix.

The Boyne River is cherished for its high-quality fresh water that supports great biodiversity. The majority of the river winds its way deep through the woods with only the sounds of wildlife and beauty of the

Each trip accommodates up to 10 guests. Rates are $40 per person for a single kayak or $75 for a tandem kayak. For reservations, call the Boyne Mountain Adventure Center at (231) 549-7256.

This summer, guests also can explore Boyne Mountain Resort's expansive network of mountain hiking trails with a guide. Based on bikers' abilities, a guide tours suitable mountain biking trails during a 90-minute excursion with up to four guests. Boyne Mountain offers 32.5 miles of trails, including a paved loop with panoramic views of Boyne Valley, or for more experienced riders, natural wide open two-tracks and technical single-tracks.

Departures are available daily at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Cost is $20 per person. Guests can bring their own bikes or can rent from Boyne Mountain. Reservations are required by calling the resort's Adventure Center at (231) 549-7256.

School leaders adopt strategic plan

Budget, bond projects and scoreboard also discussed

SHERRI MCWHIRTER-OSBORN
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Public Schools leaders on Monday unanimously adopted a strategic plan, a working document and framework for district priorities in coming years.

The plan is a more than 20-page document that spells out the district's vision, mission and beliefs, specifically spelling out ideas and goals for student achievement, communication, facilities, and learning environments, professional development and curriculum alignment. It's the result of months of input through a community survey, stakeholder meetings and committee work.

Superintendent Bob Gendron said it will be important to frequently refer to the strategic plan in order to "keep it fresh and updated," adding, "It can't just sit on a shelf."

Board vice-president Dick Joseph, running the meeting in place of absent president Kevin Pearsall, said he agrees it's a "great plan."

"It can't just sit on a shelf."

"It is our hope this will guide us for the next couple of years," Gendron added.

The strategic plan can be found at www.rayder.net online, under the link for the board of education's agenda for the June 23 meeting.

Also during the session, board members unanimously voted to amend the budget for the last fiscal year and adopt the budget for the coming fiscal year.

Gendron said district finance director Lori Martinech should be commended because last year's amended budget — save for the sizable and previously

They also discussed potential projects to complete with leftover bond dollars, such as signs for the middle-high school on Marion Center Road and Round Lake Education Center, safety lights for the auditorium, storage space for band uniforms and instruments and finally, lockers for the elementary building.

Finally, board members talked with members of the Rayder Gridiron Club about the new scoreboard placement of the new equipment, and other details. However, the group agreed by consensus to meet at a special public workshop session to continue to sort out specifics of a needed agreement between the district and the nonprofit club regarding operations, maintenance and other details of the high-tech scoreboard.

That public workshop session is set for noon today, Friday, June 27, at the Charlevoix Public Schools administrative office conference room, 104 E. St. Mary's Drive, Charlevoix.

Teen injured in golf cart accident

WALLOON LAKE — One of several juveniles who were riding on a golf cart was injured in an accident involving the cart Saturday.

According to a Charlevoix County Sheriff's office news release, the accident happened at about 9 p.m. on Addis Road North in Melrose Township. Deputies said the accident involved a golf cart operated by a 14-year-old boy from East Jordan and occupied by four other juvenile passengers.

Hoppe, chairperson of the hospital board.

Hoppe said in the face of an uncertain economy, declining reimbursement, increased regulation, and unfunded mandates, many rural community hospitals are struggling to survive. While Charlevoix Area Hospital has remained viable through many of these changes, it is time to take the next step to ensure sustainability for the long term, before being faced with a crisis.

"With this decision, the Charlevoix Area Hospital board is focused on positioning the hospital for a strong and sustainable future and maintaining the right mix of close-to-home health care services in Charlevoix and surrounding communities," said Lyn Jenks, CEO of Charlevoix Area Hospital. The hospital board and leadership believe their present ties with Munson Healthcare make it a logical strategic partner.

"Because of the strong history of regional collaboration with Munson, it made sense to talk with their organization about our hospital goals and to look very closely at the full range of options we have available to us. This is a wise next step," Hoppe said.

Munson Healthcare President and CEO Ed Ness said he looks forward to working with the Charlevoix Area Hospital board toward a non-binding letter of intent between the two organizations.

"Our 2012 agreement with Charlevoix Area Hospital gave it access to a broader range of services from Munson," he said. "It also created an ongoing conversation about how the two organizations could best work together to serve patients with local health care services. We are excited to work with them to more clearly define the steps needed to secure their vision for local health care."

providing an exploratory class for as many of the 75 sixth-grade students as wish to participate. He, along with district superintendent Robert Gendron, high school principal Suzanne Klinger and elementary principal Doug Drenth, will hammer out the scheduling details.

Stutzman said he hopes to do a five-day program: two days a week for woodwind instruments, two days a week for brass and one day a week for all sixth-grade students. On the alternate days, there will be reading instruction in that block.

"Our goal would be to encourage every sixth grade student to give band a try," Drenth said. "Studies support the fact that learning music is good for the brain and that students who play instruments excel in many other areas as well. This would be a wonderful opportunity to give every student the option to participate and the instrument with which to explore music. The cost factor of instruments is prohibitive, so the donated instruments would be great. Last year of the 54 sixth-grade students, 40 participated. Our goal is to have 100-percent participation at this level."

In order to offer this program to students, a big consideration is access to instruments. Stutzman is sending out a request to any former band members across the community who have a "retired or tired" instrument in their possession, to donate it to the cause. The instruments will be refurbished and offered to the students for use in the class at nominal cost.

"We don't want any prospective band student to be turned away because they lack access to an instrument," Stutzman said. "Over the years band members have joined a rental program through Marshall Music upon joining. We want to offer an alternative so that all students can spend an exploratory year in band. The beginning band is a feeder for the future of the program."

High on the list of requested instruments are trumpets, flutes and clarinets, but all donations are welcome. "A band is as good as its balance of instruments," Stutzman explained. "You start with the bass instruments as the foundation and then work up from that."

"Charlevoix Band has a rich history, both in the school and in the community with the City Band," he continued.

Graduated students come back as adults and continue to play, giving concerts in the band shell in East Park every Tuesday evening during the summer season. Some former band members even stepped up to provide funding for qualifying students to attend band camp in the summer.

"We all want young people to experience the possibilities that music can afford in their lives," Stutzman said.

To donate an instrument, contact Gary Stutzman at gstutzma@rayder.net or call (231) 675-4800.

tween the house and garage was damaged by fire.

Ivan said the fire is believed to be accidental in nature. The people in the house were not injured, and one firefighter was treated on scene.

Firefighters were on scene for about three hours.

Ivan said further investigation since the fire has revealed that people at the house had been riding around in an electric golf cart shortly before the fire started and had parked the cart in the area of the garage where the fire is believed to have started.

⁴ In the aftermath of the 1997 fireworks tragedy, Venetian experienced a renaissance. The year was 1999 and the future of Venetian was in doubt. A small group of community activists, which came to be known as the Venetian Board, stepped forward and accepted ownership of the Festival from the Chamber of Commerce.

The community rallied behind Venetian and the Venetian Board, and the Festival quickly blossomed into the grand Charlevoix homecoming celebration, through an eight day panorama of events, activities and entertainment geared towards locals, as well as visitors.

From 1999 through the present day, the massive staging and funding of Venetian has been administered by the same individuals who first formed the Venetian Board, as well as a handful of Committee Chairs of the parent nonprofit corporation, Charlevoix Venetian Festival, Inc. 2014 will mark the 16th Venetian Festival which this small and dedicated group has tirelessly staged.

Once the excitement and revelry of the 84th Venetian Festival begins to fade, the Venetian Board will explore the process of transitioning Venetian amongst current volunteers who wish to take on greater responsibilities, as well as new volunteers, including a new community minded generation which is coming of age.

Celebrate Charlevoix, Venetian is once again here! Celebrate relationships, memories and blessings. Please consider greater personal involvement as a Venetian volunteer or sponsor, so that Charlevoix can sustain its amazing Venetian heritage and tradition. Please also join us in thanking the members of the 2013 Venetian Burgee Club, whose ranks consist of those individuals, businesses and organizations who faithfully and generously donate funds, goods and services to Venetian.

Charlevoix Marathon hosts some 2,000 runners on near perfect day for running

Local event a Boston Marathon qualifying race

STEVE FOLEY
NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — It was a near perfect day for running, and it all went according to plan.

Almost even better than planned.

Close to 2,000 participants took part in different races at the annual Charlevoix Marathon Saturday — an event which has been named as one of the top running events in the country by Serious Running Magazine.

The race also has served recently as a Boston Marathon qualifying race.

"We had a lot of compliments from the sheriff's department to the city police saying this was the best marathon we've run out of the eight we've had," race director Ron Suffolk said. "It went really, really well."

Suffolk, a former Ford Motor Company sales incentive manager, said close to 1,750 runners from 43 states as well as a group of runners from Tasmania, Australia, and individuals from Ecuador, Germany, South Africa, Sweden, Canada and Mexico took part in the various races.

"We brought in about 2,000 people, and on average each runner brings in about a spectator and a half," Suffolk said. "Not only is Charlevoix a huge recipient with hotels and restaurants, but Petoskey also was a recipient of this as well. We recommended people to Petoskey and Harbor Springs and the surrounding areas once hotels here sold out."

"Most of the hotels here require a two-day stay, but I don't think too many people minded. Everybody here was having a great time."

Registration took part under a you-can't-miss-it 30-by-30 inflatable house, before Saturday's events, which included the marathon, half marathon, 10K, 5K, marathon walkers, half marathon walkers, and disabled athletes, began in downtown Charlevoix on Michigan Avenue and West Dixon, located a half block north of the drawbridge.

The primarily flat and shaded course with few inclines incorporated sections through the northern subdivisions off Mount McSaubia Road, to Orchard Road and to Waller Road, along the bike trail before turning around and concluding near downtown Charlevoix.

"It's a huge undertaking for us, but I'm retired now and this is my hobby," Suffolk said. "We had nine aid stations and there were at least 10 people at each station, that's 90 people along with a staff of about 15 of our own so in all there were more than 100 people helping deliver this marathon."

Suffolk also lauded the efforts of the volunteer groups which helped make the race a success including the Charlevoix Township Fire De-

CHARLEVOIX — With a Division IV district title, 20 win season and regional final game appearance, the Charlevoix girls soccer team earned the respect of their peers with their play on the field.

Last week, a number of the Rayder players were recognized for their play on the field, in the form of All-State, All-Conference and All-District honors.

Junior goalkeeper Gloria Greene and junior midfielder Leah Davis received first-team Division IV all-state honors by the Michigan High School Soccer Coaches Association, while junior midfielder Elizabeth Way and sophomore midfielder Kylee Scholten picked up honorable mention all-state.

"I was pretty proud of them. Those kids really deserved it," Charlevoix coach Pete Scholten said. "They play with so much heart and just want it so bad. I'm very, very proud of them."

The Rayders finished the season 20-6-1, falling in their Division IV regional final against Muskegon Western Michigan Christian, 3-2, in a shootout.

They earned their sixth district title in seven years and compiled a 7-0 record against Lake Michigan Conference rivals Harbor Springs and Elk Rapids.

Greene was a huge reason the Rayders were able to play as loose as they did on the field, as she finished the season with 259 saves and a 92 percent save record. She also added 14 shutouts on the year. In playing the field, Greene also picked up a hat trick against East Jordan, scoring three goals.

Charlevoix sophomore midfielder Kylee Scholten earned honorable mention Division IV All-State honors after racking up 21 assists and nine goals during the 2014 season.

"She's not only a good goalie, but she's a good field player too," said Scholten. "A smart player and just a really talented athlete. She's a volleyball player too so she's all about digging and diving. She's a not-afraid-of-anything kind of kid."

The Rayders leader in goals,

Davis, booted in 24 scores on the season, while adding six assists. Davis became known for her strong kicks, with goals often from near mid field.

"Leah is dangerous from pretty far out," said Scholten. "She's got such a strong, not only right kick, but she's got a strong left kick too. Sometimes goalies don't even see that coming. She's just a very strong presence in our mid-field. Very talented at receiving the ball in the air."

It marked the end of another school calendar year for the MHSAA, which provides athletic opportunities for 32 sports for both boys and girls across the state.

The history and make-up of the MHSAA is an interesting one indeed.

Many across the state may not know the MHSAA is a private, not-for-profit corporation consisting of voluntary members by more than 1,500 public and private high schools and junior high/middle schools.

University of North Carolina golfer and Canton native Henry Do stands with the Staghorn Trophy after capturing the 103rd Michigan Amateur championship with a 19-hole win over Steve Anderson of Troy Friday at the Belvedere Golf Club of Charlevoix.

Canton's Do wins Michigan Amateur

DREW KOCHANNY
NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — There was no shortage of obstacles standing between Henry Do and a title of Michigan Amateur champion throughout the week-long tournament.

A 156 player field, three days of rain and wind, a 64-player match play bracket and one focused and determined real estate lender playing the best golf of his life.

Through eight rounds of golf and 144 holes, Do set out to grab the title of Michigan's best amateur golfer, but it would take 145 holes, rather, as he captured the 103rd Michigan Amateur at the Belvedere Golf Club of Charlevoix on Friday, in a 19 hole win over Steve Anderson of Troy.

A University of North Carolina golfer and native of Canton, Do, 19, lost a 1-up lead on hole No. 16, when Anderson sank a 20-foot birdie putt.

One hole later, on No. 17, Anderson would take the lead on a 45-foot putt.

"I was completely rattled on the tee and my caddy (Dongmin Kim) told me you still have a shot at this," Do said. "So I got it together a little bit, hit a good tee shot and gave myself a good opportunity to hit one close and I guess I did."

AMATEUR

With one hole left to go, Do tried to settle himself down to send it to a playoff.

"I just told myself I had one hole left and hopefully force this thing into extra holes and it'd be perfect," said Do.

That he would, too. From 180 yards out on his second shot, Do would place his ball within a foot of the hole with his 7-iron, tapping in for birdie and forcing a 19th hole.

"That's got to be all-time greatest shot for me under pressure," said Do. "I can't think of a better shot."

In the playoff hole, Do would earn the win on a 3 foot putt after Anderson missed his putt from around 6 feet out.

Still wide-eyed at the magnitude of the comeback win, it all hadn't yet settled in for Do afterward.

"I'm still shocked that I was able to come out with the victory. What an accomplishment," Do said. "I give Steve a lot of credit for making those two putts on 16 and 17. It really gave me a headache because I thought I was closer than him on 16, and he could lag it close and I could lag it close and I would still be 1-up. Then on 17 he makes a bomb, which is unbelievable."

Anderson, 41, had played in the Amateur tournament six times before, but before this year, had failed to even reach the match play portion after the first two days.

"This is a month and a half worth of golf packed into five days here, so toward the end, what made it fun was the people," said Anderson, a former Eastern Michigan University tennis player who took up golf because it's more relaxing.

"The golf for me became more of a job, but playing guys like Henry and being able to talk with them during "Henry's a great guy with a great attitude and a lot of talent. It's not bad to lose to somebody like that."

Do will head back downstate, where he'll continue to work himself into a better golfer, preparing for the U.S. Amateur qualifier and the Tournament of Champions at Boyne Mountain later this summer.

"It's definitely a momentum builder," said Do. "I've just got to go back and continue working on whatever I'm working on and hopefully keep on getting great results this summer."

Anderson reached the final with a 19 hole win over University of Toledo golfer and Pinckney native, Otto Black, while Do earned a 3 and 2 win over Chris Cunningham of Milford and a Grand Valley State University golfer.

Do mentioned he was happy to win at Belvedere and praised the grounds staff — headed by Belvedere Golf Club superintendent Rick Grunch — for getting the course ready for the long, five-day tournament following one of the harshest winters on record in Northern Michigan.

"It was really in amazing shape," Do said. "It's a great course and a great old club."

goals and assists, 12 coming in goals, while adding 13 assists.

Scholten's daughter, Kylee, earned the recognition for being a player opposing coaches always had to account for running the Rayder edge. She twice tied the school record with four assists in a game, finishing with 21 on the season, along with nine goals.

"We've got a great relationship and she wants to win," Pete Scholten said. "She's got a very good work ethic and she's been playing soccer at a pretty high level since sixth grade. She had a great season and what really impressed me about her was she had a lot of assists."

All four girls earned all-district, all-region and all-state honor to go along with their state wide recognition, while freshmen Isabel Hess and Julia Doskoch, sophomore Kelsey Engstrom, junior Olivia Storm and seniors Katie Kiteley and Kaitlin Hinkley earned all district honors, as well. Scholten himself also earned all district as a coach.

"It was a tough road to just get out of our district," said Scholten. "We had not only Harbor (Springs) but we had Elk (Rapids) too. When you get to that point in the season it helps to elevate those kids to a higher level."

Also earning Division IV all-state honors, Harbor Springs sophomore midfielder Zoey Bezilla and junior midfielder Shallon Grawey earned honorable mention all state, helping the Rams to a 13-7 season and honorable mention Division IV final Charlevoix junior midfielder Leah Davis earned first team Division IV all-state honors for the 2014 season, scoring 24 goals and adding six assists for the Rayders, who advanced to their Division IV regional final with a 20-6-1 season.

SPORTS

Enrollment is the deciding factor

DREW KOCHANNY
NEWS-REVIEW

EAST LANSING — Often when you become the first to do something, the results that follow often become the example for others.

Such is the case for the Michigan High School Athletic Association's (MHSAA) classification system designed for season-ending tournament play, as the MHSAA became the first U.S. state to divide schools by enrollment, with many other states following close behind.

But while the MHSAA may have been a pioneer of the high school sports tournament system and how schools are grouped, a certain level of misunderstanding and confusion still exists to this day.

For 749 MHSAA participating schools in the state of Michigan, however, there appears to be no more fair way of determining who a high school will play in the postseason.

John Johnson, an MHSAA communications director, has been a part of the MHSAA for nearly 30 years and has seen a number of different systems, none he believes better than the current one in place.

"What happens is schools use a second semester number of enrollment to classify for the following school year," he said. "Numbers that we gather in February of this year are being used for the '14-15 school year."

Once they have those enrollment numbers from each school, the MHSAA breaks it into four separate classes.

"Then they are ranked from the highest to the lowest, then a line is drawn at approximately the 25th percentile to attempt to get an equal number of schools in the traditional classes of A, B, C and D," added Johnson.

Classes are used only for sports of boys and girls basketball and volleyball, because nearly every participating MHSAA school offers those sports. Each class has a determining number for where they'll fit into each class, which in part will determine who that school plays in postseason games.

For the 2014-15 school year, schools with 882 students will be classified as Class A, Class B schools have enrollments between 424 and 881, Class C is 215 to 423 and Class D schools have enrollments of 214 or smaller.

For example, Petoskey High School, with an enrollment of 965 students, is classified as a Class A school, while seeing an actual enrollment change from one year to the next.

Boyer City High School, which had an enrollment count of 383 for the 2013-14 school year, saw an increase of 12 students, moving their enrollment to 395, edging within 30 students closer to the Class B cutoff border.

The 2014-15 school year will have 21 schools throughout the state moving up in class, while 26 schools will move down. In aiming to keep each class as equal as possible, classes A, B and C will all feature 187 schools, while Class D had 188.

For all other MHSAA sports such as football, hockey, baseball and softball, divisions are used to determine postseason play, Johnson said.

"Divisions are for competition and based strictly on the number of schools that sponsor that sport," he said. "Divisions are for those sports that have fewer, usually far fewer teams than basketball and volleyball. They were developed in the '90s to try to in some ways equalize the path through a tournament."

The division system has implemented an equal path for each team, from Class A to 1920s under the original program of football, basketball, track and baseball for boys, now the MHSAA conducts 32 sports into categories of male, female, classes and divisions by enrollment. Upper and Lower Peninsula with 120 separate tournaments in which schools vie for a championship trophy.

Close to 300,000 boys and girls participate in MHSAA athletics each year.

There were 758 total high schools which make up the MHSAA (as of March 2013), of which 85 percent were total public high schools, 6 percent charter schools and 15 percent are religious.

As a private, nonprofit corporation, the MHSAA receives no tax dollars from the state of Michigan or the federal government.

Its membership is comprised of public, private and parochial schools which pay no membership dues or tournament entry fees, making it one of just two such associations nationally to not accept membership dues or tournament entry fees from schools.

More than 90 percent of the MHSAA's revenue is from the sale of tickets at district, regional and final tournaments. The MHSAA receives no funding from schools' regular-season competition.

The MHSAA's other source of funding is registration fees for contest officials, sponsorships and advertising, and investment income.

The primary function of the association is to conduct postseason tournaments and to help member schools have rules and regulations to follow and enforce locally to promote equitable competition.

Making sure the MHSAA's rules are enforced is a 19-member representative council.

The council which includes various athletic directors, principals and administrators of athletics, has the authority and responsibility to consider proposals for minimum standards for rules governing student eligibility and maximum limitations of rules regulating the competition between schools which choose to join the MHSAA and participate in its tournaments.

A total of 14 of the representative council's 19 members are elected directly by the schools involved.

Five represent Class A and B schools from various regions of the state; four represent Class C and D schools and two are elected at-large from across the state. Two more are elected to represent junior high/middle schools and one is elected to represent nonpublic schools statewide.

Actual playing rules for most sports involved are set up by the National Federation of State High School Associations.

The MHSAA has been the governing party of its member high schools since 1924.

For close to a century, the MHSAA has built an organization that promotes sportsmanship, scholarship, safety and a sensible scope in school sports through the values of communication, respect, integrity and excellence, with the mission of reinforcing the educational philosophy of school-sponsored sports.

Various Michigan High School Coaches Associations affiliated with the MHSAA includes the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association, Basketball Coaches Association of Michigan, Michigan High School Interscholastic Bowling Coaches Association, Michigan High School Football Coaches Association, Michigan Interscholastic Golf Coaches Association, Michigan High School Gymnastics Coaches Association, Michigan High School Hockey Coaches Association, Michigan State Lacrosse Coaches Association, Michigan High School Ski Coaches Association, Michigan High School Soccer Coaches Association, Michigan High School Softball Coaches Association, Michigan Interscholastic Swimming Coaches Association, Michigan High School Tennis Coaches Association, Michigan Interscholastic Track Coaches Association, Michigan Interscholastic Volleyball Coaches Association and the Michigan Wrestling Coaches Association.

It's been estimated approximately 1.6 million spectators watch various MHSAA events each year.

CHARLEVOIX — Unlike last year, this time there will be a parade on the Fourth of July in Charlevoix, after all.

After 2013's parade on July 4 fizzled, and then this year's Memorial Day parade disintegrated into a simple memorial service in Veterans Park, a couple of local guys decided they won't stand for it.

"That won't happen again," said Gary Stutzman, Charlevoix City Band director.

So, he and Joe Seidel put together a six-block parade that will be filled with patriotic music and colors. It will begin at 10 a.m. Friday, July 4, at CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix County voters will decide in November whether to renew for four years a millage that funds Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan.

A 6-0 vote by the county's board of commissioners Wednesday night ensured the measure will be on the ballot this fall. The millage proposal is unchanged at .75 mills, or 75 cents per $1,000 of taxable value. It will raise almost $1.5 million in its first year, according to a county report.

"I truly appreciate the trust you have in Grandvue to take care of the county's most vulnerable residents and look forward to serving the community for many more years," facility administrator Carol Timmer said to the commissioners before the vote.

Home to 113 residents, Grandvue is owned by Charlevoix County and governed by the county Department of Human Services Board. It is one of 36 county medical care facilities in the state, providing skilled nurses around the clock to its residents. Grandvue offers long-term and rehabilitative services and specializes in care for those with memory deficits.

Timmer said the facility has earned a five-star rating from the U.S. Centers for Medicare and Medicaid, a status achieved by only about 15 percent of the country's nursing homes.

Grandvue's revamped dining experience, which eliminated scheduled meals and assigned seating plans in favor of a more casual on-demand setup, has also been recognized as among the industry's best practices. The dining room remains open throughout the day for residents to come and go whenever they

Raica named bishop of Gaylord Diocese

KURT J. KOLKA
GAYLORD HERALD-TIMES

GAYLORD — The Roman Catholic Diocese of Gaylord announced Friday Pope Francis' appointment of Monsignor Steven J. Raica as the fifth bishop of the diocese.

Raica currently serves as the chancellor of the Diocese of Lansing. The bishop-elect is scheduled to be consecrated and installed on Thursday, Aug. 28.

"Pope Francis, through his words and gestures, demonstrated that we have a God of surprises and a church that is full of surprises," Raica said. "My being here is one of them."

Throughout his brief speech to attendees at a Friday press conference, Raica continued to express his surprise at the appointment. He had received the call a couple weeks ago and had to wonder if he was dreaming. Prior to this, he had been looking forward to returning to a parish.

Raica stated he had finally "come here recognizing that all my life thus far has prepared me to say 'yes' to the proposal of the Holy Father that was conveyed by the Apostolic Nuncio." Raica said he had ironically known all of the previous bishops of the Gaylord Diocese in one degree or another: Cardinal Edmund C. Szoka (1971-1981), Bishop Robert J. Rose (1981-1989), the late Bishop Patrick R. Cooney (1989-2009) and Archbishop Bernard A. Hebda (2009-2013). In fact, Hebda was one of Raica's classmates.

"Knowing Bishop-elect Raica to be a man of prayer, an engaging preacher, an excellent administrator and a fine friend to many, I am confident that he will be an exceptionally fine bishop," Hebda said in his own press release.

Raica was born on Nov. 8, 1952, to Mary (Tarro) and the late Steven J. Raica in Munising. He holds a Bachelor of Arts in mathematics and secondary education from Michigan State University and earned a Master of Divinity degree from St. John Provincial Seminary in Plymouth.

He was ordained a priest in 1978 by Bishop Kenneth Povish, third bishop of Lansing. Raica spent several years serving as a priest in Michigan.

He was sent to Rome to complete Licentiate Studies in Canon Law and

New DVD film released about famed Charlevoix resident

DANIELLE MCINTOSH
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Explore the history of Charlevoix through the eyes of long-time resident, businessman, Great Lakes captain, artist and historian, Peter Donald Campbell, in a DVD recently released by his family.

After four years of hard work, Barbara Adams and her filmmaker husband, Mike, proudly announced the completion of a 53-minute DVD on the life and times of her grandfather, P.D. Campbell.

Campbell is best known for his published book the "History of Bridge Street," an account of the town as he knew it in the early 1900s. Locals may recognize the name from the Campbell Boot Shop owned by the family for many years in downtown Charlevoix.

The film is narrated by one of his daughters, Julie Anne Bandfield — now 87 — and includes short interviews with other family members and local historians.

Adams, who also does some narrating in the film, noted that she was thrilled to make the film in an effort to continue his legacy which he left behind in a large collection of writings, photos, home movies and paintings.

According to a website dedicated to his life, he prefaced his memoirs and said, "Now, at the age of 60, I feel that I would like to record a few of the highlights of my life to leave to my daughters ..."

Campbell moved to the quaint lake-side town when he was 8 years old after his father, Peter Dougall Campbell, secured a contract to deliver mail from Charlevoix to Beaver Island.

Adams explained that her grandfather had many stories to tell and referred to him as "well-rounded."

Impressive may be a better word.

Campbell graduated from Michigan State University with an engineering degree. He served as a captain in World War I; after returning to Charlevoix commanded ships on the Great Lakes and later went on to own a successful business. In his free time, he created oil paintings of scenes from the nautical scene and kept a diary of his life and memories.

He romanticized life on the water. Campbell wrote, "The roaring sea rolls into the sandy and rock strewn beaches of Michigan. As I stand with my face into the wind, contemplating the eternal travel of the waves toward the shore, I think back to the years that have passed, and thank my eternal Master above who has bestowed upon me the great privilege that has been mine, those years lived beside the waters of Lake Michigan." Most of his paintings depicted ships and sailboats on Round Lake and Lake Michigan.

And above all of this, he was a family man. According to his website biography, he married Julia Corlett in 1915. His first daughter Margaret Jeannette was born in 1919 and Julia Anne (Bandfield) in 1927. After the passing of his late wife, he remarried Mildred Graham in 1955. He had grandchildren stemming from both marriages.

Adams was close with her grandfather who passed when she was just 14 years old.

"It was still one of the biggest blows of my life to date," she said.

The film now available on DVD from the Charlevoix Historical Society can also be viewed on YouTube. The local

WALLOON LAKEConservancy preserves local watersheds*ERICA RAKOWICZ
NEWS-REVIEW

WALLOON LAKE — The Walloon Lake Trust and Conservancy installed new interpretive signs at the Postle Farm Preserve in the Walloon Lake watershed to update its trail systems.

"This vision includes better and more accessible trails for a wide variety of ability levels, new entrance and parking and historical interpretive installation regarding the farm and the region," said Heather Huffstutler, land protection specialist at Walloon Lake Trust and Conservancy.

The plan is for the Postle Farm Preserve and other Walloon Lake Trust and Conservancy reserves to facilitate educational tours for both students and interested groups.

Jack Postle is a longtime supporter of the conservancy and formerly owned the land. He remembered blackberry pastures on the land from when it was his and is happy to know there is a desire to maintain the property.

Betty Padgett Goldsmith also grew up on the land and said she is also pleased to see the preservation efforts.

The interpretive signs detail the forest along the trails, the wetlands and the pastures seen throughout the preserve, acting as a guide to the different available trails as well as the habitats and features protected within it.

"I urge you to take the opportunity this summer to visit a preserve, meet our staff and visit the volunteers who will be talking about our work," said Robert Bessette, president of the Walloon Lake Trust and Conservancy.

The Walloon Lake Trust and Conservancy cares about educating their members, staff, contributors, volunteers and the public about their mission and plans to maintain and continue their efforts. The preserves accommodate those interested in the environmental aspect and hope soon they'll be able to better reach out to those who are historically inclined, too.

The Postle Farm Preserve's plan is to gather historical photos from the farm in order to make an informational display to be laid out around the barn on the property.

This will add another asset to the preserve and open up a clearer display of the history, said Huffstutler.

"We're currently building a program that would increase the visibility of three or four farms, including the Postle Farm Preserve," said Huffstutler.

This would mean better road access for driving and parking and additional wayfinding, he added.

"We're investigating ways to get more exposure," said Judy Reynolds, chairperson of the stewardship committee and board of directors.

"These preserves should be showcased in the community," she said.

The conservancy has started exploring ways to formalize the educational aspect of the preserves. It also plans to invite field biology classes and field science classes to the watershed to explore and learn.

For more information, visit www.walloon.org online.

New Horizons offers alternative opportunities

ERICA RANOWICZ
NEWS-REVIEW

BOYNE CITY — New Horizons, a Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District operated program, is set in place to assist pregnant and parenting teens to finish their high school education.

This offering allows for students to choose from four programs, tailored to the individual student's needs. The New Horizons center is located in Boyne City.

The four available options are: a home-based program, a four day alternative school-based program with a day care center, an alternative five day school-based program or attendance at their local high school.

The program, dating back more than 30 years, has taken shape to accommodate the students it incorporates.

"It has evolved over the years but the goals are the same in the sense that we want to allow these students to obtain a high school diploma and at the same time make sure the infant or infants are well cared for," said Dianne Litzenburger, director of communication services for Charlevoix-Emmet ISD.

programs attend New Horizons Center — are one day per week.

The program includes transportation, child care services and free breakfast and lunch for both the student and their child.

"We have really nice programs available," said Lynette Lillie, Charlevoix-Emmet ISD program manager.

Morning services often include women/infant/children (WIC) services from the health department, check ups, play groups, counseling and tutoring.

Afternoon activities range anywhere from workshop projects to guest speakers and educational field trips.

"We have great partners with the health department, a lot of community agencies and individuals and organizations that really help support these young girls and all of us want to make sure they get the education they need and that their children are raised well," Litzenburger said.

It's also important to offer support and services to fathers, added Lillie.

"She's taken it to a different approach," said Rick Diebold, superintendent at Char-Em ISD, of Lillie's outreach techniques.

"We work with a lot of other agencies and a lot of other people and make connections with these girls and help them get what they need," said Lillie. "They work hard. They have a baby at home and they're going to school. A lot of people don't realize how hard that is."

The program started this past academic year with 15 students enrolled. Lillie said she's expecting to start the coming academic year with about eight or nine students.

"We want to make sure those girls are getting what they need," said Lillie. "We do take anyone at anytime. They don't have to wait to the semester end."

New Horizons partners with Early Head Start to offer more resources to the students involved, said Lillie.

For more information on the program, visit www.charemisid.org or contact Lillie at (231) 582-8070.

Register this week if you plan to vote in Aug. 5 election

Voters have until Monday's deadline

CRAM CURRIER
NEWS-REVIEW

If you want to vote in the Tuesday, Aug. 5, statewide primary elections, you must be registered as a voter by Monday, July 7.

Otherwise, you'll have to sit on the sidelines until the Nov. 4 general election. Registration for the fall election closes Oct. 6.

If you're looking to register, forms can be obtained and submitted at a variety of locations including area township, city, county and state offices. Forms can also be obtained online at www.Michigan.gov/sos. You must be at least 18 years old, a U.S. citizen and resident of Michigan to register.

Voter turnout during primary elections is typically low, statistics show, though it can spike depending on the races and issues being decided. For the August 2012 primary, just one-fifth of Michigan's registered voters went to the polls.

Eligible voters will decide in August which local and state candidates advance to the general election. They'll also weigh in on Proposal 1, which if passed will cement the plan lawmakers have chosen to replace a tax on personal property.

Officials say the personal property tax slows business growth as it taxes equipment owned by companies and manufacturers. Money raised by the tax helps fund local government operations. Revenues lost will be replaced by a portion of the state's 6 percent use tax.

Experts say it's unlikely that issue alone will do much to boost turnout rates. There are interesting Republican primaries to be decided for a pair of state House districts and an area state Senate seat.

In the 105th House district, voters will choose between Republicans Triston Cole, Tony Cutler and Michael Vickory. There is no incumbent candidate in the 105th district because state Rep. Greg MacMaster, R-Kewadin, is campaigning for the 37th state Senate district seat. In the neighboring 107th district, state Rep. Frank Foster, R-Petoskey, is facing a hard-charging challenger in Levering Republican Lee Chatfield.

In the state Senate races, either MacMaster or state Rep. Wayne Schmidt, R-Traverse City, will move on to the general election in November and on the Democratic side Sault Ste. Marie resident Phil Bellfy faces off with Jimmy Schmidt, of Central Lake.

State records show about 20.4 percent of registered

A botany lesson

Sometimes the teacher in me takes over and I must communicate a little lesser-known information about plants.

Today's lesson is about bamboo. We don't have any bamboos growing outdoors in Michigan, except for maybe a few plants beside some conservatory. Our major contact with bamboo is most often with the little cans of bamboo shoot slices we use when making stir-fry. Floor coverings, much like wood veneers, are sometimes made of bamboo. But we might miss the great importance of bamboo to countries and cultures in more tropical parts of the world. It is a plant neglected in our thinking and our lives.

Bamboo is really just the world's tallest and largest grass plant. Imagine one of your backyard grass stalks nearly a foot in diameter and more than 100 feet tall. Imagine further that when the stalks begin growing they may elongate by as much as 3 feet per day. Further, bamboo is a clonal plant that spreads underground and may produce a 1,000 genetically identical stalks in a few years. If that seems to you like the sort of crop that might be useful and very productive, you would be right.

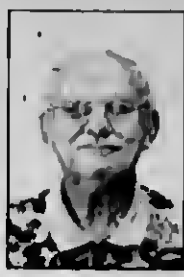

In parts of the world where bamboo grows well, the stalks are used for almost everything. A stand of bamboo can produce, four times as much pulp for making paper, compared to pine or poplar logs, and can be harvested on a three- or four-year cycle.

Ed Voss in his book, "Flora of Michigan," does not describe any bamboos found naturally in the state, although a few of the harder kinds could grow here. Worldwide, there are at least 600 kinds of bamboo, from the very largest to those found as small bushes or vines.

What use, besides food and floor coverings, has bamboo provided for us? Historically, Thomas Edison's first successful filaments for his new electric light bulb were made from bamboo fibers. When I was a child, every local hardware store had a bundle of simple bamboo poles useful for fishing with a string and a worm. Some of the most expensive fly rods in the world are made of a half-dozen carefully fitted bamboo strips. Some of the best and least expensive plant support poles are bamboo, and roll-up shades are sometimes still made of bamboo. The alternative for most of the common uses of bamboo is plastic of one sort or another. Bamboo is completely and quickly renewable, while the raw material for plastics is petroleum, which is certainly not renewable.

Some years ago, I had a botany student who was a fine oboe player. She made her own oboe reeds, and I was surprised to learn that the raw material came from a single, special clump of bamboo stalks growing in southern France. Apparently, nothing artificial could compare with those bamboo reeds. A concern to her and other oboe players was how that particular bamboo strain might not always be available. One of the peculiarities of many sorts of bamboo is that after years of producing stems of exactly the same sort, they will begin to flower and produce seed. After seed production, many bamboos die. If you were a bamboo farmer with 40 acres of a particularly valuable sort of bamboo, all identical, and you saw it begin to flower, you would be rightly worried. It is difficult to impossible to establish precisely the same bamboo plant after flowering.

EAR TO THE GROUND

I guess the lesson is, don't buy stock in an old, well-established bamboo farm. It may all flower and die next year. Despite some efforts by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, bamboo never became established as a reliable crop in our more southern states. Look up bamboo on the Internet. You are not likely to learn about the oboe reeds, but you never know what you might discover.

Roger Knutson is a professor emeritus of biology from Luther College in Decorah, Iowa, where he holds a master's degree and a doctorate from the botany department at Michigan State University.

Hayes is 'best' judge candidate

Editor:

I am writing to encourage the citizens of Charlevoix County to do their research before the upcoming Aug. 5 primary election. Our current Circuit Court Judge, Richard Pajtas, is retiring after nearly 30 years on the bench. It is very important to educate yourselves on the candidates' qualifications before choosing who fills this vital position in Charlevoix County. In my opinion, Roy C. "Joe"

Hayes is the candidate that best meets these qualifications. His resume, and 20-plus years of legal experience of practicing in the local, state and federal courts makes him the best candidate. The people within our court system, law enforcement, and the county building also agree. Joe has been endorsed by the Michigan Court Officers, retired Sheriff George Lasater, Retired Sheriff Don Hengesh, Michigan Court of Appeals Judge Peter O'Connell (who also lives in Boyne City) and retired Charlevoix County District Judge Richard W. May. This is a very important position in our community and it is our job, as registered voters, to make an informed decision in this race. Please, don't forget to cast your vote on Aug. 5 in the non-partisan ballot.

Thanks for the support for veterans

Editor:

The American Legion Post No. 226 and its auxiliary would like to express sincere thanks to all of those who supported our annual Poppy Days campaign this year. Our thanks to all of those members and their friends who helped display and offer the poppies to the public, our many thanks to the Elks Club members for their help, and our thanks to those merchants who were gracious enough to allow us to sell the poppies at their store fronts. Our thanks to all of the citizens who donated for the poppies they received.

The poppies are made by disabled hospital veterans and the funds received from the public for them during our Poppy Days each year are used to assist local veterans and their families.

Better marathon litter pickup needed

Editor:

I'm writing in regards to the Charlevoix Marathon held on Saturday, June 21. There was a lot of excitement in the air, and I'm sure this was great for area businesses, restaurants and hotels. I was pretty disappointed, when riding my bike the following day on the beautiful hike path between Charlevoix and Petoskey, to find the path strewn with water cups, jugs and empty foil packets of energy drinks. Shouldn't the organizers of these events be held accountable to clean up after their participants? Normally I ride or walk with a trash bag in hand to gather up trash, but unfortunately this time I didn't have one. Please let's all do our part in keeping Charlevoix beautiful!

LOOKING BACK...

The summer season is upon Charlevoix, and a vibrant East Park again will be put through its paces. So now is a good time to celebrate this crown jewel of our park system for providing such a beautiful venue for such a variety of events. What began in 1937 was a basic, barebones spread of lawn, bisected by a cement walk, dotted by a few trees, bushes, benches, shuffleboard courts, a bandstand or two, and a fish pond. The view over Round Lake provided most of the beauty. By the turn of the century, after so many years of intense use, East Park looked pretty scruffy around the edges. More dock space had long been needed to meet increased demand. After nine years of intense debate as to how to make a change properly and well, and following the elimination of the Mason Street extension to the waterfront along with its adjacent streetside buildings, in 2007 the park was ripped up from Clinton to Antrim streets. A massive, multi-million dollar renovation project began, achieved mainly in 2008. The marina was doubled in size. A few finishing touches were applied in 2009. In October of that year, so impressed was the American Planning Association by what Charlevoix had accomplished that on its annual list, alongside Lincoln Park in Chicago and the squares of Savannah, Georgia, our East Park and marina complex was named one of the 10 best public spaces in the United States.

Keith Haske fundraiser game set for July 27

STEVE POLEY
NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Keith Haske left a legacy at Charlevoix High School during his stellar 13 seasons with the Rayders.

Now, the former Rayder boys and girls varsity basketball coach finds himself battling something else than another opponent on the floor.

He's battling throat cancer.

Haske, 56, was diagnosed in May and has decided to get treatment at one of the best throat cancer facilities in Houston, Texas, where he and his wife are residing for the months of June and July.

His former Rayder family is giving back to Haske, as a Haske alumni basketball fundraiser is set for 1 p.m. Sunday, July 27, at the Charlevoix High School gym. The game is open to any former player (boys or girls) who played under Haske at Charlevoix or Traverse City St. Francis.

"It's the Sunday after Venetian so we hope a lot of people will still be around," event coordinator Liz Shaw said. "It's open to any player who's played for him either in Charlevoix or at St. Francis."

Also, a Keith Haske benefit account has been set up through Charlevoix State Bank, while a silent auction and bake sale is also planned at the game and possibly at Venetian.

All proceeds made will help the Haske family with medical bills and expenses.

"The neatest thing I've come across with inviting these young men back is their utmost respect and admiration for coach Haske," Shaw said. "Basically, these guys would give an arm or leg to him if they could. It's a great way for them to show they care. I know they can't trade places with him, but I know they would if they could."

Haske was one of the most successful basketball coaches in Northern Michigan and left behind an incredible legacy at Charlevoix. He came to Charlevoix from St. Johns and took over the Rayder program in 1998. In 13 seasons, he guided the Rayders to 10 Class C district championships, six regional titles, four state semifinal appearances and state runner-up berths in 2001 and 2004.

He compiled a 239-78 record (.753 winning percentage) and led Charlevoix to four Lake Michigan Conference championships and five runner-up finishes. The Rayders tied for fifth place in the league in Haske's first year in 1997-98, and never finished below third thereafter.

He also coached the Charlevoix girls' program from 2004-06, leading the Rayders to a 27-1 record and state runner-up finish in 2004.

At St. Francis, where he took over in 2010, Haske guided the Gladiator boys team to a state runner-up finish in 2012.

To donate to the silent auction or for more information, contact Shaw at lshaw@rayder.net.

"He's (Haske) given me so much over the years. I've worked with him for seven years and coached under him for three," Shaw said. "He has positively impacted so many people's life both young and old including mine."

Gretchen Olsen and Melissa Keiswetter serve as Hestia reception hostesses.

Hestia distributes record grants

With a beautiful view of Little Traverse Bay as a backdrop, the annual meeting of the Hestia Women's Giving Circle on June 16 at the home of Melissa Keiswetter, who hosted the event with Gretchen Olsen, drew more than 40 members, guests and grantees.

Outgoing Chair Christine Carpenter reminded the group of the Circle's mission "to promote economic self-sufficiency and well-being for women and girls." She noted that since the organization started making grants in 2007, more than $270,000 in grants have been made, including $109,000 to Planned Parenthood and $77,000 to the Women's Resource Center.

This year a record $37,200 was distributed to Big Brothers/Big Sisters, First Tee Program, North Country Kids, Petoskey Area Hockey Association (girls' team), Women's Resource Center Education and Employment Service Program, Petoskey Public Schools Debate Program, Raven Hill Discovery Center, Voices without Borders, and Planned Parenthood of Western Northern Michigan. In addition to receiving their check, each recipient had the opportunity to tell the group how the money would be used.

Three members of the hockey team, dressed in their "Piranha" jerseys, and the Petoskey Debate Team state champion were among the grant recipients. But the highlight of the evening was the uplifting presentation of Shelley Paulsen, nurse practitioner of the Planned Parenthood Petoskey office. She explained that there are many women who rely on Planned Parenthood for their only medical care in the course of a year. In addition to primary annual exams, she is able to provide follow-up care to many who would otherwise be unable to afford it, thanks to the equipment and training the clinic purchased several years ago with Hestia grants. Paulsen said that because of the Hestia grants, no one is denied service because of an inability to pay.

Membership in Hestia is $1,000 per year, and two people can share a membership to make it more affordable. The funds are pooled and all members are invited to serve on the group's grant committee, which is chaired by Mary Jean Meyerson. Women interested learning more about the Hestia Women's Giving Circle are encouraged to contact the new chairwoman, Denise Simon, at (231) 526-9302. The organization can be found on Facebook and on the website of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation at www.c3f.org/grants-scholarships/hestia-womens-giving-circle.html online.

Sheriff, safety director awarded

LANSING — Fight Crime: Invest in Kids Michigan is a statewide crime prevention nonprofit organization led by more than 500 of Michigan's best-known police chiefs, sheriffs, prosecutors and crime survivors, which recently honored at a training conference in Antrim County two northwestern Michigan leaders — Petoskey Public Safety Director John Calabrese and Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider — with the 2014 Crime Fighter Award.

"Preventing crime at the front end is in each community's best interest and in the best interest of our children. Fight Crime is honored to convey its 2014 'Crime Fighter Award' to both Sheriff Schneider and Director Calabrese for their outstanding support and leadership on behalf of investments in child abuse and neglect prevention, high-quality preschool, and high-quality after-school programs," said K.P. Pelleran, state director of Fight Crime: Invest in Kids Michigan. Pelleran added, "Since joining Fight Crime: Invest in Kids, Sheriff Schneider and Director Calabrese have been constant voices for these proven investments that have helped lead children to success and opportunity, rather than letting them slip to delinquency. They have both taken leadership roles in our Fight Crime-sponsored 'Community Conversations' and site visits to early childhood education centers where they shared the benefits of these important programs with lawmakers and community leaders. Their efforts have encouraged lawmakers to increase state funding by 133 percent for Great Start Readiness Program over the past two years. This ensures that all eligible Michigan

4-year-olds will have access to high-quality preschool. The members of Fight Crime: Invest in Kids Michigan are honored to convey the 2014 'Crime Fighter Award' to both Sheriff Schneider and Director Calabrese for their distinguished leadership to encourage lawmakers to support these proven prevention programs."

OBITUARIES

Teresa Janet O'Donnell

Teresa Janet O'Donnell, of Beaver Island, while surrounded by her loving husband and family, left her Beaver Island home to touch the face of God on Friday, June 27, 2014.

Janet was born in Charlevoix on July 24, 1934, the daughter of "Young James" William and Margaret Bridget "Teresa" (Boyle) Gallagher. Janet graduated in 1952 from St. James High before receiving her degree in education from Aquinas College. She was united in marriage on July 5, 1958, to Richard D. O'Donnell, son of Francis "Frank" Daniel and Helen "Nellie" (McDonough) O'Donnell. She and Richie were blessed with their family of six children.

Janet is survived by her husband, Richie of Beaver Island; children, Diane (David) Westnaas of Allendale, Michael (Anne) O'Donnell of Traverse City, Judy (Michael) Crowell of Lake St. Louis, Mo., William (Kendra) O'Donnell of Allendale, Barbara Flowers of Kentwood and Ronda (Curt) Alber of Grand Rapids; grandchildren, Charlie (Ashlie) Flipse, Kelly Flipse, Josh, Heather and Ronnie O'Donnell, Olivia, Chrissy and Brendan Crowell, Lindsey and Megan O'Donnell.

Brittney, Garritt, Kaleigh, Colton Flowers; great-grandson, Jordan Flipse; her sister, Eleanor McDonough of Charlevoix; brother, Brian (Dee) Gallagher of Beaver Island; sisters-in-law, Muggs (Bob) Bass, Beverly (Gary) Cantwell and Carol (Doug) Bunting; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Janet was preceded in death by her parents, James and Teresa Gallagher, as well as her angels Bailey Lott and Nadia Flowers.

Janet began teaching at the young age of 21 and continued until bringing home their darling daughter Diane. She began her second amazing career as a stay-at-home mom where she was gainfully employed until her passing. She was always happiest giving and sharing with her family.

While in Grand Rapids, Janet and Richie were parishioners at St. John Vianney Catholic Church. She volunteered her time, talents and treasures to both the church and school. She invested her energy in many charities including the March of Dimes and the American Heart Association. She was an original member of the Beaver Island Club of Grand Rapids, which has contributed to countless Island projects and organizations.

Richie and Janet retired, sold their house, and returned home to Beaver Island.

land. They became parishioners of Holy Cross Catholic Church on Beaver Island and she was an active member in the Altar Society. She worked tirelessly for the Museums of Beaver Island as well as the Beaver Island Fire Department Auxiliary (Island Treasures). Her fondness of the Red Hat Ladies showed in her enjoyment of each outing. She and Richie enjoyed spending their winters in Florida but nothing made her happier than her grandchildren and great-grandchild. Each one was special and dear to her. She cherished the times they shared together. She was a child of her Savior, Jesus, and enjoyed His "Our Father" that he provided to each of us.

Visitation and rosary was held at Holy Cross Catholic Church on Sunday, June 29. A funeral Mass, with the Rev. Jim Doherty presiding, was held at noon on Monday, June 30. Janet was laid to rest at Holy Cross Cemetery.

It was her wish, while shaking her finger, there be "no flowers... absolutely none." So in lieu of flowers, Janet wished memorial contributions be made to any of the following organizations: Beaver Island Hospice, the Beaver Island Fire Department Auxiliary (Island Treasures), or the Beaver Island Cemetery.

Sign Janet's guestbook at www.winchesterfuneralhome.com.

Wilmer C. Glenn, D.O.

Dr. Wilmer C. Glenn, 90, of Bellaire, Mich., passed away peacefully on June 24, 2014, at Meadow Brook Medical Care Facility, Bill, or "Doc", as known to most, was born on Dec. 21, 1923, in Rockford, Ill., the son of Percy and Marnie (Berthie) Glenn.

After graduating from West High School, Rockford, Ill., in 1942, he began his college education at Beloit College in Beloit, Wis. After one year, he left college to serve our country in World War II as a medic in the 44th Infantry Division, 119th Medical Battalion. Before leaving for the war, he married his high school sweetheart, Clara Lou Stiles. They were married for 62 years at the time of her death in 2006. After serving in France, Austria and Germany, Bill returned and resumed his education. He received his degree and then taught math and science at Winslow High School for two years. His experiences during the war gave him the desire to become a physician.

After graduating from Kirkville College of Osteopathy and Surgery in 1954 and upon completing an internship in Traverse City, he started his medical practice in Bellaire. He loved being a doctor and serving the community at his Bellaire Clinic and later as a part of Burns Clinic until he retired in 1988. Even in retirement, he continued to see patients in the summer for the next 10 years. He was an FAA Flight Examiner for more than 25 years and was honored to be an assistant clinical professor for Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine.

Bill had a love of music. He started singing in high school and continued being a member of various choirs throughout his life. He also played the tuba and string bass with hands in Charlevoix and East Jordan well into his 80s. Bill was a member of "Windjammers," an international organization of musicians who gathered twice a year to perform, record and preserve traditional circus music. While in Sarasota, Fla., he played with the Shriners Band.

Many of Bill's days were spent boating, being on or near the water and sailboat racing on "Peregrine" with his crew and son, Jeff. He and Clara Lou traveled extensively over the years for both business and pleasure. They were able to see all the contiguous 48 states and much of Canada in their motorhome. Bill also enjoyed gardening and woodworking. A fishing pole was always within reach and he even caught three fish from his wheelchair at the Meadow Brook pond only eight days before his death.

Bill was a member of the American Legion Post No. 247, Bellaire Lions Club, Bellaire Masonic Lodge, Shriners International, Bellaire Community United Methodist Church and the Michigan Osteopathic Association.

Survivors include his children, Karen (Bob) Joslyn of Grosse Pointe Farms, Barbara (Tom) Naumes of Bellaire, Mary Beth (Mark) Arwady of Algonac and Jeffrey (Katie) Glenn of Charlevoix; grandchildren, Wendy (Derek) Pilling of Cherry Hills-Village, Colo., Bryan Naumes of Bellaire, Rob (Natasha) Joslyn of Centennial, Colo., Scott (Darcy) Naumes of Bellaire, Bethany (Jason) Smith of Traverse City and Grace and Charlie Glenn of Charlevoix; great-grandchildren, Sophia, Anna and Reid Pilling, Emilia Joslyn, and Dylan and Clara Smith; and sisters-in-law, Marguerite Glenn of Rockford, Ill., and May Stiles of Albuquerque, N.M.; along with many beloved nieces and nephews. He also leaves behind the many new friends he made at Meadow Brook who took such loving and wonderful care of him over the past year. He will be missed as well by his little dog, BB.

Dr. Glenn was predeceased by his parents; his beloved wife, Clara Lou; and his brother, Bob Glenn.

The family welcomes friends to join in celebrating Bill's life. A memorial service will take place at 11 a.m. Friday, July 18, at the Bellaire Community United Methodist Church.

In lieu of flowers, contributions can be made in his name to the American Red Cross Disaster Relief, 1800 East Grand River Ave., Lansing, MI 48912; or the Antrim County Commission on Aging, Box 614, Bellaire, MI 49615-0614.

New restaurant Quay opens downtown

Terrace maintained on third floor, fine dining on first two levels

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix's newest Bridge Street restaurant — Quay — is in the former Whitneys spot and boasts among the best views of Round Lake and the city harbor from all three floors.

The first two floors offer an upscale white tablecloth, fine-dining atmosphere, while the third floor sports a casual, fresh air bar and pub menu with a spectacular view and a more relaxed setting for cocktails and dining.

Owner Eric Hodgson is not new to the restaurant scene. He also owns and operates four Beaver Island establishments, including The Shamrock, The Beaver Island Lodge, The Harbor Market and The Beach-comber Bar. A Charlevoix native, Hodgson said he is enthusiastic about bringing his upscale and trendy restaurant into the community.

"We don't want visitors to Charlevoix leaving town to try something different for dinner," he said. "I feel that we're offering an experience unlike any other restaurant in town. This is good for everyone. It gives visitors one more selection and hopefully will keep them here. Charlevoix needs to have the reputation of being a dining destination with a variety of choices. When you make the pie bigger, you get a bigger piece of pie."

Quay has a histro-esque atmosphere and serves up a menu of traditional and regional favorites, with an infusion of flavors from all over the world at a medium price point.

"We feature what we refer to as new American cuisine," Hodgson said.

Dinners range from $20-30 a la carte; lunches include small plates, salads and sandwiches at moderate prices that are comparable to other local restaurants.

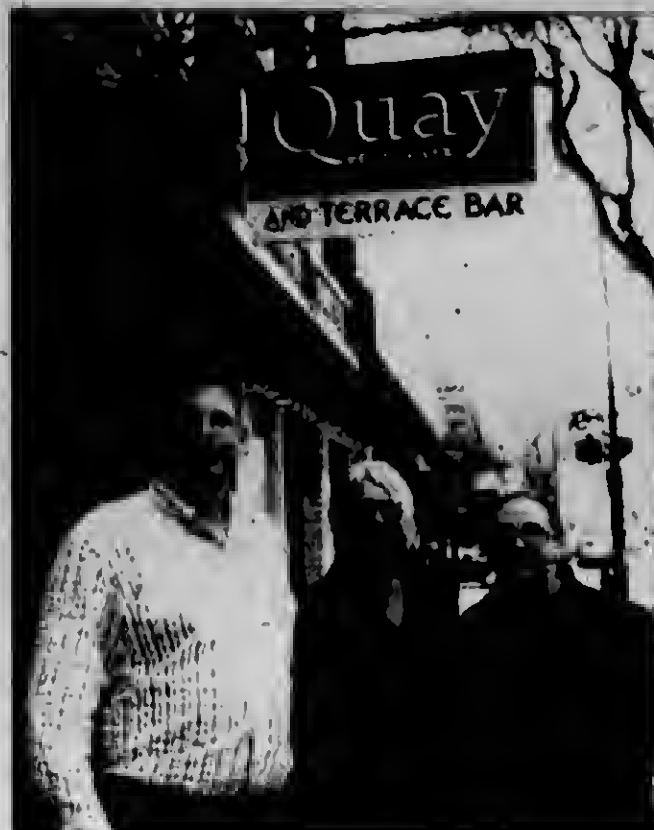

Dining room supervisor Katherine Curtis said she looks forward to a great summer.

"We are training our staff to be attentive to our customers and never leave their table unattended," she said. "It's nice to say you're proud to work here."

Bar manager Melissa Agawa also said she is enthusiastic.

"The food is just spectacular," she said. "It's culinary artistry. The bar has also been refurbished and mirrors

Event set for July 12

BOYNE FALLS — Boyne Outfitters at Boyne Mountain Resort is hosting the second annual Michigan Fly Fishing Festival on Saturday, July 12, an event which brings together fly fishing vendors with complimentary casting clinics and guest speakers, fly fishing and casting competitions, a barbecue and live musical entertainment.

Festival-goers can browse gear and talk with representatives from several premier fly fishing manufacturers and vendors from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. on Saturday. The vendors, located in the day skier lot near the Mountain Grand Lodge, feature rods, reels, flies, clothing, art, tools and much more.

Event-goers can listen in at 11:15 a.m. when Boyne Outfitters' director of operations Ethan Winchester will share information and tips about fly fishing in Michigan's Tip of the Mitt. At 2:15 p.m., Glen Blackwood of Great Lakes Fly Fishing Co. will lead a discussion on fly casting fundamentals for fiberglass and bamboo rods. At the tying bench, Tommy Lynch from The Fish Whisperer Guide Service will showcase his signature fly patterns.

A trout pond single fly competition takes place from 1-2 p.m. at the Mountain Grand Lodge pond. The entry fee is $5 and the angler with the most inches caught in one hour from a single fly wins a fly fishing gift.

Longtime art teacher retires

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Mary Beth McGraw, retiring Charlevoix Elementary School art teacher, gave each of her students a gift of a sketch pad when she said goodbye to them in June. An inscription on the gift books was a reference to something she always taught them — that "every great invention started with a single drawing."

Along with teaching hundreds of students the principles of art and design over the span of her career, she was dedicated to imparting the philosophy that while "the three R's provide the knowledge to survive, the arts make survival worthwhile."

McGraw's success as an art teacher is grounded

Education paraprofessional to retire

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Paraprofessionals are often the unsung heroes in a school system. Working in tandem with teachers, special needs students and parents, "paraprofessionals" offer a service that fills in an always present gap between students who need an extra boost and the mainstream.

Paraprofessionals work one-on-one with severely or moderately handicapped children, provide tutorial support for classroom work in learning centers, assist in preschool readiness programs and man "focus rooms" for time-out students who are having difficulty with behavior issues.

Cindy Whitley spent her 21-year career as a paraprofessional in all of these roles. She provided professional expertise along with a smiling face, a big heart and a listening ear for many students who found themselves in one of these scenarios.

In 2010, she was honored at the annual Outstanding Person in Education (OPIE) Awards night by the Charlevoix Education Association. For her last 15 years of service, Whitley served as vice-president, then president of the Educational Support Program (ESP). She was also honored five years ago by former superintendent Chet Janick, for saving the life of a middle school student by performing the Heimlich maneuver when a Focus Room student choked on a bread stick at lunch.

"We are all trained to do the Heimlich. I was just in the right place at the right time," said Whitley, who previously used the technique on another student at the elementary school.

"I just reacted and did it, and then later shook like a leaf."

She began her career in 1992 with the Charlevoix-Fennel Intermediate School District (Char-Em ISD); her experience with Char-Em included working one-on-one as a facilitator with several special needs children, both on the high school and elementary levels, and serving as an assistant in the BEFORE Readiness Program.

In 1995, Charlevoix Public Schools hired Whitley to work with a severely disabled child whom she followed for the student's elementary school years. During that time, she learned sign language so she could communicate with the student, and then taught adult sign language in the school's adult education evening classes. In 1999, she worked in the learning center side-by-side with special education teacher

Two decade-plus ride with Charlevoix Schools

Transportation director retires after 28 years

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — 28-28 is how Gordon "Gordy" Russell sums up his career with the Charlevoix Public School District as transportation supervisor.

"I was 28 years old when I was hired and I am now, retiring after 28 years of service," Russell said. "I think Gordon Vanwieren (former school superintendent) thought I was a little young for the job at the time. But I worked with retiring Bud Harris for four days and then took over. I worked hard and overall, it's been a great job."

A transportation supervisor is normally not in the spotlight unless something goes wrong, or so says Russell.

"You don't get a lot of appreciation or recognition that is given to other positions in education."

But it's a behind-the-scenes job that is absolutely essential to keep the schools running — both effectively and on time. With many drivers, bus runs and students being delivered to various places on various days, the supervisor must make sure that "no child is left behind" and that all the buses get where they need to be in a timely manner.

No one knows this better than Ken Rogers, who will assume Russell's position as he retires. Rogers worked together with Russell for 27 of his 28 years.

first as a substitute driver on the fleet and full-time for the last 11 years in the garage. He spoke highly of Russell at a recent retirement party.

"There is a lot of stress and responsibility with this job," he said. "You have to keep all the buses moving safely and on time. There's a lot more to it than most people realize. There's a budget to work with, employees to be trained and evaluated, equipment to be maintained and repaired. You work with administrators, teachers, parents and kids. You get up early to check the roads to make sure that it is safe for the buses to run."

"Gordy was able to handle everything with a minimum of complaints: all the judgment calls, especially when it came to weather issues, and dealing with any driver or student issues on the buses. He worked with a fleet of 12 regular drivers and six subs — and did it really well," Rogers said.

Russell

Russell said he will especially remember his field trips.

"As a driver on the school excursions, you are able to attend a lot of events with the students. I feel that I always had a good rapport with the teachers and their students and enjoyed being part of their field trips," Russell said. "The most exciting trips, of course, were the state final basketball tournaments to East Lansing for both the boys and the girls' teams, and accompanying the performing arts students under Connie Ford downstate for performances."

Russell said he is grateful for his years working with many good people, and for the students who "kept me young," he said. "I'm thankful that I could be part of it."

As for looking ahead, Russell will continue to work part-time, driving a bus for Rogers. He also maintains a car restoration hobby that will be given a little more attention. When his wife, Sharon, retires in a couple of years, the pair may move to Florida where Russell intends to fulfill a long-time driving dream.

"My dream job would be to drive a bus at Disney World," said Russell.

Perhaps that would be an ideal conclusion to a career centered around both buses and children.

Irene Cohen. She subsequently became the Focus Room coordinator, first at the elementary school and finally at Charlevoix Middle School, from which she retired in 2013 after it moved to the present High School building.

Part time, during these years, she also spent time with St. Mary School's remedial reading students and in the media center.

"I loved my job," Whitley said. "My favorite thing was working in the Focus Room with emotionally needy kids. All they needed most of the time was a safe place to get away from the classroom, settle down and have someone to listen to them."

Whitley, along with her husband, Ed, now splits her time between their home on Lake Charlevoix and a family home in Florida. In the summer, she can be found working at her family-owned business, the Argonne Supper Club on Boyne City-Charlevoix Road.

was a first place winner, placed best of show and placed three years in a row in the annual Dow-Corning Christmas Card Design Contest. Her first place activity scene constructed with springs, nuts and bolts, wires and twine was chosen for the honor when she was in 10th grade, and also her "Best of Show Madonna" done in the lost wax technique of sculpture, designed as a 12th-grader, were both chosen to be printed as the official corporation Christmas card distributed internationally by Dow-Corning.

In 2005, McGraw was voted by her colleagues to be the Charlevoix Education Association's — the local Michigan Education Association affiliate — "Outstanding Person in Education" at its annual O.P.I.E. Awards ceremony. In 2008, she was awarded the Crooked Tree Arts Council's prestigious "Eddi Award," given in recognition of "an individual who has provided extraordinary leadership and creativity in advancing arts and cultural education in Charlevoix and Emmet counties."

McGraw headed two nonprofit organizations:

The Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair Committee and its tandem organization the Charlevoix Council for the Arts since 1981. She, along with her committee, brings the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair to East Park the second Saturday in August each year, an event at which notable artists and artisans from Michigan and all over the country display and sell their work. All profits from this annual event are channeled through The Charlevoix Council for the Arts, which support art exposure, experiences and performances throughout the year to the schools and community. In addition, each year the council awards scholarships to promising art students who are accepted to a college or university art program. To date, more than 50 scholarships to total $60,000 have been awarded.

"I feel very fortunate that I could do something in my career that I believe in. I believe in art and in public education where I think that amazing things are happening. I am grateful for my mentors and for all the people that I have been privileged to work with over the years. Most of all, I am grateful for the support the community has given to me and the art program," McGraw said.

She continued to keep the fire of her own talents stoked in her spare time. McGraw designed props and scenery for Marina LaBlance's renowned elementary school musicals for more than 25 years. She designed candles for Bull-Frog Candle Co. and has provided graphic design service by consignment. For five years, she co-owned Signature Gallery on Bridge Street with the late LaBlance, where the two operated a gallery of fine art and even hosted an Andy Warhol show.

As for retirement, McGraw received many invitations to work or volunteer in the community, but she hopes to step back and get caught up before committing — in travel and spending time with her extended McGraw family, enjoying her garden and doing more art.

"I have spent 60 percent of my life as an art teacher," she said. "What does a retired art teacher do?"

She said she is ready to find out. McGraw always told her students to imagine great things. She hopes to do that herself as she moves forward with art in her life, she said.

the intersection of Bridge and Garfield, then proceed down Bridge Street.

"After the Memorial Day celebration, (we) decided to do something," said Seidel, the post commander for Charlevoix's American Legion Post No. 226.

A color guard will present the flag after the parade stops at the clock in East Park. In the parade will be a special music-oriented float by the Charlevoix City Band, Stutzman said.

"It's celebrating how there has been music in Charlevoix in the summers for well more than 100 years," he said.

The float will be a historic replica of the 1891 Charlevoix Cigar Co. Band float, from the time in the city's history when local companies sponsored bands that regularly competed against each other — more than 120 years ago.

Patriotic music can be expected from the historic band. While the color guard will be comprised of members of the local American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Marine Corps League, organizers said.

Three Rayder baseball players named Division III All-State

DREW KOCHANNY
NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — When you're good, people tend to notice.

Over the past two years, coaches throughout the state of Michigan have noticed the Charlevoix baseball team as witnessed by their postseason honors.

The Rayders earned two Division III All-State honors a season ago, only to be recently trumped with three players earning All-State recognition by the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association this season.

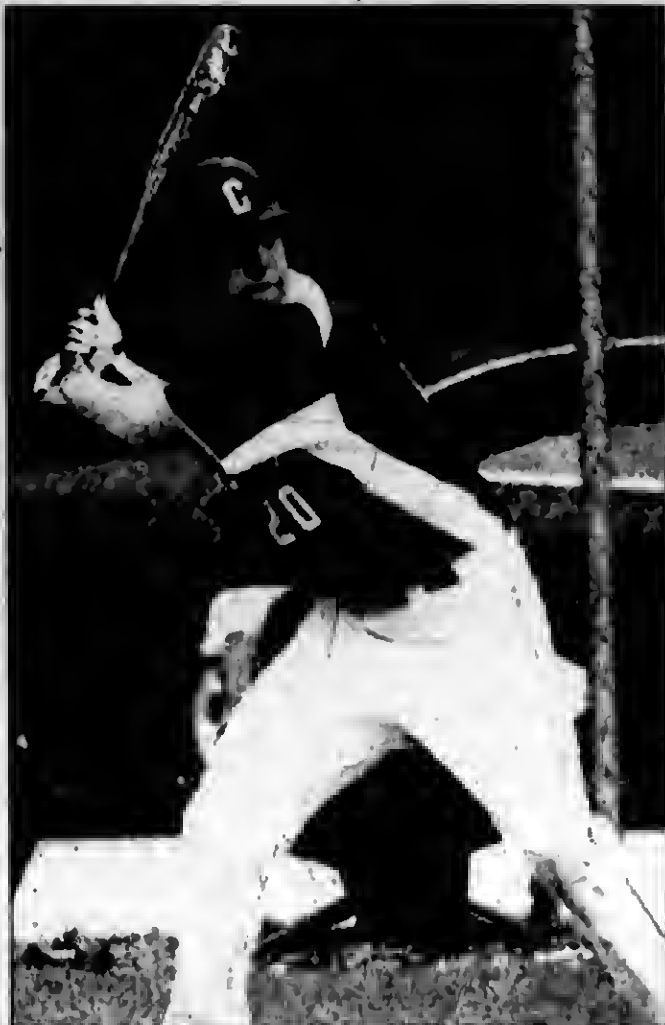

Junior Will Telgenhof picked up first team All-State honors as a catcher, Austin Putman earned second team as an infielder while Noah Certa was named second team as an outfielder.

"We're excited that's the most that we've ever had in Charlevoix," Charlevoix baseball coach Allen Telgenhof said. "Last year we had two, which was great, but even better for me is none of them are seniors. So they'll all be back next year. It's a great reward for these guys, knowing how hard they work."

Certa makes second team for the second year in a row, after batting .410 on the season, and broke his own school record for runs scored, with 39.

He also added 17 doubles and 20 stolen bases.

"He's an amazing kid, the way he hits the ball," said Telgenhof. "He just doesn't

As a sophomore for the Charlevoix High School baseball team, Austin Putman hit .422 and slugged .711 at the plate, while leading the Rayders with 26 steals. Putman recently was awarded Division III second-team All-State by the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association.

swing and miss. It's not that he doesn't strikeout, it's that he never swings and misses. The big thing that he really stepped up in this year is he hit the ball hard. Led our team in doubles."

Certa will try to make the list for a third time next year, being only a junior.

"I wouldn't bet against him to make it again next year," added Telgenhof. "When a kid hits .402 as a sophomore,

I kind of wondered what he'd do to follow that up and he showed me. He set the school record for runs scored last year, then broke it this year. No signs of him slowing down."

Putman batted .422 and had a slugging percentage of .711, while also knocking in 34 runs and scoring 37. He had three home runs and led the team with 26 steals.

"That's one of the stats that jumped out," Telgenhof said of Putman's steals. "There's not many guys that have that combination of power and speed. He's a great athlete. I think he's one of the best athletes in our conference and only a sophomore this year."

It was special for Will to make first team, not only for Telgenhof as a coach, but also as his father.

"That was very cool," Allen said of Will. "Will had a huge year for us. Led our team in hitting, really came close to breaking a couple school records. He's very deserving."

As a junior, Telgenhof hit .448 with a .502 on base percentage. He also scored 34 runs and drove in 37. From his catcher position, Telgenhof threw out 21 base runners attempting to steal.

Also from the Lake Michigan Conference earning second team Division III all-state, Harbor Springs senior Ean Walda made the list as a pitcher.

Co-op teams remain vital to Michigan's athletic landscape

EAST LANSING — Co-op teams in prep sports continue to play an integral role within Michigan's athletic landscape.

More than 150 schools field co-op teams in sports such as gymnastics, hockey, lacrosse, skiing and swimming, while the state's 36 co-op football teams are among the most followed by fans.

Co-ops can provide student-athletes a special opportunity to compete in a sport they otherwise could not play based on their school's enrollment size, finances or resources.

In Grand Rapids, for example, rivals Forest Hills Central, Forest Hills Eastern and Forest Hills North combine to make Forest Hills United, a gymnastics program that boasted this year's Division 2 individual state champion in Cassidy TerHorst.

Without a co-op, standouts such as TerHorst could not play the sport, let alone win a state title.

"Schools, if they had the choice, would love to stand on their own, because that would further their opportunities for their own athletes," said MHSAA media coordinator Geoff Kimmerly. "The co-op opportunity helps in these situations where there is simply not enough athletes to fill out a team."

"Co-ops have a lot to do with giving more participation opportunities to student-athletes. By having co-ops, schools that may not have enough athletes at their own individual schools are able to put together teams and still allow those students interested in participating to be on a team."

In most cases, schools share a symbiotic relationship when combining schools to field a sports team. Central Lake could not have its own junior varsity or varsity football teams without Ellsworth.

Seven years later, MHSAA season switch still playing its way out

PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW
& GAYLORD HERALD-TIMES

Where does the time go?

It's hard to believe it has been seven full years since the Michigan High School Athletic Association's gender equity lawsuit came to an end.

It was in April of 2007 when the MHSAA announced that it would switch six sports seasons in the Lower Peninsula after the Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal in a long-term (nine years) legal case.

Those season switches — which the Supreme Court let stand a lower court decision that the MHSAA's scheduling discriminated against female athletes — forced girls basketball to move from the fall to winter and girls volleyball from winter to fall.

Also, girls and boys golf and tennis altered seasons, which placed girls' tennis in the spring and golf in the fall.

The gender-equity battle all began in 1998 when Communities for Equity, formed by parents in the Grand Rapids area, filed a suit challenging the MHSAA's scheduling of girls sports in non-traditional seasons. The group stated the MHSAA scheduled six girls sports and no boys sports in non-traditional seasons.

The switch ideally was to put the girls basketball and volleyball seasons in alignment with other states in the nation, and with the NCAA.

"We still hear from a lot of people who wish we would have kept the seasons the way that they were," MHSAA media and content coordinator Geoff Kimmerly said. "We still have people now who wish girls basketball was in the fall, because it was a better situation for both schools and athletes."

Initially, Petoskey High School girls' basketball coach Adam Dobrowolski — who began coaching in the Petoskey girls' program in 2007 — had similar thoughts.

"My initial thought was I was opposed to the switch," Dobrowolski said. "I didn't see the merit for opportunities for scholarships for Michigan and my thought was the way it was set up originally for college recruiters was they could get to see more games in Michigan being the season was in the fall. It fell outside of the college season."

Now, Dobrowolski said it just feels natural to have the girls' basketball season in the winter.

"I'd probably be opposed to having them switching it back, but I know at the time when it started I probably wouldn't have thought the way."

Early on, Dobrowolski had concerns much like other girls' and boys' basketball coaches about adjusting, which still has been challenging for veteran officials.

"I've talked to quite a few officials and I know over the past few years they've been extremely busy," Dobrowolski said. "It's been difficult on them."

Also more difficult in the winter season, but not too terribly tough at Petoskey High School with multiple GAYLORD — A total of 11 area basketball players and two coaches took part Saturday in the first-ever 2014 North Star Showcase All-Star boys' and girls' basketball games at Monsignor Kaminski Gymnasium at Gaylord St. Mary.

The game featured players from across Northern Michigan including in the boys' game Charlevoix's Justin Pearl and Zach Han-

In the girls' game, Mackinaw City coach Adam Stefanski coached Team West, which included area players Taryn Rozema of Ellsworth, Elli Morley of Inland Lakes, Mackinaw City's Brooke Yoder and Petoskey's Kati Lewis and Amanda Stinger.

In the girls' game, Team East defeated Team West, 61-48, as Posen's Korynn Hincka, who'll attend Grand Valley State University, was named the game's most valuable player.

Hincka scored 23 points and grabbed 10 rebounds for Team East, while Grayling's Cierra Prosser led Team West with 14 points. Also for Team West, Petoskey's Lewis added seven points, while Rozema and Stinger had five points apiece and Morley added four points.

CO-OP

The same is true for the Lancers who send their student-athletes to practice, work out and play in neighboring Central Lake.

There are instances, however, where programs can survive without a co-op partner. Last season, Gaylord St. Mary allowed Boyne Falls to co-op in football, despite the Snowbirds having enough students of their own to play the sport. St. Mary welcomed the added depth to its roster, because combining its enrollment with Boyne Falls did not affect its classification — something this report later discusses.

The MHSAA regulates which schools it allows to co-op in order to preserve the state's athletic integrity.

In football, the enrollment of co-op schools cannot exceed 1,000 students. This ensures larger schools do not combine to create a powerhouse team smaller schools cannot rival.

Gaylord, for example, could not compete against a Traverse City Central-Traverse City West football co-op in the Big North Conference. A co-op like that would create an unfair advantage because the schools would have several thousand talented student-athletes to draw from.

"We have rules in place to keep things as balanced as possible," Kimmerly said. "We don't want to have the two biggest schools in the state combining for a team."

However, regulations are more relaxed in other, more specialized sports such as gymnastics, hockey, lacrosse, skiing and swimming.

Because it can sometimes require several Class A schools to field a team in one of those sports, the MHSAA caps the combined enrollment size to 3,500 students.

A Class A school such as Dewitt, for example, leans on Alma, Ovid-Elsie and St. Johns to fill out its hockey team, despite the sport's popularity in Michigan.

Schools that participate in co-ops also face challenges on the field.

The MHSAA combines the enrollment of each team in a co-op to determine a team's classification.

A pair of Class D schools (e.g. Central Lake-Elksworth) that co-op for football become, in some instances, a Division 6 team. However, a Class D school that isn't a co-op likely competes as a Division 7 or 8 team because of its smaller enrollment.

The higher the classification, the tougher the competition is on the field, especially during state tournaments. That can be a detriment to co-ops that are unfamiliar with playing at a high level.

"Obviously, the level of competition is different when you're playing against bigger schools," Kimmerly said, "but that's why we're allowing them to combine. In essence, they really are a bigger school. They need to combine with each other to get there."

The MHSAA maintains that co-op teams share a level playing field with schools that can field teams without the help of a neighboring school.

"Depending on what school you're from doesn't necessarily say what your ability is," Kimmerly opined. "I can point to hundreds of Division 1 athletes who have come from our tiniest schools."

"Ms. Basketball (Crystal Falls Forest Park's Lexi Gussert) came from a Class D school this year. Crystal Falls Forest Park is one of our smallest schools, and she's going to be playing basketball at Michigan State next school year."

As school enrollment continues to decrease across Michigan, more and more schools will rely on neighboring schools to improve their sports programs. Co-ops bolster a school's ability to provide opportunities for its student-athletes while also maintaining the competitive balance across each sport in the state.

facilities to choose from, has been practice time for both boys' and girls' programs.

"Typically, we have two teams that have to practice later in the evening, but we have a better situation in Petoskey with the auxiliary gym and the Central School gym," Dobrowolski said. "In talking with other coaches at other schools, they have a main gym and they're splitting it in half or doubling up with varsity and JV practicing together."

"It's more of an issue for smaller schools, but I think we've worked it out pretty well."

East Jordan athletic director Phyllis Olszewski said the biggest issue initially and still continues to be is gym space and scheduling.

"The biggest hurdle I have scheduling my gym," Olszewski said. "The kids aren't getting the gym time they've had and when volleyball was in the winter, they could've played two sports at once and practice at different times."

"Now, our gym is used beginning at 6 a.m., up until 3 p.m. in the dead of winter and outside of athletics, there's other programs and band concerts."

For the past seven seasons, overcoming the winter scheduling still has been Olszewski's biggest challenge, not that of finding officials.

"In the fall, I could get three girls' basketball practices scheduled easily, now in the winter the gym is tied up until 9:30 at night," she added. "It's hurting our girls' participation numbers. We haven't had a girls' freshman basketball team or freshman volleyball team for three years."

"I don't think the switch has done anything to increase the level of play," Olszewski added. "They just can't seem to find that niche."

Another concern amongst many high schools across the state has been multiple sport athletes being forced to make decisions on which sport fits their schedule.

"We've been through a couple different of cycles of freshmen who are now seniors," Kimmerly said. "At the beginning, there were a lot of situations where you had athletes that had to choose sports that they were going to play, because previously they could have played tennis in the fall and played volleyball in the winter. Now both of those sports are at the same time. Now that we're two class cycles through this, I don't think you have as many athletes making those decisions now."

Dobrowolski said he had concerns when the season switch began as to if certain multi-sport athletes would play a spring and fall sport and possibly, sit out a winter sport, or vice versa.

"With our numbers we'd hope to gain some more, but I don't think we're competing with other schools," Dobrowolski said. "We've had quite a few soccer players and softball players and volleyball players come out, and with basketball sandwiched in the middle, those kids could rest but a lot of them have continued to play."

"I've always been a big proponent of being able to play multiple sports."

Petoskey High School boys' tennis coach John Boyer began coaching in 2006, when boys' tennis was played in the spring and the following year began the 2007 season in the fall three months later.

"As far as numbers go, I don't believe the switch has affected us too much, but I'm sure it has at smaller schools," Boyer said. "For us, it did affect the dual sport athletes because mainly, we'd get a lot of soccer kids. Soccer was in the fall and tennis in the spring. When that switch happened, guys had to make a commitment and you look at a guy like Jason Muller, a perfect example, who played freshman and sophomore year tennis, but his junior year had to make a commitment and he chose soccer. It was just too much on his plate to do both."

Boyer added while it used to be soccer and tennis tied together, now he's seeing other athletes including baseball players.

"In the end, we've gotten the better season," Boyer said. "You look recently and the girls have had a lot of bad weather and it's been hard for them to get matches in. We now start with good weather and for the most part it's been a good season weather wise."

The weather situation for Gaylord boys' golf coach and veteran basketball official Tom Johnson has created havoc.

"When kids come into the spring time, it's been 20-below zero in the last three months so they don't come in ready to play. When we played in the fall, half the season was done before schools started. It alleviated the problems with the kids missing school and kids were playing all summer. It's kind of ridiculous."

"When you practice only nine times this year (because of spring weather), I don't think you can say you're playing your best golf," Johnson added.

Johnson also mentioned when playing golf in the fall, he had two players who were 4.0 students and a team with a 3.9 grade point average. When moved to the spring, the team GPA slipped to 3.69 after players missed seven days of school. The following year, the team's GPA went to 3.49.

"My good kids didn't have a problem, but my marginal students dropped because we missed too much school," Johnson said. "Is that good for kids? I just don't think so."

As far as officiating, Johnson, a 39-year veteran, said people just don't go to games like they used to.

"I ref in winter and I go to gyms and maybe 50 people are in the gym," Johnson said. "In the past, we had boys in the winter and girls in the fall, and you'd get a group of people follow girls basketball and boys basketball. It was in two seasons and people were going out two nights a week, not four nights a week. Some people can't afford to go out four nights a week and that's sad for the boys and girls involved."

"I think we competed for spectators with boys and girls basketball in the winter. It's also not conducive with the weather."

Kimmerly mentioned concerns such as Johnson's have been a common occurrence since the season change.

"Now the things you hear is that the schools don't have the attendance at games they would like," Kimmerly said. "They feel like they're playing a lot of basketball at the same time, and they have to make some adjustments that way."

"Fans can't be at every game at once."

City admits to broken law

State election campaign finance violation discussed at public meeting

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — An election campaign finance violation came to light Monday in Charlevoix which involves the promotion of a Republican fundraiser for Gov. Rick Snyder with taxpayer-funded dollars — even if not many.

Roh Straebel, Charlevoix city manager, admitted during this week's city council meeting that his administrative assistant, Linda Weller, on June 16 wrongfully disseminated a memorandum about the GOP fundraiser to the six council members using city resources and during her time on-the-clock. Council members found the memos at their places on the dais in city hall's council chambers prior to a regularly scheduled meeting that night.

Weller also apparently asked for RSVPs at her city office. All of that is a violation of state election campaign finance laws, officials said.

"I take full responsibility for this. I apologize for the oversight," Straebel said, explaining that it was a busy day in his office at city hall. Weller spent about 15 minutes of her time on the clock as his administrative assistant to distribute the GOP fundraiser memo to the council members but nobody else. Straebel assured the council Monday night.

In June, both council members Shirley Gibson of the 3rd Ward and Jeff Porter of the 1st Ward, raised issue with the memos they found on their desk, and at the time asked city officials to investigate its legality. Gibson confirmed.

Straebel said recently hired city attorney Scott Howard, of Traverse City, when consulted about the matter expressed concerns with the memo being disseminated by a city employee to city council members using city supplies.

The fundraiser is hosted by Todd Wyett, a Charlevoix businessman who also received a gubernatorial appointment from Snyder in both 2010 and 2013 to the Michigan Transportation Commission. Wyett is a residential and commercial property developer who also sits on the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority board.

Both Wyett and Weller attended Monday's council meeting, but neither spoke.

Councilman Lyle Gennett, of the 1st Ward, said he believes the situation "was taken out of context,"

Director of Charlevoix adoption agency helps stop criminal, country-wide scam

'Dateline NBC' to feature Heaven Sent Adoption Services

ERICA RAKOWICZ
NEWS-REVIEW

As an artist of deception, Heather Burgess, a Pennsylvania native, has broken a lot of hearts and stretched a lot of wallets on her destruction tour of the United States. Burgess, since 2004, is suspected in the running of adoption scams throughout the country.

Burgess is known also under the aliases Gail Spehar, Heather Copertina, Heather Copertino, Heather Scrugs, Heather Lee Gaston and Lee Burgess, according to a Michigan Department of Corrections biographical report. Burgess is currently at Carbon County Correctional Facility in Nesquehoning, Pa. She is not in there on adoption fraud charges though — she got caught for pretending to be a doctor's office where she called in prescriptions for herself, according to her criminal docket from Delaware County.

Burgess' frequency of alleged fraud has been cut short on several occasions, partly because of a Charlevoix resident.

"This woman has got to get incarcerated," said Shelia Davis, director and referral coordinator of Heaven Sent Adoption Services in Charlevoix. Davis is credited with stopping Burgess in her tracks and getting her arrested on multiple accounts, beginning in 2004 in Michigan.

Davis had two families in her referral program — one in Indiana and one in Texas — contact her requesting she meet with and counsel expectant mothers they were working with who were in Michigan at the time. Davis agreed and quickly realized the expectant mothers were the same person — Heather Burgess. By this point, the two families had already sent Burgess money for a hotel because she claimed she was homeless. Davis reported this fraud and Burgess was arrested in Livingston County in 2004, according to Michigan Department of Corrections.

In January of 2013, "Dateline NBC" flew Davis to New York City to be part of a documentary on adoption scams.

The crime

Because of Davis' familiarity with Burgess' suspected scams, many couples call her interested in more information about the woman who claims to be an expectant mother, when they come across questionable Google searches regarding Burgess' name.

"I'll step out there for these people," said Davis.

This has allowed Davis to notify police in other states about Burgess' path and it has aided in stopping Burgess, but only temporarily.

"I only know of the Michigan,

Novak play camp summer get-together planned

Memories of 1970s play camp spur 40-something year reunion

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Today, when June rolls around, if Charlevoix children aren't involved with the Chicago Club or Belvedere Club activities, they may be swept up in a variety of community summer programs, sports teams, reading programs, swimming or sailing lessons, art classes or junior golf. Play dates are arranged. Children may be so busy and booked up that summer isn't much of a vacation any more.

Parents run around to games, classes and programs, attending the kids' many scheduled events. Church camps or summer day or sleep over camps such as Camp MeSauba or Camp Daggett are a welcomed relief, but usually children attend for just one or two weeks.

By contrast, in the 1950s and '60s, day camps provided the answer to what to do to keep kids busy without running everyone ragged the whole summer. Day and swim camps were common, according to 1960s day camp directors Marilyn Novak and sister, Nancy (Novak) Letherby, of Grand Rapids, who are planning a June 25 summer reunion for their former Novak's Play Camp attendees.

The Novaks' camp ran in June, July and August for 11 years — from 1961 to 1972 — and involved nearly 400 children during the years.

Max and Fran Novak were both dedicated educators. They raised their family on Nichols Street, fostering a love of education so successfully that four of their five children also became teachers. Mother, Fran, started the original Novak Play Camp. It was licensed and insured by the State of Michigan.

"We learned so much from her... all her organization and attention to detail in planning for the kids' skills that served us well for camp, teaching and life," said Marilyn, who became an integral part of the camp operation at age 18, with assistance from her younger sister, Nancy.

"My mother made lists and schedules including the pickup and delivery of students to and from their homes by means of a fleet of three station wagons and occasionally a Model A that Dad, Max, kept as a hobby," she said.

"We all had our Red Cross Safety Instructor certificates," Marilyn said. "We gave swimming lessons each session and were quite successful teaching swimming because we had been well trained and had small group instruction."

Some children came only in the morning, others in the afternoon. Preschool children came in the morning sessions. The Novaks were always flexible and welcoming. They remember one young camper who decided to bring her baby sister for show-and-tell, so the infant ended up on the roster for an hour.

Wednesday was an all-day event with swimming at one of a variety of spots including Depot, Ferry, Young State Park, Walloon Lake, East Jordan and Loeb Farms beaches, the latter a favorite. Activities included a picnic cookout at Grandma Margaret Novak's Lewis Street house, with games, songs, stories, craft activities, handiwork and sleepovers.

Eventually the Novaks' twin brothers, Chuck and Carl, became involved by becoming counselors for the boys' part of the camp.

"We always thought that we had the best summer jobs in the world: being at the beach and in the water every day and teaching and encouraging kids to learn ... We were always grateful to the Charlevoix community for supporting our play camp. It helped us pay for our college educations and provided a good training ground for us. We learned to be responsible, detail oriented and child-centered ... it was a fun summer experience for us all," Marilyn said.

The Novaks' Play Camp Reunion will be 11 a.m.-2 p.m. Friday, July 25, at the Depot Beach Pavilion. Former campers, parents and family members are invited to share memories and pictures, if they have them. A light lunch will be provided.

All RSVPs should go to Marilyn Novak at novakmj@charter.net, or by calling (231) 547-2865.

Business taps into more outdoor dining space

Heated discussion before approval granted by council

CHARLEVOIX — City leaders this week granted the proprietors of the new Bridge Street Tap Room permission to use more outdoor sidewalk space for additional tables, but not without contention from one city councilman.

The business requested from the Charlevoix City Council an expansion to its already approved outdoor seating area, after the flower pots proved larger than initially imagined and a burgeoning customer base that

No plea deal in dog shooting

Pre-trial hearing on July 24, jury selection August 8

STEVE ZUCKER
NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — The case against a Charlevoix-area man accused of shooting a neighbor's dog is set for a final pre-trial hearing after a potential plea and sentencing hearing recently did not take place.

In June, James Jerome Gibbons, 83, of Charlevoix, was charged with cruelty to animals resulting in death. The charge is a misdemeanor that carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail and/or a $2,000 fine.

According to Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Telgenhof, Gibbons is accused of shooting his neighbor's dog with a pellet gun resulting in the dog being paralyzed, and later being eothanized.

Telgenhof said the alleged incident in question took place on May 26 on Gibbons' property on Pa-Bé-Shan Lane in Charlevoix Township. He said, according to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office report, "there is no indication that the dog was doing anything wrong other than being in the wrong yard."

Telgenhof said Gibbons turned himself in to police on June 6, the same day the charges were authorized.

Gibbons was originally stated for a pre-trial conference in 90th District Court on June 24. However, before that date, Gibbons' attorney Roy C. Hayes III of Charlevoix requested the matter be changed to a plea and sentencing hearing. However, according to both Hayes and Telgenhof, on the day slated for the hearing, following a meeting with the judge in his chambers, the plea and sentencing did not take place and only the pre-trial conference took place as originally scheduled.

Telgenhof said he notified the defense that his office will not be offering a plea agreement in the case.

The case is now slated for a final pre-trial conference on Thursday, July 24, and jury selection on Aug. 8, if the case goes that far.

Gibbons is free from custody after posting a $400 cash bond.

USCG seeks Seadoo owner

Crews from Charlevoix, Traverse City deployed

CHARLEVOIX — The U.S. Coast Guard 9th District requests the public's help in the search for the owner of an overturned Seadoo found Friday adrift in West Grand Traverse Bay.

Rescue crews from Station Charlevoix and Air Station Traverse City continue to search aboard a 45-foot response boat and a Dolphin rescue helicopter, respectively. A good samaritan around 6 p.m. discovered the abandoned and overturned Seadoo near buoy 6 in West Grand Traverse Bay. The recreational water vessel also was found with the keys in the ignition, authorities said.

The Seadoo, registration number MC5241RR, is no

Ivan said firefighters were on the scene within two minutes and were able to contain the fire to the stove. Damage to the rest of the kitchen was caused by smoke, fire extinguisher powder, and a small amount of water.

No injuries were reported in the incident.

Firefighters were on the scene for about a half hour. The Charlevoix Police Department assisted at the scene with traffic control.

You can be heard without a voice

It's been quiet in our household for the last week. There was a time when our home overflowed with family and friends gathering for the holiday, but years have passed and lives have entered new chapters, and so we settled in for a quiet Fourth of July; just the three of us, our pooch included.

The silence began in small doses with no company, but it became deafening when I was stricken with acute laryngitis. I've never had this affliction before, but my guess is that caring for grandkids, coming down with a cold and having a garage sale may have been a bit too much for this old gal, so my body rebelled.

Swollen vocal cords is karma's way of telling me to think before I speak. OK, it's been eight days now. I promise I'll be good. I just want a voice again. I have a newer appreciation of what my own father went through when he fell, broke his neck and damaged his vocal cords. I have to admit it was nice having a little bit of peace and quiet between Dad and me, but now I truly understand his frustration when trying to communicate as it's difficult for both the speaker and the listener.

Case in point: my hard-of-hearing husband would turn to me and ask what someone said to which my response was the usual hands in the air, a shrug, and then a hand over my mouth. Now if we just had a third person with us who had difficulty with vision we would make a great comedy routine.

The teacher in me had me preparing note cards with "Hello I have laryngitis" to "Thank you" and "I need to make a deposit" or "I need to pay this bill."

Fortunately, living in a small town, I found comfort knowing that the teller at the bank wouldn't think my note might be more endangering to his life. As notes ran out I found myself acting out various moves learned in charades many moons ago. What I thought would be a short duration turned to into two weeks of silence. Thoughts of living in a monastery started to ramble in my head. I began to feel like a second wheel in conversations but actually learned a lot about my surroundings and how others react to a person who thinks, but cannot speak.

My chattering has been silenced temporarily, but I think I've received a message loud and clear. Slow down a bit, talk less and listen more. Loai Tzu said that silence is a source of great strength and he's so right, because it does take strength to keep you quieted when you want to say something. Once words are out there, you can never take them back, so I have learned the hard way that silence truly is golden.

Silence has given me the gift of a truer appreciation for the quiet in the stars and moon at night when I take a stroll. As dawn breaks, I appreciate the silence in the grass beneath my feet, the fragrant flowers in our garden and the trees that gently sway with the western wind. It truly has helped me to get in touch with my inner self.

Another lesson learned by all of this is that I've found that it's important to be married to someone you can be silent with. He reads my eyes like words in a book and each tear I shed for my sadness at not being able to speak, his hand touches mine and I know all will be well again.

I made my first squeak today. Higgins, our dog, thought it was one of his toys. Well that's progress. Plus, I am ready to entertain for the Venetian Festival as a mime. Or, is anyone for charades? Game on!

LETTER to the editor

Bamboo in Michigan is real

Editor:

I always look forward to (Roger Knutson's) articles. Thank you so much.

But here's something for you. I'm quite sure you'll be getting other letters than just mine on bamboo in Michigan.

You stated, "We don't have any bamboo growing outdoors in Michigan except for maybe a few plants beside some conservatory."

Well, we do have lots of bamboo growing in Michigan and it's called "Running Bamboo."

The flowers are fantastic and they come back exactly the same, year after year after year. Two of my neighbors in Norwood have plants and they gave me some babies.

It grows like a weed, so watch out. I've seen a huge stand next to the Dairy Queen in Cadillac, and another huge stand in Lake City, next to the upper elementary school.

They all look like mine. Also, you see some on the side of U.S. 131 South as you drive to Grand Rapids.

They are extremely hardy, but will take over — that's why it's called Running Bamboo. Mike McGrath on "You Bet Your Garden" on National Public Radio talks about this plant all the time. He warns against putting them near your yard or garden every Saturday at 4 p.m. on 91.5 FM.

They are definitely bamboo plants, as I use their stakes year after year. They completely die to the ground in the winter and as of today are about seven feet tall. They flower in late July and August, depending on the weather, and come back exactly the same the next year. They have been growing down the street for about 20 years.

In less light they grow to over 15 feet all, like my other neighbor's bamboo in the woody area of her lot. The flowers are white and travel down the spines of the leaves — gorgeous and very delicate, like lace!

Come and visit any time, Roger. Thanks for your good work.

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

The development of the western Round Lake shoreline took off like a rocket once the channels between Round Lake, Pine Lake (Lake Charlevoix), and Lake Michigan were both cut in just over three months between July and the end of September 1869. This single act was the making of Charlevoix and Charlevoix County. Now that larger lake vessels could reach the harbor and beyond, demand quickly exceeded supply here regarding adequate dockage and wharf space. Beginning at the lower channel neck, a constant state of development began to work its way south along the shore. A few businesses, mainly maritime-oriented, positioned themselves along the waterfront before this, but these were only small buildings and rude docks, nothing like what was about to happen. Almost from the day the first substantial vessel reached Round Lake and looked for a place to pull up, the transformation was non-stop. Charlevoix was on the verge of becoming one of the most important ports on Lake Michigan. By 1875, the entire west waterfront, from today's Beaver Island Boat Company dock to Ward Brothers, near where this photo was created, was nothing but docks, wharves and warehouses. Twenty-two years later, with almost all of Round Lake now teeming with maritime industry, and various industries Michigan outside of Chicago.

Raven Hill benefit a steam punk affair

Annual fundraiser includes silent auction, catered hors d'oeuvres, music and demos

GEN DIETZ
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

EAST JORDAN — Raven Hill Discovery Center, the popular science, history, and art educational site in East Jordan, will hold its annual fundraiser festival at 6 p.m. on Saturday, July 19 — a program titled "Summer Magic 2014: Full Steam Ahead."

The event is a steam punk-themed, adults-only evening of music, catered hors d'oeuvres and wine. The festival showcases the 157-acre nonprofit educational center, introduces visitors to new and existing exhibits and venues, and generates funds for the coming year.

"Our fundraising dollars go toward the cost of operations and the funding of matching grants," said Cheri Leach, who along with her late husband Tim, founded the center in 1991. Tim Leach died in 2013.

The benefit evening includes a robotics demonstration presented by the Boyne City High School robotics club, as well as a retrospective art show of Tim Leach's lifetime of work. The Alhijn graduate and educator held degrees in science and fine arts and was accomplished in many mediums. Leach received numerous honors, including an international photography award.

The Sweetwater Recorder Ensemble, an event regular, will be joined by Irene Steaver, guitarist and vocalist, for the entertainment of guests as they stroll the grounds.

This year's silent auction is reflective of the vigorous support that Raven Hill enjoys from area businesses, artists and residents. Gift certificates, handmade goods and both local and regional art are just some of the items up for bid.

"Our silent auction has a lot of diversity," Cheri Leach said.

Additionally, a balloon pop — with 75 balloons that will each cost $10 for participants — will come toward the end of the evening. Every balloon contains a number that corresponds to a prize.

Raven Hill has a long history with many thousands of students and educators, but board president Amy Gillard stresses that the center serves all ages.

"At Raven Hill, we like to say that everybody's a kid, with a child's sense of wonder and amazement," and, she adds, "I never leave without learning something new, and you can't say that about many places."

Raven Hill offers a full, year-round schedule of classes and workshops, plus features a broad array of exhibits such as a museum, fiber studio, print shop, vintage school house, alternative energy house, medicinal garden and musical garden.

"I would encourage people to come out, especially if they haven't visited for a while. Every year something new is added," Gillard said. "The fundraiser is a great opportunity to enjoy the grounds, and to become a kid again for a good cause. Raven Hill is a gem."

Raven Hill Discovery Center is at 4737 Fuller Road in East Jordan. Tickets for the festival fundraiser are $30 per person and reservations are encouraged.

CHARLEVOIX

Library announces SummerFolk series lineup

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Public Library has announced the lineup for this year's annual SummerFolk Concert Series.

The SummerFolk Concerts are from 6:30-8:30 p.m. on the last Monday of each month, and celebrate local folk artists with an evening of music. The featured performer kicks off the evening with a 45-minute concert, which is followed by an open mic session — an opportunity for the public to share talents.

Open mic sign-up begins at 6 p.m. the night of the concert, and is limited to five performers.

Bob Hausler, singer, songwriter, and multi-instrumentalist will be on stage July 28. A release on the series describes Hausler thus: "His eclectic taste has led him in many directions. Hausler has played with many different musical acts throughout the years, from living legends to neighborhood garage bands. He takes pride and pleasure in every musical endeavor."

"For Bob it is all about the love of music and the people that support it," said organizer Dwain Abramowski.

Joining the summer lineup on Aug. 11 will be the library's own Dwain Martin and 45 North. Martin is a songwriter in the folk-rock genre "with a spirit of joy, conscience, gratitude and a strong lyrical foundation using a variety of musical styles and instruments." Martin will have the talents of Robin Luce, Gordon Howie, Pam Luce and Melissa Welke join him playing his songs as well as many of their own. Martin's performance helps raise funds for the Folk concert series. Donations will be accepted at the door.

Rounding out the summer series on Aug. 25 will be Dave Boutette, who is influenced by songwriters who span from Chuck Berry to Chuck Brodsky, and then Sandy Blumenfeld on Sept. 29.

For more information about the Folk Concert Series, talk to Martin at the library, or call (231) 547-2651.

Francis E. "Bud" Left, 85, of Charlevoix and Beaver Island, passed away Sunday, July 6, 2014, at Georgia House in Charlevoix.

Bud was born on Beaver Island on June 1, 1929, the son of Carl and Consuela (Gillespie) Left. Consuela passed away when Bud was 13 days old. He was raised by his maternal grandparents, Frank "Ket" and Maryann (Boyle) Gillespie.

As a teenager Bud worked for Tony Wojan in his steam saw mill, firing the boiler. He also worked in the woods skidding logs with a team of horses. He quit school in the 10th grade. When he was 15 years old, Bud drove (without a driver's license or a vehicle license) a logging truck for his uncle Jewell Gillespie. One summer he worked for Wilber Martin on his fish tug (the Evelyn M) where he got his love for water. When he was 17 he went sailing on the Great Lakes ore carriers. Having started as a deck hand, he worked his way up in wheelsman. Observing what the mates did on watch he felt he could handle the job. At the age of 25, he went to the Buffalo School of Navigation with his brother-in-law Ray Cull. They both got their 1st class pilots license, which made it possible for Bud to work as an officer. After serving as first mate he learned what the captain's job entailed. A few years later he got his first masters job on the CH McCullough Jr. Bud later served as captain of the Medusa Challenger for 15 years. His service on ships lasted 44 years.

A memorial Mass will be 10 a.m. Thursday, July 10, at Holy Cross Church on Beaver Island, with the Rev. Jim Doherty officiating. Interment will follow at Holy Cross Cemetery. The wake will be from 6-8 p.m. Wednesday, July 9, at Holy Cross Church where the rosary will be recited at 7 p.m.

Venetian's featured artist is Charlevoix's Todd Warner

Boat parade vision from four millennia ago

CHARLEVOIX — This year's 84th annual Charlevoix Venetian Festival will be celebrated through the vision of featured local artist Todd Warner.

Warner created a painting titled "Venetian Boat Parade circa 2349 B.C.," which features Noah's Ark. Folks are calling it among the most inventive Venetian Festival poster images ever.

"I couldn't do anything normal. It's as simple as that," Warner said, chuck-ling. "And I think they knew that when they signed me up."

Warner's painting remains on display in the Bridge Street window of Round Lake Gallery, where he now is an artist in residence. Warner closed his own downtown Charlevoix art gallery during the recent winter and now features his works at Round Lake Gallery, owned by friend and fellow gallery owner Kathy Ackerman.

Ackerman said Warner's move into her shop is an Disc golf provides sports lovers with new opportunities

ERICA RAKOWICZ
NEWS-REVIEW

A different style of golf is gaining popularity in Emmet and Charlevoix counties.

Disc golf, similar to traditional golf in method of play, uses a flying disc with the objective to complete each hole in the fewest number of throws.

Because of its different forms throughout history, it's hard to determine the origin of disc golf. In 1926, records show that school-age kids played games with tin lids, calling the sport tin lid golf in Vancouver, British Columbia, according to the Professional Disc Golf Association's website.

As those kids became more interested in standardized sports, the game seemed to fall off. Its revival is recorded in the late 1960s, when the idea came back but was referred to as Frisbee golf.

The 1970s saw the creation of disc golf leagues, informational groups and

WHAT'S NEW?

The East Jordan Lions Club and East Jordan Rotary joined forces to develop and fund a disc golf course in East Jordan. With hopes for a fall completion, the local groups are excited about the future and potential of the course.

"It's the Lions' project and they came to us, and it made sense to partner with a club that's also so active in our community," said Mark Penzien, incoming East Jordan Rotary president and current Rotary member.

Emphasizing the importance of the community element in the project is something both the East Jordan Lions Club and the Rotary feel strongly about.

"The Rotary and Lions have never really targeted a project together before," said Bob Pursell, East Jordan Lions Club member.

"It's very nice for us to partner with them," added Penzien.

The course route is already marked off and a quote is soon to be established in re-

TripAdvisor awards certificate to Castle Farms

CHARLEVOIX — Castle Farms, one of Michigan's top historic attractions and one of the Midwest's premier bridal venues, announced it received a TripAdvisor 2014 Certificate of Excellence award.

The accolade, honoring excellence in hospitality, is given only to establishments that consistently achieve outstanding traveler reviews on TripAdvisor and is extended to qualifying businesses worldwide.

TripAdvisor is the world's largest social travel network, with more than 60 million members, more than 260 million monthly visitors, more than 150 million reviews and opinions encompassing 42 sites in 25 languages. When selecting Certificate of Excellence winners, TripAdvisor uses a proprietary algorithm to determine the honorees that takes into account reviews ratings. Businesses must maintain an overall TripAdvisor bubble rating of at least four out of five, volume and recency of reviews. Additional criteria include a business' tenure and popularity ranking on the site.

"Being honored with the 2014 TripAdvisor Certificate of Excellence is a true source of pride for the entire Castle Farms team," said Anora O'Connor, Castle Farms general manager. "We'd like to thank all of our past guests who took the time to complete a review on TripAdvisor. There's no greater seal of approval than being recognized by one's customers. TripAdvisor's 2014 Certificate of Excellence is a remarkable vote of confidence for our business, and to the Castle's continued commitment to excellence and to the Northern Michigan community."

Castle Farms is among Michigan's premier historic tour attractions, plus event facility and destination wedding site. This beautiful French Renaissance-style castle built in 1918 features soaring stone towers, romantic courtyards and magnificent gardens. Museum quality collections showcased throughout the facility include antique toys, castles and royalty memorabilia from around the world. The site's Model Garden Railroad — one of the largest in Michigan — includes more than 65 G-scale trains steaming across more than a half-mile of track.

Castle Farms is listed on the National and State Historic Registries and is open year-round.

EAST JORDAN

EJ high school principal named MASSP president

NEWS-REVIEW

EAST JORDAN

— The Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals is a statewide education association with a vision statement to be the premier educational association.

Tammy Jackson, East Jordan High School principal, takes the title of president of this organization for the 2014-2015 school year.

"My hope for the year is that we can fight for what is right in education," Jackson said.

Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals advances learning through educational leadership, according to the organization's mission statement.

"Tammy is an incredible educator and focused leader who will bring much to the table as our president," said Wendy Zdeb-Roper, Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals executive director.

Jackson, honored as the association's president at a transition dinner on June 22 at the Grand Traverse Resort, is set to take the place of outgoing president Dave Powers, the principal at Baldwin Street Middle School in Grand Rapids.

"She has proven herself to be a compassionate, thoughtful and completely goal-driven leader who inspires students and staff to stretch beyond the status quo. It is no wonder that the members of the MASSP have tapped Tammy to be the next president of the association," Powers said.

The organization is home to nearly 1,700 members.

"The presence and voice of nearly 1,700 secondary school principals across this state has been an undeniable force in Lansing in the past year and for over 100 years prior," Powers said.

Jackson is dedicated to both education and East Jordan. Her 28 years in education have been in the East Jordan district as a teacher, athletic director, assistant principal and principal. Jackson has been East Jordan High School's principal for about 14 years.

Her devotion to East Jordan doesn't end at education — Jackson's affiliation with the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals, both on the board of directors and the football task force, involvement serving on the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce board of directors and service as a Rotary member and president keeps her involved in her local community.

"The state of Michigan is at an unprecedented crossroad with regard to the future of education," Powers said.

Pressing topics in education include adjustments to the curriculum, assessment, evaluation of teachers and administrators and the funding to adequately support these vital components, he said.

"Tammy's leadership, along with that of the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals staff and association members, will strive to ensure that the proper priority and attention is given to the needs of our children. These coming weeks and months will have lasting impact and ultimately shape Michigan's educational landscape for generations to come," Powers said.

Jackson graduated from Central Michigan University with a Bachelor of Science in education with a major in physical education, sports medicine and health. She later earned a master's in educational leadership. Jackson also holds an administrative certificate, endorsed by the Michigan Department of Education for her participation in the MI-Life program.

Jackson plans to advocate for what the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals as a whole feels important and necessary for students today and students in the future.

"Our current most strong point is dealing with the student assessment and fighting strong for what we believe is right for student assessment," Jackson said.

"I plan to always put students first and never lose track of the meaning of what we're doing," she said.

enormous boost for her gallery. Additionally, the unique Venetian Festival painting is luring people in more and more, she said.

"It's a very different take on Venetian Festival because it's Noah's Ark. It's very different from the usual fireworks," Ackerman said.

The original painting will be auctioned off as part of the festival's activities. Official festival posters which are signed and numbered can be purchased at Round Lake Gallery for $30.

Advanced sales of the poster were strong, Ackerman said.

"By getting a boost on the sales, we can raise much more money for the festival," she said. "We are also taking orders for T-shirts, and trying to get a jump on fundraising."

Ackerman explained that by doing this, the gallery can make sales to people who are not in Charlevoix during the Venetian Festival, or those who don't wish to wait in line for posters.

Round Lake Gallery is at 325 Bridge St., across from East Park in downtown Charlevoix. The phone number is (231) 675-2117 or more information can be found at www.roundlakegallery.com online.

gard to pricing for the baskets. The clearing for the throws in between baskets is pretty much done, said Pursel.

"We'll do it up right with colorful baskets and all," Pursel said. "It won't be an extremely difficult course, it won't be very long and it will be family friendly."

"It's another activity for people who come to East Jordan to enjoy," Penzien said.

THE GAME

— From a tee area, a disc is to be thrown to a target, also known as a hole.

— Disc golf targets are commonly known as pole holes, also known as an elevated basket.

— A player progresses down the fairway and each consecutive throw must come from the spot where the previous throw landed.

— When the putt lands in the basket, that signifies completion of the hole.

formed city downtown outdoor seating committee to investigate the benefits and drawbacks to the concept, as well as to potentially develop city regulations to allow such activity. The issue must come back to the full Charlevoix City Council for final consideration.

Bethany Pearson, Charlevoix community economic development director, spoke in favor of the company's request, adding how this is one of the few areas in town where the city could permit this activity — simply because of the space and its infrastructure.

"They have had great success there in Bridge Park,"

Pearson said.

However, Porter said although outdoor dining "brings a warmth and friendliness to downtown Charlevoix," he thought the business should wait to expand its outdoor seating until after the city's new committee finishes its work and new policies are in place. "I think doing this is premature," Porter added.

Porter further argued the business took more space on the concrete walkway than council originally agreed to permit. He also complained the tap room during the recent weekend placed a sandwich board sign along the Bridge Street sidewalk, rather than immediately adjacent to its entrance.

"It is illegal," Porter said.

City planner Mike Spencer said on Monday he notified the tap room proprietors about the sandwich board sign rule, and also worked in recent days with the business to configure a larger dining area that still permits required dimensions for paved walking space to the stairs that lead down to public restrooms.

"It's not going to block pedestrian traffic," Spencer said.

Finally, Porter posed whether this action would set a precedent for other restaurants and eateries to set up outdoor tables in East Park. Pearson responded that no, because there aren't any businesses with entrances immediately adjacent to East Park — this is a unique situation, she said.

Other council members disagreed with Porter.

"I think it looks very nice and attractive," said Lyle

Gennett, of the 1st Ward.

"It's full of people eating and it's so refreshing to see," Brennan said.

Even a local resident spoke up to suggest Porter's objections to the tap room's outdoor seating expansion proposal might be self-serving.

"In my opinion, councilman Porter has a conflict of interest because he rents a unit in the same building," said John Winn, of Belvedere Avenue.

Mayor Norman Carlson said according to the city's charter, there is no conflict because Porter does not stand to financially benefit from the question. It is accurate, though, that Porter's dental practice is housed in a downstairs space within the same building as the tap room.

Phil Parr, from the tap room, said last Saturday the 60-person capacity business served 612 patrons — amounting to six full restaurant turn-overs — and if the business maintains this type of success, the numbers project $1.5 million in revenues for the year with its accompanying $90,000 in sales taxes.

"We've got a lot of support from our customers," Parr said.

Council's latest vote will allow the business to align its flower planters so they become flush with the handrail pole at the nearby stairway.

Bridge Street Tap Room is at 202 Bridge St. in downtown Charlevoix, and can be reached online at www.bridgestreettaproom.com or at (231) 437-3466.

Ideas sought for municipal golf course

Split vote calls for RFPs for efficiencies, operations advice

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix city leaders voted Monday to seek professional advice about operations at the municipal golf course, but not by full agreement.

City council members voted 5-1 to instruct city employees to draft a request for proposals from golf consulting companies to investigate how best to continue to run the city-owned nine-hole course on the north side of the community. However, councilwoman Shirley Gibson said she would not support what she called a "slippery slope to privatization" and cast the sole dissenting vote.

Course director Tom Heid told city officials that Charlevoix's is not the only of Michigan's 83 municipal golf courses to experience financial hardship in recent years. During the last five years, the average subsidy for the facility that comes from the city's general fund is nearly $73,500.

The options presented to the council included: maintaining the status quo while trying to reduce expenses and increase revenues; seeking professional suggestions from golf consultants to optimize the course operations; and, proceed to hard-bones levels of operations and maintenance to both the buildings and the course itself.

Heid said the last option is a short-term solution because eventually the facility will require significant upgrades and improvements.

"There will be minor things that add up," he said.

Mayor Norman Carlson said course management spent the last decade or more CHARLEVOIX — Police chief Gerard Doan on Monday proposed the idea to close to traffic Bridge Street the night of Charlevoix Venetian Festival fireworks, all in the name of safety.

City council heard the idea this week — Doan admitted late in arriving — because the Michigan Department of Transportation agreed to the Saturday, July 26, evening street closure, so long as the city could meet lighting and signage restrictions. That means renting for $3,800 from the state specific electronic signs for use on the downtown city street that also doubles as a state-maintained federal highway — U.S. 31.

Council members unanimously agreed to rent the signs and close the downtown stretch of Bridge Street, but only if the money can be raised to pay the state's fee, because the taxpayer-funded city budget doesn't include this expense.

Doan replied that extreme congestion of both pedestrians and vehicle traffic on the evening of the harbor fireworks above Round Lake heightens the chances for collisions of all sorts.

Baron, festival president, agreed with Doan and reminded the council members of past incidents when a police officer and a child were in different years struck by cars along Bridge Street.

"This could have an extended benefit for the city," Baron said, explaining that this year's event could serve as a "trial run" for future use if the city invested in buying its own electronic signs.

Mayor Norman Carlson said he believes this idea could have wonderfully positive impacts "if people are willing to chip in and do their part in having an even safer Venetian Festival."

California, Florida and now Pennsylvania arrest," said Davis.

"It is very difficult to charge someone with this crime," said Davis. "The families have to have all the receipts, documentations and the time to come and testify if they are from another state. Plus, because she crosses state lines so much, the families have in file in the county they reside and by the time they track her down she is usually in another state," she said.

Davis saw footage from the upcoming documentary during her trip to New York City. In it, Davis said Dateline investigators acted as a couple who was looking to adopt from Burgess. During lunch, the investigators revealed themselves. Burgess got up angrily and left the restaurant, only to later accept a ride by the same investigators. On this car ride she received a phone call, from a couple looking to adopt from her, and she proceeded with her scam as usual.

"She was talking like there was not even anyone in the car that knew what she had just done," said Davis. "She wasn't even pregnant and was saying she needed some money for something."

Leaving a trail

In 2004, Michigan Department of Correction records show Burgess had been charged twice, only once with an adoption scam. However, when Burgess was caught, Davis knew of nearly 20 couples that had been allegedly scammed by her.

"Under many of the state laws it is legal to support the mother financially — living, food, medical expenses and etc. — during the pregnancy," said Davis.

With this in mind, Davis has advice for couples or individuals who are looking to adopt.

"I would highly stress to parents to have that money go through an adoption attorney or licensed agency and never pay for anything directly to the expectant mother," she said.

"I think when Dateline airs that there will be many others who have had interactions with Heather," said Davis.

In Florida, there's an open warrant for Burgess, according to the Florida Crime Information Center, where she was arrested for check fraud. The Dateline NBC documentary is set to air in July.

An adoption information meeting with Davis is scheduled for 5 p.m. on Tuesday, July 29, in meeting room B at the Charlevoix Public Library.

For more information on adoption, adoption scams, or the informational meeting, contact Davis at shelia@heavensentadopt.com or call (231) 237-9880.

Barron said that while he

"It sounds like we've got a sign up sheet here tonight," Barron said.

The new event will feature three lengths for cyclists along the wheelway, to Elzinga Park, Resort Township Park or Bay Harbor East Park, then back to Charlevoix again. The event will be kicked off by Charlevoix's hometown hero Troy Drebenstedt, who recently medically retired from the U.S. Army.

Bob Drebenstedt, of Charlevoix, helped organize this event after a conversation with his son, Troy, who in August 2012 received serious wounds from an improvised explosive device while serving in Afghanistan. The duo decided they wanted to honor all military service members, past and "Troy is trying to stay involved in athletics."

— Bob Drebenstedt, bicycling event organizer present, and Troy especially wanted to recognize Charlevoix's late Doug Sloan, killed in action in Afghanistan in October 2006.

Sloan will be the event's honoree, while Troy Drebenstedt will be the guest of honor. Bob Drebenstedt said.

"Troy is trying to stay involved in athletics," he said. "He participated in a triathlon, bicycling, swimming and not running, but using a wheelchair because of the injuries to his legs."

Bob Drebenstedt explained that much of Troy's extensive rehabilitation involved bicycling. In fact, Troy served as the captain of a Wounded Warrior Project bicycling team that raced from Houston to Dallas, his father said, and earned an invitation to Paralympic Games, though a recent broken arm prevented the latter.

But Troy is healed for this new festival event. Venetian Festival board president Dan Barron said "that the intent is to honor all service veterans with our rally."

"playing catch-up" when it comes to needed work at the beloved city-owned par 36 course.

"I would hate to see us go to survival mode," said Lyle Gennett, 1st Ward councilman.

Gibson argued against outside consultants and spending taxpayer dollars for their opinions.

"Why can't we form our own internal committee?" she asked, explaining how the city could make use of local expertise in Charlevoix residents.

City manager Rob Straebel said there are corporations which specialize in golf operations and perhaps city government owes it to its citizens to fully explore all options and advice, considering the golf course's significant financial shortfall each year.

Councilman Leon Perron, of the 2nd Ward, asked whether any proposed consultant contracts must come back to council for final consideration. Both Straebel and Heid confirmed that's accurate.

"We do not have to accept any of them," Heid said. "We want to see what's out there."

As part of the process, city leaders reviewed a cultural and economic impact study Heid compiled in December 2013, months before the current golf season.

and that the incident and the people behind it were well-intentioned.

"It may have been a violation of state law, but they didn't intend it to be," Gennett said.

Porter interjected while that may be the case, a violation of state law is still a violation of state law. It shouldn't have happened, regardless, he argued.

"I think we have bigger fish to fry," Gennett said, to which Porter agreed.

COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — This year's Jeff Drenth Memorial Footrace will be at 9 a.m. on Saturday, July 26, as part of the annual Charlevoix Venetian Festival celebrations.

The Venetian Festival footraces have been a tradition during Venetian Festival since the late 1970s, initiated by former Charlevoix Cross Country coach Pete Spieles in order to raise awareness and funding for the Charlevoix High School Cross Country program. The event eventually became a memorial tribute to Jeff Drenth, a dedicated Charlevoix cross country runner who died in 1986.

"When the race began," said his brother Doug Drenth, principal of Charlevoix Elementary School, "Jeff would return home from college, and then from Oregon where he was running professional-country program that gave him his start."

the tradition of the annual Venetian races, with Plude succeeding as head coach from Spieles in the early 1990s. For the past seven years, the race has been spearheaded by Jeff's friends and fellow local runners Matt Peterson and Douglas Bergmann, along with Jeff's family, friends and the many volunteers who make this event possible.

"I think it would be fair to say that all of us owe a debt of gratitude to cross country and running in general, and felt the need to give back to a sport that helped provide us with collegiality and the opportunities that running has afforded us," said Peterson, a former cross country coach for East Jordan High School.

The following tribute has been read by Peterson prior to the Saturday morning races, as runners line up and prepare themselves at the starting line. There are hundreds of runners and complete silence among their ranks before the gun that signals the start.

"Jeff Drenth graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1979. During his high school years he competed in cross country and track, earning All-State status in the former during his senior year. Jeff continued his running career at Central Michigan University, twice winning the individual MAC Conference Championship in cross country and earning All-American status in cross country in 1982. He remains a school record holder in the 10,000 meter event. After graduating from Central Michigan University with a teaching degree, Jeff embarked on his professional running career. He competed for the Nike-sponsored Athletics West Club based in Eugene, Oregon. He represented the United States on three different occasions as a member of the world cross country team. He also competed at the 1984 Olympic Trials in the 10,000 meter event. Jeff passed away while training at the Athletic West headquarters in 1986. The cause of his death was unknown. Jeff was a mentor and friend to many in his hometown and around the country."

Following the 5K and 10K races, there is a family mile race which can be walked or run, so everyone can participate in this cause.

"This is the second year my wife and I will opt out of pushing our boys in the double jogger due to the number of participants," Doug Drenth said.

Instead, they will be running together and take the children on the family walk/run following the 5K and 10K races.

"The race is a great way to celebrate Jeff's spirit and his passion for fitness, running and competition," Doug Drenth said.

The Jeff Drenth Memorial races are 100-percent charity focused, with proceeds to benefit the Charlevoix Cross Country team and a scholarship fund at the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. These races are open to anyone.

More information and early registration may be found at www.venetianraces.com online. On-site registration will be 3-6 p.m. Friday, July 25, and again 6:30-8:30 a.m. Saturday, July 26, at Michigan Beach Park in Charlevoix.

All participants receive a T-shirt as part of their registration.

"We are so grateful to all the individuals and local businesses who continue to support the race and Jeff's legacy," Doug Drenth said.

For more information, contact Matt Peterson at mpeterson@ejps.org or (231) 675-1746.

Following the Drenth races, at 10:30 a.m., the 7th annual invite-only Ryan Shay mile, featuring elite, world-class runners from across the country and six Kenyan competitors who reside in Lansing, will run for $4,000 in prize money. This elite foot race honors local national class marathoner, Ryan Shay, of Central Lake, who tragically died while competing in the 2008 Olympic Trials marathon event.

Tobacco ban OK'd for parks, beaches

City leaders followed by library board

SHERI MCWHIRTER O'DONNELL

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix elected officials last week decided in a split vote to ban tobacco in parks and beaches within city limits — then library officials did the same thing.

City councilors voted 5-1 to prohibit the use of tobacco and all tobacco-related products and devices in public parks and beaches, with councilwoman Peggy Brennan casting the sole dissenting vote. Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. and police chief Gerard Doan explained how the city will have no real recourse should somebody violate the ban, but the hope

St. Marys hosts closed-door land swap meeting

Fisherman's Island State Park discussed by committee in private dinner

SHERI MCWHIRTER O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Nearly two dozen people gathered Wednesday night to discuss the controversial Fisherman's Island State Park land swap proposed by St. Marys Cement over a Stafford's Weathervane meal of prime rib, planked whitefish or chicken breast with pear and cranberry compote — all behind closed doors.

The private, closed-to-the-public-and-media meeting was the inaugural session of St. Marys' community advisory committee, an internal effort within the multi-billion-dollar cement company to address the widespread and overwhelmingly negative reaction from the public when the land swap suggestion first became known.

St. Marys Cement paid for soil testing within Fisherman's Island State Park in the autumn last year.

"It's not a public body that's meeting, so from that standpoint there wasn't anything illegal about it," said Larry Sullivan, Charlevoix County commissioner and member of the St. Marys committee. "People should know the committee has no public standing."

Sullivan said the session amounted to a group of people getting together to discuss something, and the company may not even take any offered advice in the end. He confirmed that he didn't pay for his meal, though.

"Somebody else picked up the tab."

Lawsuit against Northwest Academy dismissed

Open Meetings Act suit blocked on technicality

CRAIG CURRIER
NEWS WRITER

CHARLEVOIX — A lawsuit filed by a former Northwest Academy teacher alleging the charter school's board of trustees violated Michigan's Open Meetings Act was dismissed on a technicality in Charlevoix County Circuit Court.

Judge Richard M. Pajtas signed the ruling Friday after the former teacher and her co-plaintiffs failed to file the proper documents to move the lawsuit forward.

Christina Eanes, a former social studies teacher at Northwest Academy, said she still believes the trustees violated the law leading up to, during and following the Feb. 12 public meeting when she was fired. Eanes was one of 16 plaintiffs named in the lawsuit. She said the group didn't have the money to hire an attorney and the plaintiffs represented themselves in court.

"There's no question for me that the law was broken," Eanes said. "We just didn't know enough about the procedure to push things through."

Eanes was fired about a week after an on-campus incident where a school employee said he witnessed the teacher hug and kiss on the cheek a 17-year-old male student.

From the start, Eanes said her actions were innocent and not sexual in nature. She believes board members initiated a police investigation and later voted to fire her in retaliation for complaints she made in early 2013 about the school's administrator and board policies.

The day after board members voted to terminate Eanes' employment, students staged a walk-out and boycotted school for the day to protest the decision.

Doug Hoover, a co-plaintiff in the lawsuit and parent of a former Northwest Academy student, said he wasn't concerned about the teacher's actions. Rather, it was how the school board handled Eanes' firing that disturbed him, he said.

"It baffles me," Hoover said. "It's obvious they talked about it, it's obvious they knew they were doing something they shouldn't. They made plans to skirt around (the law)."

Hoover said he's not giving up the fight.

Local COLOR*Venetian week kicks off this Saturday

84th annual Charlevoix festival July 19-26

SHERI MCWHIRTER-QUINNELL
DOWNEY EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — It's that special time of summer again, when all of Charlevoix takes a week to celebrate the season and the community in its biggest bash of the year — the annual Venetian Festival.

The 84th annual Charlevoix Venetian Festival officially kicks off Saturday, July 19, with a beach volleyball tournament and the Aquapalooza boating party, both at Ferry Beach. While Venetian Games athletes compete in the sand with six-person co-ed teams, the ever-popular boating party will run from 12:30-6 p.m. and will include musical entertainment from both the Charlevoix-based Sleeping Gypsies, and Haslett-based, Don Middlebrook and Living Soul.

Sunday morning comes early for athletes in the Venetian Games three-on-three basketball tournament at Ferry Beach, along with a hike, blades and boards jam in the afternoon at the city's skate park. An evening concert will round out the weekend in downtown Charlevoix's East Park, with locally based Christian performers, Bryan Eggers of Charlevoix and the Andy Stefanie Band of Boyne City.

The first weekend and early days of the festival are somewhat geared toward locals and serves as a bit of a highlight of things to come, said Dan Barron, festival president.

"It really kicks off the party and allows us to kind of warm into the week of events. It's kind of a build-up among the locals for the bigger events that will occur later on during the festival," Barron said.

More Venetian Games continue throughout the week, with a swim meet Monday afternoon at Charlevoix Area Community Pool, and newly configured Castle Garden Games from 1:30-4 p.m. Tuesday at Castle Farms on M-66, just south of town.

Dean Davenport, Venetian Games organizer, said Castle Farms officials wanted to be more involved with Charlevoix's annual signature festival, so a cottage croquet tournament developed to be staged within the local attraction's expansive gardens. Additionally, bingo, large-piece chess and bocce ball will be available, along with discounted historic tours of the property.

Also on Tuesday will be the all-day junior sailing regatta based at Depot Beach and evening three-on-three soccer tournament at Shanahan Field.

Wednesday the festival will pick up speed with the 5-11 p.m. downtown carnival and food concessions, along with continued musical entertainment and the many fleets of sailors participating in the all-day sailing regatta based at Ferry Beach.

"There is no other event in Charlevoix that has such a positive economic impact on our community than the Venetian Festival," said Bethany Pearson, Charlevoix's economic development director. "Not only does the festival bring tens of thousands of additional visitors to town, but it also attracts national media recognition to our area and drives up revenue for our local businesses."

The party continues Thursday, which will bring Kids Day from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. at Lake Michigan Beach, where an abundance of family-friendly activities annually lure large crowds to participate.

On Friday, the Inaugural Venetian Games Independence Bike Ride will start early at 9 a.m. along the Little Traverse Wheelway, with participants meant to gather at Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene on Waller Road. Together Troy and Bob Drebenstedt, a local father-son veteran duo, planned this new family-oriented, non-motorized bike ride to honor U.S. military with on-site registration. Specifically, the rally will honor Charlevoix's late Doug Sloan, killed in action in October 2006 in Afghanistan, and Troy Drebenstedt will be the event's guest of honor.

Troy Drebenstedt in August

2012 received serious wounds from an improvised explosive device while serving in Afghanistan. Much of his rehabilitation involved cycling, and he wished to share that with his hometown, Bob Drebenstedt said.

The free bicycling event includes an opportunity to donate nonperishable food and hygiene items for a local food pantry, as well as three lengths along the wheelway from which participants can choose: to Elzinga Park, Resort Township Park or Bay Harbor's East Park, then back to Charlevoix.

The biggest festival day arrives at its conclusion, on Saturday, July 26, when the Jeff Drenth Memorial Footrace begins at 9 a.m., immediately followed by the elite, invite-only Ryan Shay Mile race down Bridge Street. The Venetian Festival's annual street parade will begin at 11 a.m. and festivities continue throughout the day, with musical entertainment in both Bridge and East parks downtown.

Finally, the festival will find its finale with the city's traditional lighted Venetian Boat Parade at dusk, along with a fireworks display above the natural Round Lake harbor.

Complete festival event listings can be found in the printed festival booklets around town, as well as online at www.venetianfestival.org.

Anyone who wishes to donate to the festival's ongoing fundraising efforts, or who wants to explore future volunteer and leadership opportunities with the festival's parent organization, can send email to info@venetianfestival.com or call (231) 547-3872.

Children of all ages attend the annual Venetian Festival Kids Day at Lake Michigan Beach in Charlevoix, where a multitude of activities are presented.

Venetian Kids Day has much to offer*COLIN HAMMER
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — In a week filled with activities at the Charlevoix Venetian Festival, parents may not be the only ones who look like kids in a candy store. Children may play out the popular saying on Thursday at Michigan Beach for the festival's annual Kids Day.

Between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., children will be given the chance to take part in a variety of activities, as well as be entertained by performers from around the Northern Michigan area — all free of charge.

Kelly Romano, a resident of Charlevoix, attended Kids Day since her oldest daughter who is now 18, was a young child. Although Romano contends she may not have many more Kids Days in her — her youngest daughter is 9 — it continues to provide fun for her and her children year after year.

"The Venetian Festival, especially Kids Day, is a great thing that the community continues to put on for us," Romano said. "It really brings the kids and families together."

The location at Michigan Beach gives patrons a central spot that makes it easy to travel to and from the carnival, which will take place from noon until 11 p.m. Since the day's festivities are confined to one park, there is an added feature of having plenty of activities without having to trek to other parts of the city.

"The location at Michigan Beach is great because there is an opportunity for swimming and there will be no traffic in the park area," said Annette Nesberg, Kids Day organizer. "It is all blocked off, very safe and close to downtown."

Minus the location, the event plans to reel in families from Charlevoix and beyond with entertainment central to the area. Studio 45 Dance Studio and the Crooked Tree Art Center Youth Orchestra of Petoskey, Ragamuffin Theatre & Company of Charlevoix and the Highland Dance North Studio of Harbor Springs will provide on-stage entertainment until Kids Day concludes.

This is the first time the event will host only local performers, an added perk, Nesberg said. In years past, some entertainment had been contracted from performers outside the Northern Michigan region.

Activities such as face painting, a bubble area and other entertainment will be free, but a $10 wristband may be purchased that allows access for pony rides, a keepsake craft pavilion, giant inflatables and a mechanical bull. Scholarships are available for those who are in need of a discounted wristband and can be requested in advance by calling the Venetian Festival offices at (231) 547-3872.

More information can be found in Venetian Festival guides located throughout Charlevoix and online at www.venetianfestival.com online.

Rematch of Gillespie-Ferguson in Charlevoix County race

CRIM COURIER
NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — The county's proposed non-motorized recreation trail and oversight of the Ironton Ferry are key issues in the race to represent residents of Charlevoix County's 5th District.

The district includes about 4,500 residents in Eveline, Marion and Norwood townships, as well as Peaine and St. James townships on Beaver Island.

Seeking his third term, commissioner Rich Gillespie, a Republican, has opposed the much-debated trail project almost from the start. His opponent in the GOP primary Aug. 5 is Nancy Ferguson, who said she supports a detached path between Boyne City and Charlevoix.

"Of course she does," Gillespie said. "It's not going by her house."

Gillespie

For the second time in two years, voters in the county's 5th District will choose between Gillespie, a Beaver Island resident, and Ferguson, who ran as a Democrat in 2012 and lost to Gillespie in the November election. Ferguson said she identifies with voters of both parties and ran as a Democrat previously because there was a crowded list of Republicans on the other side of the ballot. Gillespie won the GOP primary two years ago and then defeated Ferguson with 57 percent of the vote.

Ferguson

"I vote all over the place," Ferguson said. "The truth of the matter is all offices below state level should be (non-partisan)."

The non-motorized trail has long been discussed by county officials and residents. It will take about 15 miles of trail — mainly along the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road — to connect the two cities. The path will also link up with trails that run north to Harbor Springs and Alanson. The project has been approved by a majority vote of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, though Gillespie has almost always voted against its development since he was first elected in 2012.

For Gillespie, it's not about the trails but how the project has advanced without any

Two 33rd Circuit judge candidates forums scheduled

First session in Boyne City, second in Charlevoix.

Voters in Charlevoix County will soon have the opportunity to get to learn more about the five candidates who are running in the Aug. 5 Primary Election for the 33rd Circuit Court judge seat that will soon be vacated by retiring judge Richard M. Pajtas.

The candidates, including Edward Engstrom, Roy Hayes, Mary Beth Kur, Tom Schraw and Valerie Snyder, are slated to participate in two moderated forums this month.

In each forum, candidates will have the opportunity for a brief opening statement, followed by a moderated question-and-answer session. At the conclusion of the question-and-answer session, candidates will offer concluding remarks.

The first forum is set for 7 p.m. on Monday, July 21, at the Boyne Area Senior Center and is co-sponsored by the Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce, the Charlevoix County Democratic Party, and the Charlevoix County Republican Party. The session will be moderated by Jim Baumann, executive director of the Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce.

Admitted child rapist given prison sentence

CHARLEVOIX — A Charlevoix man will spend at least the next 18 months in prison after he recently pleaded guilty to two crimes involving sexual assaults against two young victims.

On Friday, July 11, Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas sentenced Dominic Alexander Guigar-Clark, 23, to served concurrent terms of 18-60 months in prison and 13-24 months in prison on charges of assault with intent to commit criminal sexual conduct in the second degree, and fourth-degree criminal sexual conduct, respectively.

Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Allen Telgenhof said the first case involved an offense that occurred in February 2013, involving the defendant, who was then 21 years old, engaging in sexual activity with a 13-year-old victim.

Telgenhof said the second case involved an offense that occurred in 2011, in which the defendant engaged in sexual activity with a 12-year-old victim.

Fake Facebook evidence ups jail sentence for Cranick

CHARLEVOIX — A Boyne Falls man was sentenced to an additional 60 days in jail beyond what he would have received for stealing some stereo equipment, all because he tried to exonerate himself by creating a fake online message exchange.

On Friday, July 11, Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas sentenced James Michael Cranick, 35, to consecutive terms of 30 days in jail on a conviction for larceny in a building and 60 days in jail on a conviction for obstruction of justice.

In a news release, Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Allen Telgenhof said Cranick admitted going into the apartment of his ex-girlfriend and stealing car stereo equipment, which police later recovered.

Telgenhof said on the morning of his scheduled trial in Circuit Court regarding the theft, Cranick provided his attorney with a document that appeared to be a Facebook conversation between Cranick and the victim, where she appeared to be admitting that he did not steal the speakers but that she had set him up to be charged for the crime.

In light of the newly-produced evidence, Telgenhof dismissed the charge against Cranick without prejudice, meaning the charges could be re-issued at a later time, to further investigate the Facebook printout in which the month August was misspelled "Aogest."

Telgenhof said a search of Facebook records indicated that no such conversation occurred between Cranick and the victim, so Telgenhof reinstated against Cranick the charge of second-degree home invasion, a 15-year felony, and added a new charge of tampering with evidence, a four-year felony, for creating the phony evidence.

Cranick, who had no prior felonies, eventually pleaded guilty to the lesser larceny and obstruction of justice charges in exchange for the prosecution's dismissal of the more serious charges.

"I believe that this was a very serious matter," Telgenhof said. "This defendant chose to create false evidence in an attempt to

Prison sentence for television, alcohol thefts

CHARLEVOIX — A Charlevoix man is now in state prison for breaking into his neighbors' homes and stealing items from them.

Hammond

On Friday, July 11, Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas sentenced Brian Kelly Hammond Jr., 24, to serve 23-60 months in prison after he recently pleaded guilty to a charge of third-degree home invasion.

Hammond stood accused of breaking into two homes in his own neighborhood in the 100 block of West Hurbit in Charlevoix and stealing various items from them, as well as from a car parked in one of the driveways. As part of a plea agreement in the case, Hammond agreed to pay restitution on all matters charged, but pleaded guilty to only the one count.

Hammond originally faced three counts of second-degree home invasion and one count of first-degree home invasion.

Political signs reported stolen

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider reports that his office recently received several complaints of the larceny of political signs.

The sheriff reminds the community that stealing political signs is a misdemeanor larceny under the Michigan law which carries a maximum 93 days in jail and/or fines up to $500.

In a news release about the thefts issued Thursday, July 10, Schneider said he "does not take these complaints lightly and would ask everyone to respect the political positions and property of all citizens. This office will aggressively seek prosecution of those found in violation of this law."

LETTERS to the editor

Nancy Ferguson

'best choice' for commissioner

Editor:
We are going to vote for Nancy Ferguson for Charlevoix County commissioner in the Republican primary on Aug. 5. The primary will decide the election because there is no challenger from another party.

Nancy's primary residence is in mainland Charlevoix County but she owns property on Beaver Island, is a regular visitor and has worked on both the island and mainland. She is well qualified and connected to voters in the fresh water spanning district. She has proven to be a good listener and valued community member who gives back time and effort for a variety of projects.

Nancy Ferguson is a fiscal conservative with middle of the road views on social issues. We believe she is the best choice.

Valerie Snyder

'exceptional' judge candidate

Editor:
This letter is written for the purpose of soliciting your vote and support for attorney Valerie Snyder in the upcoming Aug. 5 non-partisan primary election. Our incumbent circuit judge, Richard Pajtas, is retiring after 30 years of truly distinguished service to the citizens of Charlevoix County.

We who are supporting Valerie Snyder do so because, first and foremost, she is very smart. Secondly, she has the requisite experience that comes with successfully practicing law for nearly 20 years in all phases of civil and criminal jurisprudence. Thirdly, and most importantly, she has been blessed with the gifts of emotional maturity, balanced temperament, and an innate sense of fairness. The sum of these qualities makes her the exceptional candidate in this upcoming election, hands down!

In my 40 plus years of practicing law, all too often, I have witnessed lawyers that have been elected judges who, too soon, forget that the "Honorahle" is merely statutory and, as a result, have a difficult time handling the power that comes with being on the bench. In my opinion, this will not happen when Valerie Snyder is elected judge, for the reason that she possesses the appropriate psychological make-up and people skills to carry out her judicial responsibilities in an extremely professional, fair and competent manner.

Valerie Snyder is a giver, not a taker. She has been elected to and served on the Charlevoix City Council, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners and presently serves on the Charlevoix School Board. She has volunteered countless hours of time to our community. Her record of service speaks for itself. Along with her husband, Mark, and their two sons, she has made a real positive difference in the lives of Charlevoix County citizens.

Judge Richard Pajtas has served us well — with class, dignity and great humility. As judge, Valerie Snyder will do exactly the same. Please vote on Aug. 5 for this truly exceptional candidate.

Richard Gillespie an advocate for both trail and property rights

Editor:
Richard Gillespie, a Charlevoix County commissioner for four years, is an advocate of the non-motorized trail and respects personal property rights. He voted for the trail and the funds to maintain it. The booklet developed by the Charlevoix County Non-Motorized Steering Committee states: "in the late 50s and early 60s the Charlevoix County Road Commission secured easements from nearly all landowners along the road." Commissioner Gillespie knows that the road commissioners did not secure easements from all landowners and the interpretation of easement language (deed restrictions on the extra 16.5 feet) could be challenged in court. The Charlevoix (County) Road Commission has been concerned about their legal standing for years because of the unique easement. Gillespie has worked hard to avoid a possible expensive and lengthy legal disagreement. He has been a voice for the Right-of-Way Agreement required by the Charlevoix County Road Commission that would allow the planners to use the extra 16.5 feet as needed with property owners' permission and stay within the 66 feet when not permitted. Commissioner Gillespie has not suggested we give up our rights for the greater good. His opponent Nancy Ferguson recently said, "The public benefits of a detached trail far outweigh impacts on property owners along the route" and "sometimes you have to give up something maybe for the greater good." The property owners did give up something 50 years ago: they sold 16.5 feet of their property to the road commission, often for $1, so the road could be made safer. Look at what it got them! Commissioner Gillespie has been very vocal from the beginning about the property owners not having any formal input. As mentioned in several meetings, the long-term goal is to build a trail around Lake Charlevoix. The county needs Commissioner Gillespie because he is an advocate for the trail and still has respect for personal property rights. To learn more about the trail, Google: Charlevoix-Boync City Non-Motorized Trail, Charlevoix-Boync City Non-Motorized Trail Easement, and Charlevoix County Commissioners meeting minutes.

Support Valerie Snyder for judge

Editor:
Over the past several years I have had the opportunity to interact with Valerie on both a personal and professional basis. Her proven experience and knowledge of the law makes her an excellent choice as our next circuit court judge. I have always been impressed with how freely she gives of her time and knowledge to a variety of community organizations. I am involved with an local nonprofit organization and have called upon her many times for legal advice and she has always responded in a timely and thoughtful manner. Valerie, in my opinion, has all the qualities that will make her an outstanding judge.

Poppies, poppies

A person cannot have studied plants for more than 60 years without developing some preferences. My preferences are for plants that are not domesticated, and that are perennial and hardy in most weathers. My yard reflects these preferences.

By far my most successful yard plant is what I have come to call an Arctic Poppy, although I can no longer recall where the seed originally came from. It is perennial, aggressive and able to establish itself among all the other weeds in what we laughingly call our lawn. It is about 2-feet tall, with grayish leaves and 2-to-3-inch peach-colored flowers. It could be described as alien and invasive, although it has not escaped my yard and likely will not.

Over the past four or five years, my Arctic Poppy has spread over about one-fourth of my back yard. It blooms for most of the summer, and I cannot get myself to mow it off. The good part of this is that more and more of my back yard does not need mowing. Other plants grow and seed in the poppy beds, but they are not as attractive or interesting.

The flowers are on the ends of long, slender stalks and are heliotropic. That means that the blooms point their centers toward the sun and follow it throughout every sunny day. They look like miniatures of those hanks of radio-telescopes aimed at receiving messages from the stars.

If these are truly arctic plants and live natively in the far north, that pointing tendency presents a problem. For much of the summer in the far north, the sun is never below the horizon. How is it that the flower stems don't just twist themselves off in the course of a few days? Do they snap back when we are not watching, like the head of an owl that seems to be able to turn itself completely around?

How do they do it?

Why should a flower point toward the sun? Most of the reasons are to enhance pollination by making a comfortable environment for visiting insects. That might be especially important in the far north, where insects may need warmth even in the summer.

I believe I have solved the problem for the Arctic Poppies. As soon as each flower is pollinated, the petals fall off and it can no longer follow the sun. What happens if they are not pollinated, I am not yet certain.

Each day for at least a month, my yard has had a crop of at least dozens of new, peach-colored poppies. By now there are many thousands of new seeds produced, and they are blowing around the yard. Next year there will be even less mowing to be done. Plants are just amazing.

Roger Knutson is a professor emeritus of biology from Luther College in Decorah, Iowa, where he taught for 30 years. He holds a master's degree and a doctorate from the botany department at Michigan State University.

Donations needed to pay for scoreboard

Dear Editor:
We would like to take a moment to thank this wonderful community for their generous support of the new scoreboard for Kipke Football Field and Track. The project is ambitious, but in great need because of the condition of the old board scoreboard.

The initial cost of the new board was approximately $40,000. Delivery of the new board is scheduled to be in the end of July and if all goes as planned, it will be ready for the first varsity home game.

Many local contractors have offered to donate their services for the installation, such as digging trenches, setting forms, pouring cement, installing large vertical steel column support beams, installing fiber optic and power cables, welding of horizontal support steel and upgrading our press box to accommodate the computer controls for the scoreboard.

We have already raised $40,000, but have a long way to go. The support we have received has been very encouraging and we can feel the momentum gaining.

Going forward we will continue to seek donations, fundraise and raise revenue by selling advertising on the scoreboard during games and other activities we hope to have at Kipke Field.

We are also excited to man the beer tent on Friday night Venetian Festival. It will give us a great opportunity to spread the word about the project.

This is a community-wide effort and we are thankful for the pride that this great Rayder Nation has shown, and for all that they have done to help us accomplish this goal!

Sincerely,
Rayder Gridiron Club

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

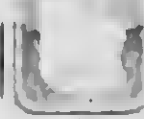

When the railroad arrived in Charlevoix in 1892, new industry sprang up immediately alongside the tracks. That same year, the D. M. Ferry Seed Company of downstate Rochester erected its Northern Michigan branch just in the north of today's Ferry Beach. Ferry Avenue and the beach are named after Mr. Ferry, not, as so many visitors to Charlevoix mistakenly presume, because there is or was a ferry to somewhere located along there. In the building took place "pea-picking," the processing of very high-quality seed stock imported from all over the tip of the mitt — Beaver Island, Cross Village, Cheboygan and elsewhere. Boatload after boatload came to its long dock, hundreds of thousands of bushels. The first building collapsed from the weight, was rebuilt larger and burned in 1904, and finally was rebuilt even larger as seen here (on left or top). Local employment figures boomed. Most of the processed seed stock went out by rail, sometimes 10 carloads at a time. The branch remained in business until the 1920s, when it pulled out and went back to Rochester. The building then passed through a series of owners, none of whom survived the Great Depression, until Bill Wallace and Harry Foster started the Foster Boat Works in 1940 (right or below). Wallace pulled out shortly after, though Foster went on to supply lightweight craft of various types for the government and the World War II effort. He tried but failed to crack the pleasure craft business after the war, and Foster Boat folded in 1953. Thirty years later, the highly renovated, extremely sturdy building became known as the Foster Boat Works Association condominium.

COMMUNITY Highlights

Charlevoix Kiwanis Club awards Dale Boss

Distinguished Service and Appreciation Award presented July 8

GAYLE GENNETT
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — When the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club members gathered July 8 at the Weathervane Restaurant, they recognized community resident Dale Boss for all he's done for the city and township of Charlevoix.

The focus of the Kiwanis Club is on youth — providing activities and fundraisers that continue to support programs involving young people. The Charlevoix club wanted to recognize Boss because he represents the ideals of the club and spent his life caring and promoting activities involving area youth.

Boss and his late wife, Marilyn, maintain deep roots in Charlevoix. Both of their families date back six generations in Charlevoix. Dale and Marilyn were married 62 years and raised an active family which still possesses a good work ethic and commitment to the community. Articles have been written and websites designed all including information about the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Committee running with Dale's "crazy idea" of planting petunias from one end of town to the other.

In his younger days while raising a family at North Pointe, Boss realized that Boyne City and Harbor Springs had hills for kids to ski upon. Dale saw the opportunity to provide an activity for his children and the children of Charlevoix to enjoy. In 1956, he was part of the founding fathers of Mount McSaubha Recreation Area. Dale put an article in the paper asking if anyone was interested in creating a ski hill and if they were, to please show up for a meeting downstairs at city hall. Only three people showed up, one being Don Campbell, who owned the property next to the mountain.

Dale asked Archie Livingston, local banker, to speak to Charlevoix City Council on their behalf. With council approval, the nonprofit group of Mount McSaubha was completed, they needed to find away to get kids to the top. Don Parsel, local garage owner, provided just what they needed — a flatbed, Model A truck.

Once the truck was jacked up, they wrapped a rope around the left rear wheel. This provided enough power to pull the kids up the hill. Though for a little excitement when the ski hill supervisor wasn't looking, the kids would reach in through the truck's window and pull the throttle wide open.

Dale remains a man with vision, continually coming up with ideas and following through, even when others thought otherwise. The purchase of the property that's home to the current Charlevoix Elementary School was spearheaded by Dale while he served on the school board from 1962-1972. He also encouraged homeowners into selling their property where the current Charlevoix Community Reformed Church sits today.

Jump forward to 1982 and Operation Petunia, and then by 1987 making the annual trek to Detroit and other major parades to show others that Charlevoix the Beautiful was on the map. Dale still rises each morning at 4:30 a.m. to water the petunia beds, while most Charlevoix residents stay nestled in their beds.

The members of the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix were pleased to give Dale Boss this award, officials said.

Plans develop for public spaces art

Donations sought to fund mural concept

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority board recently discussed how to come up with matching funds to support an art in public spaces grant.

Bethany Pearson, Charlevoix's community economic development director, reported that the DDA filed for two grants this spring, one to the Michigan Council for the Arts and Humanities and one to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, both which were funded though, not at full amounts.

The DDA received $2,800 from the Michigan Council for the Arts and Humanities and $500 from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation for a total of $3,300, less than half of the $8,000 initially requested. However, that doesn't mean that the project isn't going to happen, it's just going to evolve, officials said.

Pearson explained that the grants were originally written to try to fund a sculpture program in the public parks but with less funding than hoped for, she now proposes a new take on the art in public places concept. The DDA is now looking to use the grant money to fund a public mural in the downtown district with financial support from the community.

"Charlevoix has such a deep appreciation for both the art culture and local history that a beautiful public mural displayed in our downtown for visitors and residents to enjoy seems like a good way to bring more visual interest to the downtown," Pearson said.

In order to keep the grant funding, the DDA must to come up with a full match for the $2,800 Michigan Council for the Arts grant and work needs to be completed by Sept. 30.

"This doesn't give us much time so we need to work quickly. We're hoping that the community will be supportive of the idea enough to help us raise the funds," Pearson said.

If enough funds are raised, local artists will be invited to submit concept drawings that would then be posted online for the public to review. The mural concept that then received the most votes would be commissioned and installed.

Anyone who would like to make a federally tax-deductible contribution to help support this project can mail donations to: Charlevoix DDA, Attn: Public Mural, 210 State St., Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Send questions to Pearson at hpearson@cityofcharlevoix.org, or call (231) 547-3257.

Stacey Burns (center), educational and employment services coordinator with the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan, accepts a $10,000 grant recently from The Hestia Women's Giving Circle.

Hestia grant supports educational scholarships

The Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan received a $10,000 grant from The Hestia Women's Giving Circle, a donor-advised fund of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

The grant is for educational scholarships provided by the center's Educational and Employment Services.

Last year, the Educational and Employment Services program provided guidance to 317 individuals seeking to redirect their lives to become more self-sufficient. During the same timeframe, the program provided $55,000 in scholarships to program participants striving to continue their education.

One participant said scholarship dollars she received through the program changed her life. It provided her the financial support as a single mother of three children to attend college, graduate from nursing school, obtain her license as a registered nurse and find employment in Northern Michigan.

The Hestia Women's Giving Circle supports organizations in Charlevoix and Emmet counties that provide services for women and girls. Part of their mission statement is to "remove barriers to opportunity" and create "bridges toward self-sufficiency." OBITUARIES

Ruth Leslie Schofield McKinney, 68

Ruth Leslie Schofield McKinney, 68, of Charlevoix, passed away on Monday, July 14, 2014, at her home surrounded by her family.

She also attended Western Michigan University. She was a proud employee of the Health Department of Northwest Michigan for the last 25 years and worked in the billing department specializing in the Dental Clinics North program.

In addition to her joy of family,

This love of music continued as an active member of the Charlevoix City Band, East Jordan City Band, Harbor Springs City Band and the "Geezer" Band.

She lived her life through grace, gratitude and compassion which radiated through her smile. As her friends, family and community were her passions, the family hopes that everyone remembers and honors Ruthie by leading through her example.

(Kathy) Schofield, Linda Schofield, Andrea Horstmannshof, Jody (Steve) Werner, Chuck (Joann) Schofield. Ruth's brother, Herbie, preceded her in death.

The family is asking any expressions of caring be done through the Ruth Schofield McKinney Memorial Fund through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. This fund will support the Charlevoix Public School students needing instruments, tuition to band camp, band uniforms and other needs the student may have to participate in the band.

A celebration of life for friends and family will take place 3-5 p.m. Saturday, July 19, at 08188 McSaubia Road, Charlevoix.

Carpenter St., adjacent to the Charlevoix City Airport and municipal ball fields. The park now features all new equipment with new playground surfacing that is handicap accessible. BOYNE CITY

Charlevoix County to honor fallen Marines

CRAG CURRIER
NEWS-REVIEW

BOYNE CITY — A pair of Marines from Charlevoix County who were killed in action during the Vietnam War will be honored Monday, July 21, at Whiting Park in Boyne City.

The county parks committee and Charlevoix County commissioner George Lasater are organizing the event, which will begin at 5 p.m. as part of the committee's regular monthly meeting. The two men to be honored are Humphrey J. Price and Donald G. Reich, both from the Advance area.

Lasater, who authored two books detailing Charlevoix County's contributions to World War I and World War II, said he learned about Price and Reich while doing research for a similar project on the Vietnam War.

"They were just out of high school and they frequented Whiting Park," Lasater said. "That's where they swam and had picnics, so it's an appropriate place for this."

Members of Price's and Reich's families are expected to attend the ceremony. Lasater, who raised his family in the same community where the two men grew up, said once it was decided the county wanted to honor the fallen Marines, he contacted their relatives to get their support.

"I got their permission to do this, that was my first official contact with them," Lasater said. "They were very pleased that we were taking the opportunity to recognize their family members."

Price and Reich were just out of high school when they joined the Marines, Lasater said. They were both killed in 1967.

Bronze plaques have been made and will be placed in a flowing well at the park. They were paid for with profits from sales of Lasater's books as the former Charlevoix County sheriff said when the books were published in 2008 and 2011, he vowed to use the proceeds to commemorate veterans from the community.

Lasater was instrumental in the restoration and rededication of a war memorial at Boyne City's Veterans Park in 2009 with the help of veterans and others within the community. Lasater, though, said many others, including the county parks committee and veterans organizations around the county, deserve just as much credit for ensuring the community's service men and women are recognized.

CHARLEVOIX — The former 7-Eleven store on the corner of Bridge Street and Belvedere Avenue shows new signs of life.

"We are calling it Bridge Street Wine and Spirits," said owner Jim Ishak, who said he embarked on this business venture with his son, Johnny.

A third party in the new business will be Canille Reed, who will serve as manager. The Ishaks have in the past 28 years owned and operated three other convenience stores in Genesee County: Grand Blanc, Clio and Flint.

"We came up here with a friend, saw the area and liked it and thought it would be a good place to have our business," Johnny Ishak said.

The business officially opened July 5, however the shelves of beer, wine and liquor are not yet fully stocked. The store will carry snacks, slushies and coffee, as well as CHARLEVOIX — The Traverse City Film Festival is spreading out around the northwestern Michigan region.

Both Petoskey Cinema and Charlevoix Cinema III will host films as part of the Traverse City-based festival's Around the Bay program. It involves a six-day film adventure with additional stops in Manistee, Frankfort, Elk Rapids and Suttons Bay.

"This event showcases charming and unique Northern Michigan theaters while introducing audiences to several films sure to be hits at this year's festival," said Dean Feole, festival publicity team member. Petoskey Cinema will screen "Dinosaur 13" at 7 p.m. Monday, July 21, which is a 95-minute documentary about a team of amateur paleontologists who in 1990 discovered in South Dakota the world's largest and most complete Tyrannosaurus rex fossil that became the focus of long-running legal battles for ownership rights.

Then the film festival tour continues at Charlevoix Cinema III with a screening of "112 Weddings" at 7 p.m. Tuesday, July 22, which is a documentary about a filmmaker and wedding photographer who worked 112 weddings and then returned to interview nine of those couples about how their marriages are working out. The first film in this

Around the Bay series will be on Sunday in Manistee, and after the Charlevoix film screening, will continue with "The German Doctor" on Wednesday in Frankfort, "Sister" on Thursday in Elk Rapids, and "Playing Dead" on Friday in Suttons Bay.

Cardiologist to talk care options

CHARLEVOIX — Cardiologist Nicklaus Slocum will present a community program from 5:30-6:30 p.m. on Monday, July 21, in Charlevoix Area Hospital's classroom B. The program will cover a range of healthy heart topics, with a focus on information about implantable cardiac devices, such as pacemakers and defibrillators.

Implantable cardiac devices can be critical for controlling irregular heartbeats, or arrhythmias, some of which can be life-threatening.

There are several diagnostic tests that can be completed to assess how well a patient's heart is working. Common tests include a stress test, an echocardiogram (echo), and an electrocardiogram (EKG).

Find out more about the signs and symptoms of arrhythmias and what you can do for treatment. There will also be a chance to ask specific questions during the question and answer portion after the presentation.

In an effort to bring heart health close to home, Charlevoix Area Hospital collaborates with Dr. Slocum and other cardiologists from Traverse Heart and Vascular, a service of Munson Medical Center, to provide initial and follow-up visits locally in Charlevoix. The hospital already offers excellent facilities for initial diagnostics and testing, as well as cardiac rehabilitation.

The program is free and open to the public. Light refreshments will be served.

Greenhouse plan proves controversial

Bridge Street Blooms applies to build permanent, glass structure

CHARLEVOIX — Temperatures are rising over a planned greenhouse along Charlevoix's main drag.

City planning commission members listened Monday to city planner Mike Spencer and Bridge Street Blooms owner Chris Helstrom not just disagree, but argue and interrupt each other back and forth about a controversial site plan for a proposed permanent greenhouse to replace the temporary one built each spring from plastic sheeting.

The crux of the lengthy, spitfire discussion centered around the company's landscaping design and product display plans, which Spencer said do not meet the city's ordinances on at least several points. Obviously, Helstrom argued the opposite and said the plan more than exceeds requirements.

"We are certainly happy Chris has been so successful with the temporary business," Spencer said, adding city officials are pleased to see plans for a permanent

BOYNE FALLS

Aten Place brings back The Ragbirds

BOYNE FALLS — Aten Place will continue its summer of encore performances by bringing back The Ragbirds at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, July 19.

In 2008, The Ragbirds were introduced to the Aten Place patrons, and their enthusiasm and talent became an immediate hit. Like a mix tape made by a well-traveled friend, The Ragbirds music is diverse and foreign, yet somehow familiar. The Ragbirds' shows are always fun affairs, with front person Erin Zindle dancing her way through multiple genres that can include a Cajun-zydeco tune, followed by an Americana-bluegrass song, then a sea shanty.

The Ragbirds songs strike a balance between home and adventure, drawing upon elements of pop, gypsy, Afro-Cuban, Celtic, Middle Eastern and African sounds, with a little Cajun spice. Zindle's energy, songwriting and multi-instrumental talent easily demands attention. Her infectious smile and positive message, spun through her poetic lyrical loom, skillfully switches between violin, mandolin, accordion, banjo and percussion, all while dancing.

"It's folk-rock music at the heart of it," said Zindle, who started the band with her husband, percussionist Randall Moore, "but I'm influenced and moved by sounds from all over the world."

This interest in world music came first from her own roots. With two Irish grandmothers, the young violinist struck ancestral gold when she discovered

EAST JORDAN

Grandvue recognized for dining service

EMCA RAKOWICZ
NEWS-REVIEW

EAST JORDAN — There's dining halls and then there's restaurant style dining halls.

Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan recently received the LeadingAge Care and Services Award for its brand of restaurant style dining.

The award, presented by LeadingAge, a group of 6,000 not-for-profit organizations which represent the entire field of aging services, recognized the facility for its innovative and engaging dining practices.

"It's really a big honor to be recognized amongst your peers for doing something unique," said Andy Carlson, dining services director.

Through the restaurant style dining, residents are served with fresher ingredients, increased meal options and expanded service hours. Residents and their families have kept the program popular since its implementation in July 2013.

Previous to the dining program, Grandvue had a standard dining service in place — where residents would come sit at a designated time, have limited choices and have a beverage, soup, salad, entree and dessert all served at once.

"When you put all the food there at once, a lot of residents don't know where to start," said Carlson.

As the facility upgraded to separate meal choices and food cooked on demand, they saw more engagement from the residents. The meal offerings went from one or two choices a day to 10 to

"When you're giving them an opportunity of choices, they're brought back into the moment of today," said Carlson.

Additionally, offerings include chef specials every day for lunch and dinner.

"If you want eggs for dinner, we can do that," said Carlson. "It really opens it up and gives them that freedom and opportunity."

Grandvue strives to give its residents a voice and encourages input.

"If there's something that you're not seeing on the menu or something that you'd like, we have a food committee once a month," said Carlson.

"They can voice their opinion on how service is, what they like, what they don't like, what they want to see on the menu," he said.

Carlson finds it important to have an opportunity for the staff to interact with the residents.

"To have the completion of the program and to get an award was really nice," said Carlson.

FIBER EVENT

but it also has the added bonus of taking place in one of Northern Michigan's more noteworthy locations.

"Typically we see guests who spend the day at the Castle doing a self-guided tour and also visit the show," O'Connor said.

"Our event this year has over 60 confirmed artists ... with more confirming every day," she said.

Stonehedge Fiber Mill will again attend this year's event, annual participants since the festival first launched nine years ago. Others expected to be there include The Alpaca Store from Maplewood Farms, Knitting on the Fringe, Oak Meadow Alpaca Farm and Windspun Farm & Fibers.

"This show is more than just a fiber festival, that is why it is called a fiber arts festival. There is far more than just the raw products, there are all the finished products as well, many of which we supplied the hase product," said Debbie McDermott, owner of Stonehedge Fiber Mill.

Stonehedge will have a booth at the show, normally a couple of spaces, in fact.

"It is the only show that we visit at this time. We not only have our own products, but we do custom processing throughout the year. Right now we do hatches for 38 different states. We made the yarn for the U.S. Olympic sweaters, and men's hats worn during the closing ceremonies," McDermott said.

The hours for the show are 1-7 p.m. Friday, July 25; 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday, July 26; and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Sunday, July 27. Admission is $5 per person, though children 12 years and younger are free to attend. For an additional $5 per person (under 4 years old is free), visitors can tour the entire Castle Farms grounds while at the annual show.

GREENHOUSE

ting public right of ways." But Helstrom's submitted — and even updated — plans don't show any landscaping around the parking spaces and required canopy trees are existing and "nowhere near the parking lot," Spencer said.

Spencer said they should have hired a professional landscape architect to improve the look of the area around the parking lot and around the actual building. "We just assume that people will hire the appropriate person," he said.

Helstrom contrarily argued that he and his wife, Mary, are both master gardeners and fully qualified to design their own landscaping at their plant and flower retail business. Additionally, they wish to plant smaller, blooming trees at the front of the property by the road and place larger, canopy trees at the back of the site.

"Mike would like big trees up front, but I have to have sun," Helstrom said, explaining their business plan calls for growing plants within the greenhouse during all but the depths of winter.

Arguments about ordinance language, meanings and technical requirements continued until Charlevoix Planning Commission chairman John Hess shut down the bickering.

"Don't argue. I'm not going to put up with it," Hess said, later suggesting perhaps they should "put these two boxers in a room" until they can agree to a finalized plan to accommodate both the city's and Helstrom's needs.

By the end of the nearly three-hour meeting, Helstrom agreed to plant more trees if that's what's needed, and Spencer said it is a great building design that will be a great improvement over the temporary structure, though he questions the landscape plan.

Part of the problem, all agreed, is that the update site plan wasn't submitted until after business hours Friday, July 11, leaving inadequate time for Spencer to fully review the proposal. Likewise, Helstrom and his team only received Spencer's list of issues at the Monday night meeting.

Hess agreed to "referee" the tabled issue and called another special meeting of the Charlevoix Planning Commission at 6 p.m. Tuesday, July 22, at city hall, 210 State St., to again take up the Bridge Street Blooms site plan and consider each issue, one at a time.

BOYNE FALLS

Charlevoix woman, three children in rollover crash

BOYNE FALLS — Four people, including three children, sustained minor injuries in a one-vehicle rollover traffic crash that took place east of Boyne Falls Wednesday, July 9.

According to a Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office news release, the crash happened at about 6:20 p.m. on Camp Ten Road in Hudson Township.

Authorities said Elnity Godwin-Chulick, 31, of Charlevoix, traveled north-west on Camp Ten road in a 1997 Saturn station wagon when her vehicle left the road on the curve near Lalone Road. Deputies said it appears the driver overcorrected and then rolled the vehicle. Passengers included Godwin-Chulick's 10-year-old daughter and two younger siblings, ages 1 and 3, who were fastened in car seats in the rear of the vehicle.

Emergency responders took all occupants to McLaren Northern Michigan hospital in Petoskey, where medical officials treated them for minor injuries, authorities said.

The accident remains under investigation, but officials said speed is believed to be a factor.

Boyne Falls Ambulance, Boyne City Ambulance and the Hudson Township Fire Department all assisted at the scene.

mal input from those who own property on the route. "I've always said let's get property owners' consent once that's done I'd be in," he said. A small group of residents living near the proposed trail are opposing the project, saying its path travels outside the county's right of way. County officials say the right of way was extended from 100 feet on either side of the roadway's center line to 49.5 feet in the 1950s under an amended agreement with property owners. Ferguson said the public benefits of a detached trail far outweigh impacts on property owners along the route. "It's not that I don't have empathy for those people, sometimes you have to give up something maybe for the greater good," she said. "I'm in favor of hike trails, but of course you have to work with people as much as you can."

When it comes to the Ironton Ferry, Ferguson said residents of Eveline Township use the service daily and yet have no representation on the three-member county transportation board that manages it. The ferry cuts about 20 miles off the trip around the south arm of Lake Charlevoix, crossing 600 feet of water in the Ironton Narrows.

Every five years, the ferry must be removed from the water for inspection by the Coast Guard. When that time came last year, the inspection revealed significant repair work was required. By the end, the project totaled almost $450,000.

Ferguson said Eveline Township residents participated little in the process of choosing a company to do the work and approving designs for the restructured ferry.

"It went way, way over budget," she said. "You show me where the bids came in when it was contracted out. Mostly, we'd just like somebody from Eveline Township on that board, which is where most people are concerned about it."

Gillespie said Eveline Township residents have always been welcome to apply for a position on the transportation board and certainly can attend regular transportation authority meetings. None have applied and few attend, he said.

"If they had ever put an applicant forward it would certainly have been considered," Gillespie said. "We have open meetings, anyone can attend."

Police said the break-ins happened in the early morning hours of April 20 when police were called to the scene after a resident called 9-1-1 to report someone had broken into her home.

Police said items reported stolen included a television, numerous bottles of liquor and beer.

of the prosecution, the judge and jury. In doing so, he further victimized a victim by accusing her of a crime herself. I am happy that the judge gave consecutive sentences, because it was discretionary. This sentence makes it clear that defendants who try to subvert the legal system will be dealt with."

DISMISSED

"As far as I'm concerned the school board still broke the law, they just got away with it," Hoover said. "To me, it's a clear case and they need to be held accountable."

The lawsuit specifically alleged that the board unlawfully chose to vote on Eanes' termination in a closed-door session, even though she asked that the decision be made publicly in an open meeting.

State law allows for a public body to meet in closed session to consider dismissal, suspension or disciplining of personnel only if the named employee requests a closed hearing. Eanes' claims she did not ask to close the meeting to the public and that she was not allowed in the hearing.

In searching for more information about the trustees' discussion that led up to her firing, Eanes also filed several Freedom of Information Act requests to obtain email exchanges between board members sent before and after the Feb. 12 meeting.

"The board's own documents suggest there are over a dozen violations of the (Open Meetings Act) related to Eanes' termination and multiple attempts by the board to subvert the transparency that is required by law," the lawsuit stated.

Reached by phone Monday, Northwest Academy school board president Joe Seidel declined to say anything about the allegations raised in Eanes' lawsuit.

Instead, he said board members are "looking forward to starting school in about six or seven weeks."

"As far as we're concerned this is over," Seidel said. "The case was dismissed by the judge."

Asked if the board has instituted any new policies related to private email exchanges between board members, Seidel said only: "We're just looking forward to the fall."

Northwest Academy is a small K-12 public charter school in Charlevoix that opened in 1996, but financial reports show it has struggled in recent years with declining enrollment.

Eanes said she openly discussed with board members changes to school policy and procedure she thought would help turn around Northwest Academy. She was eventually put in charge of a committee assigned to make those recommended changes to the trustees.

In the months leading up to her firing, though, Eanes said she felt like her effort wasn't accepted and instead board members had turned on her.

After the incident with the student was reported to him, Seidel went to police and an investigation was launched. According to a police report dated Feb. 11, the school employee who witnessed Eanes hug and kiss the student said he was "taken back in a way" and that he thought her actions were "predatory."

Eanes, though, feels she was being targeted by the school board, which she believes had been looking for a reason to fire her and get out of paying her salary for the remainder of the year.

"Through a series of Freedom of Information Act requests, Eanes said she obtained evidence of the board's motive in their email correspondence. Some of the email exchanges are between two board members, others are between board members and the school's then-administrator, Matt Saunders. Some are sent to all board members and Saunders.

"I have not consulted with our legal council (sic) but I know that the 'at will' contract has held up to scrutiny before," Saunders wrote in a Feb. 11 email to trustee Mick Randall. "The reality is, she is out of a job by the end of May. This incident just makes the inevitable happen faster. If we can get out of paying severance then we will be better off. If not? Oh well, the school will still be better off."

Saunders' email was in response to a message from Randall that cited a New York Times article about new guidelines on sexual harassment in schools and ended with Randall writing: "Have you called OUR legal on this at all? I guess we can argue the knee jerk response as well as other cullahorated incidences. I just have a bad feeling about this. I just want to cross the T's and not our I's."

A day later and just hours before the public meeting where board members voted to terminate Eanes, Seidel wrote in an email to Saunders: "With all the players, should we gather at some set time for a pre-game conference?"

Later that night after the meeting Seidel wrote Saunders again, saying: "I guess if this ever happens to me again I would get a different lawyer. I would have thought that all the stonewalling I did would have gotten more than the response he gave."

In the days that followed, board members corresponded freely by email referencing plans for "damage control."

In a Feb. 14 email sent from Seidel to the other six board members and Saunders, the board president wrote: "Can we get together carefully, or as a committee?"

Seidel's message was in response to a lengthy email from trustee Shelia Davis early that morning — the day after students protested Eanes' firing by boycotting the school for a day.

"This is totally out of control and (yesterday) being in the school was appalling," Davis wrote. "These kids should not be allowed in any way to run this school the way it was being done (yesterday)."

Eanes also obtained a Feb. 19 email from Seidel to board vice president Richard Hodgson that stated: "We need to get together in small groups and talk this out."

In another email dated March 6 from Hodgson to Seidel, the board's vice president questions the group's actions.

"I have gone through this material several times and there really is not much for us to hang our hats on," the email reads. "The best thing we have is her statement that she had 'violated the student-teacher boundary' and that this was not an isolated incident."

At the end of his message, Hodgson writes: "Make no mistake, we are deep in the weeds. We can not afford a lawsuit, nor can we afford a large loss in our student base. Both are very possible at this point. We need to calm this down and the hard line approach is not going to work."

Eanes and Hoover said they are considering their options after last week's court ruling. One possible move is to send a formal complaint to Saginaw Valley State University, which charters Northwest Academy.

At the same time, Hoover wouldn't rule out raising the money to hire an attorney and refile the lawsuit in Charlevoix County court.

"I have a real problem letting this go, nothing was accomplished," he said. "There was nothing that supported the law, nothing has been resolved."

MEETING

but I can't be bought for a piece of beef," Sullivan said.

"I want to see the issues identified and we're a long ways from that," Sullivan added.

Dirk Cox, the company's operations manager, in previous months discussed the park land swap idea with both the Charlevoix City Council and Charlevoix Township Board, which then took ample public comments about the hot button issue. The township board last month adopted a resolution stating its position against any possible land swap between the company and state park land.

Cox could not this week be reached for comment about Wednesday's private session at the local restaurant.

Additionally, some members of the group refused to speak about the meeting at all.

"I'm sorry, but I signed a contract that I wouldn't disclose to the media what the committee talked about," said Dan Myers, of the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council and committee member.

Bill Gnodtke, of Norwood Township, confirmed that he also signed such a contract as part of the St. Marys community advisory committee.

"It was a voluntary signing, which I did do," he said. "We agreed we would do this and there will be an issue paper that comes out with the pros and cons of it."

However, Gnodtke did say he stood impressed with the way the meeting was organized and how the professional facilitators — Bill McGinnis and Ann Chastain — conducted the session.

Other listed members of the company's committee include: Alec Amstutz, Douglas Bergmann, Bill Crook, Nancy Ferguson, Bob Klein, Luther Kurtz, Jonathon Mauchmar of Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians, Nancy Rajewski, Patrick Rajewski, Marc Seelye, Dayld Skeel, Pat Whitley and Anne Zukowski. Committee observers are park supervisor Tom Copenhaver, state parks and recreation district supervisor Richard Hill, and state forest land administrator Kerry Wieber, all from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The two company observers include Cox and Courtney Schmidt, environmental manager for St. Marys Cement.

Sullivan said he expects the committee must meet at least one more time before a complete list of issues is even compiled.

Officially, there is no proposed land exchange on the books between the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the company, but St. Marys officials have for years been working on an idea to swap land with the nearby state park for future mining purposes. The company last fall paid for soil borings along well-used hiking trails within the park, completed an archeological study and a biodiversity study is under way to catalog the area's flora and fauna.

Charlevoix Public Library leaders join Charlevoix city councilors in a new tobacco-free policy for parks and beaches.

is the public will comply with the posted no-smoking signs.

"The more teens view adults smoking in public, the more likely they are to take up this bad habit. It is a modest measure, but hopefully an effective way to decrease teen smoking," said Rob Straebel, city manager.

The move came after Susan Pulaski, community health coordinator for the Northwest Michigan Health Department, in June presented the idea to Charlevoix city leaders. "We are excited to see Charlevoix making this change," she said.

Council members decided on July 7 not to schedule a future public hearing, but instead simply vote on the matter that night. At least a couple of members of the public got a word in, though.

"I think it's a beautiful idea," said David Campbell, of Charlevoix, explaining how the dangers of second-hand smoke outdoors isn't so much the issue for him, but the good example it sets for youth when in public recreation areas.

But another Charlevoix resident doesn't think the tobacco and cigarette prohibition is such a hot idea.

"This is just another constraint on the people," said Bob Timms, adding there is "no sense in passing another rule or regulation" to interfere in citizens' lives.

Brennan's comments fell in line with what Timms argued. "It's not a matter of health.

It's a matter of freedom," she said before voting in contrast to the other five city commissioners.

Then just a few days later, the board of directors for the Charlevoix Public Library made a similar change for its grounds.

"We want to affirm and promote a healthy environment at the Charlevoix Public Library," said Toni Wood, chairperson of the board's policy committee.

Like the city, the library's ban will include cigarettes, cigars, pipes, chewing tobacco, electronic or e-cigarettes, and any other related tobacco product or paraphernalia, officials said.

FOOT RACE

Mile run in memory of Ryan Shay

Invite-only Venetian Games event set for Saturday, July 26

JAMIE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — The Venetian Festival in Charlevoix would not be complete without stepping back for a moment each year to remember two local boys who made the community proud.

Jeff Drenth of Charlevoix and Ryan Shay of Central Lake became legends in their athletic fields at an early age. Their careers, though tragically ending in death, continue to be an inspiration to fellow runners and to their communities.

The Jeff Drenth Memorial Footraces are in the 36th year, while this will be the seventh year of celebrating the life and career of Ryan Shay, who is honored by bringing world-class athletes to run a mile down Bridge Street to conclude the morning running events. The competition smacks of the determination and dedication which is inherent in the sport of running, and serves as an inspiration to others who push themselves to the limits of exertion to achieve goals.

Ryan Shay attended Central Lake High School from 1993-1997. He was a four-time Class D state champion in cross country running. He was a three-time consecutive Class D state champion in the 1,600 meter and 3,200 meter runs from his sophomore through senior track seasons, and won the Class D state title in the 800-meter as a sophomore.

Shay continued running as a student athlete at the University of Notre Dame, competing in both cross country and track, where he was a nine-time All-American. Shay was the first Notre Dame runner to win an NCAA individual title, winning the 10,000-meter run at the 2001 NCAA outdoor meet in 29:05.44. He graduated as the Charlevoix school record holder in the indoor and outdoor 5,000-meter runs, as well as the 10,000-meter run. In addition, he graduated in the top of his class.

Following college, Shay ran professionally, winning races at various distances including the marathon, half-marathon, 20 km and 15 km. He also was the 2003 USATF half marathon and marathon champion. He finished in 23rd place in the 2004 Men's Olympic Marathon Trials.

During the U.S. Olympic

Trials in New York City, Shay collapsed approximately 5.5 miles into the race and was pronounced dead soon after from cardiac complications. Ryan was and remains a role model for many young people in Northern Michigan and around the country.

The seventh annual invite-only Ryan Shay Mile Run will begin at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, July 26, following the Jeff Drenth Memorial Footraces and prior to the Venetian Festival parade. There are two separate races, male and female, and the competitors in the Shay Mile are 10-20 elite distance runners who will race one mile for a total of $4,000 in prize money — 1st place is $1,000, 2nd place is $500, and 3rd place is $250. Featured are elite, professional runners from across the country and six Kenyan competitors who live in Lansing.

"The racers will run a straight mile down Charlevoix's main street and finish in front of thousands of fans awaiting the start of the Venetian Festival parade," said Matt Peterson who serves as event organizer of both the Jeff Drenth and Ryan Shay memorial races.

Jeff See (right) is the current male Ryan Shay Mile record-holder with a time of 3:55.98.

Top entrants are, in the men's category: Rob Finnerly, a University of Wisconsin alumnus (3:57 mile), Boaz Lalang, Kenya (3:52 mile), and in the women's category: Heather Klampf 2012/2013 Ryan Shay Mile Champion (4:27 mile) and Amanda Eccleston, University of Michigan alumna (4:31 mile).

Ryan's parents, Joe and Sue Shay of Central Lake, serve as honorary starters for the event.

SAILING

SEAN MILLER/COURIER

Youth sailors will on July 22 compete in the Junior Sailing Regatta as part of the annual Charlevoix Venetian Games, while adults will compete the following day.

Sailors to catch the Venetian winds next week

Two sailing regattas set as annual festivities

SEAN MILLER
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Venetian Festival is right around the coastline, and as part of the week-long event the Lake Charlevoix Mariners and Charlevoix Yacht Club will host two sailing events.

On Tuesday, June 22, the Junior Sailing Regatta will start at Depot Beach in Charlevoix. The following day, on Wednesday, June 23, the regatta will begin at Ferry Beach. Both events will begin around 10 a.m.

During the events, spectators can expect to see upwards of 50 people racing and competing with each other, showcasing their skills while on the water. The race starts with a blow of a whistle and people from the shore will be able to see the start of the race and watch the boats actively circling through the course.

Racers will be rotating to give them a chance to work with all of the boats provided for the race. By doing this, it gives everyone an opportunity to work with the variety of boats and bring fairness to the race.

The first event will feature members of the Lake Charlevoix Mariners 4-H Youth Sailing School. The school teaches children to sail by giving them hands-on experience with trimming sails, rigging the boat, tying knots, safety, docking and departing, and basic racing skills needed to successfully maneuver a sailboat. During their time in the school, kids also will have an opportunity to receive sailing achievement awards upon completion of the courses.

The Youth Sailing School is run by Tom Ochs and is open to anyone ages 8-19. Classes start in July and run Monday to Friday until the end of August. Morning classes run from 9:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.; afternoon classes run from 1:15 p.m.

Anyone over the age of 19 can still attend sailing school through the Charlevoix Yacht Club and the Lake Charlevoix Mariners. Classes are offered throughout the summer and teach all the necessary skills to sail a sailboat.

All of the instructors are certified by U.S. Sailing and all hold American Red Cross and/or American Heart Association First Aid and CPR certifications. Classes start on shore and split into crews that will hit the water for the remainder of the day.

CHARLEVOIX — City council members and Venetian Festival organizers agreed this week to collectively pay for the costs to rent state-required traffic signs to close a downtown stretch of Bridge Street for the week-long event's grand finale Saturday night.

Traffic will from 7 p.m.-midnight on July 26 be re-directed off of U.S. 31 using West Hurlhut Street to State Street to Park Avenue and then back to the federal highway, and vice versa. Police chief Gerard Doan explained at Monday's city council meeting how the initial sign rental quote of $3,800 increased to $5,650 after he met with Michigan Department of Transportation officials and a "Give EM a Brake" team — which all collectively decided to increase the number of signs along the detour.

"This isn't a new plan. This is the plan we use with street parades," Doan said.

Festival leadership also supports the concept.

"We are looking at the safety because there have been accidents — pedestrian-car accidents on Venetian Saturday," said Dan Barron, Venetian Festival board president.

Multiple council members also expressed interest — for safety's sake.

"It would be interesting to see how it works out this year with the safety," said Lyle Gennett, city councilor.

"I think the fireworks crowd is estimated at 10,000 and it would be interesting to get the cars out of the picture," said Leon Perron, city councilor.

Judge candidates take center stage

PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

BOYNE CITY — Roughly 70 people filled the Boyne Area Senior Center Monday to hear first-hand from all but one of the five candidates running for Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge in the Aug. 5 Primary Election.

Candidates Ed Engstrom, Roy C. "Joe" Hayes III, Valerie Snyder and Tom Schraw took part in the first of two planned candidate forums. Forum moderator Boyne Area Chamber Executive Director Jim Bauman said the fifth candidate, Mary Beth Kur, did not participate in Monday's forum because of a scheduling conflict.

The forum opened with each candidate giving a three-minute introduction of themselves and then the session proceeded to a series of questions developed with the help of current circuit court judge Charles W. Johnson from Emmet County and a few from the audience.

The first question posed to the candidates was, "What is the most significant challenge facing the Charlevoix (County) Circuit Court and how would you address it?"

Hayes responded, in part: "I think the obvious challenge is living up to ... the example set by Judge (Richard) Pajtas. The most important thing that whoever takes the bench next has to do is do right by the people of Charlevoix County." He added, "There is a lot of responsibility in being the circuit court judge ... and there's some pretty big shoes to fill."

Snyder responded, in part: "I think the challenges facing the circuit court are reflective of those that are faced by society as a whole, and it kind of goes back to basics. As a society we face problems like deterioration of our families, drug problems, and all of our organizations are constantly facing budget constraints. So the challenge of the court is ... how do you get at those issues within the constraints of the budget?"

Hugh Mason named Venetian parade grand marshal

COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — The 84th annual Charlevoix Venetian Festival street parade will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday, July 26, in downtown Charlevoix, with Hugh Mason serving as this year's grand marshal.

Members of the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority board selected Mason, who will be accompanied by his wife, Betsy, in the annual procession. They will travel on a carriage with a team of four beautiful Percheron draft horses as they lead the parade from Carpenter Street onto Bridge Street, through downtown to Clinton Street.

The theme for the parade this year is Mardi Gras and more than 75 floats will be decorated to celebrate this Charlevoix tradition that up to 15,000 spectators come to town to enjoy. Officials said Mason was chosen to lead the parade in honor of his dedication and countless contributions to Charlevoix during the past 32 years as DDA board chairman. His contributions include the Bridge Park project, The Hoffman Park project, The Odmark Band Pavilion and East Park, which all helped the Charlevoix area grow and thrive as a world-class vacation destination and Up North community.

Mason was born and raised in Gaylord, then spent three years in military service in Germany. He then moved to Charlevoix in 1971 after graduating from Western Michigan University and started his own accounting firm in 1979. In 1987, he

Fireworks, boat parade, art auction and more planned

SHERI MCWHIRTER-

CHARLEVOIX — The apex of the 84th annual Charlevoix Venetian Festival is upon us.

Friday and Saturday, July 25-26, prove the most action-packed days of the annual summertime celebration in the Lake Michigan shoreline city with its natural Round Lake harbor. The height of this year's festival will bring both new changes and old, Venetian favorites.

Friday begins at 9 a.m. with an inaugural event called the Independence Bike Ride on the Little Traverse Wheelway, a new and free program intended to honor military members. Participants are asked to gather at Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene and are encouraged to bring non-perishable food and hygiene donations for a local food pantry.

The annual Castle Farms Craft Show and Fiber Arts Festival begins from 1-7 p.m. Friday, with continued hours 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Sunday. That annual event has become somewhat interwoven with the other Venetian-focused events across Charlevoix.

Friday night also brings the much anticipated art auction of the original Venetian painting featured on this year's collectible festival poster, an unique creation by local artist Todd Ward, in residency at downtown's Round Lake Gallery. The painting has been on display in the gallery's Bridge Street window throughout the festival.

The art auction begins at 7 p.m. in East Park, with proceeds to benefit the Venetian Festival organization. The auction will begin immediately following the annual queen's coronation ceremony.

At dusk on Friday, a world-class fireworks display will be launched above Lake Charlevoix.

Then Saturday, the Ryan Drenth Memorial Footrace and Ryan Shay Mile footrace will occupy Bridge Street, immediately followed at 11 a.m. by the Venetian Festival street parade. Festivities will continue throughout the day Saturday in both Bridge and East Parks, including live musical entertainment, food concessions and the ongoing carnival.

At dusk on Saturday, the traditional Venetian boat parade will begin in Round Lake, followed by the harbor fireworks display. New this year will be the closure of several blocks of Bridge Street during the evening's events schedule, a decision jointly made and paid for by the Venetian Festival and Charlevoix city government.

EAST JORDANCharles Culver exhibit planned at Jordan River Arts CenterMICHAEL KADE MORROW
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

EAST JORDAN — The Jordan River Arts Council will display the works of one the most notable Michigan artists, Charles Culver, from Aug. 3-15th.

"Culver has more paintings residing in the Detroit Institute of Arts than any other Michigan artist, and we are going to have his work here," said Jane Diller, spokeswoman for the arts council.

Culver's paintings and watercolors are in private collections throughout the world, and the Detroit Institute of Arts has displayed many of his individual pieces, often in a variety of themed exhibits.

"We hope that this exhibit will introduce and inform a new audience of his life and work," Diller said.

One painting sure to inspire a sense of grandeur is Culver's piece "Caged Lion."

This piece is immense, measuring 80.5 by 52 inches, and has rarely been on display due to its immense size, according to the council.

"Charles Culver was a true artist. By this I mean that what he did in art came from within himself. It did not come from a teacher or a school, or a fashion in painting, or from the pages of a magazine. It came from his own way of seeing the work, of which his paint was the disciplined and sensitive expression. I do not mean to suggest that he was not aware of, or not interested in what went on about him, but that the way he found was his own way," wrote E.P. Richards, former director of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The exhibit also will be accompanied by an evening jazz concert, which will feature Charles Culver's son Rick. Rick Culver and his fellow musicians will play surrounded by his father's works. Rick Culver is no stranger to art himself; picking up a trombone at age 10, and by 12 years old was performing in a local Dixieland Jazz Band.

"Rick's formal education came from completing the requirements for for a bachelor's and master's degree in performance from The Juilliard School in New York, and a second master's in music theory from Michigan State," Diller said.

"We hope that this exhibit will introduce and inform a new audience of his life and work, and thank his family for the opportunity to exhibit his work," announced the council in a press release.

An opening reception for the art exhibit will be 1-4 p.m. Sunday Aug. 3, at the Jordan River Arts Center on Main Street in East Jordan, where refreshments will be served. The jazz concert will be at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 10, also at the Jordan River Arts Center. For more information, visit www.jordanriverarts.com online, or call (231) 536-3385.

Disc golf woes aired at city council

Mount McSaubu course a problem for longtime hikers

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Several concerned citizens threw their concerns out there this week about the city's disc golf course at Mount McSaubu.

Councilwoman Shirley Gibbons requested a disc golf course discussion be added to Monday's agenda for the Charlevoix City Council meeting, an opportunity to ask questions and raise concerns with the outdoor recreation facility. Several Charlevoix Township residents spoke about the problems they've had at Mount McSaubu, a city-owned facility within their neighborhood.

The various concerns include erosion along the disc golf course, the removal of trees and installation of concrete slabs, conflicting uses between disc golfers and hikers, and even the danger of disc golf to the children who attend Camp McSaubu.

Amanda Wilkin, city recreation director, explained to the council that the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality reviewed and permitted the disc golf course, which also happened to be paid for through much grant funding. The disc golf is one of various outdoor recreation allowed at the city park, as well as skiing, snowboarding, hiking, archery, swimming and more, she said.

"It's great to bring people into the community for this beautiful course," Wilkin said. She also said Charlevoix's course offers something many other disc golf sites don't — a stunning view of Lake Michigan from various spots throughout play.

But some of the neighbors don't like the disc golf course there, nor it seems, the people who play it.

Kathleen Stangis said she lives across the street from Mount McSaubu and worries about the "desecration of the area" with the felled trees and poured concrete slabs for the disc golf course. She also argued the danger of flying discs is evident, especially after one landed a few feet before her while she walked a hiking trail there.

"I don't feel comfortable walking on the trails," Stangis said. "I walk now on the street."

She also contended there is the potential for children at Camp McSaubu to be injured by flying discs from the course. At least one other neighbor agreed with her and provided testimony.

Dean Mikulski said he is a longtime user of the recreation area and years ago had a friend hit in the head by a disc, who then required eight stitches and now won't return to the city-owned site for fear of these heavy objects that can reach fast speeds and fly great distances.

"I didn't really know the dangers I was being subjected to," he said. "There is little respect for the historic use of this property."

Mikulski said he's watched "kids getting loaded there" and complained many of the disc golfers are loud and leave behind trash, including lots of beer and liquor containers.

"I think the entire course should be closed because it is dangerous," Mikulski said. "It's not fair to the McSaubu kids. It's not fair to the people who walk these trails."

Bo Boss, Mount McSaubu manager, said "right now the situation is just a little bit out of control," explaining that lights above the ice rink and building windows have been broken by discs and there are "hlow holes forming in the dunes from frequent use by disc golfers."

At the beginning, the plan was to keep the baskets off the ski hill and prevent crisscrossing with hiking trails, Boss said, but now both of those things are happening.

"I'm not saying disc golf can't work there," he said. "But the entire layout needs to be reconfigured."

East Jordan man injured in crash

EAST JORDAN — An East Jordan man remained in critical condition Wednesday after he was seriously injured in a motorcycle crash near his hometown Tuesday.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's office officials identified the injured man as the operator of the motorcycle, Case Gardner, 23. Gardner was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by East Jordan Ambulance and was later transferred to McLaren Northern Michigan hospital.

Authorities said the crash happened at about 10:40 p.m. on M-66 near Lord Road in Charlevoix County's South Arm Township when Gardner lost control of the motorcycle he was riding and ran off the roadway.

Deputies said Gardner was not wearing a helmet at the time of the crash and that speed and alcohol are believed to have been factors in this accident, which is still under investigation.

The East Jordan Police Department and East Jordan Fire Department also assisted at the scene.

Teen gets prison for repeated probation violations

CHARLEVOIX — An

East Jordan teen who violated his probation nine times since he pleaded guilty to larceny charges in 2012 has now been sentenced to prison.

Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Allen Telgenhof said last week that Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas sentenced Austin Malpass, 19, to serve 27-48 months in prison on two counts of larceny in a building. The charges are felonies punishable by up to four years in prison.

Telgenhof said in October of 2012 Malpass pleaded guilty to the charges in connection to an incident in which Malpass and two co-defendants broke into a number of cars and buildings in East Jordan on July 6, 2012.

On Nov. 30, 2012, Malpass was originally sentenced to serve six months in jail and two years probation. Telgenhof said since that time Malpass has violated the terms of his probation on nine different occasions, including the most recent when he failed to complete the Michigan Department of Correction's bootcamp program.

Greenbelts, water quality among highlights of Lake Charlevoix educational tour

MARK JOHNSON
GAYLORD HERALD-TIMES

BOYNE CITY — Local officials, lakeshore property owners and others set sail aboard an Inland Seas Education Association sailing ship on Monday to learn more about protecting Lake Charlevoix.

Representatives from various organizations including the Inland Seas Education Association, Lake Charlevoix Association and Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council were able to talk about various issues of concern to Lake Charlevoix and the property owners around it.

One of the main topics of the educational tour was the importance of greenbelts.

A greenbelt, described by Dean Solomon, senior extension educator for the MSU Extension, is a strip of vegetation along the shoreline. This strip can consist of different plants and is suggested to be around 50 feet in depth.

Greenbelts are extremely important to the health of Lake Charlevoix and other bodies of water as they help reduce shore erosion and the lack on the amount of harmful sediments and pollution entering the lake.

"(Greenbelts) can actually be established quite easily," Solomon said. "This can be done by planting trees, shrubs and even wildflowers. Landscapers can actually make greenbelts based on the ideas

Making sense of selling

Lessons learned earlier are really quite helpful in the latter part of your life. The retail world captured my interest when I was growing up because it involved meeting people from all walks of life and guiding them with their decision making. I most admit though, that my first sale involved flowers I had picked from a neighbor's yard and unknowingly tried to sell them back to one of the actual owners of that same garden. Keep in mind I was only 5 years old at the time.

From there I went on to selling my brother's collection of brightly colored Mr. Bobble bath containers that I thought could be repurposed as vases. That venture fell apart quickly but the interest in meeting and helping others branched out into different venues later in life without seeking the same type of financial gain.

My mom knew I had the gift of gab and humor just came naturally from my Irish roots. Her encouragement spurred me on. After all, the Irish are known to make friends easily, have a knack for bartering, will work to make any situation better and stand ready to bring cheer into the decision-making process. In need of money for college, numerous art supplies, plus my ever-growing collection of Beatles music, I decided to earn my money through the art of buying and selling.

My choice for honing this skill was at the prominent and well-respected J.L. Hudson Co. in Detroit. I watched, learned and listened from wonderful mentors who crossed my path and imparted knowledge that I have been able to utilize throughout my life. I spent time with J.L.

Hudson Jr. himself and consultants of Seventeen magazine, and learned to think quickly on my feet during my stint as the British Sterling Girl. All opportunities provided this bright-eyed teenager a hands-on education that shaped my interest in the art of persuasion. My focus on sales was directed to our senses that quietly guide us. After sight, smell and sound there are feelings in your heart, then intuition and lastly that part of our brain that says, "Is this something you need or something you want?"

As some of you know we are downsizing and selling our home that dates back to another era. Deciding to have an open house brought back lessons learned earlier and the British Sterling Girl came to light — at least in my mind. The sense of sight: I placed colorful freshly picked flowers in French market baskets to greet everyone as they stepped onto this spacious wraparound porch reminiscent of Martha's Vineyard. Earlier that morning, I scurried about the kitchen making certain the aroma of freshly baked cookies filled the house and then added the sounds of Pete Fountain to the soothe the soul. From yet another oven emerged the smells of bacon triggering the sense that someone's mother or grandma might be fixing breakfast.

A phone call interrupted me. It was our daughter asking how things were going, and I shared with her my thoughts on sales and senses. She reminded me not to burn the cookies. A quick flashback of when I threw one more log into the fireplace hours before our wedding. I wanted to create a warm and welcoming sight for our families; what I hadn't realized was I had accidentally closed the damper in my toss. My prior memories now found me very focused. No cookies would burn this day.

While visitors came to see our home we nestled onto the back deck letting the Lake Michigan breeze sensuously cool our bodies and warm our hearts. Sitting on Adirondacks under the shade of the down-swept vines we gazed up at the sky the color of Caribbean waters. I decided if we don't sell for now it won't be for lack of trying and instead chose to reminisce upon the raising of a family in a beautiful home and remembering the wonderful mentors from my past who taught me about selling and making sense of it all.

CHARLEVOIX HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

Charlevoix hosted regattas since at least 1869, devised primarily by local residents for their own enjoyment in very small boats. The events waxed and waned in interest until the two resorts became established in the 1880s, and then the Belvedere and Chicago Clubs really got the ball rolling. Rival maritime cloths sprang up, lasted a few years, dissolved, reconstituted with locals also being invited to participate, were renamed, dissolved again — but at their height, Charlevoix annually hosted two huge regattas spaced only a week apart. One event was a 25-mile race in Lake Michigan. Prizes from very small to expensive and elaborate were rewarded to highly skilled entrants who arrived from all over the country, and spectators arrived from all over northern Lower Michigan. Spectacular fireworks concluded the events as downtown was packed to the gills. Sound familiar? The regatta evolved into the Venetian Festival in the early 1930s, and a queen was introduced in 1935, having been part of the winter sports carnival prior to that. The first queen to bear the summertime honor was local girl Marge Carey, shown here in her royal regalia. She was crowned in a temporary fort or stockade put up for the Charlevoix County Homecoming in the area now occupied by East Park, across the street from the Quay/Asian Fusion section of Bridge Street. Save for a few years in the 1940s during and just after World War II, Charlevoix produced beautiful royalty and accompanying court ever since.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The deadline for 2014 primary election candidate and issue endorsement letters is at 5 p.m. Friday, July 25, via email sent to news@charlevoixcourier.com. Letters delivered by the U.S. Postal Service on Saturday, July 26, also will be accepted and considered for publication.

Kur 'great choice' for judge

Editor:
I write to offer an enthusiastic endorsement of Mary Beth Kur for election as Circuit Judge. My choice of Mary Beth is based on more than 40 years of legal practice focused on courtroom advocacy. My experience teaches that a judge must be skilled in the law, firm, principled and onendingly fair to all.

I have collaborated with Mary Beth on legal matters and know firsthand that she will bring all of these qualities to the Charlevoix County bench in abundant measure. She is a great choice!

Ferguson 'avid supporter' of Charlevoix County

Editor:
I am writing today to let you know of my support for Nancy Ferguson, running for Charlevoix County commissioner in District 5.

I have known Nancy for many years, as a fierce volleyball opponent, a dedicated horsewoman and an avid supporter of Charlevoix County. Nancy has shown leadership in many areas, from working on the Charlevoix County Future Land Use Plan, to implementing and recruiting the original Charlevoix County Recycling Committee. Nancy has been actively involved in township planning and county issues. She has shown exceptional leadership as the president of the recycling committee, helping develop and expand the program to its present day success.

She has shown skills as a force to be reckoned with when concerns over pollution and improper zoning endanger the livelihood of the community. Nancy has shown exceptional qualities as the past vice-president and current president of WATCH!

Nancy Ferguson will be a vital representative and spokesperson for Beaver Island, listening to the desires and concerns of her constituents. It is time to have an active voice who can get things done on time in a fiscally conservative fashion.

A vote for Nancy Ferguson is a vote for the prosperity and integrity of Charlevoix County. I urge everyone to vote for Nancy Ferguson.

Choose Gillespie for trail stance

Editor:
I read the letter to the editor endorsing commissioner Gillespie and decided to Google the sites mentioned. It is obvious they want to redefine a legal document. There must be 15 to 20 homes close to the road. What will that do to their value and their privacy?

You can get a lot of information from the commissioners' minutes: March, 2011, commissioner Gillespie voted for the Boyne City to U.S. 31 non-motorized trail grant; July, 2011, voted for resolution for non-motorized trail maintenance and voiced his concern about the property owners. After that he voted no on any more funding until the private property issue was settled.

Commissioner Gillespie wanted to resolve the property rights issue first. I read numerous articles and minutes of meetings and have learned about commissioner Christensen wanting to sanction then county planner Larry Sullivan about how he handled a grant application. Larry Sullivan and Shirlene Tripp, while planner and commissioner, did not use proper procedures and delayed admitting where the mystery document came from; our Road Commission said they would not issue the permit unless property owners signed off and then changed their minds. Larry Sullivan said, "The only money available was for a detached trail."

After talking to some people I found out there were several options. March of 2013, commissioner Lasater, joined Gillespie in asking if the property owners had been contacted. It took almost two years before they started talking to property owners in phase one. We should care about our neighbors losing their property value and their privacy.

Nancy Ferguson, running for a commissioner's seat, said, "The attitude of many is sometimes you have to give up something for the greater good" or "the benefits of a detached trail far outweigh impacts on property owners along the route." I have never heard a Republican say "you have to give up something for the greater good!" She thinks it is OK to take private property! What will she want to take next?

Commissioner Gillespie is an honest, fair man that cares about property rights and considers all sides before making any decision on any issue.

Gillespie 'voice of reason' in trail debate

Editor:
Commissioner Gillespie was key in getting the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road rebuilt and many other projects for the county, for the benefit of all. While being an advocate for the trail, why has he been the only voice of reason in this debate?

In 1958, the Charlevoix County Road Commission purchased 16.5 feet, often for a dollar, from the property owners along the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road, and with the help of those citizens they would make the road safer and the distance changed from 33 feet to 49.5 feet from center line.

As written in the signed contract, the sole and only purpose was for highway purposes that meant cars and trucks. The contract also stated, "The altering of the existing line of road" and they did reconfigure the road. They altered the road 2 feet, 4 feet, 8 feet and in some places more, naturally that changed the center line of the road.

A portion of the 16.5 feet has now been used to widen and straighten the road. Fifty years later the county commissioners (with the exception of commissioner Gillespie) and the Road Commission want to take more private property by allowing them to measure 49.5 from the reconfigured center line for a detached recreation trail.

They have been aware of this for years and still refuse to resurvey the road. What they are doing is not legal. The road must be surveyed before they build a detached trail as stated in the County Road Law of 1909, Public Act No. 283, Section 224.11(4). I understand why Northwest Design Group, trail designers, wanted to be exempt from certain issues, and their agreement with the county reads "agrees to indemnify, defend and hold harmless NDG ... from and against any claim or injury, damage or cost ... occurring in connection with or relative in any way to ... right-of-way adjacent to Boyne City Charlevoix Road."

Two years ago I had my property reassessed by the Bay Township assessor and discovered my family and then I had been paying taxes on that 16.5 feet for almost 50 years. How many other property owners are still paying taxes on that 16.5 feet? Nancy Ferguson said, "The benefits of a detached trail far outweigh impacts on property owners along the route." She seems to be more interested in special interest groups than the citizens of the road and isn't interested in a compromise. What else won't she compromise on?

I commend commissioner Gillespie for everything he has done for the county and taking a stand for fairness to everyone.

Historical society hosts Harsha House gift shop

CATHY DEWEY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Located on State Street in downtown Charlevoix is the Harsha House, home to the Charlevoix Historical Society Museum and Gift Shop. Inside this historic home Charlevoix's history comes to life.

For a $1 admission donation, the Harsha House opens its doors to visitors and residents to learn about where Charlevoix started. The gift shop offers many Charlevoix- and Michigan-inspired gifts, many that are locally made.

History buffs will enjoy the wide variety of historic books, many featuring Charlevoix and its unique waterway history, the bridge and other highlights.

There are also DVDs on Earl Young's "mushroom houses," Charlevoix history and P.D. Campbell, a local artist whose artwork is also featured on notecards at the gift shop.

Children can pick from playing cards to puzzles and books, while adults can enjoy the unique gifts like a locally made Petoskey stone picture frame or Charlevoix-inspired Christmas ornaments. There are also a selection of post cards, T-shirts and other collectibles to choose from.

"We are expanding our gift shop more every day," said Sally Weaver, co-director of the Charlevoix Historical Society.

The current exhibit is a companion to the Smithsonian Collection that was at the Charlevoix Library earlier this year titled "Journey Stories." The exhibit at the library told the tale of how our ancestors came to America and the variety of different types of transportation utilized. The Charlevoix Historical Society created its own local Journey Stories exhibit that will be on display at the museum.

"We expect the exhibit to be up for at least a year, with additions to be added," Weaver said.

The Charlevoix Journey Stories exhibit features the history of the waterways, the Resort Era, lumbering and so much more. It is a must-see for both locals and visitors — the reasons why Charlevoix is like no other town.

The Charlevoix Historical Society also has many historic photographs and documents that can be viewed, some that were transferred from glass plates. The founder of the society, Bob Miles, also has a featured area and a bicentennial tower that was made out of Petoskey stone.

More information on the Charlevoix Historical Society can be found at www.chxhistory.com where shoppers can purchase many of the gift shop items. Museum hours are noon-4 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday. The museum is handicap accessible.

Those interested in becoming a member of the Charlevoix Historical Society can call (231) 547-0373. Members receive a 15 percent discount on all gift shop items.

Cellular Connection to host annual backpack giveaway

CHARLEVOIX — Residents in Charlevoix are about to benefit from a national backpack giveaway campaign.

The Cellular Connection, the largest Verizon premium wireless retailer in the U.S., in a joint effort with its customers, announced it will donate 100,000 backpacks full of school supplies to children through its School Rocks Backpack Giveaway. Last year, the company donated 60,000 backpacks.

More than 350 participating Cellular Connection stores across the U.S. are inviting local families to bring their children to the store between noon and 2 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 2, to pick up a backpack filled with pencils, paper, a pencil box, folders, glue and more. One backpack per child present will be given away on a first-come, first-served basis while supplies last.

The participating store in Charlevoix is at 153 M-66 North. Each participating Cellular Connection store will donate between 75 and 300 backpacks. All leftover backpacks will be donated to local schools.

"The backpack giveaway is a huge part of TCC's 'Culture of Good' movement that's all about making a positive impact on employees while benefiting the world," said Scott Moorehead, president and CEO of The Cellular Connection. "It's how our company gives back to every community where we do business, and it involves every employee at every level. We're honored to have the ability to give back to those who need it."

Charlevoix residents also joined the cause. Since the beginning of March, the company's customers have had the option to round their purchases up to the nearest dollar with the difference going directly toward the School Rocks Backpack Giveaway.

In 2013, the National Retail Federation predicted the average person with children in grades K-12 would spend $86 on school supplies such as notebooks, pencils and backpacks. On top of that, nearly 16 million children in the U.S. live in poverty. The Cellular Connection is doing its part to ensure that as many children as possible are set up for educational success.

Chicago Club scholarships support Camp McSauba program

CHARLEVOIX — The sound of happy campers can be heard at Camp McSauba again this summer, and camp activities are in full swing.

Many of the campers enjoying a lot of supervised fun are benefiting from the support of the members of the Chicago Club, which has once again provided scholarships that help youngsters attend camp.

Utilizing a fund they established at the Charlevoix County Community Foundation more than a dozen years ago, the members of the Chicago Club have consistently supported projects that benefit Charlevoix's young people. Through the fund, the Chicago Club members have provided more than $115,000 in supplemental resources to help struggling families with medical and dental needs, get youngsters enrolled in swimming lessons, provide access to a school nurse, camp scholarships and much more.

"The Chicago Club is such an important resource in Charlevoix," said Maureen Radke, program officer at the foundation, adding, "the club is so generous in their support of programs and projects that make such a positive impact on young people."

The Camp McSauba scholarships are an extension of the Chicago Club's desire to continue to support enrichment activities for Charlevoix youth, and this year's grant will allow more than 20 campers to enjoy a week at camp that their families may otherwise have been unable to afford.

"Camp McSauba has been a great community asset since 1975, and now we're hosting many second generation campers," said Linda Amstutz, director of Camp McSauba.

"Each week has a different and cool theme," she said, adding, "we've had Safari Week, McSauba's Got Talent, Blast from the Past and Mystery

Cheri Leach from Raven Hill Discovery Center thrilled campers with a hands-on science session, including a snake named Checkers.

Mayhem, and we also added disc golf to our sporting activities."

Camp McSauba's daily activities include small and large group games, arts and crafts, archery and field sports. A trip to the beach is included every day, too. Each camp session runs five days, with a sleepover on Thursday night, and an awards ceremony for campers, parents, grandparents and friends each Friday morning.

"We know how important Camp McSauba is to each camper," Amstutz said. "They make lifetime friends here, and we're so fortunate to have such good community partners in the Chicago Club and the Charlevoix County Community Foundation."

The Chicago Club was established in 1880, and today, many of the original families continue to maintain cottages in the association. Although most members are summer residents of Charlevoix, the club has a long history of generously supporting local causes.

"The Chicago Club continues to make a difference in Charlevoix," said Chip Hansen, foundation president, noting, "and their support of youth projects makes it possible for young people to get the help they need and participate in activities that they enjoy."

The Chicago Club's Fund is among the 258 funds held by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, each one designated to support a specific cause or address general needs, in education, the environment, arts and culture, health, civic projects, youth and recreation.

For more information about grant application deadlines or other programs of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, call the foundation office at (231) 536-2440, visit the foundation's website at www.c3f.org, or email Chip Hansen, president, at chansen@c3f.org.

Bakery sets up 'Outpost' at shopping center

SEAN MILLER
NORTHERN MICHIGAN REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — A kiosk to a Charlevoix shopping center's parking lot represents the latest expansion effort by Northern Michigan bakery and restaurant chain Johan's.

Johan's Outpost opened during the Memorial Day weekend at the Captain's Corner plaza — home to a Family Fare supermarket and other stores — near the corner of M-66 and U.S. 31. It offers pastries, daily lunch specials, coffee, and soft-serve ice cream.

"I saw an opportunity to serve the other side of town," said John Sheets, who manages Johan's Charlevoix locations. "Some Charlevoix residents don't come into town, which keeps them away from our bakery downtown. By opening the kiosk we can serve everyone in the Charlevoix area."

The kiosk is also well-positioned to serve customers who are passing through the community.

In a way, the new kiosk is an extension of Johan's downtown bakery. Both places offer hot and cold beverages as well as daily lunch specials. The kiosk includes an additional quick-service provision, a drive-up window.

Johan's was established in 1958. Its main store, located across the street from McLaren Northern Michigan hospital in Petoskey, still makes doughnuts and other treats. Along with Petoskey and Charlevoix, the chain now has a presence in Boyne City, Walloon Lake and Harbor Springs.

Johan's Outpost is open 7 a.m.-5 p.m. daily.

If you'd like to contact Johan's Bakery or Outpost in Charlevoix you can call (231) 547-1380 or visit them downtown or in the Family Fare parking lot near the south side of Charlevoix.

Johan's Outpost operates in this kiosk at the Captain's Corner Shopping Center on Charlevoix's south side.

Baker College manufacturing program enrolling for fall classes

CHARLEVOIX — Baker College of Cadillac's manufacturing program offered during the evenings at Charlevoix Middle/High School is entering its second year with good results.

"The students have had an incredibly collaborative experience in a program supported by many of the manufacturers throughout the region," said Mark Lagerwey, dean of business and technology for Baker College of Cadillac.

"We worked extensively with CMS/HS and local industries to ensure the program is successful for all involved. This includes helping to meet the strong demand in Northern Michigan for trained CNC machinists, thus providing our graduates excellent job prospects. Add to the tireless leadership and attention to detail of Baker's advanced manufacturing technology coordinator, David Dewey, and it's apparent why the program has had such a successful start."

Dewey, a native of Northern Michigan and graduate of Lake Superior State University, has more than 10 years of manufacturing experience as an engineer performing product design, testing and certification.

Baker College is now enrolling students for the second cohort, beginning 2014 fall quarter. The program offers a computer numerical control (CNC) operator certificate and an advanced manufacturing associate degree. Classes start Monday, Sept. 29, and registration continues through the first week of classes. It is open to adults as well as high school juniors and seniors through a dual-enrollment program.

The program is designed for those already employed and those looking to advance their careers, as well as those interested in beginning a career in manufacturing. It is also offered at Baker's Cadillac campus.

Program enhances work performance, leads to jobs "I've seen a lot of sharing of knowledge between students who work in manufacturing and those who don't, which greatly increases the information that the students can access," Dewey said.

He added that the classroom creates a safe place for students to ask questions, discuss techniques and share different perspectives. About three-fourths of the students who began the program were already working full time in manufacturing. For some, it is a requirement for their employment.

Ellsworth resident Luke Springstead was one of the students who was not already employed by a manufacturing company upon enrollment. At Dewey's urging and with his recommendation, Springstead now works as an entry-level machinist at Michigan Scientific Corporation, which produces instrumentation slip ring assemblies.

Springstead is one of many in his cohort of 14 students who will continue to attend classes after completion of his CNC certificate program to earn an associate degree in advanced manufacturing.

"Our teachers truly want us to succeed," Springstead said. "We look forward to going to class. We've learned how to operate a mill and a lathe. I didn't expect to have this kind of hands-on experience so early in my education. It's been amazing."

The Traverse City Central High School graduate worked as a deckhand on a Lake Michigan car ferry before deciding to enroll in the Charlevoix program.

"My grandfather was a machinist at the Buick plant in Flint for more than 35 years," Springstead said. "I remembered his stories about how much he enjoyed his job, and they eventually sparked my interest."

For more information about the advanced manufacturing program in Charlevoix, contact David Dewey, advanced manufacturing technology coordinator for Baker College, at (231) 330-8946, or Audrey Charmoli in the Baker College admissions office at (231) 876-3100 or Audrey.Charmoli@bakcr.edu.

Financial assistance is available to students, including scholarships, grants, low-interest loans and work-study programs.

The largest private college in Michigan, Baker College is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission and is a member of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. It is a nonprofit higher education institution, serving more than 35,000 students on 12 campuses and in three satellite locations. Baker grants certificates and associate, bachelor's and master's degrees in business, health sciences, education and human services, and various technical fields, as well as a doctorate of business administration.

For more information about Baker College, visit www.baker.edu online.

of the property owner."

The current state of the fish within Lake Charlevoix is already a bit concerning to some, but without proper greenbelts, the status of these fish could be in danger.

Jeanie Williams, lead scientist and education director for the Inland Seas Education Association, said the sediments and chemicals that could enter the lake could greatly stress the fish, if not kill them.

"Fish in these lakes are already threatened," Williams said. "The fish in the lake already have more tension on them and we need to do everything we can to prevent anything getting worse."

Competition for food is one area that is leading to the stress that many of these fish Williams mentioned are experiencing. A threat to the fish in competing for food is the zebra and quagga mussel species.

These species are filter feeders and as a result have made water clarity rise over the years as they feed on algae and other nutrients.

Many think clearer water is a good sign, however there are positives and negatives. Clearer water means less phytoplankton and other species of plankton, which are important sources of food to other fish.

Though clearer water will mean less food, clearer water also enables underwater plants to perform photosynthesis. Because of this, Solomon and others agreed that clearer water has benefits as well as disadvantages.

This and other information, including different regulations regarding shoreline management was made available to those participating in the educational tour, but there were also some interactive opportunities.

Water samples from the lake were collected and with the help of Emily Shaw, education and volunteer coordinator for the Inland Seas Education Association, pH and other testing on the samples was completed.

Different elements affect the pH of the water, including limestone found throughout the Great Lakes basin.

Shaw said limestone is one of the most important factors in keeping waters at a low pH level.

"There are a few lakes just outside the Great Lakes basin, just outside, that have a granite basin (instead of limestone) and those lakes are completely acidified," Shaw said. "There are no fish in there."

All of these topics and much more information was provided as a key outreach opportunity on the importance of keeping Lake Charlevoix healthy.

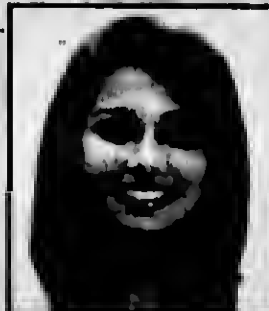

Though the lake is not in too much danger as far as pollution and other health concerns, Solomon said it is important to continue to work to maintain Lake Charlevoix's current condition and strive to make it better.

"It is in pretty good shape right now," he said. "The biggest challenge is to build new greenbelts and maintain current ones."

Blood donations urgently needed

RACHEL BROWNHAM
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

If you can, roll up your sleeve and donate — that's the urgent message the American Red Cross is trying to get out.

The organization is facing a looming blood shortage which in turn will lead to an urgent need for donors of all blood types. Donations through the Red Cross are down about 8 percent over the last 11 weeks, resulting in about 80,000 fewer donations than expected. The number of donors continues to decline, and the shortfall is significant enough that the Red Cross could experience an emergency situation in the coming weeks.

In addition, the Independence Day holiday falling on Friday reduced the number of blood drives scheduled in early July. Many sponsors did not host drives because people took vacations either over the long weekend or for the entire week. In an average summer week, about 4,400 Red Cross blood drives are scheduled, compared to Independence Day week when only 3,450 drives occurred.

"Hospital patients continue to need lifesaving blood this summer, and they're relying on the generosity of volunteer donors to give them hope in the days and weeks ahead," said Jim Flickema, CEO for the Red Cross Great Lakes Blood Services Region.

"Please, consider giving the gift of life. Each day donations come up short, less blood is available for patients in need — and you never know when it could be your loved one needing blood."

Eligible donors with types O negative, B negative and A negative blood are especially needed at this time. Type O negative is the universal blood type and can be transfused to anyone who needs blood. Types A negative and B negative can be transfused to Rh positive or negative patients.

There is also an urgent need for platelet donations. Platelets — a key clotting component of blood often needed by cancer patients, burn victims and bone marrow recipients — must be transfused within five days of donation, so it's important to have a steady supply of platelets on hand.

The summer can be among the most challenging times of the year for blood and platelet donations as regular donors delay giving while they take vacations and participate in summer activities. When school is out of session for summer break, donations from those who normally give on campus tend to drop by more than 80 percent.

The Great Lakes Blood Services region serves 65 counties and needs to collect about 650 units of blood each day to meet patient needs in hospitals. To schedule an appointment, call (800) RED-CROSS (800-733-2767) or visit www.redcross.org. Individuals who are 17 years of age, meet weight and height requirements (110 pounds or more depending on height) and are in generally good health may be eligible to give blood. Bring your Red Cross donor card or another form of identification when you come to donate.

The following is a list of upcoming blood drives in Charlevoix, Emmet and Ontonagon counties:

— 11 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Friday, July 25, at Peace Lutheran Church in Gaylord — noon to 5:45 p.m. Monday, July 28, at the American Red Cross building in Petoskey

Area libraries adopt virtual catalog

A new virtual catalog was released at many area libraries this month which will make searching for and finding the books and other materials easier, faster and more fun.

The libraries involved are part of the PAC2 library consortium, which includes Alcona County Library, Boyne District Library, Charlevoix Public Library, Cheboygan Area Public Library, Crooked Tree District Library, Mackinaw Area Public Libraries, Montmorency County Public Libraries, Petoskey District Library, and Presque Isle District Libraries.

The catalog enables patrons to keep track of their borrowing history, contribute ratings and reviews, create favorites lists or topic guides to share with others (or keep private), get personalized recommendations and even catalog their own home library. Each time a patron creates a list or adds comments, it helps build a better catalog for all to enjoy. Privacy settings can help patrons control how much or how little of their content others can see.

A better search function makes it easy to find items. Patrons will be able to narrow a search by publication date, age level, format (including the ebooks and audiobooks that are available through the Up North Digital Collection), and other facets for quick and precise results. Searches can be made for what is available on the shelf at the home library, or all libraries in the system. Items will be sent through the library delivery service to the patron's home library. There is a "pass-through" search function that connects to the Michigan E-Library for those needing items not available from the local consortium.

"We are looking forward to introducing patrons to this new way of engaging with their local libraries and communities," said Karen Sher-rard, director of the Petoskey District Library. "The staff of all the libraries would like to thank you ahead of time for your patience during this exciting transition."

For more information, contact Charlevoix Public Library at (231) 547-2651, or visit www.charlevoixlibrary.org online.

spoke at the council meeting. He said the DEQ permitted the removal of small trees and the installation of concrete slabs at some tee boxes, an effort to reduce erosion at those sites. He also said signs warning disc golfers to stay aware of hikers and campers, and vice versa, are installed at the site and that ultimately, the course was planned to make more use of an "under-utilized space."

"The trails that are eroding are actually the hiking trails," Evans said, also adding the last time he received an injury at Mount McSaubia was when a lawn mower flung a golf ball that hit his ankle — regular golf not being among the allowed uses there.

"I don't see any issues we have out there that are insurmountable," Evans said.

Resident Pat Duffy also spoke in defense of the course and the activity that is growing in popularity not just among young people, but also seniors. She found it hard to believe officials are "hickering" over these two uses at such a large recreation area, she said.

At one time, people didn't want snowboarders to be allowed at Mount McSaubia either, Duffy pointed out.

"I really take offense to stereotyping disc golfers," she said.

Councilman Lyle Gennett asked whether the course could be reduced from 18 to 9 holes, as was once done at the city-owned regular golf course. Evans said a reconfiguration could be done. Including another state permitting process.

Gibbons said she wants a safer material used at the tee boxes, rather than concrete. "I'd like to see all the cement taken out of there," she said.

Mayor Norm Carlson Jr. said he wants to learn more about other materials, too, and requested a report back to council from city manager Rob Strauch.

come up with the initial cost estimate, but sought help this week from city coffers for the cost $1,500, or so.

Mayor Norman Carlson said perhaps if the street closure is a success this year, downtown businesses would be more willing to "pony up" donations to pay for the state traffic signs rental fees in the future.

Council member Shirley Gibson said she understands the increased safety concept, but asked "how deep are the pockets of the city?"

Fellow council member Peggy Brennan said she doesn't believe $1,500 will break the city's bank account. In fact, the council earlier in the meeting voted to spend $8.5 million to upgrade the city's wastewater treatment plant to meet state effluent discharge regulations.

"I think this is something that is important and we should go forward with it," Brennan said about re-routing Bridge Street traffic.

City Council unanimously voted to cover the remaining balance to rent the traffic signs from the state.

Barron said festival organizers are talking about next year planning in advance for the street closure and perhaps even scheduling street performers and other entertainment, with all types of downtown marketing possibilities.

Additionally, a member of the audience spoke and suggested this move could save both the city and the festival when it comes to liability insurance premium costs because of the improved safety conditions for the public.

sible solution.

Schraw responded, pointing to the move in some courts to requiring digital filing of court documents as a possible factor blocking access to the courts for some. Schraw noted that not everyone has access to a computer and/or can afford an attorney. He added that while there are some good things offered for the court system by emerging technology, "Not every trend that is linked to electronic technology is healthy for the people of the county. It may be healthy for the clerk's office, it may be healthy for the court, but it's not necessarily healthy for the people."

Engstrom responded: "You know, the hardest challenge for the court is making a decision knowing that certain people are not going to like that decision... You've got to have a tough skin. You've got to do the right thing based on the facts and the legal authority... not because of what somebody is going to say in the paper the next day. Your job is to do the right thing. It might not be the favorite thing, but it's the right thing."

The candidates were asked what was the most difficult ethical dilemma each had faced and how did they handle the situation.

Schraw responded that he usually consults the Michigan Bar Association's ethics hotline when he is uncertain of how to handle such a situation, and he pointed to concerns that some have raised about the fact that, should he be elected, he would be barred from hearing cases in which his son, Joel, who is also an attorney in Schraw's firm, is involved in. Schraw said handling such a situation can easily be accommodated by bringing in a visiting judge from another court in a neighboring jurisdiction.

Engstrom said he's been in many difficult ethical situations, but couldn't point to one that stood out above the others. However, he said, if he has a client that won't listen to his advice and wants to go down some path that he (Engstrom) isn't willing to do, he would withdraw as that person's attorney.

Hayes pointed to a situation where his client was testifying in a divorce case and Hayes knew his client was lying about the status of a boat. Hayes said he asked for a recess, pulled the client aside and told him he either had to testify truthfully, or he would no longer represent him. He said the man went back and testified truthfully.

Snyder pointed to a time when she was working in a probate court and one of her responsibilities was to represent underage teen girls seeking a "judicial waiver," which would allow them to get an abortion without their parents' consent. (She explained that the waivers are intended for situations where telling the girl's parents might put the girl in danger.) Snyder said there came a time where she felt one court was calling her too often for such cases, and she believed many of the cases did not meet the standard to qualify for the waiver, so she chose to not take those cases anymore.

The candidates were asked if, when considering a motion, if they would pre-judge their ruling on the motion based on the pre-motion filings or would they wait to hear oral arguments in court.

Snyder said she would do a hybrid of the two. She said she would come to court prepared and do her research, but keep an open mind during oral arguments.

Schraw agreed that it needs to be a combination of the two; that the judge needs to be a good listener, but it's not necessary to re-visit everything that was in the written briefs, but instead focus in on what the real issues of the motion are.

Engstrom said it's important for attorneys to submit briefs prior to motions so they and the judge can do their research. "When you get to court you hit the main points, and if you've got something new, you give it to the judge," he said.

Hayes said a good part of circuit court practice is motion work, where most of the work on deciding on those kinds of motions is based on the written work. "A judge would show up with a tentative ruling, then keep an open mind during oral argument to be persuaded that you were wrong," Hayes said.

Asked if they have ever had to support a legal position that was contrary to their personal moral belief, each one said it's a very common occurrence for attorneys to face this situation.

Schraw pointed to a situation where he was appointed to represent a man for whom his family was seeking a guardianship, and even though it seemed evident to Schraw that a guardianship was warranted, he said it was still his job to represent the interest of the client.

Engstrom pointed to situations in divorce cases when he has seen clients do things that they shouldn't — especially things that are detrimental to children. He said if it gets bad enough in those situations, he would withdraw.

Hayes also said these situations happen regularly. "It's pretty common for attorneys representing people in criminal cases have moral issues with the conduct of their clients, but it's imperative for our criminal justice system that the lawyers play the role of providing a vigorous defense for the individual who made the mistake," he said.

Snyder agreed about the commonness and importance of the role of attorneys, but she also noted that attorneys have one advantage over judges — they can withdraw from cases. "When you are the judge you don't have that luxury, you have to apply the law whether you like it or not," she said.

In his closing statement Hayes said, "I believe this election will have more impact on the daily lives of the people of Charlevoix County than any other election... since 1994. Most of the important decisions that will impact the people of Charlevoix County will be made in the Charlevoix County Circuit Court." He also asked people to become informed on the candidates running for the post and suggested seeking input from people who are familiar with the county court system.

In her closing statement, Snyder highlighted three points: She pointed to her community involvement, such as serving on the Charlevoix School Board, and other boards; that she is comfortable with functioning well in a public role; and that through her community involvement she is well aware of the issues the community is facing. "What I can tell you is if I'm elected judge... no matter who the person is who comes into the courtroom... everyone would walk out with a decision that is fair, that complies with the law and is completely impartial," Snyder said.

In his closing, Schraw said, "As a judge you can depend that I will give everyone a fair chance to be heard. I want you to think about — it was Ronald Reagan who said, 'We can't help everybody, but we can help somebody.' That's why I'm in this race. Nobody needs to fear coming into my courtroom... if you come into my courtroom, you can speak. You will get a fair chance to be heard."

In his closing Engstrom promised to continue going door-to-door to keep connecting with people and to educate people about him and the race. "I think it's the best way to relate to people.

I also do it because I listen to people. I listen to their concerns. I absorb them," he said. Engstrom added, "Being a judge isn't all looking at the facts and the law. It's knowing how humans relate to each other, how they have certain problems." He also added that he feels he's a fair person and although the campaigning process has been difficult, even if he doesn't win the election, he'll have no regrets about running.

The next judge candidate forum will take place at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 29, at the Charlevoix Public Library.

The top two vote-getters in the primary election will face off in the November general election.

partnered with Velda Kammernann until he retired in 2009. His financial expertise in funding the development of downtown Charlevoix played a crucial role in his leadership as chairman.

"I have been real lucky to work with the great people at the DDA over the past 32 years. It has been a lot of fun," Mason said.

Betsy explained a little further.

"What a great honor it is for Hugh to be recognized for his time effort and dedication. It has been a labor of love for him. We both love Charlevoix," she said.

Dan Barron, president of Charlevoix Venetian Festival for the past 16 years, has become the new chairman of the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority board after Mason's retirement.

"Hugh has provided leadership as chairman of the DDA since 1982. There have been phenomenal accomplishments under his leadership. He was responsible for the new street lights and streetscape, parking improvements for Bridge Street downtown, both the Hoffman and Bridge parks and the East Park—the 'jewel' of Charlevoix," Barron said.

The Charlevoix Venetian Festival street parade is a family-friendly event that kids of all ages can enjoy. The Mardi Gras-themed floats, two life drum corps, and The Sault Ste. Marie Pipe Band from Canada, are just a few of the many entries in this year's celebrated parade.

Mason said he is honored to serve as grand marshal of event in recognition for all of his contributions to Charlevoix.

Community, Rayders rally benefit game for coach

Keith Haske cancer fight brings fundraiser, bank account

CHARLEVOIX — It's going to be a busy weekend, with the Venetian Festival events and grand finale, but many Charlevoix residents have an important date on their calendars for Sunday.

A highly celebrated and longtime Charlevoix basketball coach needs help, and the community intends to provide it. Keith Haske left a powerful legacy during his stellar 13 seasons with the Rayders, but now battles throat cancer.

Haske, 56, received the diagnosis in May and decided to seek treatment at one of the top throat cancer facilities in Houston, Texas, where he and his wife stayed through June and are expected to remain through July.

Meanwhile, his former Rayder family will gather at a Haske alumni basketball fundraiser set for 1 p.m. Sunday, July 27, at the Charlevoix High School gym. The game is open to any former player (boys or girls) who played under Haske at Charlevoix or Traverse City St. Francis.

Haske proved to be among the most successful basketball coaches in Northern Michigan. He came to Charlevoix from St. Johns and took over the Rayder program in 1998. In 13 seasons, he guided the Rayders to 10 Class C district championships, six regional titles, four state semifinal appearances and state runner-up berths in 2001 and 2004.

He compiled a 239-78 record (.753 winning percentage) and led Charlevoix to four Lake Michigan Conference championships and five runner-up finishes. The Rayders tied for fifth place in the league in Haske's first year in 1997-98, and never finished below third thereafter.

He also coached the Charlevoix girls' program from 2004-06, leading the Rayders to a 27-1 record and state runner-up finish in 2004.

At St. Francis, where he took over in 2010, Haske guided the Gladiator boys team to a state runner-up finish in 2012.

For more information, contact event organizer Liz Shaw at lshaw@rayder.net.

Additionally, donations for Haske and his family can directly be made via Charlevoix State Bank, officials said. Deposits can be made or checks written out to the Keith Haske benefit account, c/o Charlevoix State Bank, P.O. Box 217, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

All proceeds from the event, accompanying silent auction and bake sale, and bank account contributions will help the Haske family with medical bills and expenses.

Pier pressure

Charlevoix DDA board supports new marina expansion plan

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — A potential marina expansion is back on the agenda for Charlevoix city officials with an altogether new proposal — and pier — in the drawings.

Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority board members unanimously agreed Monday to recommend the latest marina expansion plans to city council, even suggesting an uptick in size. More city officials must review the plan before final approval.

"I think it's a great compromise," said Fred DiMartino, DDA board member.

A special city marina committee began to meet in June after an earlier proposal launched a heated local debate about the positive economic impact of increased boat traffic in the city's marina, versus visual and potential environmental and navigational impacts to already busy Round Lake.

This time, the plan is for a new pier to be constructed along city property north of existing Pier A. Current drawings call for five additional 80-foot slips on the southern side of the pier, with room for up to a 92-foot yacht to moor at the end, plus space along the seawall for shoppers' docks. The Keweenaw Star would then moor along the northern side of the pier, where cruise ships also periodically could dock.

But Charlevoix DDA board members want these latest plans increased to seven 80-foot slips, and all the rest.

"With great debate, we decided to come up with a compromise to move the issue forward," said Bethany Pearson, Charlevoix's economic development director.

Venetian Festival road closure proves popular

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — It's amazing how people's anxiety fades when the realistic threat of a painful death on a highway is removed.

Venetian Festival revelers on Saturday, July 26, meandered down the closed section of Bridge Street, popped into stores for an ice cream or cupcake, picked up a souvenir sweatshirt, or even just goofed around in the street. The scene proved much different from all recent Venetian Festival finale nights in downtown Charlevoix, this being the first time city officials worked with the Michigan Department of Transportation to block traffic on this traditionally busy night.

"People were not only happy, they were almost giddy about having the street closed," said Dan Barron, festival board president and chairman of Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority board.

Police chief Gerard Doan said he believes the Bridge Street closure — a four-block section of U.S. 31 — went extremely well. Authorities redirected vehicles to State Street and back again.

"The public was very appreciative and enjoyed the change," Doan said. Additionally, no pedestrians were struck by vehicles, he said.

Voters face tough choice among 5 experienced judge candidates

STEVE ZUCKER
NEWS WRITER

CHARLEVOIX — The next person who serves as the Charlevoix County Circuit Court judge will undoubtedly have many difficult decisions to make, but first the county's voters will have a tough choice of their own as they select from among five seasoned attorneys who are running for the post.

On Tuesday more than 100 people packed into the community rooms at the Charlevoix Public Library to hear the final of two candidate forums for the five candidates hoping to be elected in November to replacing retiring circuit court judge Richard M. Pajtas.

The candidates, Thomas Schraw of Boyne City and Valerie Snyder, Roy C. "Joe" Hayes, Edward Engstrom and Mary Beth Kur, all of Charlevoix, will face off on the Tuesday, Aug. 5 primary election. The two top vote-getters in the primary election will go on to square off in the Nov. 4 general election.

Tuesday's forum format was nearly identical to the first forum which took place last week in Boyne City. Each candidate had three minutes to present an opening statement. Then each candidate had the opportunity to answer a series of questions prepared by Judge Pajtas and by the Michigan Attorney General's office. The forum concluded after about 90 minutes with each candidate being given up to five minutes for a closing statement.

All five of the candidates have extensive experience in a wide array of law practice — working in the Charlevoix County Circuit Court and other courts. All of the candidates also discussed their extensive community service efforts.

All agreed that the judge, not the attorneys should be in charge of case management, and all five also answered, "No" when asked if they had ever been disciplined by the state bar association.

One question on which the candidates differed somewhat was on the value of establishing a "drug court."

Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair marks 56th year

East Park home to state's second-oldest juried art fair

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — For 56 years, artists and visitors alike have made the annual Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair an August destination.

They come by plane, boat and automobile; local patrons are fortunate enough to just walk down the street or across town to take in an exhibition which has achieved national recognition. The second-oldest juried art fair in the state, the show includes artists from the area as well as from those who travel across the country to exhibit and sell their work.

This year's event will be 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 9, in downtown Charlevoix's East Park.

The Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair dates back to 1959, with an effort by local art enthusiasts and patrons to bring a quality art exhibition to Charlevoix. It evolved over the years, but its originally established tradition of excellence has never been compromised.

An interesting component of the early "Waterfront Fair for Artists and Craftsmen" beginning in 1961 was the introduction of fine art masterpieces presented for viewing as special exhibits in the park. Most of these exhibits were provided on loan from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cummings of Chicago, Palm Beach and Charlevoix. Cummings had acquired a lucrative enterprise in the multimillion dollar Sara Lee conglomerate and was a philanthropist and art lover.

Longtime residents and philanthropists, the late Edith and Julius Gilbert, also proved instrumental in the organization of the early Art Fair. They added the Artmobile which was an outreach from the Detroit Institute of Art. The Artmobile was featured in three shows, exhibiting 25-30 pieces of art from the institute. Although the special exhibits ceased after the first 20 years of the art fair, the adherence to three prerequisites for a successful show continue: No. 1 — good organization; No. 2 — excellent talent; and No. 3 — a knowledgeable public.

The Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair, as it has been designated since 1990, and the Charlevoix Council for the Arts are tandem organizations with missions to provide exposure to the arts for Charlevoix and surrounding Northern Michigan communities. It is a nonprofit organization that donates funds for art scholarships for aspiring young artists, brings performances and presentations to the schools and supports local art and music related endeavors. The organization is dedicated to providing stimulus for the arts in the schools and community throughout the year and is funded primarily through entry fees.

Art Fair Committee members and volunteers, contribute their time, talents and energy to prepare for the annual event from jurying the participating artists, to mailing out communications, distributing posters and publicity cards, setting up the physical venue in East Park, to working to facilitate operations on the day of the show. The many who volunteer do so because they are convinced that the Waterfront Art Fair is important to Charlevoix in attracting visitors to our community for the day and is important to our students all year long.

The annual Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair always appears the second Saturday in August each year, where it continues and expands upon the tradition of excellence it promotes. Exhibitors, buyers, collectors and art lovers can count on it.

Vessel, dock damaged in Friday Round Lake yacht crash

Medical emergency at the helm led to accident

STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — A dock, boathouse and a large boat were damaged on Round Lake Friday, July 25, when the boat's captain apparently had a seizure while at the helm.

City of Charlevoix Fire Department Fire Chief Paul Ivan said the incident happened at about 9:20 a.m. when the vessel was operating in the southwest corner of Round Lake. He said the operator of the boat appeared to have had a seizure while at the helm causing the 65-foot boat to turn out of control and crash into the docks belonging to a home at 123 Belvedere Ave.

Authorities said a passenger on the vessel was able to put the boat in neutral, bringing it to a stop.

Ivan said the crash caused extensive damage to the docks and the boat. A boathouse also sustain some damage.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's office marine division officials identified the operator as Jonathan Richard Yure-witch age 26 of Naples, Fla.

At 10 a.m. the boat was docked at a neighboring dock and did not appear to be in distress.

Ivan said Yurewitch was stable following the seizure, but was transported by Charlevoix Ambulance to Charlevoix Area Hospital to be evaluated further.

No injuries were reported in the incident. The crash remains under investigation.

The Charlevoix Police Department and U.S. Coast Guard also responded to the scene.

Five candidates square off for Charlevoix County judge seat

STEVE ZICKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

When voters in Charlevoix County head the polls for the Aug. 5 primary election, they'll have plenty of choices in the race for who will be the next Charlevoix County Circuit Court judge.

Five people will vie for the opportunity to succeed current circuit court Judge Richard M. Pajtas, who is barred from seeking re-election by a state law that prohibits a person over the age of 70 from being elected to a judge's post. Pajtas first took office in 1985.

The top two vote-getters among the five candidates in the primary election will go on to square off in the Nov. 4 general election.

To give readers a snapshot of each candidate, the News-Review asked each one to provide some brief biographical information and asked them to answer two questions: "If elected, what do you bring to the bench?" and "What, if any, changes do you feel are needed in the judicial system?"

Ed Engstrom grew up in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School. Once he graduated from Michigan State and Detroit College of Law, he practiced in the metropolitan Detroit area for approximately 12 and a half years, handling all types of cases that are heard by a circuit court judge. He was a criminal public defender for more than 10 years. He then had two small children and decided it would be "best for them to grow up in the great community we have in Northern Michigan," and as a result moved back to Charlevoix approximately 12 and a half years ago. He continues to work in a general practice, handling all cases heard by the circuit court judge.

He has also volunteered his time as a soccer coach, helped the Boy Scouts, provided free legal services to the elderly and assisted at festivals. He is also a certified civil and domestic mediator and has volunteered his services at Northern Community Mediation for seven years, helping individuals resolve all kinds of disputes to reduce the court's docket. He said his mediation training and experience have given him a neutral mind set, which will assist him in becoming a good judge, if he is elected.

If elected, what do you bring to the bench?

"I have the most diversified experience of all candidates, since I have been in general practice for 25 years. I accept very difficult cases since I enjoy the challenge. I had a case where a client believed I should possess a gun to protect myself. I had another case where a professional litigator who had been involved

Roloff, Sullivan face off again in Charlevoix County's sixth district

CRAIG CURRIER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — It's a rematch of 2012 in the race to represent Charlevoix County's sixth district, where one-term commissioner Larry Sullivan hopes to hold off former commissioner Shirley Roloff.

The district, which covers residents in the city of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township, was newly drawn two years ago after the 2010 U.S. Census when Sullivan defeated Roloff and two others in that year's election.

Sullivan is now seeking re-election for the first time and Roloff is his only challenger. Voters will choose between the two candidates Tuesday, Aug. 5.

"I will continue to push for a fiscally conservative budget and fiscally conservative expenditures," Sullivan said. "The voters of the county entrust us with their tax dollars and I want to make sure we get the most we can out of those tax dollars. We need to be frugal with their money."

Sullivan said he'd also

Voters to decide: Is clerk elected or appointed?

SHERI MCWHIRTER-
O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — City voters will on Tuesday, Aug. 5, decide whether the Charlevoix city clerk position should remain elected by the people, or become an appointed post.

This will be the public's chance to weigh in on a public conversation that remained ongoing for months. It surrounds the city clerk's position in Charlevoix, a seat long left vacant this year, but was eventually filled by Joyce Golding after a candidate search. Officials said this ballot question is a possible way to increase accountability to the city manager and council by making the post appointed, something that only city voters can do by changing the city charter with an amendment.

The ballot language reads: "The Charter currently states that the City Clerk is elected for a 2 year term. The proposed amendment would require the City Council to appoint the City Clerk in the same manner as other appointed officials, such as the City Treasurer, and to set the Clerk's compensation."

Shall Sections 2.11, 3.8, 4.4 and 4.7 of the City Charter be amended to provide for the appointment of the City Clerk?"

There are even explanations that a "yes" vote is in favor of the proposed amendment, while a "no" vote is against the proposed amendment.

If city voters approve a future ballot question to make the city clerk an appointed post, that will begin at the end of the current elected city clerk term in January 2016.

City voters elected as city clerk Larry Sullivan, Charlevoix County commissioner, but in January he declined to accept the city post when the Michigan Attorney General opined that state law and the city charter prevent Sullivan from holding both elected city and county positions at the same time. That prompted the city clerk search and recent appointment of Golding.

Charlevoix city officials created a fact sheet so citizens may learn more about the question at hand, which is available at city hall, 210 State St., in downtown Charlevoix.

Two new millages to be on November ballot

CRAIG CURRIER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Voters in Charlevoix County will decide in November whether to tax themselves for parks and veterans services.

The county board of commissioners approved a pair of resolutions Wednesday night that put the questions on the Nov. 4 ballot.

If approved, property owners in Charlevoix County would pay an additional 15 cents per $1,000 of taxable value for parks and recreation spending and another 10 cents per $1,000 of taxable value to help fund the county's veterans affairs department.

"We're going to put this in the hands of the people and let them decide," board chairman Joel Evans said.

The parks millage would generate an estimated $298,486 annually and the veterans millage would bring in $198,991 a year, according to county reports, Commissioner Chris

Poetical Snyder endorsement from Beaver Island

Editor:
Valerie and I are colleagues in the service of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, where we have been trustees and committee members interacting with other trustees for about three years.
It has been fun and rewarding working with her as she is:
Engaging, open, with a nice friendly smile
A good listener, has empathy coupled with good people skills Thoughtful, analytical, looks for and at all sides of an issue

Unbiased, no hidden agenda
Not hierarchical, we are all as one Solicitous of other's opinion, ideas
A consensus builder, looks for the best solution built around all inputs Low key, flavored with a positive assertiveness,
When necessary nudges, not pushes, to consensus.

Law enforcement retiree endorses Hayes for judge

Editor:
As a former state probation officer, head of the Michigan Department of Correction Community Alternative program, founder of the "prison boot camp" and sheriff of Clinton County, I have worked closely with both District and Circuit Court judges across the state.
I believe Roy "Joe" Hayes has the experience, legal knowledge, integrity as well as the personal and moral strengths to serve Charlevoix County as its next Circuit Court Judge. He will treat both the prosecution and the defense equally and litigants fairly.

Snyder has 'vast experience' for judgeship

Editor:
I am writing on behalf of Valerie Snyder for Charlevoix County Circuit Judge. This judgeship is vacant due to Judge Patjas' retirement after 30 years. Valerie is a Charlevoix native who has practiced law for almost 20 years in Charlevoix County. She has a vast experience in cases that range from family law, criminal law, estate planning and administration and civil litigation, and has represented clients in trial and appellate courts.

Valerie has truly been preparing herself over her entire law career to become a judge. She has immersed herself in local community service organizations and boards to gain a broad perspective on the needs of the community. Valerie is the past president of the Emmet-Charlevoix Bar Association, served on the City of Charlevoix Planning Commission, Charlevoix City Council, Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, County Parks of Recreation Committee, Keep Charlevoix Beautiful and the Charlevoix Yacht Club board. I believe these experiences have heightened her knowledge of our community needs and enabled her to hone her skills in working with a variety of people on a variety of issues in Charlevoix.

Personally, I have witnessed her work first hand during the seven years she has served on the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education. During this time, our district has gone through extensive financial constraints and tough decisions have been made every year to keep our district fiscally sound. Throughout this time, I witnessed Valerie's dedication to the priority of offering a top-notch education for the children of our school district. Valerie is professional, prepared for meetings, well spoken, inquisitive, follows school policy/law and cares about our students and staff. I believe these characteristics enable her to make fair and impartial decisions for the welfare of our district and students, much like she will have to make in the courtroom.

For these reasons and more, I hope you will join me in supporting and voting for Valerie Snyder as Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge on Aug. 5, 2014.

Snyder 'rises above' other judge candidates

Editor:
I am writing to express my strong support for Valerie Snyder for the position of Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge. In 1995, our firm hired Valerie and I have been amazed at her legal skills, her compassion for people and her ability to understand the complex personal issues of her clients ever since.

Val has the rare ability to understand and address her client's problems, usually in the most difficult time of their lives, and then help them through the legal process successfully and with a passion that results in her client leaving the courtroom knowing that they received the very best representation possible.

Equally important to me in making this endorsement over any of the other candidates is Valerie's incredible sense of the need to give back to her community.

Quite frankly, I have never seen anyone who has devoted as much of her time to help the people of Charlevoix County as Val. In addition to the many committees and organizations she volunteers on, she has been elected and re-elected to several positions. She was elected to the City Council, the County Board of Commissioners, the School Board and she has served as Board Chair of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. No other candidate can come close to this type of community involvement.

Our Circuit Court Judge is the most important position in the county. I believe a judge should have knowledge of the law, compassion for the people who come before her, especially victims, and an appreciation for the people she is serving. Without a doubt Val has all of those attributes and has proven it through her work and her community involvement. Because of these qualities she rises above the other candidates and she has earned your vote to become the Circuit Court Judge for Charlevoix County.

Snyder has 'excellent trial skills' and compassion

Editor:
I was fortunate to find Valerie Snyder during a difficult time in my life. Valerie represented me in a contested change of custody trial. She helped me through a situation that was extremely challenging and emotional. Not only did her excellent trial skills lead to success in my case, but she proved to be compassionate and understanding, as well.

I believe that a well-rounded judge will hold these qualities. Compassion and understanding are as important as knowledge and experience, and Valerie has them all. In my opinion, Valerie Snyder will make a great judge, and she will always give everyone a fair chance in her courtroom.

Hayes 'best and only' candidate for judge

Editor:
I am writing to you because I believe Joe Hayes is the best and only candidate for Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge.

I first met Joe when I was the victim advocate for the Charlevoix County Prosecutor seven years ago. Like many attorneys, Joe would come to the office to go over cases with the prosecutor and sometimes meet with myself to go over cases I was involved in. Joe was always very professional, patient, and a good listener. He never voiced anything negative about the victims in the cases but respected the law and the process in which each victim was entitled.

I have been fortunate enough to get to know Joe on a personal level and he truly loves and respects his profession.

He is endorsed by leaders in the community, leaders who are respected and are confident in Joe's ability to uphold and respect the law. Judge May, and Sheriff Lasater have worked with Joe and know that with his experience, he is the candidate to fill the position of circuit court judge. The Attorney General's office appointed him to be the Charlevoix County Public Administrator because he was the right person for the job.

With his many years of trial experience as well as his professional resume, Joe Hayes is the only choice for Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge.

Kur can 'more than live up to' demands of judgeship

Editor:
This letter is to urge your readers to choose Mary Beth Kur for circuit judge in the forthcoming primary election. Mary Beth is well trained for the job and has the life experiences, wisdom and judgment to make the best decisions for our citizens.

Mary Beth cannot be swayed by cronyism or by the "good ole boy" network which befalls so many political systems. She has compassion for those who need a break and firmness to invoke penalties when they are needed. Mary Beth will fulfill the needs of the position and will more than live up to the demands of the job.

Do the best thing for your community and yourselves: choose Mary Beth Kur.

A great idea

There are only a very few great ideas. One of them is biological. It sounds simple, but as we shall see, it has dramatic implications. The great idea is — hold your breath — all the earth's living organisms, plant and animal, have parents.

Some very simple organisms seem to have only one parent, but close examination reveals that there are shadow parents a few generations back. Most organisms have two parents. They resemble those parents, but are not identical to them. Among the less known organisms, especially the fungi, there is the possibility of many parents, more than a dozen in some cases.

An organism with two or more parents is never identical to any parent. They are similar, but not identical. What does that mean? It means that organisms can change through time and generations. After hundreds of generations, descendants may be very different from the originals.

The simple notion of all organisms having parents has led to some interesting predicaments. Renaissance painters, faced with depicting Adam and Eve had problems. After the fall, the first couple had their private parts covered with leaves, but painters were not confident about whether or not to paint in an umbilical scar. One school maintained that God would have given them an umbilicus, while others suggested that since neither of them had a female parent, signs of umbilical attachment could not be present. Often a vine or other vegetation was painted in to cover the problematic area. Nudity was not the problem, it was the belly button.

Charles Darwin used the idea of all organisms having parents as the basis for a whole new idea about how the living world had come to be.

People sometimes talk about an idea having "legs." The idea of universal parentage has those. Extended far enough it provides a picture of life over literally billions of years. Each generation producing a slightly different generation. A lot can happen to organisms in a billion years.

Consider the simplest idea in all of biology. Every organism has parents, all the way back to the beginning. Simple, profound, obviously true. One of the world's great ideas.

Roger Knutson is a professor emeritus of biology from Luther College in Decorah, Iowa, where he taught for 30 years. He holds master's degree and a doctorate from the botany department at Michigan State University.

Life-long friend endorses Snyder's character

Editor:

I have been friends with Valerie Snyder since we were 7 years old. We have shared a lifetime of experiences together ranging from helping her deliver the Petoskey News-Review (Valerie's first job) to being partners on the high school debate team. I have felt a great deal of pride watching her in the courtroom as she matured into a wonderful attorney and extreme sadness watching her go through the loss of both of her parents.

On another personal note, Valerie represented both my ex-husband and me in our divorce. Although she has been my friend for 38 years, her concern throughout the process was not for him or me; it was for our children. Her constant concern for their well-being kept the focus where it needed to be.

Valerie has a wealth of experience that makes her the best candidate for judge. She has nearly 20 years of legal experience. She served as appointed council to the Charlevoix County Probate Court and Michigan State Appellate Court.

She has also dedicated herself to Charlevoix County, serving as Charlevoix County Commissioner, a board member of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, and the liaison to the Charlevoix Area Humane Society.

Although she has extensive qualifications that will make her a great judge, the fact that Valerie can put aside her personal relationship with a friend of 38 years and focus on the most important thing, the children, tells me she will be a fair and impartial judge for the citizens of Charlevoix County.

My hope is if someone close to me has to stand in front of a judge in the future for any reason, I want it to be Valerie.

Snyder 'extremely capable and knowledgeable' in law

Editor:

Over the years, Valerie Snyder has successfully assisted me in multiple legal matters. I have found her to be extremely capable and knowledgeable in her field of work. I believe that she is thoughtful and understanding while guiding her clients through already difficult situations. Whether I see Valerie in her office or on the soccer field at her kids' games, she is always kind and gracious.

Valerie has proved to be an exceptional attorney and community member and I believe she is qualified to sit on the bench in any of our courts. She maintains the temperament and understanding of the law required for a judicial position. In this case, she is certainly our best candidate and I hope to see her succeed in this election for 33rd Circuit Court Judge.

Vote for Lasater for commissioner.

Editor:

I urge you to vote for George Lasater for District No. 1 Charlevoix County commissioner. He is a strong advocate for our veterans and the senior citizens and has worked hard on their behalf. He uses common sense and does not rush to judgment, unlike his opponent, Shirlene Tripp. In 2011 she was admonished by Joel Evans, Charlevoix County Board chairman, for what he deemed ethical failings. Evans said, "As far as I am concerned, people have stepped out of bounds." As stated

In the Boyne City Gazette, "The intent of the meeting was to question Tripp and county planner Larry Sullivan on the origin, intent and distribution of a property rights consent form which would give property owners along the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road non-motorized trail route — a route which has yet to be determined — the opportunity to give up rights to portions of their property for the trail's construction." The meeting in which the form was written, Sullivan said was posted, but the posting never came through the Charlevoix County Clerk's office, as is proper procedure. Also, the document was never brought before the full board or the board's civil council and the legality of the meeting was questioned. Larry Sullivan is presently a Charlevoix County commissioner. There were many questions as to the origin of the form and it was weeks before Tripp and Sullivan came forth. We need to have confidence in our elected officials.

Citizens 'would benefit' with Kur

Editor:

I have known Mary Beth Kur since 1993. My late husband, Judge Harvey C. Varnum, served as 90th District Court Judge for 14 years. Mary Beth was an assistant prosecutor during his tenure. Judge Varnum remarked many, many times on her great diligence in always being prepared in an organized, fair and intelligent manner. She later served as prosecuting attorney for Charlevoix County and has 23 years of courtroom experience. I feel very strongly that our citizens would benefit from her dedicated efforts, skills and experience. She is an excellent choice for Circuit Judge. Please help me cheer Mary Beth Kur on to victory on Aug. 5. Please get out and vote for Mary Beth in the non-partisan section of your ballot.

This detail from an 1889 fire insurance map shows the upper channel as it pretty much looked after it was cut in 1869, then developed with dredging and revetment construction. The original outlet from Pine Lake (Lake Charlevoix) began just to the north (top left) of the new cut, flowed northwest, then turned southwest until it reached Round Lake. This was the route, actually a very shallow rapids, down which logs were fed a few at a time to the lumber mill where the Edgewater Inn now stands. Until 1869, Lake Charlevoix was 2 feet higher than Round Lake, which in turn was 2 feet higher than Lake Michigan. Before this, boats destined for Pine Lake had to be hauled with great effort up the little river. After the big cut, which made a passage several times wider and much straighter, thousands of logs could now be fed into Round Lake and the mill, and much larger boats could reach Pine Lake, setting off a fierce competition for the carrying of freight and passengers. When the railroad arrived in 1892, a swing bridge was installed across the east (top) end of the channel. A long raised earthen track bed leading to it had to be constructed over the narrow waterway alongside the shoreline. So the entrance into Old River, as it was now called, was swung around 90 degrees to begin anew on the channel directly opposite the Belvedere Club, where it remains today. The wood buildings along the bottom, near the Old River outlet, were replaced in 1914 with the construction of the Chicago Club boathouse, 100 years old this year.

Wait for it...

Castle Farms has new tour director

CHARLEVOIX — Castle Farms in Charlevoix announced that Charlynn McBee is the new tour director at the historic facility.

McBee, a native of Michigan, is a graduate of Indiana Tech University. Her marketing degree, combined with impressive credentials in event planning and education, lends itself well to her new position of actively promoting the Castle through the development and marketing of historic tours.

McBee also brings considerable leadership experience to the position of tour director. She served as marketing manager for the mortgage division of Chase Manhattan Bank (now JP Morgan & Chase), where her responsibilities included coordinating and marketing trade shows, sponsoring events, plus direct involvement with Make-A-Wish Foundation.

Prior to joining the Castle Farms team, McBee also served as marketing manager of Blue Green at Boyne Mountain Resort, where she was actively engaged in promoting and marketing the property through trade shows and fairs.

While living in California, McBee served on the board of directors for the Santa Clara County Association of Realtors. Now a resident of Boyne City, McBee is familiar with the Castle and its various events. During her tenure on the board of directors of Charlevoix Children's House, McBee was instrumental in planning and hosting the very first Fright Night event at the Castle in October 2005.

"I'm thrilled to be a part of the Castle Farms team and this beautiful historic property. It's difficult to ignore a castle. People see one, and they're naturally curious," McBee said. "Northern Michigan is a four-season playground, offering visitors a variety of recreational activities and fascinating sites to explore. I'm excited to work with the local business community in actively promoting the Castle and Charlevoix the Beautiful."

With six young children at home, McBee is a natural fit for a family-friendly historic attraction such as Castle Farms. McBee succeeds Peggy Kusina, who announced her decision to step down from the tour director position earlier this year. Kusina, who will remain at Castle Farms part-time in an official "ambassador" capacity, was instrumental in growing the tour department and promoting the facility to visitors throughout Michigan and beyond.

Castle Farms was built in 1918 by Albert Loeb, president of Sears Roebuck Company, as a model dairy farm to showcase products available in the company's catalog. The farm closed in 1927, following Loeb's death. Forty years later, the facility was sold and used as an art studio, then as a rock concert venue. Linda Mueller, the Castle's present owner, purchased the property in 2001, restoring it to its original beauty.

Now one of Michigan's top historic attractions and a premier bridal venue, Castle Farms is open year round for weddings, events and historic tours. Castle Farms is listed on the National and State of Michigan historic registries.

Plein air exhibit opens

MICHAEL KADE MORROW
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — The open-air painters of Northern Michigan are once again displayed at the Charlevoix Circle of Arts, bringing their vision, interpretation and captured moments of beauty they find in this region.

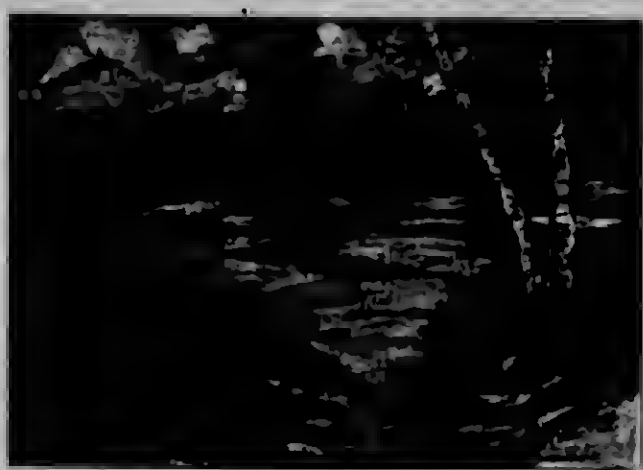

"We have so many paintings for this exhibit. It is going to be a wonderful show," Beverly Ebby said.

This year will feature about 100 paintings by more than 20 local artists.

"So many of the artists are extremely excited by showing their work at this show," Ebby said. "We have a mix of artists and media, from oils and acrylics, to pastels and mix, and the artists range from professional to extremely talented amateurs."

Also, all of the artists are from Northern Michigan.

"When we paint together outside we have a very great atmosphere, and have a gentle critique to give each other ideas and support," said Ebby, a longtime member of the Northern Michigan Plein Air Painters.

"Some of the painters in this exhibit have been with us for many years, and a few have just started out," Ebby said. "The paintings featured are from the surrounding Northern Michigan area."

Ann Henriksen, of the Charlevoix Circle of Arts, said she encourages both locals and visitors to take in the exhibit.

"The pleinair people truly paint the people and the places that they love from their environment — that is what they do. It is a really great group of which to belong. They see so many beautiful areas," Henriksen said.

Gary and Barbara Eisenberg started the group about six years ago, and it gave the artists a chance to paint many of the locales that might have ordinarily been out of reach. The group meets at various locations from public parks to private residences that offer a varied view of the splendid natural beauty of Northern Michigan.

The opening night reception will be from 5-7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 5, and offers a chance to meet some of the artists, all while being treated to appetizers provided by the artists, beer and wine provided by the Circle of Arts. Additionally, piano music will be performed by Ruth Willis.

The name of the exhibit is Fresh Air-Fresh Art and it will run daily from noon-4 p.m. now through Aug. 17. For more information about this event or future exhibits, visit www.charlevoixcircle.org or call (231) 547-3554.

Portraits in fabric

Charlevoix native featured in quilting magazine article

DEBBIE MCGUINNESS
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

Using fabric and thread, quilt artist Laura Glass creates images — snippets — of daily life. A series of her quilts, "Without Words," is featured in the summer 2014 issue of Art Quilting Studio magazine, where Glass shares her technique of using photographs and sketches as designs for portrait quilts. Using raw edge appliqué, Glass sews layers of fabric pieces to background fabric with a sewing machine.

Glass is a 1978 graduate of Charlevoix High School and daughter of Dale and Jan Boss of Charlevoix. She earned a degree in journalism from the State University of New York (SUNY Empire State). Glass is married to Scott Thomas, a journalist and book author and their daughter, Lindsay, is a junior at Binghamton University. They live outside Buffalo in Tonawanda, N.Y., and return to Charlevoix to visit family and friends.

Q: Where do you create your art quilts?

Glass: I work out of my home studio — which is a fancy way of saying a tricked out spare room. I have done art shows but don't enjoy them, so I stick to my website and custom orders. My favorite medium to work with is textiles and I use my sketches or photographs as patterns for my quilts. While I have had a variety of jobs over the years in broadcast journalism and as a catalog editor and ad copy writer I really found my creative voice when I started making quilts.

Q: How long have you worked with textiles?

I've been making pictorial quilts for about seven years and have been lucky to have my work recognized by the group Artists in Buffalo, in the book "The Complete Guide To Machine Quilting" by Joanie Zeier Poole, St. Martin's Press and in the current issue of Art Quilting Studio magazine.

Q: Can you describe your work?

Glass: My new series "Without Words" is designed to illustrate how the quiet moments between people can be just as powerful as a conversation. And by using an unconventional medium like textiles the viewer is invited to look closely at these intimate moments and identify with the feeling they evoke. The piece titled "Snap Beans" for example is based on a photograph taken years ago when our daughter and my mom were snapping just-picked beans in the backyard. They had been talking but the conversation just drifted to a comfortable silence as they worked side by side. Those moments of quiet can create a bond just as strong any words.

Then you can take a common scene, as in the quilt "His iPod," and see a story emerge based on the physical relationship between the two kids. This is a scene like those we pass every day without even noticing. But when you narrow the focus from the overall park to just the couple you can imagine a whole story about them. The quilt "The Day is Young" portrays a group of friends jumping off a dock into the lake. The day is young and the hi-jinks endless! And the final quilt in the series "Saturday Afternoon" is all about the companionable silence that builds between a couple who have been sharing Saturday afternoons for more than 50 years. This was created from a photograph of my parents sitting lakeside at Depot Beach in Charlevoix.

Q: What are you currently working on?

I also make small quilted bowls that feature appliqued scenes from landscapes to urban scenes and textile collage note cards. Currently I am working on a new group of quilts based on summer carnivals. I'm in love with the colors, sounds and smells of the fair and hope to capture that feeling in a three part series.

Q: What influences your work? Have you taken any classes from other textile artists?

Glass: My influences are graphic art posters with simple thematic elements like those done by artists in the WPA and the travel posters of the 1920s and 30s. I'm self-taught because I'm entirely too impatient to take a class and prefer to work on my own without distraction — alas, even the helpful kind.

Petunia weeders needed Aug. 5

CHARLEVOIX — The Keep Charlevoix Beautiful organization will host its second community weeding event of this summer from 4-7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 5, along Bridge Street throughout Charlevoix.

This year the organization once again planted the petunias in the roadside beds after talk last year of switch-

The public is encouraged to volunteer their time to pull the grass and weeds now growing within the petunia beds to keep the flowers looking beautiful for the remainder of summer. Afterward, treats will be shared in East Park.

EAST JORDAN

Portside Arts Fair arrives this weekend

BRCA RABOWICZ
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

EAST JORDAN — The annual Portside Arts Fair begins at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 2, at Elm Pointe in East Jordan and runs until 5 p.m. The fair opens back up Sunday from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Elm Pointe is on Lake Charlevoix about 1.5 miles north of East Jordan along M-66.

The fair is in its 52nd year and will showcase art as well as local music, home baked goods, a wood replica of the Hum — an old passenger boat from the early 1900s that transported people back and forth from East Jordan to Charlevoix — arts and crafts and more.

The Hum is a "must see" according to fair coordinator, Kim Prebble.

The replica of the Hum, handmade by Tom Sheridan and Denny Jesiek of East Jordan, has taken the past winter to build with old photos as a building guide. The replica is in one-eighth scale. The Hum will debut at the Historical Society Museum at Elm Pointe during the Portside Arts Fair.

The annual arts fair is a fundraiser for the Portside Art and Historical Society. The funds raised aid in the maintenance and upkeep of the museum at Elm Pointe. The arts fair, sponsored by the East Jordan Historical Society, doesn't require an admissions fee but donations are appreciated and benefit the historical society. Approximately, 2,300 guests attend the fair each year.

The Evangelical Lutheran Church plans to provide the food during the fair. On the menu are sloppy joes and its famous home-baked pies.

"An artist and crowd favorite," said Prebble.

Aside from the art display, the entertainment consists of acoustic guitarist Nelson Olstrom, scheduled to play in the morning, as well as Bonnie and Francois joined by Michigan tenor sax jazz musician Bill Branier, scheduled for the afternoons.

The judge of the arts fair is responsible for choosing the best of show purchase prize artists in both the categories of two-dimensional and three-dimensional. The committee will then choose a piece of the artist's work that will become part of the permanent collection housed in the Cygred Riley Gallery at Elm Pointe. Three honorable mention ribbons will be awarded by the judge.

Children will have the opportunity to participate in a free art booth, with the option to decorate wooden puppet masks or airplanes as well as color an interactive butterfly.

Attendance is expected by many returning artists, some of whom have been coming to Portside for more than 10 years, as well as 11 new artists.

"Prices range from $10 to $500 so everyone will be able to take home a piece of art, perhaps as a reminder of a great time in Northern Michigan," said Prebble.

Among the 11 new artists to be showcased are two East Jordan High School seniors, Katie Spence and Taylor Hawley. The two will share a booth and were encouraged to enter the arts fair by their art teacher, Pat Tinney, who is a three time purchase prize winner at the Portside Arts Fair. Katie and Taylor both received honorable mention awards at East Jordan High School's spring art show the past two years. Taylor's work is done with acrylics and watercolors, while Katie uses acrylic, oil, watercolors and pens.

"We are excited to offer them an opportunity to exhibit in a venue outside of the school. We hope that Portside will become a springboard for other emerging artists in the future," said Prebble.

Prebble recognizes the significance of offering emerging artists a creative space to showcase their work.

"I recently had a former committee member share with me that she still remembers the first painting she ever sold as a young artist and how much confidence it gave her to pursue art," she said.

There are three sections of the fair with about 70 booth spaces throughout and parking available in two small lots as well as one large lot. Overnight parking is not permitted for any vehicle in any of the lots.

This year's purchase prizes are sponsored by Charlevoix State Bank and East Jordan Plastics. This year's purchase prize winners will have up to $1,000 divided amongst the group.

Parents and guardians are welcome to leave their children at the craft table and children's activity booth while they shop or stay and help with the projects.

During the arts fair, adult and student docents are able to offer additional information about the historical museum's exhibits.

Anyone interested in volunteering on Saturday or Sunday or who would like more information on the arts fair, can contact Prebble at (231) 536-3282 or visit www.portsideartsfair.org online.

in at least 60 prior cases filed a grievance against me to try to slow me down, but little did he know that type of improper activity just makes me work harder. He ended up going to jail over a weekend for violating the judge's order.

Voters must remember this is a non-partisan race and affiliation with certain individuals or entities is unacceptable. A voter should view this race as an employer, and look at the person's work experience, such as whether or not they have been to court, and the extent of the types of cases they have handled. I have the well-rounded experience to become the next Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge. I use a common sense approach to get to the facts and decide the relevant issues, without wasting time. I do not tolerate individuals who participate in misrepresentation or dishonesty. I do not stand for individuals who harm others. A firm but fair approach is one of the additional aspects I will bring to the bench, if elected.

I have always worked hard to get jobs done efficiently and timely. I am not the type of person who makes excuses. I am a good listener to obtain and absorb the relevant facts in order to help resolve the applicable problems and/or disputes at hand. I do so showing respect to all involved, unless they lose that respect by taking improper activity."

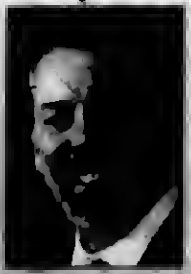

What, if any, changes do you feel are needed in the judicial system?

"I believe much of the difficulties that a judge sees in court arise from individuals abusing alcohol and/or controlled substances. I am fully aware of the resources available to assist individuals in that situation to hopefully prevent them from appearing in court again. I will establish guidelines for individuals to be able to seek that help, if the appropriate factors exist.

I am always concerned how divorce and custody cases affect the children involved. I will establish rules and guidelines to help prevent the negative activity that damages a child. I will send a strong message to the parents that the court looks through the children's eyes as to what is in their best interest regarding the relevant issues.

I have been before 100 different judges in my career, and I find that Judge Pajtas has been an excellent judge. He timely produces a scheduling conference order so the attorneys are aware of the deadlines they must uphold to efficiently resolve the case in a timely fashion. I may adjust his procedures slightly, but not substantially, if am elected."

Roy C. "Joe" Hayes III

Roy C. Hayes III, is a 46 year old attorney, who has practiced law in Charlevoix County for the past 20 years. He and his wife, Kendall, have two daughters, Catherine, 8, and Sloane, 6. Hayes grew up in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1986. He obtained his undergraduate degree in philosophy from the University of Notre Dame in 1990 and his law degree from Washington & Lee University Law School in Lexington, Va. in 1993. In law school, Hayes spent summers working for Michigan Supreme Court Justice Patricia Boyle, and also for the Criminal Division of the United States Department of Justice in Washington, D.C., assisting federal prosecutors with legal research and writing.

After law school, Hayes was selected for a one year judicial clerkship with Justice William Ray Price of the Missouri Supreme Court. After the judicial clerkship, Hayes returned home to Charlevoix in 1994 to practice law with his father, the late Roy C. Hayes Jr., former United States Attorney to President Ronald Reagan. In one of their last cases together before the elder Hayes retired in 2000, the father-son team represented the National Board of Medical Examiners in an Americans with Disabilities Act claim in federal court in Detroit. Roy C. Hayes III was lead trial counsel in the case and successfully argued the subsequent appeal on behalf of the National Board of Medical Examiners before the United States Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Hayes has served on the board of directors for the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and holding various offices for the Charlevoix Emmet County Bar Association. Hayes noted that he has also provided regular volunteer and pro bono legal services for the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan and the Charlevoix Area Hospital Finance Authority.

If elected, what do you bring to the bench?

"I would bring to the bench experience, patience (the ability to listen) and a firm commitment to follow the law and do the right thing in every case.

I tried my first circuit court jury trial in 1995. Since that time, I have not only regularly handled circuit court cases, but I have extensive trial experience in the circuit courts of this state: felony jury trials where my client was facing up to life in prison; civil jury trials where there was more than $25,000 in dispute; circuit court bench trials involving divorce, child custody, real estate disputes, injunctions and restraining orders.

I have seen firsthand, that the subject matter of any dispute which has made its way into the court system is extremely important to those involved. People who find themselves in court are often under a lot of stress. They can be vulnerable. The role of a fair and impartial judge is crucial to the legitimacy of our system of justice. The public's respect for and trust in the legal system requires that judges not only understand and follow the law without influence from personal bias, but also that judges respect the litigants and listen to what they have to say about the dispute at hand.

Over the course of my career as a trial attorney, I have learned to be patient and to listen to what people have to say. These are crucial attributes for a good attorney, and I believe they are crucial attributes for a good judge. The responsibilities of a circuit court judge are substantial, and the importance of this position to our community cannot be overstated. Charlevoix County has my firm commitment that if elected, I will work hard every day to ensure that the law is applied fairly in every case. I will use all of my experience and my best judgment to do the right thing and uphold the considerable trust being placed in me."

What, if any, changes do you feel are needed in the judicial system?

"One of the things that I have tried to emphasize when I talk to the people of Charlevoix County is that we are all lucky to live in this community, where the judicial system works well and functions properly. This is not the case in all jurisdictions. However, in my experience, the people who work within the Charlevoix County court system are hard working ethical and concerned with doing the right thing. I do not believe that significant change or overhaul to the Charlevoix County court system is necessary.

I do believe that the judicial system needs to grow and change with the times. Two issues that are on the horizon and will likely come to the forefront in the coming years are: electronic filing and the transition from paper documents to digital documents; and expanded drug or sobriety courts.

Practicing law in the federal system and more locally in Antrim County and Grand Traverse County, I have hands on experience with the positives (and negatives) of E-Filing and courts transitioning paper to digital documents."

Former Charlevoix and Emmet County District Judge Richard May was on the cutting edge of the sobriety court movement in this state. The sobriety court Judge May established and Judge Erhart has continued to implement has improved many lives and made this community a better place to live. A drug court for drug addicted individuals within the circuit court system would be the natural extension of the district court sobriety court.

Both the E-Filing and the drug court issues require extensive feasibility studies and have significant funding concerns. As such, I do not believe either of these should be campaign issues in this judicial race."

Mary Beth Kur

Mary Beth Kur was admitted to the Michigan Bar in 1991 and has been practicing law in the circuit courts of Michigan for more than 23 years. She spent the first 13 years of her legal career in prosecution, serving as the Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney from 1995-2004. Since 2005, she has been in private practice. Her practice has focused primarily on family law and criminal defense.

Kur received her bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and her law degree from the University of Detroit School of Law. She is admitted to practice in all Michigan courts and the Federal District Court for the Eastern and Western Districts of Michigan. She is a member of the Emmet-Charlevoix Bar Association and the State Bar of Michigan and is a certified domestic relations mediator in the Emmet and Charlevoix Circuit Courts.

If elected, what do you bring to the bench?

"Experience as a seasoned veteran prosecutor and as a private practice attorney. I would also bring energy, integrity, honesty, courage, commitment, a strong work ethic and a clear vision for the future of our court. There is an enormous opportunity we have in the courts to contribute to the safety, well-being, and health of this community. Having practiced law for many years on both sides of the courtroom, I have a working knowledge of the justice system and a unique perspective that is important for a judge to have. Our current judge, Richard M. Pajtas, has established and maintained extremely high standards in the operation of our court during his tenure. I would be honored to follow him and feel confident in my abilities to maintain those high standards.

I would follow the lead of at least 113 other circuit courts in Michigan and by creating a problem solving court. Problem-solving courts are innovative courts designed to address the underlying problem that has resulted in an offender entering the criminal justice system. These problems range from drug and alcohol abuse to mental illness and also include the unique challenges faced by military veterans.

Trial judges throughout Michigan have stepped up to lead these courts and divert offenders into special programs designed to provide the treatment and supervision needed to solve the problem and help offenders stay out of trouble.

In well over 1,500 criminal cases, I have been a voice for crime victims and I have been a voice for those accused of crimes. I've handled dozens of child abuse and neglect cases as well as over 100 juvenile delinquency cases and several hundred divorce, family law and general civil cases. I've handled all types of guardianship cases. I've served on numerous boards in the area and on the state level. I've volunteered my services to victims of domestic violence. I have tried sexual assault cases, homicides, child abuse and neglect cases and domestic violence cases. Through my hard work and dedication, people were held accountable."

What, if any, changes do you feel are needed in the judicial system?

"While not perfect, our system of justice is the best one in the world. But we can always improve. We need to foster public safety by expanding the use of programs, like drug court and mental health court and veterans' court, which all have been proven to reduce crime rates at a cost-savings to the taxpayer. We need to continue to institute performance measures in the court so that the public can see how we are performing and how tax-dollars are spent.

Just as families have had to tighten their fiscal belts, the courts are dealing with shrinking resources. Yet, the circuit court, in its handling of felony cases is responsible in many ways for the safety, well-being, and health of our community. Our court needs to uphold these responsibilities while finding innovative ways to save taxpayer dollars. This is a high priority for me.

A report released in May 2014 by our state Supreme Court, shows that problem solving courts clearly work and clearly save money. For example, two years after admission to any type of drug court, graduates had less than half the recidivism rate for an alcohol or drug offense of comparison group members. After two years, sobriety court participants had recidivism rates for an alcohol or drug offense that were more than three times lower than their comparison counterparts.

Among mental health court participants, recidivism was reduced by more than 300 percent within two years. Moreover, virtually all participants improved their mental health and quality of life and more than one-third got a better job.

If given the opportunity, I will lead our circuit court into the future and always look for new and innovative ways to improve our judicial system."

Thomas Schraw

Thomas Schraw of Boyne City established the Schraw & Associates law firm after a 15-year career in transportation law and logistics with a major international chemical company in Allentown, Pa.

Schraw is a graduate of the Widener School of Law, Wilmington, Del., and became certified to practice law in Michigan in 1992. Shortly thereafter, he earned admission to practice as an attorney in the United States Federal District Court, Western Division of Michigan. At the Federal Bar, Schraw represented plaintiffs as both lead and local counsel.

During the past 22 years his firm has represented clients in both civil and criminal litigation throughout Michigan in areas including commercial litigation, family law related matters including divorce, child custody and juvenile representation, estate planning and practice, real estate, business transactions, as well as misdemeanor and felony criminal defense.

In 2007, the firm purchased its present Boyne City location. More office space became necessary as his son Joel Schraw and daughter-in-law Sarah Schraw graduated from Thomas M. Cooley School of Law and joined the firm.

Schraw and his wife of 39 years, Marleen, live in Boyne City. They have two adult children, Whitney and Joel. Both Tom and Marleen served on a variety of community and church related boards.

If elected, what do you bring to the bench?

"I understand that my opponents are concerned that I should be 'retired', meaning that I am too old to be considered a viable candidate. Quite to the contrary, I view my age as an asset. That is, I have 15 more years of life experience to guide my way. I have lived overseas in a Third World country (Kenya, East Africa), and have been immersed in a culture where corruption in all governmental agencies is a given."

These are real life experiences that impact my judicial temperament. And isn't it true? Older is wiser.

What, if any, changes do you feel are needed in the judicial system?

"As technology changes our lives on an almost daily basis, I believe there are limited opportunities to put technology to good work in the courtroom. Where parties can agree, the courts could reduce the overall costs of litigation to the parties by allowing video testimony, particularly of ancillary witnesses who live a considerable distance from the courthouse. As I say, this would be by agreement of the parties involved, and not a mechanism that would be forced on a party. The confrontation clause of the Constitution is sacred, which, in my view, means a real confrontation. But nearly every case would have a limited number of witnesses who could testify by live video feed without destroying the intent of the confrontation clause."

Valerie Snyder

Valerie Snyder of Charlevoix has been engaged in the private practice of law for nearly 17 years, and currently owns her own general practice firm, Valerie K. Snyder, P.C., in Charlevoix. She handles legal matters in a broad range of practice areas, including real estate, family law, estate planning and administration, and civil litigation. She has experience representing clients in trial and appellate courts, as well as in a multitude of administrative proceedings before both state and local boards.

She has previously served on the City of Charlevoix Planning Commission before being elected to the Charlevoix City Council. She was later twice-elected to serve on the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners and currently is in her second term on the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education.

In addition to her experience in local government, Snyder has volunteered for many local nonprofit organizations. She has served on the boards of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful and the Charlevoix Yacht Club, and she currently chairs the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's Board of Trustees.

If elected, what do you bring to the bench?

"What I bring to the bench, in addition to nearly 20 years of legal experience, is a proven dedication to serving Charlevoix County and the people in it. I have held numerous elected, appointed, and volunteer positions, which is important in this race for three reasons. First, it shows that I care about our community and the people who live here. The reason I take on roles like serving on the county commission or the public school board is because of a desire to help make our community the best place to live it can possibly be. If elected, I would take that same attitude to the bench.

Second, it is important because it provides insight as to how I behave. For example, I always come to meetings prepared, I work hard, I listen, and I'm not afraid to make a tough decision. These are all qualities that translate well to serving as circuit court judge. Lastly, being involved in the community brings with it the knowledge of the issues facing our community. I understand that there are issues facing the residents of our county and that not every person faces the same issues. Regardless of the particular issue or the particular person, if elected, I would handle every case completely impartially and ensure that my decisions are issued in compliance with the law."

What, if any, changes do you feel are needed in the judicial system?

"Although it may be imperfect, I believe in our judicial system. However, any system is only as good as the people who serve in it. This is why it is so important to have a judge that understands and respects the role of the court in our system of government and constrains judicial decisions to those that comply with the law as it is written, free of outside influences, and in a consistent and fair manner. I believe in always striving to improve, no matter what the role, and I would take that same philosophy with me to the bench. Our local court system could be improved by increased use of technology for access to court information and exploring the use of "problem solving" courts to address issues such as substance abuse that often lead to repeat offenses and increased costs on our judicial system."

EXPANSION

The marina expansion idea initially arose in an effort to accommodate larger boats and yachts as a means to stimulate economic growth downtown and throughout Charlevoix. The first time city officials pitched this idea this year, they proposed three various options to add new dock space to Pier A in varying lengths, from 33 to 160 additional feet to create between 1-11 new boat slips and a couple of extended ones.

The downtown board members suggested these new drawings may be more palatable to critics of the prior proposal, particularly those who took issue with further dockage extensions into Round Lake and correlating aesthetic impacts.

"That's totally negated because there's no view blocked and it doesn't go any further into the lake," said Kirby Dipert, DDA board member and downtown business owner, about the plan for a new northern city pier.

However, not all stakeholders are pleased, Pearson said.

"Beaver Island Boat Company is trying to protect themselves," she said, explaining how company officials question navigational safety with any additional pier built north of existing Pier A and they stand opposed to the plans to do so. But Pearson said city officials owe it to taxpayers to look for new revenues to be used to retire the East Park and marina bond debt with its ballooning payments.

Peggy Brennan, city councilwoman and chairwoman of the marina committee, said officials tried to compromise with the business about the length of a new pier and the number of slips, but nothing changed BIBCO's stance.

"Unfortunately, we were only compromising with ourselves," she said. "If we were to put a rowboat in that section, they would be against it."

The ferry company's board chairman submitted a letter for the record to make clear the business's position on the new marina expansion plans.

"If you want to continue to say we are unwilling to compromise, so be it. We will not compromise when it comes to a question of safety for our passengers and vessels," wrote William J. McDonough.

City officials gathered Monday collectively agreed that if they pursue five new slips, they certainly could increase that to seven without the proposed new pier's length surpassing that of existing Pier A.

"I think we ought to go for seven," said Hugh Mason, DDA board member.

Brennan said the marina committee ultimately favored seven slips, as well.

The Charlevoix Planning Commission will consider the marina expansion proposal at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 11, with the city council expected to review the plans at its second session this month, which will begin at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 18.

like to "see a little more openness" from the county and its governing board. For example, he proposes putting each month's outgoing payments on the county website for the public to see.

Sullivan is also critical of a new plan adopted this month by the county board that asks voters to weigh in on a pair of ballot measures in November. The county plans to ask its residents whether they support new parks and veterans millages to fund operations of those two departments.

By putting the millages to a vote, county commissioners said they are giving residents an opportunity to dictate where they want their money to be spent.

If the measures are approved, county officials said they will reduce the general operating millage by an equal amount. If they are rejected, parks and veterans departments will continue to receive money from the county's general fund.

But Sullivan isn't so sure. Because such millages have to be reaffirmed by voters every few years, Sullivan said there could be periodic uncertainty about funding for those services.

"We have to be careful about what we put on the ballot, and we have to recognize that in some cases the county has made substantial investments over the years," Sullivan said. "If the millage goes down we can't just close down those parks."

For Roloff, her campaign is about returning to a seat she long held on the board of commissioners. Roloff hasn't disappeared from county government since she lost her seat in 2010. She helped launch the county's recycling initiative more than a decade ago and remains active there, as well as with the county parks committee.

"It's really been an honor for me. I've enjoyed every minute of it," Roloff said. "I know the issues and have the experience to continue serving."

After losing to Sullivan in 2012, she thought that was the end of her campaigning for the board of commissioners. But, as election season neared this year, she couldn't shake the desire to run again.

"I threw all my signs away and just said, 'OK, this is it,'" Roloff said. "But I really do miss being involved. I'm still really interested. I've been dedicated to my county and my city for over 40 years."

If elected, Roloff said one of her first goals is to secure the county building in Charlevoix. Its disjointed configuration has too many entrances and exits, making it vulnerable, Roloff said. She would like to create one point of entry into the building and turn the other doors into an exit-only function.

"We've been talking about it for 14 years," she said. "We still don't have that completed."

STEVE ZUCKER/NEWS-REVIEW

A packed house of more than 100 people listen Tuesday to the candidates running for Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge during a forum at the Charlevoix Public Library.

officials go on to explain, "These courts are specially designed to reduce recidivism and substance abuse among nonviolent substance-abusing offenders' likelihood of successful habilitation through early, continuous, and intense judicially-supervised treatment, mandatory periodic drug testing, and use of appropriate sanctions."

All five candidates said they see value — or at least the potential value in such courts, but some had greater concerns about the costs involved.

Snyder said, "Obviously" the advantages are that if the program works, you reduce recidivism ... that also reduces court costs ... but a disadvantage is the cost of implementation ... I don't know if, because of the level of cases we have here in Charlevoix County if the cost benefit analysis makes sense." She also said some have contended that it might not be the role of the court to provide therapy or substance abuse counseling.

Hayes noted that "drugs are a serious problem in Northern Michigan ... The advantage of a drug court are obvious. You want to break the cycle. You want to address the root cause of the problem that has caused these people to break the criminal law." But Hayes, too, pointed to concerns about the costs to establish such a court. He said studies show that in the long-term such courts save money and if the money can be found, that the positives of such a program outweigh the negatives.

Engstrom said he's had experience with a drug court in Downstate and noted it was a different experience ... "It was a drug court where the judge treated people who are abusing as humans. He saw their problem. And that's why I think we need that change here ... You've got to help them in some way ... It is expensive, but that's not a disadvantage to me. You've got to pay to help people. There is a high percentage of these people who stay sober for a long, long time, or forever. I don't see any disadvantage at all."

Kur said it's un-refuted that specialized courts save money by keeping the same people from coming back into the system repeatedly. "The most important thing about it for all of us is that it gives people who don't have it, some hope. And it gives them some confidence. And it gives them some support that some of them have never had in their lives ... There is no disadvantage. The people who are in drug court pay to be in it. They have an investment in it ... these are things that have been proven successes in 113 circuit courts in Michigan and its something I think we desperately need here! So, I see no disadvantages."

Schraw said he sees the benefits of drug courts, too, but he's not so sure about some other specialized courts, such as a mental health courts. But he agreed with the others, "A drug court ... has some wonderful stories about men and women whose lives have been changed, but we need to make sure it works ... before we go out and spend and create more bureaucracy."

Answering the question, "Why do you want to be a judge?" Kur responded, "That's real simple. Because I want to help people. I loved helping people when I was a prosecutor and I love helping people acting as an attorney. I would love to have an opportunity to help people in a different role ... as a judge you have to have a different temperament ... I just think it's a natural progression for me."

Schraw answered: "I want to be your judge, number one, because everyone needs to have a voice. Everyone should have a voice that can be heard, and not be ridiculed because they have an opinion that they want to share with the judge ... Number two, I have clients that live out on this lake who could buy anything, and I have clients that can hardly afford two cans of beans, and I treat them all the same. I always have. And that's the number one quality that you want in a judge."

Snyder said her decision to run for judge is one that has been about 20 years in the making. She noted that she has not only been practicing law in Charlevoix for all that time, and also has served in many public service capacity. "A judge is a public servant who happens to have a legal experience. And that is exactly my background. It brings together my public servant background and my legal experience background and it's the perfect blend of those two experiences."

Hayes responded that he agrees that a judge is first and foremost a public servant, but said he doesn't believe that a judge is just someone who happens to have legal experience. "This is a very important, very technical position that impacts the day-to-day lives of the people of Charlevoix County." He said he was inspired by his father's legal career. "This is what I've been pointing to for 20 years. I've been waiting for my opportunity ... I didn't put my name in the hat to be the district court judge ... I wanted to be the circuit court judge."

Engstrom answered: "I'm being a judge for the future. I'm being a judge because over 25 years I've gained tremendous patience for people. I listen to people. I hear what they are saying ... and from what they say, I can solve problems. I've got tremendous experience to be a good judge. Not just legal, life experience ... A common sense approach to being a judge is what I do. Don't mess up other people's lives and you won't have a problem with me as a judge. Mess up other people's lives and you'll have a problem. I'll be firm but fair."

Christensen said if the millages are passed the board will reduce general operating millage rates by an equal amount so as to avoid increasing taxes on residents. Money raised by the millages would be dedicated to related projects and ongoing operational costs associated with the departments.

"Ideally, I think it's opportunities like this millage here that will enable us to get down a path where we can get the county operating budget into operating the county and let the people speak on everything that doesn't have to do with day-to-day operations of the county's government," Christensen said.

Millage revenues would also clearly define for the departments and their governing committees how much money is available to spend each year, officials said.

If voters do not pass the ballot measures, the county will continue to fund parks and veterans departments out of the general fund, as it does now, county coordinator Kevin Shepard said.

With the deadline to place new items on the November ballot fast approaching, county officials acted quickly. The two resolutions were a late addition to the board's agenda Wednesday night, as Evans said it was after the agenda was sent out last week that they realized there wasn't another meeting before the Aug. 12 statewide deadline to file local ballot proposals.

Commissioner Larry Sullivan cast the lone vote in opposition to the parks millage resolution, saying the parks committee and the public haven't had the proper amount of time to review the proposals. Other commissioners echoed Sullivan's concern, but noted their approval only creates two ballot measures. The commissioners unanimously voted in favor of placing the veterans millage on the ballot.

Large crowds take advantage of the closed blocks along Bridge Street during the Venetian Festival finale Saturday, July 26, in downtown Charlevoix.

which can't be said for all past years.

"All in all it was a very safe and successful week," Doan continued. "I would think we are going to see (street) closures again."

Kirby Dipert, a downtown clothing shop owner, said he asked all of his customers that night about the street closure.

"I don't think I got any negative responses," he said.

In past years, traffic congestion problems brought palpable stress and tension to the evening's festivities, as highway motorists on Bridge Street tried to get through town and sometimes did not allow pedestrians to cross. There also would be vehicles backed up at the Clinton Street traffic signal because when the light would turn green, the large crowds of pedestrians would prevent more than just one car to get through — if that. Venetian Saturday generally was recognized each summer as absolutely the most congested time in downtown Charlevoix.

But not this year.

Children freely moved between East Park and the carnival found both on Mason Street and in the public parking lots behind Bridge Street businesses. Others set up their lawn chairs right in the road to watch the fireworks display.

Phil Parr, of the newly opened Bridge Street Tap Room, said he hopes the city pursues this tactic again and again.

"It gave the visiting pedestrians more space to enjoy downtown Charlevoix," he said. "I think it's something Charlevoix needs to continue to do. It gives further safety and more walking traffic for businesses on Bridge Street."

Your Child's Well-Being Comes First.

A round of check-ups before school starts

A child who starts the school year in good health has a much better chance of succeeding.

A new school year means big changes for the little ones. Help them cope with these stresses by making sure that your children are healthy and in top shape at this important time of year.

Hearing, A Sense That Should Not Be Neglected

One of the most common birth defects in North America is hearing loss. Three babies out of a thousand are born with permanent hearing loss. These days, tests provide auditory screening for children as well as newborns. Hearing is a truly priceless sense and many learning experiences can be compromised in a child with an auditory deficiency. Indeed, repercussions on speech, language, education, or even social integration have been observed. Early detection and treatment of hearing loss is therefore very important for a child's development.

Beautiful Teeth For Life

Parents play a vital role in the health and hygiene of their children's teeth. Even though prevention should start at home with good eating habits and daily teeth cleaning, regular check-ups at the dentist are nevertheless necessary from a very young age. Remember, healthy gums are equally important as healthy teeth; although cavities are a threat, gingivitis, an inflammation that can lead to periodontitis, can severely affect the gums. Oral health problems can have repercussions on a child's quality of life; therefore, parents must work with the dentist to help care for their children's teeth.

Open Your Eyes!

Visual communication between parents and children is vitally important and begins the moment they are born. Throughout a child's life, more than 80% of his or her education will include the acquisition of knowledge through vision. After nine years of age, the nervous system is no longer malleable enough to develop appropriately and any sight defects can become permanent. This is why healthcare organizations and various professional guidelines recommend that parents have their children's eyes examined by an optometrist according to the following schedule:

1. At six months of age;
2. At three years;
3. Before starting school;
4. Once every year or two, from the age of 6-18, or more often if there is a problem.

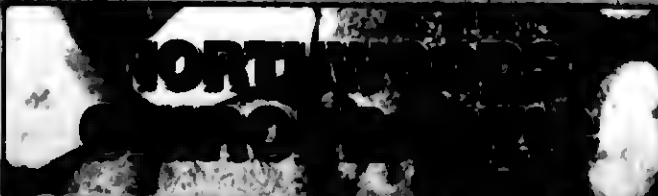

Chiropractors Also Care For Children

According to a study regarding chiropractic care of children younger than 18 years of age, musculoskeletal problems are the cause of 40% of consultations, prevention counts for 24%, headaches, 7%, middle ear infections, 5%, and other types of problems such as colic, asthma and bedwetting, 23%. Prevention represents a large number of consultations that involve children under the age of 4, in cases where the treatment of musculoskeletal problems increases with age. Spinal manipulation is by far the most common treatment offered by chiropractors, followed by exercises, soft tissue treatments and posture and nutrition counselling.

SHAY MILE

Three for three: Minnesota's Kampf wins third straight women's Shay Mile

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Next up, the four-bagger.

A Team USA Minnesota runner, Heather Kampf, has made a name for herself in running throughout the world.

The last three years, however, her fame in her sport has spread to Northern Michigan thanks to the annual running of the Ryan Shay Mile in downtown Charlevoix.

For the third year in a row, Kampf took the female crown in the race on Saturday in Charlevoix, finishing with a time of 4 minutes, 21.39 seconds in the one mile event on Bridge Street in downtown Charlevoix, while Rob Finnerty earned the male win with a time of 3:56.98.

For Kampf, the three-peat in this year's race — after a winning time of 4:30.96 last year — may not come as her lone three-peat of the year.

"It's really fun, this week is kind of like my conquest week for three-peats," she said. "I pulled off this one, then next Friday I'm racing the Liberty Mile in Pittsburgh and I've won that the last two years. So it'll be really cool if I can complete this."

A former University of Minnesota cross country runner and current Team USA runner, Kampf is the 2014 road mile champion and earned a third place finish in the 2014 Indoor 1500 meter Championship and sixth place finish in the 2014

Outdoor 1500 meter Championship.

Besides picking up wins year after year, Kampf continues to come back to the Ryan Shay Mile, an event in the conclusion of Charlevoix's Venetian Festival, simply for the host town experience.

"I love Charlevoix and the people here," said Kampf. "My host family is awesome, everything is great. It's so much fun. It's not even really about anything else."

To be in as great of shape this late in her running season after the U.S. Championships, once again in her career Kampf feels honored.

"It's cool to recognize the fact that I've been consistently fit and doing well this time of year," she said. "Because people can really have anything happen post nationals season. Sometimes you're still on your way up in fitness and sometimes you're just hanging on. I'm really happy to feel healthy this time of year."

One factor she did need to take into account before racing in Saturday's mile event, was the wet road following an early morning rain storm

CHARLEVOIX — Over the years Charlevoix and Traverse City St. Francis have been fierce rivals on the basketball court.

On Sunday afternoon at the Charlevoix High School, they were united for a moment for a coach who's meant so much to both programs.

Charlevoix, Traverse City St. Francis and St. Johns all came together Sunday for the Team Haske Alumni basketball fundraiser event and game for former Charlevoix High School boys' and girls' basketball coach and current St. Francis boys' basketball coach Keith Haske, who in May was diagnosed with throat cancer.

The game featured more than 40 of Haske's former players from both Charlevoix and St. Francis who merged to form two teams, Team Chelsey (named after Haske's daughter) which wore white T-shirts in Haske's honor and Team Barb (Haske's wife), which wore black T-shirts.

"It was a lot of fun," Haske's son Ty Haske said of the event. "When I got here I was really surprised. I wasn't sure how the event would turn out, but seeing how involved people were on Facebook and seeing all the hard work people have been putting into it, it's great."

"I haven't played in about three years," Haske, a 2007 Charlevoix graduate said. "It's fun to see the guys again and I appreciate everything everybody has done. The support has been great."

The game and fundraiser event was conducted by Haske's former assistant coach and current Charlevoix girls' basketball coach Elizabeth Shaw, who formulated a "Coach Haske Alumni Basketball Fundraiser Event" on Facebook which has gained more than CHARLEVOIX — The Big Ten Conference was well represented Saturday in Charlevoix.

Heather Kampf and Rob Finnerty, both former Big Ten athletes, Kampf at the University of Minnesota and Finnerty, Wisconsin, each earned overall wins in the annual Ryan Shay Mile.

But before Kampf and Finnerty stole the show in the Shay Mile, it was a former Hoosier and Spartan earning wins in the 5K portion of the annual running of the Jeff Drenth Memorial footrace.

For the second straight year, Kelsey Duerksen, a former Indiana track athlete, earned the women's crown, while former Michigan State runner Aaron Bachman placed first overall and in the men's portion of the race on Saturday in downtown Charlevoix.

Rob Finnerty of Burnsville, Minn., placed first in the men's running of the annual Ryan Shay Mile in downtown Charlevoix Saturday, finishing with a time of 3:56.98, in his first time in the event.

through the area.

In a race that features a steep hill into downtown Charlevoix, a wet road created an extra caution.

"I was a little bit nervous before the race thinking about my shoes, they don't have a ton of grip, for that downhill portion of the run in particular, so the thought ran through my head that I need to be careful not to break my stride at all, because that's when you slip," said Kampf. "If you just continue to pull through, you'll be OK."

Running the Shay Mile for the first time on Saturday, Finnerty, of Burnsville, Minn., took a detour to the event after a stint of races throughout Europe.

"I guess the big reason was, I just got back from Europe, doing races over there, but I flew back into Chicago and decided I was close so I may as well try to win some money and I had heard it was a really cool event," he said.

A former University of Wisconsin track athlete, Finnerty was impressed with the event and has been pleased with road races overall since moving on from the track.

"It's pretty sweet," he said. "This is my third road race and it's awesome having people line up down the street. We don't get that in track."

Also in the men's race,

Daniel Stockherger placed second in 3:58.53, followed by: Ryan Cunningham, 4:05.01; Peter Mwololo, 4:08.39; Tony Filapek, 4:09.48; and Sean Smith, 4:32.22.

Following Kampf in the women's race, Cynthia Limo, 4:24.61; Amanda Eccleston, 4:25.78; Kristen Findley, 4:30.26; Shannon Osika, 4:30.62; Melissa Salomo, 4:32.45; Christy Cazzolo, 4:33.97; Annie Wanjiru, 4:35.78; Danielle Tauro, 4:47.68; and Jan Njeri Kang'ara, 4:57.59.

An All-American for the Badgers in 2012, Finnerty has experienced a number of injuries throughout his running career and may decide to shut it down for the rest of the 2014 season.

As for next year though, a trip back to Charlevoix may be in order, with a goal in mind.

"Probably, why not," he said. "I don't know if I got the record or not, but maybe come back and try to get that."

Count Kampf in for another year, as well, as she looks to hag her fourth win in a row.

"I remember one time I took a bowling class in high school and three strikes in a row is a turkey," said Kampf. "Well, one time I got four in a row and it was called a four-hagger. I had never even heard of that term before, but I'll be looking for the four-hagger next year, in howling terms."

give back and I think we did that," Shaw added.

Many of Haske's former players were already in Charlevoix during the week-end as the Venetian Festival drew to a close including 2005 Charlevoix graduate Jared Hunt, a member of the 2004 state runner-up team who now lives in Chicago.

"It's great to be back in Charlevoix and to see everybody," Hunt said. "The fact this is for Keith is the best part. I know he'd do anything to be here with us, but I know he's watching us and it's great to see the outreach of people from Charlevoix and St. Francis. Everybody is here and it's great to see."

"It's heartbreaking I know for he and Barb, Chelsey and Ty," Hunt said. "But knowing him and going through basketball with him, he's a fighter and I know he'll get through it. Hearing the news was an instant shock for sure."

Scott Friske, a 2004 Charlevoix graduate, said it was an honor to play in the game for his former coach.

"My first reaction (to hearing his diagnosis) was not him, and my second reaction was there's no doubt in my mind he'll make it through," Friske said. "If anybody can get through it, it's coach Haske."

"The one core component is that we are here for coach Haske and his family," Friske said. "I think that's why you see all these people here. It's the communities and the spirit of coach Haske and what he does. He unites people and that's why people have had such a great experience playing for him."

Friske, who also now resides in Chicago and works in finance, said it was great to return to play with former teammates and players of other generations.

"I played for him for three years and the biggest thing I learned from him was to play with honor and compete every day."

Bret Erskine, Haske's former assistant coach and current Charlevoix boys' basketball coach, served as one of four coaches in the game along with Dr. James Gels, Bob Sipple and Bryan Hawkins.

"It's a great thing," Erskine said. "Keith and I started together and it's special seeing all these guys again. I saw a lot of them over Venetian and a lot of them now have families and kids. It's special for them and for Keith too to see how they've grown not only in basketball, but in life as well."

"You hate to see anybody get cancer," Erskine added.

"Especially a great guy like Keith and all he's done for the communities he's been in. This was an exciting event, but I just wish he could've been here with us."

Shaw added Haske and his wife — harrising any setbacks — are set to return to their home in Charlevoix at the end of this week.

Former players from both St. Francis and Charlevoix who took part in the game which featured four 20 minute running quarters included (Team Barb) Jaime Pettis, Adam Wood, Bryce Daly, Keegan LaBlance, Spencer Bryan, Weston Bryan, Thomas Parrish, Eddie Waldron, Collin McDonough, Trevor Mays, Ty Haske, Scott Silberhorn, Andrew Plude, Chris Miller, Connor Archer, Jacob Carney, Lance Anderson, Connor Sych, Noah Phillips, Brad Besko, Todd Rohrbach, Jim Kanine, (Team Chelsey) Betsey (Dennis) Jackson, Matt Dennis, Tino Tripicchio, Jared Hunt, Travis Smith, Kyle Jones, Cliff Jones, Justin Friske, Scott Friske, Brock Yenglin, William Roloff, Corey Golovich, Ben Myers, River Gauthier, Riley O'Neil, Gus Danz, Michael Olin, Ty Lurvey, Nick Clear, Tanner Kenny, Drew Wright, Doug Rieck and Devin Sheehy.

(l) "Revenues" and "Net Revenues" shall mean the revenues and net revenues of the City derived from the operation of the System and shall be construed as defined in Section 3 of Act 94, including with respect to "Revenues" the earnings derived from the investment of moneys in the various funds and accounts established by this Ordinance.

(m) "Series 2014 Bond" means the Sewage Disposal System Junior Lien Revenue Bond, Series 2014, of the City in the principal amount of not to exceed $10,900,000 authorized by this Ordinance.

(n) "Sufficient Government Obligations" means direct obligations of the United States of America or obligations the principal and interest on which is fully guaranteed by the United States of America, not redeemable at the option of the issuer, the principal and interest payments upon which without reinvestment of the interest, come due at such times and in such amounts as to be fully sufficient to pay the interest as it comes due on the Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds and the principal and redemption premium, if any, on the Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds as it comes due whether on the stated maturity date or upon earlier redemption. Securities representing such obligations shall be placed in trust with a bank or trust company, and if any of the Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds are to be called for redemption prior to maturity, irrevocable instructions to call the Bonds for redemption shall be given to the paying agent.

(o) "Supplemental Agreement" means the supplemental agreement among the City, the Authority and the DEO relating to the Series 2014 Bond.

(p) "System" means the Sewage Disposal System of the City, including the Project and all additions, extensions and improvements hereafter acquired.

Section 2. Necessity; Approval of Plans and Specifications. It is hereby determined to be a necessary public purpose of the City to acquire and construct the Project in accordance with the plans and specifications prepared by the Engineers, which plans, and specifications are hereby approved. The Project qualifies for the State Revolving Fund financing program being administered by the DEO and the Authority, whereby Bonds of the City are sold to the Authority and bear interest at a fixed rate of two and one-half percent (2.50%) per annum.

Section 3. Costs; Useful Life. The cost of the Project is estimated to be Eleven Million Fourteen Thousand Dollars ($11,014,000), including the payment of incidental expenses as specified in Section 4 of this Ordinance, which estimate of cost is hereby approved and confirmed. The period of usefulness of the Project is estimated to be not less than twenty-five (25) years.

Section 4. Payment of Cost; Bonds Authorized. To pay part of the cost of acquiring the Project, legal, engineering, financial and other expenses incident thereto and incident to the issuance and sale of the Series 2014 Bond, the City shall borrow the sum of not to exceed Ten Million Nine Hundred Thousand Dollars ($10,900,000), and issue the Series 2014 Bond therefor pursuant to the provisions of Act 94. The remaining cost of the Project, if any, shall be defrayed from grant funds and City funds on hand and legally available for such use.

Section 5. Issuance of Series 2014 Bond. Details. The Series 2014 Bond of the City, to be designated SEWAGE DISPOSAL SYSTEM JUNIOR LIEN REVENUE BOND, SERIES 2014 is authorized to be issued in the aggregate principal sum of not to exceed Ten Million Nine Hundred Thousand Dollars ($10,900,000) or such lesser amount as finally determined by order of the DEO for the purpose of paying part of the cost of the Project, including the costs incidental to the issuance, sale and delivery of the Series 2014 Bond. The Series 2014 Bond shall be payable out of the Net Revenues, as set forth more fully in Section 8 hereof, provided that said Series 2014 Bond shall be junior and subordinate to the prior lien with respect to the Net Revenues of any Bonds hereafter issued pursuant to this Ordinance.

The Series 2014 Bond shall be in the form of a single fully registered, nonconvertible bond of the denomination of the full principal amount thereof, dated as of the date of delivery, payable in principal installments as finally determined by the order of the DEO at the time of sale of the Series 2014 Bond, and approved by the Authority and an Authorized Officer. Principal installments of the Series 2014 Bond shall be payable on October 1 of the years 2016 through 2035, inclusive, or such other payment dates as hereinafter provided. Interest on the Series 2014 Bond shall be payable on April 1 and October 1 of each year, commencing April 1, 2015 or on such other interest payment dates as hereinafter provided. Final determination of the principal amount of and interest on the Series 2014 Bond and the payment dates and amounts of principal installments of the Series 2014 Bond shall be evidenced by execution of the Purchase Contract and each of the Authorized Officers is authorized and directed to execute and deliver the Purchase Contract when in final form and to make the determinations set forth above; provided, however, that the first principal installment shall be due no earlier than October 1, 2015 and the final principal installment shall be due no later than October 1, 2038 and that the total principal amount shall not exceed $10,900,000.

The Series 2014 Bond shall bear interest at a rate of two and one-half percent (2.50%) per annum on the par value thereof or such other rate as evidenced by execution of the Purchase Contract, but in any event not to exceed the rate permitted by law, and any Authorized Officers as shall be appropriate shall deliver the Series 2014 Bond in accordance with the delivery instructions of the Authority.

The principal amount of the Series 2014 Bond is expected to be drawn down by the City periodically, and interest on principal amount shall accrue from the date such principal amount is drawn down by the City. The Series 2014 Bond shall not be convertible or exchangeable into more than one fully-registered bond. Principal of and interest on the Series 2014 Bond shall be payable as provided in the Series 2014 Bond form in this Ordinance. The Series 2014 Bond shall be subject to optional redemption by the City with the prior written approval of the Authority and on such terms as may be required by the Authority.

The Treasurer shall record on the registration books payment by the City of each installment of principal or interest or both when made and the cancelled checks or other records evidencing such payments shall be returned to and retained by the Treasurer.

Upon payment by the City of all outstanding principal of and interest on the Series 2014 Bond, the Authority shall deliver the Series 2014 Bond to the City for cancellation.

Section 6. Execution of Series 2014 Bond. The Series 2014 Bond shall be signed by the manual or facsimile signature of the Mayor and countersigned by the manual or facsimile signature of the City Clerk and shall have the corporate seal of the City or facsimile thereof impressed thereon. The Series 2014 Bond bearing the manual or facsimile signatures of the Mayor and the City Clerk sold to the Authority shall require no further authentication.

Section 7. Registration and Transfer. Any Bond or Junior Lien Bond may be transferred upon the books required to be kept pursuant to this section by the person in whose name it is registered; in person or by the registered owner's duly authorized attorney, upon surrender of the Bond or Junior Lien Bond for cancellation, accompanied by delivery of a duly executed written instrument of transfer in a form approved by the transfer agent. Whenever any Bond or Junior Lien Bond shall be surrendered for transfer, the City shall execute and the transfer agent shall authenticate and deliver a new Bond or Junior Lien Bond, for like aggregate principal amount. The transfer agent shall require payment by the bondholder requesting the transfer of any tax or other governmental charge required to be paid with respect to the transfer. The City shall not be required (i) to issue, register the transfer of or exchange any Bond or Junior Lien Bond during a period beginning at the opening of business 15 days before the day of the giving of a notice of redemption of Bonds selected for redemption as described in the form of Series 2014 Bond contained in Section 18 of this Ordinance and ending at the close of business on the day of that giving of notice, or (ii) to register the transfer of or exchange any Bond or Junior Lien Bond so selected for redemption in whole or in part, except the unredeemed portion of Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds being redeemed in part. The City shall give the transfer agent notice of call for redemption at least 20 days prior to the date notice of redemption is to be given. The transfer agent shall keep or cause to be kept at its principal office sufficient books for the registration and transfer of the Bonds or Junior Lien Bond, which shall at all times be open to inspection by the City; and upon presentation for such purpose the transfer agent shall under such reasonable regulations as it may prescribe transfer or cause to be transferred on said books Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds as hereinafter provided.

If any Bond or Junior Lien Bond shall become mutilated, the City, at the expense of the holder of the Bond, shall execute, and the transfer agent shall authenticate and deliver, a new Bond or Junior Lien Bond of like tenor in exchange and substitution for the mutilated Bond or Junior Lien Bond, upon surrender to the transfer agent of the mutilated Bond or Junior Lien Bond. If any Bond or Junior Lien Bond issued under this Ordinance shall be lost, destroyed or stolen, evidence of the loss, destruction or theft may be submitted to the transfer agent and, if this evidence is satisfactory to both and indemnity satisfactory to the transfer agent shall be given, and if all requirements of any applicable law including Act 354, Public Acts of Michigan, 1972, as amended ("Act 354"), being sections 129.131 to 129.135, inclusive, of the Michigan Compiled Laws have been met, the City, at the expense of the owner, shall execute, and the transfer agent shall thereupon authenticate and deliver, a new Bond or Junior Lien Bond of like tenor and bearing the statement required by Act 354, or any applicable law hereafter enacted, in lieu of and in substitution for the Bond or Junior Lien Bond so lost, destroyed or stolen. If any such Bond or Junior Lien Bond shall have matured or shall be about to mature, instead of issuing a substitute Bond or Junior Lien Bond the transfer agent may pay the same without surrender thereof.

Section 8. Payment of Series 2014 Bond; Security; Priority of Lien. Any Bonds hereafter issued and the interest thereon shall be payable solely from the Net Revenues, and to secure such payment, there is hereby created a statutory lien upon the whole of the Net Revenues which shall be a first lien to continue until payment in full of the principal of and interest on all Bonds payable from the Net Revenues, or, until sufficient cash or Sufficient Government Obligations have been deposited in trust for payment in full of all Bonds of a series then outstanding, principal and interest on such Bonds to maturity, or, if called for redemption, to the date fixed for redemption together with the amount of the redemption premium, if any.

Any Junior Lien Bonds issued hereunder, including the Series 2014 Bond, and the interest thereon shall be payable from the Net Revenues, and to secure such payment, there is hereby created a statutory lien upon the whole of the Net Revenues which shall be a second lien, subject only to the statutory first lien established with respect to the Bonds, to continue until payment in full of the principal of and interest on all Junior Lien Bonds payable from the Net Revenues, or, until sufficient cash or Sufficient Government Obligations have been deposited in trust for payment in full of all Junior Lien Bonds of a series then outstanding, principal and interest on such Junior Lien Bonds to maturity, or, if called for redemption, to the date fixed for redemption together with the amount of the redemption premium, if any. The statutory lien on the Net Revenues created with respect to the Junior Lien Bonds (including the Series 2014 Bond) shall at all times be and remain subordinate and inferior to the pledge of Net Revenues and the statutory first lien thereon authorized to be granted to secure any Bonds hereafter issued.

Upon deposit of cash or Sufficient Government Obligations, as provided in the previous sentences, the statutory lien shall be terminated with respect to that series of Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds, the holders of that series shall have no further rights under this Ordinance except for payment from the deposited funds, and the Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds of that series shall no longer be considered to be outstanding under this Ordinance.

Section 9. Bondholders' Rights; Receiver. The holder or holders of the Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds representing in the aggregate not less than twenty percent (20%) of the entire principal amount thereof then outstanding, may, by suit, action, mandamus or other proceedings, protect and enforce the statutory lien upon the Net Revenues of the System, and may, by suit, action, mandamus or other proceedings, enforce and compel performance of all duties of the officers of the City, including the fixing of sufficient rates, the collection of Revenues, the proper segregation of the Revenues of the System and the proper application thereof. The statutory lien upon the Net Revenues, however, shall not be construed as to compel the sale of the System or any part thereof.

If there is a default in the payment of the principal of or interest on the Bonds or the Junior Lien Bonds, any court having jurisdiction in any proper action may appoint a receiver to administer and operate the System on behalf of the City and under the direction of the court, and by and with the approval of the court to perform all of the duties of the officers of the City more particularly set forth herein and in Act 94.

The holder or holders of the Bonds and the Junior Lien Bonds shall have all other rights and remedies given by Act 94 and law, for the payment and enforcement of the Bonds and the Junior Lien Bonds and the security therefor.

Section 10. Management; Fiscal Year. The operation, repair and management of the System and the acquisition and construction of the Project shall be under the supervision and control of the City Council. The City Council, in accordance with the relevant provisions of the City Charter, may employ such person or persons in such capacity or capacities as it deems advisable to carry on the efficient management and operation of the System. The City Council may make such rules and regulations as it deems advisable and necessary to assure the efficient management and operation of the System. The fiscal year of the System shall be the fiscal year of the City.

Section 11. Rates and Charges. The rates and charges for service furnished by and the use of the System and the methods of collection and enforcement of the collection of the rates shall be those in effect on the date of adoption of this Ordinance.

2095 PUBLIC NOTICES

Section 12. No Free Service or Use. No free service or use of the System, or service or use of the System at less than cost, shall be furnished by the System to any person, firm or corporation, public or private, or to any public agency or instrumentality, including the City.

Section 13. Fixing and Revising Rates; Rate Covenant. The rates now in effect are estimated to be sufficient to provide for the payment of the expenses of administration and operation and such expenses for maintenance of the System as are necessary to preserve the System in good repair and working order, to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest on the Bonds and the Junior Lien Bonds as the same become due and payable, and the maintenance of the reserve therefor and to provide for all other obligations, expenditures and funds for the System required by law and this Ordinance. In addition, it is agreed that the rates shall be set from time to time so that there shall be produced each fiscal year Net Revenues in an amount not less than 110% of the principal of and interest on all Bonds coming due in each fiscal year and not less than 100% of the principal of and interest on all Junior Lien Bonds coming due in each fiscal year. The rates shall be fixed and revised from time to time as may be necessary to produce these amounts, and it is hereby covenanted and agreed to fix and maintain rates for services furnished by the System at all times sufficient to provide for the foregoing.

Section 14. Funds and Accounts; Flow of Funds. Commencing on September 1, 2014, all funds belonging to the System shall be transferred as herein indicated and all Revenues of the System shall be set aside as collected and credited to a fund to be designated SEWAGE DISPOSAL SYSTEM RECEIVING FUND (the "Receiving Fund"). In addition, on September 1, 2014, all Revenues in any accounts of the System shall be transferred to the Receiving Fund and credited to the funds and accounts as provided in this section. The Revenues credited to the Receiving Fund are pledged for the purpose of the following funds and shall be transferred or debited from the Receiving Fund periodically in the manner and at the times and in the order of priority hereinafter specified:

A. OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE ACCOUNT;

Out of the Revenues credited to the Receiving Fund there shall be first set aside in, or credited to, a fund designated OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE ACCOUNT (the "Operation and Maintenance Account"), monthly a sum sufficient to provide for the payment of the next month's expenses of administration and operation of the System and such current expenses for the maintenance thereof as may be necessary to preserve the same in good repair and working order.

A budget, showing in detail the estimated costs of administration, operation and maintenance of the System for the next ensuing operating year, shall be prepared by the City at least 30 days prior to the commencement of each ensuing operating year. No payments shall be made to the City from moneys credited to the Operation and Maintenance Account except for services directly rendered to the System by the City or its personnel.

B. BOND AND INTEREST REDEMPTION ACCOUNT;

There shall be established and maintained a separate depository fund designated BOND AND INTEREST REDEMPTION ACCOUNT (the "Redemption Account"), the moneys on deposit therein from time to time to be used solely for the purpose of paying the principal of, redemption premiums (if any) and interest on the Bonds. The moneys in the Redemption Account shall be kept on deposit with the bank or trust company where the principal of and interest on the Bonds, or any series thereof, are payable.

Out of the Revenues remaining in the Receiving Fund, after provision for the Operation and Maintenance Account, there shall be set aside in the Redemption Account each month, commencing with the date of issue of a series of Bonds, a sum proportionately sufficient to provide for the payment when due of the then current principal of and interest on the Bonds, less any amount in the Redemption Account representing accrued interest on the Bonds or investment income on amounts on deposit in the Redemption Account. Commencing with the date of issue of a series of Bonds, the amount set aside each month for interest on the Bonds shall be the fractional amount of the total amount of interest on the Bonds next coming due derived from the number of months from the date of issue of the Bonds to the first interest payment date. Commencing with the first interest payment date, the amount set aside each month for interest on the Bonds shall be 1/6 of the total amount of interest on the Bonds next coming due. The amount set aside each month for principal, commencing with the date of issue of a series of Bonds, shall be the fractional amount of the total amount of principal on the Bonds next coming due by maturity or sinking fund redemption derived from the number of months from the date of issue of the Bonds to the first principal payment date. The amount set aside each month for principal payment commencing with the first principal payment date shall be 1/12 of the amount of principal next coming due by maturity or sinking fund redemption. If there is any deficiency in the amount previously set aside, that deficiency shall be added to the next succeeding monthly requirements. The amount to be set aside for the payment of principal and interest on any date shall not exceed the amount which, when added to the money on deposit in the Redemption Account, including investment income thereon, is necessary to pay principal and interest due on the Bonds on the next succeeding principal payment date.

C. JUNIOR LIEN BOND AND INTEREST REDEMPTION ACCOUNT;

There is hereby established and there shall be maintained a separate depository account designated JUNIOR LIEN BOND AND INTEREST REDEMPTION ACCOUNT (the "Junior Lien Redemption Account"). Except as otherwise provided herein, the moneys on deposit therein from time to time shall be used for the purpose of paying the principal or Redemption Price of and interest on any Junior Lien Bonds.

Out of the Revenues remaining in the Revenue Fund, after transfer, if required, for deposit into the Operation and Maintenance Account and the Redemption Account, there shall be set aside monthly in the Junior Lien Redemption Account a sum sufficient to provide for the next payment when due of the principal of and interest on the Junior Lien Bonds, less any amount in the Junior Lien Redemption Account representing accrued interest on the Junior Lien Bonds, and less the sum of any funds actually on deposit in the Junior Lien Redemption Account. The amount set aside and transferred to the Junior Lien Redemption Account each month for interest on the Junior Lien Bonds shall be 1/6 of the total amount of interest on the Junior Lien Bonds next coming due or such greater or lesser amount as is necessary to assure that the amount set aside in the Junior Lien Redemption Account as of the first of such month is not less than the product of (a) 1/6 of the amount of interest next due on the Junior Lien Bonds times (b) the number of months elapsed since and including the last interest payment date. For the month immediately prior to each interest payment date the amount set aside and transferred to the Junior Lien Redemption Account to pay interest shall be reduced by amounts, including investment earnings, available in the Junior Lien Redemption Account which are available for such purpose. The amount set aside and transferred to the Junior Lien Redemption Account each month for principal commencing twelve months prior to the first maturity or mandatory sinking fund redemption date shall be 1/12 of the amount of principal next coming due on the Junior Lien Bonds by maturity or as a mandatory redemption requirement or such greater or lesser amount as is necessary to assure that the amount set aside in the Junior Lien Redemption Account as of the first of such month is not less than the product of 1/12 of the amount of principal next due on the Junior Lien Bonds times (b) the number of months elapsed since and including the last principal payment date. If there is any deficiency in the amount previously set aside, that deficiency shall be added to the next succeeding month's requirement.

No further payments need be made into the Junior Lien Redemption Account after enough of the principal installments of the Junior Lien Bonds have been retired so that the amount then held in the Junior Lien Redemption Account (including a bond reserve account, if any), is equal to the entire amount of principal and interest which will be payable at the time of maturity of all the principal installments of the Bond then remaining outstanding.

D. REPLACEMENT AND IMPROVEMENT FUND;

There shall next be established and maintained a fund, separate depository account, designated SEWAGE DISPOSAL SYSTEM REPLACEMENT ACCOUNT or such other designation determined by the Treasurer (the "Replacement Account"), the money credited thereto to be used solely for the purpose of making repairs and replacements to the System. Out of the Revenues and moneys of the System remaining in the Receiving Fund each month after provision has been made for the deposit of moneys in the Operation and Maintenance Account, the Redemption Account and the Junior Lien Redemption Account, there may be deposited in the Replacement Account such additional funds as the City may deem advisable. If at any time it shall be necessary to use moneys in the Replacement Account for the purpose for which the Replacement Account was established, the moneys so used shall be replaced from any moneys in the Receiving Fund which are not required by this Ordinance to be used for the Operation and Maintenance Account, the Redemption Account, or the Junior Lien Redemption Account.

E. GENERAL OBLIGATION DEBT ACCOUNT;

Out of the remaining Revenues in the Receiving Fund, there may be next set aside or credited to monthly after meeting the requirements of the foregoing Account, to an account designated General

2095 PUBLIC NOTICES

Obligation Debt Account (the "G.O. Fund"), or from other available moneys such sums as shall be necessary to pay debt service on presently existing or future general obligation bond issues of the City or general obligations or contractual obligations of the City incurred or to be incurred for System purposes.

F. SURPLUS MONEYS;

Thereafter, any Revenues in the Receiving Fund after satisfying all the foregoing requirements of this Section may, at the discretion of the City, be used for any of the following purposes:

1. Transferred to the Replacement Account.
2. Transferred to the Redemption Account and used for the purchase of Bonds on the open market at not more than the fair market value thereof or used to redeem Bonds prior to maturity pursuant to this Ordinance.
3. Any other use permitted by law.

Section 15. Priority of Funds. In the event the moneys in the Receiving Fund are insufficient to provide for the current requirements of the Operation and Maintenance Account, the Redemption Account, or the Junior Lien Redemption Account, any moneys or securities in other funds of the System, except the proceeds of sale of the Bonds, shall be credited or transferred, first, to the Operation and Maintenance Account, and second to the Redemption Account.

Section 16. Investments. Moneys in the funds and accounts established herein and moneys derived from the proceeds of sale of the Bonds, may be invested by the City in United States of America obligations or in obligations the principal of and interest on which is fully guaranteed by the United States of America and any investments now or hereafter permitted by Act 94 or other controlling law. Investment of moneys in the Redemption Account or the Junior Lien Redemption Account being accumulated for payment of the next maturing principal or interest payment of the Bonds or of the Junior Lien Bonds shall be limited to obligations bearing maturity dates prior to the date of the next maturing principal or interest payment on the Bonds or the Junior Lien Bonds. In the event investments are made, any securities representing the same shall be kept on deposit with the bank or trust company having on deposit the fund or funds or account from which the purchase was made. Profit realized or interest income earned on investment of funds in the Funds established hereunder shall be deposited in or credited to the fund having realized the profit or earned the interest (unless otherwise expressly provided in this Ordinance or as determined by the City), such deposit or credit to occur periodically but not less often than at the end of each fiscal year.

Section 17. Bond Proceeds. From the proceeds of the sale of the Series 2014 Bond there shall be immediately deposited in the Junior Lien Redemption Account an amount equal to the accrued interest and premium, if any, received on the delivery of the Series 2014 Bond. The balance of the proceeds of the sale of the Series 2014 Bond shall be deposited in a bank or banks, designated by the City, qualified to act as depository of the proceeds of sale under the provisions of Act 94, in an account designated 2014 SEWAGE DISPOSAL SYSTEM PROJECT CONSTRUCTION FUND (the "Construction Fund"). Moneys in the Construction Fund shall be applied solely in payment of the cost of the Project, including any engineering, legal and other expenses incident thereto and to the financing thereof. Payments for construction, either on account or otherwise, shall not be made unless the registered engineer in charge of such work shall file with the City a signed statement to the effect that the work has been completed in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor; that it was done pursuant to and in accordance with the contract therefor (including properly authorized change orders), that such work is satisfactory and that such work has not been previously paid for.

Any unexpended balance of the proceeds of sale of the Series 2014 Bond remaining after completion of the Project in the Construction Fund may, at the discretion of the City, be used for further improvements, enlargements and extension to the System, if, at the time of such expenditures, such use is approved by the Michigan Department of Treasury. If such permission is then required by law. Any remaining balance after such expenditure shall be paid to the Redemption Account and may be used for the purpose of purchasing the Series 2014 Bond on the open market at not more than the fair market value thereof, but not more than the price at which the Series 2014 Bond may next be called for redemption, or used for the purpose of paying principal of the Series 2014 Bond upon maturity or calling the Series 2014 Bond for redemption.

Section 18. Bond Form. The Series 2014 Bond shall be in substantially the following form with such changes or completion as necessary or appropriate to give effect to the intent of this Ordinance:

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
STATE OF MICHIGAN COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX
CITY OF CHARLEVOIX SEWAGE DISPOSAL SYSTEM JUNIOR LIEN REVENUE BOND, SERIES

2014 PUBLIC NOTICES

REGISTERED OWNER:
Michigan Finance Authority
PRINCIPAL AMOUNT: Ten Million
Nine Hundred Thousand Dollars
($10,900,000)
DATE OF ORIGINAL ISSUE:
September 17, 2014

The CITY OF CHARLEVOIX, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan (the "City"), for value received, hereby promises to pay, but only out of the hereinafter described Net Revenues of the City's Sewage Disposal System (hereinafter defined), to the Michigan Finance Authority (the "Authority"), or registered assigns, the Principal Amount shown above, or such portion thereof as shall have been advanced to the City pursuant to a Purchase Contract between the City and the Authority and a Supplemental Agreement by and among the City, the Authority and the State of Michigan acting through the Department of Environmental Quality, in lawful money of the United States of America, unless prepaid or reduced prior thereto as hereinafter provided.

During the time funds are being drawn down by the City under this Bond, the Authority will periodically provide the City a statement showing the amount of principal that has been advanced and the date of each advance, which statement shall constitute prima facie evidence of the reported information; provided that no failure on the part of the Authority to provide such a statement or to reflect a disbursement or the correct amount of a disbursement shall relieve the City of its obligation to repay the outstanding principal amount actually advanced, all accrued interest thereon, and any other amount payable with respect thereto in accordance with the terms of this Bond.

The Principal Amount shall be payable on the dates and in the annual principal installment amounts set forth on Schedule A attached hereto and made a part hereof, as such Schedule may be adjusted if less than $10,900,000 is disbursed to the City or if a portion of the Principal Amount is prepaid as provided below, with interest on said principal installments from the date each said installment is delivered to the holder hereof until paid at the rate of two and one-half percent (2.50%) per annum. Interest is first payable April 1, 2015 and semi-annually thereafter and principal is payable on the first day of October commencing October 1, 2016 (as identified in the Purchase Contract) and annually thereafter.

Principal installments of this bond are subject to prepayment by the City prior to maturity only with the prior written consent of the Authority and on such terms as may be required by the Authority. Notwithstanding any other provision of this bond, so long as the Authority is the owner of this bond, (a) this bond is payable as to principal, premium, if any, and interest at The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, N.A. or at such other place as shall be designated in writing to the City by the Authority (the "Authority's Depository"); (b) the City agrees that it will deposit with the Authority's Depository payments of the principal of premium, if any, and interest on this bond in immediately available funds by 12:00 noon at least five business days prior to the date on which any such payment is due whether by maturity, redemption or otherwise; in the event that the Authority's Depository has not received the City's deposit by 12:00 noon on the scheduled day, the City shall immediately pay to the Authority as invoiced by the Authority an amount to recover the Authority's administrative costs and lost investment earnings attributable to that late payment; and (c) written notice of any redemption of this bond shall be given by the City and received by the Authority's Depository at least 40 days prior to the date on which such redemption is to be made.

Additional Interest
In the event of a default in the payment of principal or interest hereon when due, whether at maturity, by redemption or otherwise, the amount of such default shall bear interest (the "additional interest") at a rate equal to the rate of interest which is two percent above the Authority's cost of providing funds (as determined by the Authority) to make payment on the bonds of the Authority issued to provide funds to purchase this bond but in no event in excess of the maximum rate of interest permitted by law. The additional interest shall continue to accrue until the Authority has been fully reimbursed for all costs incurred by the Authority (as determined by the Authority) as a consequence of the City's default. Such additional interest shall be payable on the interest payment date following demand of the Authority. In the event that (for reasons other than the default in the payment of any municipal obligation purchased by the Authority) the investment of amounts in the reserve account established by the Authority for the bonds of the Authority issued to provide funds to purchase this bond fails to provide sufficient available funds (together with any other funds which may be made available for such purpose) to pay the interest on outstanding bonds of the Authority issued to fund such account, the City shall and hereby agrees to pay on demand only the City's pro rata share (as determined by the Authority) of such deficiency as additional interest on this bond.

For prompt payment of principal and interest on this bond, the City has irrevocably pledged the revenues of the Sewage Disposal System of the City, including all appurtenances, extensions and improvements thereto (the "System"), after provision has been made for reasonable and necessary expenses of operation, maintenance and administration (the "Net Revenues"), and a statutory second lien thereon is hereby recognized and created, subject to the senior lien of any additional Bonds of the City hereafter issued by the City, as set forth in the Ordinance (hereinafter defined). The City has reserved the right to issue such additional Bonds which shall be superior and senior in all respects to the bonds of this issue as to the Net Revenues. Purchasers of the bonds of this issue, by their acceptance of the bonds of this issue or a beneficial ownership interest therein, shall be deemed to have consented to the subordination of their interest in and lien upon the Net Revenues upon the issuance of Bonds subsequent to the delivery of the bonds of this issue.

This bond is a single, fully registered, non convertible bond. In the principal sum indicated above issued pursuant to Ordinance No. ____ (the "Ordinance") duly adopted by the City Council of the City, and under and in full compliance with the Constitution and statutes of the State of Michigan, including specifically Act 94, Public Acts of Michigan, 1933, as amended, for the purpose of paying part of the cost of acquiring and constructing additions, extensions and improvements to the System.

For a complete statement of the revenues from which and the conditions under which this bond is payable, a statement of the conditions under which additional bonds of superior and equal standing may hereafter be issued and the general covenants and provisions pursuant to which this bond is issued, reference is made to the above-described Ordinance.

This bond is a self-liquidating bond, payable, both as to principal and interest, solely and only from the Net Revenues of the System. The principal of and interest on this bond are secured by the statutory lien hereinbefore mentioned.

The City has covenanted and agreed, and does hereby covenant and agree, to fix and maintain at all times while any bonds payable from the Net Revenues of the System shall be outstanding, such rates for service furnished by the System as shall be sufficient to provide for payment of the interest upon and the principal of the bonds of this issue, any additional Bonds, and any additional Junior Lien Bonds, as and when the same shall become due and payable, and to maintain a bond redemption fund (including a bond reserve account, if any) therefor, to provide for the payment of expenses of administration and operation and such expenses for maintenance of the System as are necessary to preserve the same in good repair and working order, and to provide for such other expenditures and funds for the System as are required by said Ordinance.

Section 19. General Covenants. The City covenants and agrees with the holders of the Bonds that so long as any of the Bonds remain outstanding and unpaid as to either principal or interest:

(a) The City will maintain the System in good repair and working order and will operate the same efficiently and will faithfully and punctually perform all duties with reference to the System required by the Constitution and laws of the State of Michigan, the City's Charter and this Ordinance;

(b) The City will keep proper books of record and account separate from all other records and accounts of the City, in which shall be made full and correct entries of all transactions relating to the System. The City shall have an annual audit of the books of record and account of the System for the preceding operating year made each year by an independent certified public accountant. The auditor shall comment on the manner in which the City is complying with the requirements of the Ordinance with respect to setting aside and investing moneys and meeting the requirements for acquiring and maintaining insurance. The audit shall be completed and so made available not later than six (6) months after the close of each operating year except as such period may be extended in conformance with the rules of the Michigan Department of Treasury.

(c) The City will maintain and carry, for the benefit of, the holders of the Bonds, insurance on all physical properties of the System and liability insurance, of the kinds and in the amounts normally carried by municipalities engaged in the operation of water supply and sewage disposal system, including self-insurance. All moneys received for losses under any such insurance policies shall be applied solely to the replacement and restoration of the property damaged or destroyed, and to the extent not so used, shall be used for the purpose of redeeming or purchasing Bonds.

(d) The City will not sell, lease or dispose of the System, or any substantial part, until all of the Bonds and Junior Lien Bonds have been paid in full, both as to principal and interest or provision made thereof as herein provided. The City will operate the System as economically as possible, will make all repairs and replacements necessary to keep the System in good repair and working order, and will not do or suffer to be done any act which would affect the System in such a way as to have a material adverse effect on the security for the Bonds and the Junior Lien Bonds.

(e) The City will not grant any franchise or other rights to any person, firm or corporation to operate a System that will compete with the System and the City will not operate a system that will compete with the System.

2014 PUBLIC NOTICES

(f) The City will cause the Project to be acquired and constructed promptly and in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor.

Section 20. Additional Bonds. Except as hereinafter provided, the City shall not issue additional Bonds of equal or prior standing with any initial series of Bonds issued hereunder.

The right is reserved in accordance with the provisions of Act 94, to issue additional Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds payable from the Revenues of the System which shall be of equal standing and priority of lien on the Net Revenues of the System with the Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds but only for the following purposes and under the following terms and conditions:

(a) To complete the Project in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor. Such bonds shall not be authorized unless the engineers in charge of construction shall execute a certificate evidencing the fact that additional funds are needed to complete the Project in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor and stating the amount that will be required to complete the Project. If such certificate shall be so executed and filed with the City, it shall be the duty of the City to provide for and issue additional revenue bonds in the amount stated in said certificate to be necessary to complete the Project in accordance with the plans and specifications plus an amount necessary to issue such bonds or to provide for part or all of such amount from other sources.

(b) For subsequent repairs, extensions, enlargements and improvements to the System or for the purpose of refunding part or all of the Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds then outstanding and paying costs of issuing such additional Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds. Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds for such purposes shall not be issued pursuant to this subparagraph (b) unless the Adjusted Net Revenues of the System for the preceding twelve-month operating year shall be equal to at least one hundred percent (100%) of the maximum amount of principal and interest thereafter maturing in any operating year on the then outstanding Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds and on the additional Bonds then being issued. If the additional Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds are to be issued in whole or in part for refunding outstanding Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds, the annual principal and interest requirements shall be determined by deducting from the principal and interest requirements for each operating year the annual principal and interest requirements of any Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds to be refunded from the proceeds of the additional Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds. For purposes of this subparagraph (b) the City may elect to use as the last preceding operating year any operating year ending not more than sixteen months prior to the date of delivery of the additional Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds and as the next to the last preceding operating year, any operating year ending not more than twenty-eight months prior to the date of delivery of the additional Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds. Determination by the City as to existence of conditions permitting the issuance of additional Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds shall be conclusive. No additional Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds of equal standing as to the Net Revenues of the System shall be issued pursuant to the authorization contained in this subparagraph if the City shall then be in default in making its required payments to the Operation and Maintenance Account or the Redemption Account.

(c) For refunding a part or all of the Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds then outstanding and paying costs of issuing such additional Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds including deposits which may be required to be made to a bond reserve account (if any) for such Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds. No additional Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds shall be issued pursuant to this subsection unless the maximum amount of principal and interest maturing in any operating year after giving effect to the refunding shall be less than the maximum amount of principal and interest maturing in any operating year prior to giving effect to the refunding.

Section 21. Negotiated Sale; Application to DEQ and Authority; Execution of Documents. The City determines that it is in the best interest of the City to negotiate the sale of the Series 2014 Bond to the Authority because the State Revolving Fund financing programs provide significant interest savings to the City compared to competitive sale in the municipal bond market. The Authorized Officers are hereby authorized to make application to the Authority and to the DEQ for placement of the Series 2014 Bond with the Authority. The actions taken by the Authorized Officers with respect to the Series 2014 Bond prior to the adoption of this Ordinance are ratified and confirmed. The Authorized Officers are authorized to execute and deliver the Purchase Contract, the Supplemental Agreement and the Issuer's Certificate. Any Authorized Officers is further authorized to execute and deliver such contracts, documents and certificates as are necessary or advisable to qualify the Series 2014 Bond for the State Section 22. Covenant Regarding Tax Exempt Status of the Bonds. The City shall, to the extent permitted by law, take all actions within its control necessary to maintain the exemption of the interest on the Series 2014 Bond from general federal income taxation (as opposed to any alternative minimum or other indirect taxation) under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), including, but not limited to, actions relating to any required rebate of arbitrage earnings and the expenditure and investment of Series 2014 Bond proceeds and moneys deemed to be bond proceeds.

Section 23. Approval of Bond Counsel. The representation of the City by Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, P.L.C. ("Miller Canfield"), as bond counsel is hereby approved, notwithstanding the representation by Miller Canfield of the Authority in connection with its financing programs and borrowings. Section 24. Approval of Bond Details. The Authorized Officers are each hereby authorized to adjust the final bond details set forth herein to the extent necessary or convenient to complete the transaction authorized herein, and in pursuance of the foregoing is authorized to exercise the authority and make the determinations authorized pursuant to Section 2a(1)(c) of Act 94, including but not limited to determinations regarding interest rates, prices, discounts, maturities, principal amounts, denominations, dates of issuance, interest payment dates, redemption rights, the place of delivery and payment, and other matters, provided that the principal amount of Series 2014 Bond issued shall not exceed the principal amount authorized in this Ordinance, the interest rate per annum on the Series 2014 Bond shall not exceed two and one-half percent (2.50%) per annum, and the Series 2014 Bond shall mature in not more than twenty (20) annual installments.

Section 25. Savings Clause. All ordinances, resolutions or orders, or part thereof, in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance are, to the extent of such conflict, repealed.

tion, paragraph, clause or provision of this Ordinance shall be held invalid, the invalidity of such section, paragraph, clause or provision shall not affect any of the other provisions of this Ordinance. Section 28. Effective Date. This Ordinance shall be effective upon its adoption and publication.

Historic iron works program scheduled

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Historical Society will host a program on the history of the East Jordan Iron Works, now known as EJ, at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 5, at the historic Depot at Charlevoix's Depot Beach.

The program will be presented by vice president of sales operations Ted Teske, a 38-year veteran with the company.

The East Jordan Iron Works was founded in 1883, and remains one of the largest and most successful businesses in Northern Michigan and still in the hands of the founding Malpass family. Its connection to Charlevoix began with the first shipment of tons of iron ore from the north on a lake freighter that passed through town on its way down Lake Charlevoix's South Arm.

Besides the history, the program will include a look at all of EJ's manufacturing facilities, and its gradual growth and extension that now spans the globe. For more information, call (231) 547-0373.

City voters choose an appointed clerk

CHARLEVOIX — City voters decided at the polls on Tuesday that they want an appointed city clerk, rather than an elected one.Voters approved by 522-345 the Charlevoix City Charter amendment question about whether to make the city clerk appointed, taking voters out of the clerk hiring equation altogether. The change will begin at the end of the current elected city clerk term in January 2016.City manager Rob Straebel said government officials are pleased with the election's outcome.

"There was resounding support for this charter change that will well-serve the city for many years to come. By appointing a city clerk we will be able to recruit candidates with the experience, education and skill set needed to be successful in this challenging position," he said.
"The vast majority of Michigan municipalities appoint a city clerk. We are happy with the results."City officials this year argued that changing the job to an appointedpost is a possible way to increase accountability to the city manager and council, something only city voters could do by changing the city charter with an amendment."I would be remiss to not mention that we remain very supportive of our current city clerk Joyce Golding.
She has done a great job so far and we are not looking to recruit for the position at this time," Straebel said.City voters last year elected as city clerk Larry Sullivan; a now-ousted Charlevoix County commis-sioner, after a long-standing vacancy. In January, Sullivan declined to accept the city post after the Michigan Attorney General opined that state law and the city charter prevented him from holding both elected city and county positions at the same time.That turn of events prompted the city clerk search and eventual appointment of Golding in March.Follow @sherimcwhirter and @

Well, the dog's super sniffer can pinpoint even small leaks in sanitary sewer lines which can contaminate with E. coli underground lines that dump stormwater into area lakes and streams.The idea is to start at a water outfall and if Logan detects human waste, continue up the line and check every manhole along the way until the can-way to identify from which block the contamination originates, that also happens to save thousands of dollars on otherwise needed water sample are needed to pinpoint where breaks

Castle Farms to host fairy garden workshop

CHARLEVOIX — "Your fairy garden should set the scene, tell a story — just like a play," said Castle Farms' master gardener and instructor Laurie Keller in her opening remarks at a recent Fairy Garden Make n' Take program hosted by the historic Charlevoix landmark.

According to Keller, there are five important steps to keep in mind when constructing a fairy garden.

Step No. 1: Decide whether the garden will be an indoor garden or an outdoor garden. Choosing the correct plants for the desired environment is vital.

Step No. 2: When staging the garden, place a tall plant or object at the backside of the container. This acts as an anchor point.

Step No. 3: Place a shorter item, which could be a fairy or gnome, in front of the taller backdrop. This acts as the focal point; it draws the eye to the center of the container.

Step No. 4: Use the remaining space in a 2-to-1 fashion. For example, two-thirds of the space should be occupied by walkway or patio, which can be made from stones or small pieces of tree bark. Accessories and decorations should take up the remaining one-third.

Step No. 5: The imagination is the key to creating a successful fairy garden.

"I really enjoy watching the kids put it all together and use their imaginations. The bottom line is that you should be creating something that makes you happy," Keller said.

Castle Farms recently expanded its existing welcome center and gift shop, which prompted the expansion of its collection of fairy garden items.

"We were really able to expand our selection of fairy garden items after expanding the gift shop," said Jessica Anderson, gift shop director.

Anderson said she can't hardly keep fairy garden accessories and starter kits on her shelves.

Fairy Garden Make n' Take classes occurred on a monthly basis throughout the summer. Castle Farms will wrap up the program with one final class beginning at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 13.

"I was overwhelmed at the turnout we had this time; it was significantly more than I expected, which is great to see," Keller said.

Admission is free, and plants, fairies and other garden accessories are available for purchase in the Castle Farms gift shop. Soil is provided; however, because of the limited number of containers available for purchase in the gift shop, participants are encouraged to bring his or her own.

Defendant's state of mind at crux of stabbing trial

Kaylee Booth expected to face jury verdict this week

STEVE ZUCKER

PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — The fate of a Charlevoix woman who is on trial for stabbing a woman she believed was having an affair with her ex-boyfriend will hinge on what a jury believes her state of mind was at the time of the incident.

Following jury selection and opening statements, testimony began Monday in the trial against Kaylee Booth, 32. Booth is facing a charge of assault with intent to murder, a felony punishable by up to life in prison. The charge stems from an incident that took place on Sept. 29, 2013, outside a residence at 704 State St. in Charlevoix.

During her opening statement Monday, Booth's defense attorney Jodi Doak said Booth does not dispute the fact that she stabbed Justine Murray several times with a kitchen knife as police have alleged. However, Doak told the jury that she will show that Booth was legally insane at the time of the incident and should accordingly be found not guilty by reason of insanity. In the alternative, Doak argued that the prosecution will not be able to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Booth intended to kill Murray in the attack, but instead should be found guilty of the lesser charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder, a 10-year felony.

Both Doak and Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Allen Telgenhof have something to prove to the jury to win their respective cases — but they have different standards of proof.

For Doak's insanity defense to be successful, she will need to prove to the jury by a preponderance of the evidence, that Booth was legally insane at the time she stabbed Murray. That means Doak must convince the jury that there is more evidence supporting than refuting the notion that at the time of the stab-

Hearing set for latest expansion plan

Officials seek more revenues to cover bond payments in newest take on marina expansion

SHERI MCWHIRTER-
O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — City councilors this week scheduled a public hearing on the newest version of a planned marina expansion at Charlevoix's East Park.

Charlevoix City Council unanimously voted to set the hearing for 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 18, one week following the Charlevoix Planning Commission review of the proposed project at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 11. Both sessions will be at city hall, 210 State St., in downtown Charlevoix.

Second Ward council member Peggy Brennan, also chairwoman of a special city marina committee, said the group has all that's needed to bring this latest proposal forward for public review and council consideration. This is the second plan to surface this year after an earlier proposal to extend Pier A met with objections from the public and environmental advocates.

"We have the ability to provide more 80-foot slips," she said, adding, "and we need additional income."

City officials propose an increase to the number of slips at the city marina to help pay for growing payments toward the municipal bonds sold to overhaul East Park and the marina less than a decade ago. Any city-pursued expansion would bring increased revenues, which wouldn't have to be shared with the state, like must be done with the current slips funded in part through Michigan waterways dollars.

City treasurer Joe Zielinski explained how the city knew the bond payments would increase in size, but the deal was done before the economic crash in late 2007. Property values since dropped, so in turn the tax dollars coming into the coffers at the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority shrank. That's problematic when the hope was to maintain the planned payment schedule, he said.

Zielinski said this situation is part of why officials seek new revenues out of the marina. Brennan further said without new revenues, the fear is subsidies may begin to be pulled from the city's general fund, resulting in a loss of city services elsewhere.

The marina committee began to meet in June after the earlier proposal launched a heated local debate about the positive economic impact of increased boat traffic

State Street utility overhaul plan approved

MDOT grant funds to help pay for work from Clinton to Hurlbut streets

SHERI MCWHIRTER-
O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix city leaders unanimously agreed Monday to accept state grant dollars for infrastructure work on State Street.

Charlevoix City Council voted 6-0 to enter a contract with the Michigan Department of Transportation that will bring an estimated $450,200 in state transportation funds to the city's coffers for a major underground utility project from Clinton to Hurlbut streets along State Street. The hope is that another state grant may be awarded for a second phase along State Street from Hurlbut to Carpenter streets, officials said.

"I do see that $450,000 increasing in the future," said Rob Strachel, city manager.

The work is expected to begin in late winter or early spring 2015 and cost a total estimated $893,300, with the city's portion currently pegged at $443,100. The agreement is a 80-20 percent state-city split for hot asphalt mix, storm sewer, concrete curb and gutter and sidewalk ramps.

This April 2014 file photograph shows emergency utility upgrades required after a harsh winter and deep frost levels led to frozen and busted water lines.

City officials must spend some of the grant dollars by

March, so Strachel said they will purchase asphalt, concrete and other construction materials to maintain compliance with the grant requirement.

Meanwhile, city budgets must cover the entire cost of underground utilities such as water and sewer mains, along with tree planting, brick pavers, retaining walls and conduit work.

During the last winter season, water mains along State Street continually froze and busted, causing the city to in an emergency fashion not only fix, but improve the lines. Continued talks among city and state officials resulted in this effort to improve through a two-phase series the aging underground infrastructure along State Street, from the heart of downtown Charlevoix southward through the residential neighborhoods to the commercial district and edge of Charlevoix Municipal Airport.

OPINIONS yours & ours

And the race is on

"Politics can be a real turn off for a lot of us, especially during an election year. We get tired of commercials aired that reflect the nasty side of human nature and we begin to question what is true. Having been introduced to the realm and responsibility of voting and caring about issues came early in our home. It was a reflection of parents who often times took opposite sides of the issues and candidates, but nonetheless educated their children about choices and responsibilities that were part of the process.

"So here we are again, a new election year and new bashing and new politicking and more commercials.

I will take the positive spin and let you know I did enjoy my campaign involvement with my family when my sister and brother-in-law ran for office. I sifted through articles that were biased or untrue, handed out literature, visited town meetings and went door-to-door meeting people from all walks of life. It was a far cry from the days when I helped my sister run for class president, but the presence of good and bad, jealousy and envy, still reared its head, just more so in an hormonal setting as, after all, it involved a lot of teenagers.

Things I've learned along the political route include how when someone wants to sell something in the worst way, they may keep some information to themselves. When anyone makes promises, remember this is not your best friend, it's a person who is working to do what they feel is right. Once in office, the real cards are on the table because of laws and regulations that might keep your candidate from doing the things they promised. Interest groups and lobbyists run high on emotion. It takes a calm demeanor, logical thinking and the ability to really listen to both sides of an issue that serve us well in any elected office. The person elected is working to represent their constituents' view and should not focus on their own issues.

I appreciate the process and understand the foils and tribulations, struggles and triumphs of elections. This is a country where we still are allowed to speak our minds without fear that are families will be in harm's way.

Decisions made by those in office are not always something we may agree with, but we still need to support their efforts, voice our opinions and not harbor grudges.

When my sister made a judicial decision that angered someone directly involved with the case, the person in question threatened her life, which then brought in the Federal Bureau of Investigation. I remain cognizant that some people go over the edge quickly and I am keenly aware that mentally unstable individuals walk the same sidewalk as I, but I haven't walked in their shoes to understand their pain.

There will always be individuals who lash out and become blindsided. My column this week serves as a reminder that kindness is still a virtue. Open-mindedness and cooperation goes further than coercion. We can co-exist with differing philosophies, as I witnessed growing up in my own household. In our family we all still love each other; we just don't make religion and politics the focus of conversations.

Listen, observe and read with an open mind about those running for office. It's important to vote even if you are unhappy with what's on the ballot. A voiced and counted ballot is something we can still do in the United States without being physically attacked. Women have a strong voice because of wonderful role models that came before us and never take that for granted. We can agree to disagree, but still go on and accept each other for having a voice. When mid-November arrives, the commercials will quiet, the coffee breaks will focus on something else and life will go on.

On a lighter note, consider that without politicians, comedians wouldn't have as much material with which to work.

LETTERS to the editor

State park land not for trade

Editor:
When the draft St. Marys Cement's (SMC) proposal for a "land swap" was overwhelmingly rejected by the people of Charlevoix, St. Marys changed tactics. The swap proposed would remove Bells Bay Road and strip-mine approximately 190 acres of land within the Bells Bay Campground of Fisherman's Island State Park, in exchange for property in Norwood Township.

SMC announced it would form a committee of "respected, reasonable" citizens to work for a "win-win" solution to the problem. St. Marys accepted most volunteers and solicited people to serve on their committee. They hired a lead facilitator. The committee meetings are closed.

Most members of the committee believe that talking and compromise are good. Most citizens on the committee have a wish list for the state park. Boat launches, asphalt bike trails, concrete pads for motorhomes, running trails, hot showers and electrical hook-ups and even elevated roadways have been discussed.

But going to St. Marys Cement for park amenities is like going to a bull for milk. St. Marys has no ownership of Fisherman's Island State Park. It is not their call.

St. Marys hopes to gain possession of the most popular, most used, most easily accessed part of Fisherman's Island State Park. Almost half of the historic Bells Bay Campground portion of the state park would be strip-mined. All of the historic Bells Bay Campground in Charlevoix Township would be forever degraded. The proposal to move the entrance of the park to Clipperview or Whitmore several miles south in Norwood Township, and to mine out Bells Bay County Road, takes away the access to the scenic public overlook, access to trails, the link to Lake Michigan for the new Lake-to-Lake multi-use trail and brings industrial mining to the back yards of all the campsites in Charlevoix Township (the first two loops).

St. Marys Cement's aspiration to gain possession of the northernmost minable parts of Fisherman's Island State Park has not changed since its original "2011 Swap Concept."

If St. Marys wants an open dialogue with the community, it should be honest about what it wants. Save Fisherman's Island did a poll that can be viewed on Facebook at Save Fisherman's Island State Park. Of 85 respondents, only three stated that they would consider the draft proposal.

We love Fisherman's Island State Park. We wouldn't trade it for anything!

St. Marys meeting not only forum for public input

Editor:
I am disappointed with your July 17 article relating to the yet-to-be-proposed land swap between the St. Marys Cement Company, and the DNR (Michigan Department of Natural Resources).

The suggestion that a prominent company's preference to seek advice from community members representing a wide range of experiences and backgrounds is somehow inappropriate, reflects not only a serious misunderstanding of what is essentially a professionally facilitated process to gather information, discuss issues, and explore alternatives, but ignores the availability of other forums for people to express their views. So too, that appearance of goodwill merely mask a darker intention to hijack public lands because meetings will take place in a venue smaller than Kipke Field or because endorsement is promoted by the hosting of a whitefish or prime rib dinner is an affront to both the individuals involved and the community geographically. Endorsements, irrespective of whether or not invited, are earned and not bought.

The unsupported observation that wide-spread public opposition currently exists to an arrangement yet-to-be-submitted is simply irresponsible. If intended to inflame, it is also a disservice to the town.

As the young people would say, "step up your game." Charlevoix will be a better and more informed place if you do.

This photo, a very recent acquisition of the Charlevoix Historical Society, shows Newton's Transfer Service, a haulage business that in summer was kept busy from dawn to dusk. The truck would meet trains at the depot on Depot Beach in the heyday of the resort specials three times a day, and passenger steamers and liners at the city dock. So busy was the dock that it was not unusual for one liner to be pulling away, another out in Round Lake waiting to slip in behind it, and a third heading toward the channel from Lake Michigan. To and from the depot and the dock the truck would haul piles of trunks, suitcases and boxes between those two points and both the Chicago Club and Belvedere resorts, all the city hotels, guest houses and summer residences. Hundreds of visitors a day swarmed north from all over the country to savor the summertime benefits of our mild climate and beautiful surroundings. The Pere Marquette Railroad dubbed Charlevoix "The Queen of the Northern Resort Country" in its advertising in the early 20th century. Newton's Transfer Service reflects how true that was, with truckful after truckful of luggage loaded so high there was no room for any more, here shown along the Chicago Club's picket fence.

Venetian week a success especially finale day

Editor:
Charlevoix was never more "the Beautiful" than it was this past Venetian Festival week — especially Saturday!

After the grey, threatening skies turned Charlevoix blue again, Northern Michigan and beyond, was treated to a wonderful day. Drenth street races, a parade with huge smiles lining the route all the way down Bridge Street, Lions Club delicious chicken lunch in our amazing park, closed off downtown with fun street performers keeping all our smiles from the parade earlier, the best (I'm showing my age, HA-HA) Odmark show ever with Simon and Garfunkle (tribute) show! All this did Charlevoix proud, but then the fireworks (I couldn't see the boat parade behind the moored yachts in our marina) which had to be the most beautiful, and different kind of fireworks show any of us had ever seen.

Needless to say, I love Charlevoix. Thanks to all who must have put so much work to pull this week off so well. You should be very proud.

Closed-door meeting hard to believe

Editor:
Congratulations on your coverage of said closed-door meeting. I can hardly believe, in this day and age, that such a meeting would even be attempted; and being that it did, an elected official of the County Board was in attendance (Larry Sullivan). In my opinion, his attendance was totally unprofessional and unethical. Also, another candidate for office was in attendance, and she should have recused herself from the meeting, as should have Mr. Sullivan.

There certainly are many unanswered questions in regard to this meeting.

Fire chief retires after three decades of service

Farming, motorcycle riding in Paul Ivan's future

CHARLEVOIX — Fire Chief Paul Ivan decided to retire after serving the Charlevoix community for the past 33 years.

Since 1981, Ivan served in many capacities for the City of Charlevoix. He started as a police officer in July 1981 to March 2003. At this point, he was a firefighter, fire officer and fire investigator before becoming fire chief.

At 14 years old, Ivan knew he wanted to be in the public safety field. After graduating from Lake Superior State University and a small stint on Mackinac Island, he landed his job in Charlevoix.

"A lot has happened over the years, but one thing is certain, time goes by fast," Ivan said.

One can imagine what the now-retired fire chief has seen and done throughout his career, but in the end, he said the trust and work ethic of his team will forever be embedded in his life.

Ivan witnessed many changes over the years, particularly in the way emergency responders approach fires.

"We used to put out fires because it was the thing to do. Today, risk management plays an extreme role in how things are handled. We now ask ourselves, does our activity justify the risk involved," Ivan said.

He said he believes this is a safer approach for everyone involved.

Ivan

Ivan is going to take it easy for awhile before getting back to his roots as a farmer. He grew up on a farm in Saginaw Valley, and his brother runs it today.

"I haven't helped on the farm in more than 20 years, so I'm going to go down there and haul sugar beets for a bit," Ivan said.

A motorcycle may also be in the retiree's future.

"My wife is starting to get concerned because I've started looking for another motorcycle. I sold mine two years ago, and I think it's time to get another one," Ivan said.

Leaving this area is not an option for him, though. Ivan said he calls Charlevoix home, and it will remain that way.

"We may leave for awhile, but we will always come back to this community. We have no desire to go anywhere else. But my wife may want to travel to South Carolina for the month of March after last year's winter," Ivan said.

His advice for up-and-coming firefighters is simple: "Be ready to diversify. Today's firefighters are also EMS providers. I would tell future cadets to focus on getting a paramedic's license, as well," Ivan said.

"This was a great place to raise my son and daughter. The community rallied around our family well. It's just a great place to live," Ivan said. "It is odd not responding to calls, but it is time to move on."

Dwain Martin

Concert series to host fundraiser with Dwain Martin

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Public Library will continue the SummerFolk Concert Series with the library's own Dwain Martin in a special session.

The SummerFolk Concerts run from 6:30-8:30 p.m. on the last Monday of each month, with an added special concert with Martin on Monday, Aug. 11. Dwain Martin & 45 North will perform at this special fundraising concert, and no open mic will be available at this concert.

Martin is a songwriter in the folk-rock genre with a spirit of joy, conscience, gratitude and a strong lyrical foundation using a variety of musical styles and instruments. Martin will have the talents of 45 North's Robin Luce, Gordon Howie, Pam Luce and Melissa Welke join him playing his songs, as well as many of their own.

Martin's performance will help raise funds for the folk concert series throughout the year. Donations at the door are appreciated.

Dave Boutette, who is influenced by songwriters that span from Chuck Berry to Chuck Brodsky, will be the featured performer on Monday, Aug. 25.

Sandy Blumenfeld & Sour Mash will round out the series on Monday, Sept. 29. Sandy & Sour Mash is a local bluegrass band with an old-time string band and swing flavor. Its six members span several generations and bring multiple musical influences to the mix.

SummerFolk celebrates local folk artists with an evening of music. The featured performer kicks off the evening with a 45-minute concert, which is followed by an open mic session — an opportunity for the public to share talents. Open mic sign-up begins at 6 p.m. the night of the concert, and is limited to five performers.

For more information about the Folk Concert Series, talk to Martin at the library by calling (231) 547-2651.

BOYNE FALLS

Kiersten's Ride to be Aug. 16

Benefit event for suicide prevention to start at Chandler Hill Campground BOYNE FALLS — The second annual Kiersten's Ride suicide prevention fund-raising horseback ride is planned for 10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 16, starting at Chandler Hill Campground in Boyne Falls.

Registration currently is under way for the annual benefit event named for the late Kiersten Clavier, the daughter of David and Lisa Clavier, of East Jordan. Kiersten died by suicide in August 2012 and her family now raises funds in her name to pay for anti-suicide programs at area schools.

Last year, the event raised more than $7,500 and covered the costs for such suicide prevention programs in East Jordan, Charlevoix and Peliston, impacting more than 2,000 students.

"We are going to continue to do more programs at schools," Lisa Clavier said, organized through a partnership with the Char-Em Intermediate School District.

Registration fees for the trail ride are $10 and there are separate trails for horses and all-terrain vehicles. Reservations for camping at Chandler Hill Campground are available, including equine-friendly sites.

Lisa Clavier said the event moved from last year's East Jordan and Charlevoix route because of the large number of ATV riders who wished to participate. The Chandler Hill site offers more space for the dual activities, she said.

Participants are encouraged to seek sponsorship donations for the event and those funds are to be turned in the morning of the ride, including checks, money orders, or cash. Prizes will be awarded for the highest sponsorships raised.

An event T-shirt will be awarded to participants who raise $50 or more, and a sweatshirt for those who raise $250 or more.

Registration applications are available from Lisa Clavier by calling (231) 675-5047, or sending email to lisaclavier@hotmail.com online. Applications can be

CHARLEVOIX

Author Hampton Sides to appear at library

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Public Library, in partnership with McLean and Eakin Booksellers, will host a visit with author Hampton Sides from 1-3 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 15.

Sides will begin with a lecture about his most recent title, "In the Kingdom of Ice: the Grand and Terrible Polar Voyage of the USS Jeannette." There will be time for questions and answers, as well as signing. Books will be available to purchase and participants are asked to register online at www.charlevoixlibrary.org/calendar and click on the event.

On July 8, 1879, the USS Jeannette set sail from San Francisco to cheering crowds in the grip of "Arctic Fever." The ship sailed north into uncharted seas, but soon was trapped in pack ice. Two years into the harrowing voyage, the hull was breached. Amid the rush of water and the shrieks of breaking wooden boards, the crew abandoned the ship. Less than an hour later, the Jeannette sank to the bottom, and the men found themselves marooned a thousand miles north of Siberia with only the barest supplies.

Thus began their long march across the endless ice — a frozen hell in the most lonesome corner of the world. Facing everything from snow blindness and polar bears to ferocious storms and frosty labyrinths, the expedition battled madness and starvation as they desperately strove for survival. This title is the spellbinding tale of heroism and determination in a most unforgiving territory.

Hampton Sides is editor-at-large of Outside Magazine and the author of the bestselling histories "Hellhound on his Trail," and "Blood and Thunder and Ghost Soldiers." He has also written for such periodicals as National Geographic, the New Yorker, Esquire, Preservation and Men's Journal. His magazine work, collected in numerous published anthologies, has been twice nominated for National Magazine Awards for feature writing.

Church women to host 55th chicken salad luncheon

CHARLEVOIX — Christ Episcopal Church women will host their 55th Art Fair Chicken Salad Luncheon from 11:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 9.

Their luncheon is a long-standing Charlevoix tradition involving generations of women working together on this fund-raising project. The church is one block up from the Waterfront Art Fair, at 200 State St. in Charlevoix.

Lunch is served either outside along the sidewalk on the side of the church or in the parish hall in air-conditioned comfort. Lunch participants feast on chicken salad, made from a traditional church recipe, along with fruit, muffins, cookies and iced tea as they examine their art purchases. Artists who are showing their wares take a break at the church or have take-out chicken salad delivered to their art booth.

The Chicken Salad Luncheon is fundraiser for the Episcopal Church Women of Christ Church. The money has been used for donations to the Charlevoix Community Food Pantry and other causes in past years.

Christ Episcopal Church started as a summer mission of the Diocese of Western Michigan in 1894 and became a full-time church after World War II.

Sunday church service begins at 10 a.m. For more information, call the church at (231) 547-6322 or visit www.christepiscopalchurch.net online.

Glass greenhouse OK'd by council

Charlevoix business to invest in upgraded facility

SHERRI MCWHIRTER-DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — City council members on Monday unanimously approved an updated site plan — developed through a series of compromises — for a new glass greenhouse Bridge Street Blooms wants to install at its Charlevoix location.

Initially city planner Mike Spencer questioned whether the planned landscaping met city ordinance requirements, but he told council members how revisions made to the site plan better satisfies the intent and specific requirements of the zoning ordinance.

"The applicant has submitted a much better landscaping plan," Spencer said.

The horticultural retail business at 1403 Bridge St. is owned by Chris and Mary Helstrom, of Charlevoix. It sits between Lakeshore Tire and Auto Services and Flap Jack Family Restaurant. Councilwoman Shirley Gibson asked whether the company's site plan now meets city regulations, and Spencer said not entirely, though a number of compromises now make the plan acceptable.

Spencer said the company's changes include: a repositioned pair of flower beds to be symmetrical with the building entrance; an agreement to pay for shade trees to be planted within the street right-of-way; an additional five ornamental trees to a more public area south of the building; a new canopy tree near the north entrance; and, an additional row of flower beds on the south side of the parking lot next to the pea gravel area intended for plant and tree displays.

Bridge Street Blooms already removed the temporary greenhouse seen in this file photo to make way for the now-approved permanent greenhouse expected to be constructed.

"Overall, we think it's a great utilization of a lot that used to be a church," Spencer said.

The long-standing temporary greenhouse at the business site is already removed to make way for the permanent commercial greenhouse now approved by city regulators.

Prescription discount card available via United Way

The people living and working in Emmet and Charlevoix counties saved $407,130 to date on everyday prescription costs, thanks to the United Way and FamilyWize partnership. The free FamilyWize drug savings card is distributed by Char-Em United Way.

"No one should be forced to choose between paying for food, rent or medicine because of the high cost of prescriptions. That's why we've partnered with FamilyWize to distribute free prescription savings cards to everyone in Emmet and Charlevoix counties," said Lisa Luebke, Char-Em United Way program coordinator.

Distributed through United Ways, the FamilyWize card lowers the cost of medicine by an average of 40 percent, or more for people without insurance or who take medications not covered by their plan. It's just like a coupon that can be used every time prescriptions are filled. Participants simply present a FamilyWize card at local pharmacies to get the savings.

"The FamilyWize card provides immediate savings on prescription medicines with no paperwork or forms to fill out," said Susan Gilmore, executive director of community engagement for the FamilyWize Community Service Partnership.

These cards can be used by everyone in the community, not just people without insurance. They can even be used by people with health benefits, including Medicaid or Medicare.

The FamilyWize card is free; for immediate and unlimited use; available to anyone; accepted at 95 percent of pharmacies nationwide; and obtained with no enrollment or personal information needed.

The easiest way to obtain a card is to visit www.char-EmUnitedWay.org or www.FamilyWize.org. Those interested can print a card, look up drug prices and obtain a list of participating pharmacies. Local businesses and employers can also obtain cards to give to their employees.

For residents without internet access, FamilyWize cards can be obtained from the Department of Human Services, Friendship Centers of Emmet County, Petoskey and Charlevoix public libraries, Manna Food Project, Kmart Pharmacy or by calling Char-Em United Way at (231) 487-1006.

EAST JORDAN

Red Cross to hold multiple blood drives in area

EAST JORDAN — There are a number of upcoming American Red Cross blood drives scheduled across Charlevoix and Antrim counties, the first in East Jordan.

During the summer months, about two fewer donors on average give blood at each blood drive than what is needed to meet the needs of patients. Vacations and summer activities are among the reasons regular donors may not find the time to give. However, patients don't get a vacation from the constant need for donated blood.

Red blood cells have a shelf life of just 42 days and platelets just five days, so those supplies are in constant need of replenishing.

To schedule an appointment to donate, call 1-800-733-2767 or visit www.redcrossblood.org.

American Red Cross

Upcoming blood drives will be:

— Noon-5:45 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 12, at East Jordan Civic Center, 101 Civic Center Lane, East Jordan

— Noon-5:45 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 14, at St. Luke's Catholic Church, 3038 S. M-88, Bellaire

— 10 a.m.-3:45 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 21, at Charlevoix Area Hospital, 14700 Lakeshore Drive, Charlevoix

— Noon-5:45 p.m. Monday, Aug. 25, at St. Matthew Catholic Church, 1303 Boyne Ave., Boyne City

The Great Lakes Blood Services Region serves 65 counties and needs to collect about 650 units of blood each day to meet patient need in hospitals.

bing Booth suffered from a mental illness, and because of that illness, she was either unable to appreciate the seriousness of her actions and/or was not able to refrain from those actions.

Telgenhof's burden of proof is much higher. Although Booth is not denying she stabbed Murray, Telgenhof will still have to convince the jury "beyond a reasonable doubt" that in doing so Booth was trying to kill Murray.

During her opening statement Monday, Doak said the defense will show that Booth was suffering from a condition known as brief psychotic disorder, which was brought on by a host of stresses that she was under on the day of the stabbings. Among the stresses that Doak pointed to included the loss of "a significant relationship" with ex-boyfriend Joe Reedy, the fear that she would not be able to provide for her children and would soon be without a home, the fear that Murray was moving into her home that she had previously shared with Reedy and the fear that Reedy was taking some of her belongings.

Doak said she will show how all these factors caused Booth to "snap."

In his opening statement, Telgenhof said he will show that Booth knew exactly what was going on at the time of the incident. He pointed to police reports that shortly after the stabbing, Booth told an officer, "I think I did something pretty serious."

One of the first witnesses called to testify Monday was Charlevoix Police Department officer James Schlappi, who was the first police officer on the scene. Schlappi said when he spoke to Booth she admitted to stabbing Murray, and although she said she was very angry at the time, she was calm when she spoke to Schlappi.

Murray also testified on Monday.

In her testimony, Murray, who is divorced and was separated from her now ex-husband at the time of the incident, said she and Reedy had known each other for many years, but prior to the weeks leading up to the stabbing she hadn't seen Reedy in about a year. Murray said she and Reedy crossed paths at a bonfire a couple weeks before the stabbing and after the bonfire had spent time together on a couple of occasions but never were involved romantically.

Murray said one of those times was the day before the stabbing. She said Booth came to believe that she and Reedy were involved romantically and starting in the early morning hours of Sept. 29, Booth began sending her angry text messages.

Telgenhof introduced a transcript of text messages between the two women as evidence in the case.

The angry messages went back and forth between the women throughout much of the day, according to Murray and the transcript, as Murray worked at her job as a gas station/convenience store manager.

Murray said at the end of her shift, Reedy asked her to accompany him to the home at 704 State St., where he and Booth had been living, so Reedy could get his belongings. Murray said Reedy asked her to go along because he wanted a third party as a witness in the event that Booth might try to make domestic violence allegations against him.

Murray said when she and Reedy arrived at the house, they went inside to find Booth feeding her baby in the living room. She said Reedy and Booth exchanged some heated words and then they (Murray and Reedy) went outside to leave.

Murray said as she stood in the driveway waiting for Reedy to turn his truck around to depart, Booth came charging out of the house at her and stabbed her in the leg with a knife. The injury, she said, caused her to fall to the ground at which time she said Booth stabbed her several more times, once in the chest, once through the arm and into her chest. She said Booth "went for her throat," but she put her hand up to block the attempt causing cuts to her hand and finger. Finally, she said, a bystander knocked Booth away from her.

"I thought I was going to die," Murray testified.

Murray said she was first taken to Charlevoix Area Hospital, then later the same day she was transferred to Munson Medical Center in Traverse City where she stayed for four days. She said she was off work for about a month while she recovered from her injuries.

The trial is scheduled to last four days and is expected to conclude on Thursday, after the Courier's press deadline.

there," Roloff said. "I am really thrilled that the people had that much faith to give me my old seat back. (Larry and I) weren't that far apart, we both ran a pretty even campaign. I'm glad it's over and I'm looking forward to working with the other commissioners."

Roloff served on the board until 2010. She ran again in 2012, but lost to Sullivan, who is nearing the end of his first term.

In the county's 5th District, incumbent Rich Gillespie was also ousted by challenger Nancy Ferguson.

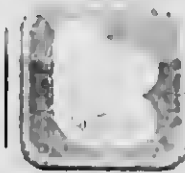

The 5th District represents residents in Eveline, Marion and Norwood townships, as well as Peaine and St. James townships on Beaver Island.

While Gillespie is a Beaver Island resident, he only received a little more than 50 percent of the vote in the two island townships. In Peaine Township, 69 votes were cast for Gillespie and 61 for Ferguson. In St. James Township, Gillespie received 63 votes to Ferguson's 50.

Gillespie didn't immediately return a phone message seeking comment Tuesday night.

The two challengers who defeated the incumbents will take their seats in January, following the general election in November. However, there currently are no other challengers they must face in that election.

HEARING

in the city's marina, versus visual and potential environmental and navigational impacts to already busy Round Lake.

This time, the plan is for a new pier to be constructed along city property north of existing Pier A, basically behind the marina building. Current drawings call for five additional 80-foot slips on the southern side of the pier, with room for up to a 92-foot yacht to moor at the end, plus space along the seawall for shoppers' docks. The Keweenaw Star would then moor along the northern side of the pier, where cruise ships also periodically could dock.

The DDA board approved the plan, but suggested seven additional 80-foot slips, rather than just five.

"We will probably be recommending seven as the optimum option, with five slips as the compromise option," Brennan said.

Brennan also said she wanted the public hearing scheduled in August, before summer residents leave after the Labor Day holiday.

Planning commissioners are expected to review the proposal and make their collective recommendation to city council, which will have the final authority on the matter. But not all councilors sound as though this will be a rubber-stamped proposal come Aug. 18.

"I think we'll be having more than one public hearing on this. We're not showing this through," said Shirley Gibson, councilwoman from the Third Ward.

underground infrastructure on Tuesday, while the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation provided a similar grant for Logan's work done in Petoskey on Monday.

"We found a lot of areas that were clean. He found no problems," Reynolds said.

However, Logan's nose is so very sensitive that even when he does signal that he detects contamination, the magnitude can remain unclear until water testing is completed. Overall, Logan didn't find anything in Charlevoix that stands out as a huge issue, Reynolds said.

"Dogs have amazingly sensitive noses and with their help we are able to locate sources of bacterial contamination in our waterways more efficiently," said Kevin Cronk, director of monitoring and research at Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, the nonprofit that helped organize this effort.

"Finding these precise locations where waste enters the storm drain network is challenging, but the dog's keen sense of smell and specialized training narrows our search for contamination and, as a result, is more cost effective," Cronk said.

Reports on the findings will be generated and delivered back to the communities by Environmental Canine Services, of Dover, N.H., the company owned by Reynolds and her husband, which maintains 10 such specially trained dogs across the country with their handlers.

JUDGE RACE

paing and I'm proud of the way we ran the campaign," Snyder said. "I offer my congratulations to Joe Hayes and Mary Beth Kur."

Coming in fourth was Thomas Schraw, of Boyne City, with 837 votes, and Edward Engstrom in fifth with 406 votes. All the candidates but Schraw hail from Charlevoix.

The ongoing race is to succeed current circuit court Judge Richard M. Pajtas, who is barred from seeking re-election by a state law that prohibits a person more than 70 years old from being elected to a judge's post. Pajtas first took office in 1985.

Both Hayes and Kur said they look forward to the continued campaign leading up to the general election in three short months.

"Mary Beth and I are very good friends and I have a lot of respect for her," Hayes said, adding how they both have much experience in the local circuit court. "I look forward to going up against her in the general election."

Kur said the various campaigns maintained a positive tone, reflective of the quality candidates in the race.

"Everyone in this race ran a clean, positive campaign and worked very hard and they deserve recognition, as well. It is an honor to be one of the two to move on to the November ballot," she said.

Of the 22,191 registered voters in Charlevoix County, 6,829 cast ballots in Tuesday's election, resulting in a nearly 31-percent voter turn-out rate. That is higher than most primary elections, presumably because of a combination of the local judge race and multiple contested county commissioner races.

Election results can be viewed online at the Charlevoix County Clerk's website at www.charlevoix-county.org/clerk.asp online, under the link for the 2014 August primary.

Disc golf course to stay

Remedies to issues found for Mount McSaubia activity

CHARLEVOIX — City officials said this week they intend to make a few changes to the disc golf course at Mount McSaubia, but it will not be removed altogether, as some suggested.

"We came up with some measures we can take to improve safety," said Rob Strachel, Charlevoix city manager.

Several city councilors said they don't believe disc golf should be allowed at the city-owned recreational area after some neighboring township residents complained about the activity. The various concerns include erosion along the disc golf course, the removal of trees and installation of concrete slabs, conflicting uses between disc golfers and hikers, and even the danger of disc golf to the children who attend Camp McSaubia.

Strachel said during Monday's City Council meeting that after a site inspection July 29 with a group of city employees and elected officials, a number of measures are expected to be taken. First, six of the 19 holes will be closed during Camp McSaubia hours to mitigate safety concerns, though no injuries or incidents have ever been reported.

Secondly, the long tee at hole No. 10 will be removed, leaving just the one other tee box, an effort to reduce erosion at that location. Finally, protective measures were taken to protect outbuilding windows from potential damage from flying discs.

But not all members of the City Council were satisfied with that.

"Disc golf generates absolutely no revenue," said councilman Jeff Porter.

"How do you justify a sport that provides zero revenue?"

Porter further complained about the costs of the needed fixes to the grant-funded course to address the identified issues.

"We're talking about a few hundred dollars," Strachel said, adding that out-of-town players provide an economic boost to Charlevoix because they spend money at restaurants and shop in town while here to play disc golf.

"Yes, it might not completely pay for itself, but costs moving forward will be minimal," Strachel said.

Mayor Norm Carlson Jr. also piped in to point out not all recreational activities bring money to the city's coffers.

"Our beaches don't make revenue, but we maintain them," Carlson said.

The argument continued when councilman Leon Perron contended that Mount McSaubia is meant for walkers, hikers and skiers.

"But it's a recreation area," interrupted councilman Lyle Gennett.

"Technically," Perron responded.

"Not technically," Carlson said.

In the end, Strachel ended the argument.

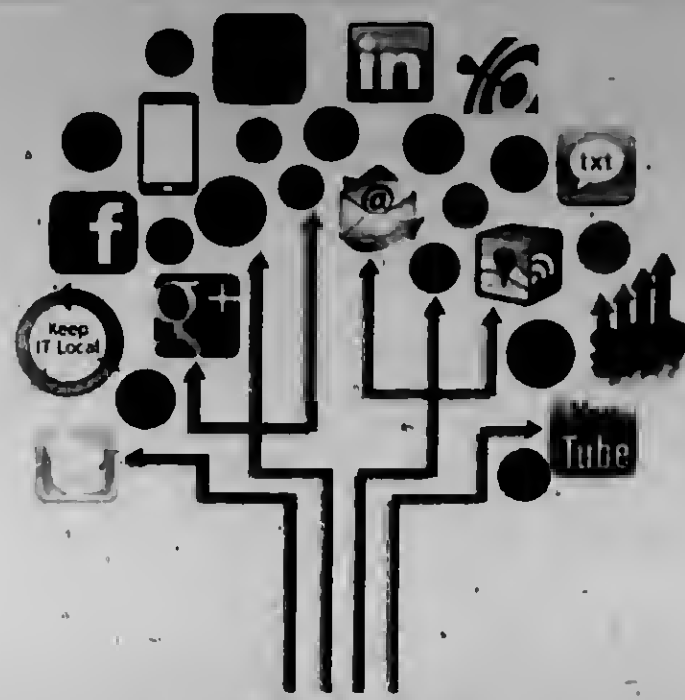

"If you don't like it, take a vote. If you don't have the majority, you'll have to live with it. We cannot continue to belabor the issue," he said. "Either you accept it or you don't accept it."

Perron, Porter and Shirley Gibson are the council members critical of the disc golf course, while Gennett, Shane Cole, Peggy Brennan and the mayor support the continued existence of the activity at Mount McSaubia.

"There's room for both disc golf and hiking," Brennan said after the meeting.

"Everything needs to be treated the same," Cole agreed.

POW WOW JIINGTAMOK AUGUST 9 & 10

THE HISTORY OF THE ODAWA HOMECOMING POW WOW

By Winnay Wemigwase, LTBB Tribal Citizen

The first "Indian Naming Ceremony," which served to honor those who helped Native people and their causes, was held near what is now the Harbor Master's office in Harbor Springs, MI, in 1934. At these ceremonies, non-Indian individuals were "adopted" into the tribe and given Indian names. These ceremonies continued for eight years with one person adopted each year. No ceremonies were held due to the war from 1942 to 1945. The ceremonies resumed in 1946.

On November 9, 1947, the Michigan Indian Foundation, Inc. was founded. The purpose of this group was to preserve Native culture and to help the local Native community. With the continual increase of spectators at the Indian Naming Ceremonies, the foundation initiated construction on an updated amphitheater in the spring of 1948. This outdoor theater would be known as the Harbor Springs Ottawa Indian Stadium.

The naming ceremonies came to an end approximately 10 years later. These large scale events changed from the Naming Ceremonies to a yearly production of the play "Hiawatha." These pageants were described as very elaborate and involved a lot of local Native families, dedication and hard work. The Hiawatha Pageant was performed in the Ottawa Indian Stadium until the 1960s.

In 1992, the First Annual Odawa Homecoming Pow Wow was held at the Ottawa Stadium in downtown Harbor Springs. It was hosted by the Andrew J. Blackbird Museum, and the committee was chaired by Shirley Naganashe-Oldman. It served to bring our people back to the stadium for singing and dancing and to educate the local community about who we are as contemporary Odawak. The Homecoming Pow Wows were held there yearly through 2001. The pow wow moved from the Ottawa Stadium to the current Pleasantview Road location in 2002. The current location brought the pow wow to tribal property and to the center of our community. It sits adjacent to the LTBB Governmental Center and our Natural Resource Department building, both places being central to the daily business of the Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians. As hosts of the Annual Odawa Homecoming Pow Wow, the LTBB community continues its tradition of celebrating who we are through song and dance.

MEN'S TRADITIONAL
DANCERS USE STORYTELLING MOVEMENTS TO ACT OUT THE FEARS OF BRAVERY. THEY IMITATE ANIMALS WITH SIDE-TO-SIDE MOVEMENTS AS PART OF THEIR DANCE. A STORYLINE DEVELOPS AS EACH DANCER CHALLENGES THE ENEMY OR REPRESENTS AN ANIMAL.

MEN'S GRASS DANCE
IN THE OLD DAYS, IT WAS THE JOB OF THE GRASS DANCERS TO FLATTEN THE GRASS IN THE ARENA BEFORE A POW WOW. THE NAME "GRASS" DOES NOT COME FROM THE STOMPING OF GRASS, BUT IT COMES FROM THE OLD HABIT OF TYING BRAIDS OF SWEET GRASS TO THE DANCER'S BELTS, PRODUCING A SWAYING EFFECT.

MEN'S FANCY DANCE
THE MALE FANCY DANCE IS BASED ON THE TRADITIONAL & WARRIOR SOCIETY DANCES. IT HAS EVOLVED INTO A COMPETITIVE DANCE FOR MODERN WARRIORS. DANCERS EXPRESS THEMSELVES BY INTRICATE FOOTWORK, SPINS AND COLORFUL REGALIA.

FEMALE TRADITIONAL DANCERS KEEP THEIR FEET CLOSE TO MOTHER EARTH. THEIR REGALIA CONSISTS OF BUCKSKIN OR CLOTH DRESSES WITH INTRICATE BEADWORK. THE WOMEN CARRY A SHAWL ON THEIR ARMS AND MOVE CLOCKWISE AROUND THE DRUM OR DANCE ARENA. THIS IS THE OLDEST STYLE OF DANCE FOR WOMEN.

WOMEN'S TRADITIONAL
WOMEN'S JINGLE DRESS IS CONSIDERED A MEDICINE DRESS. DANCERS WEAR 365 SMALL METAL CONES ON THEIR DRESS TO REPRESENT A PRAYER FOR EACH DAY. THIS DANCE STYLE ORIGINATES FROM THE OJIBWAY WHERE A YOUNG GIRL DREAMT OF THIS DRESS TO HELP HER SICK PEOPLE.

WOMEN'S JINGLE
WOMEN'S FANCY SHAWL IS ALSO KNOWN AS THE BUTTERFLY DANCE. WHEN HER MATE IS KILLED IN BATTLE, THE FEMALE BUTTERFLY MOURNS & GOES INTO A COCOON SYMBOLIZED BY THE SHAWL. SHE THEN EMERGES FROM HER COCOON AND SPREADS JOY THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

Muskegon mini-tour professional golfer Andrew Ruthkoski watches his tee shot during the final round of the Boyne Tournament of Champions on Wednesday, July 30, at Boyne Mountain's Alpine Course. Ruthkoski won the event for the second year in a row as he finished at 13-under par 203.

Ruthkoski wins second-straight Boyne T. of C.

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

BOYNE FALLS — Leaving them green with envy again.

For the second year in a row, Muskegon's Andrew Ruthkoski left the field of the Boyne Mountain hosted Tournament of Champions green with envy, in more ways than one on Wednesday in Boyne Falls.

Ruthkoski, 31, took home the winning green jacket, a $10,000 check and the Walter Burkemo Trophy for the second time in two years with a 13-under-par, 203 three-day total on Boyne Mountain's Alpine course.

"It's nice to defend," said Ruthkoski in his closing speech. "I've never really ever done that at the pro level. I've done it quite a few times as an amateur and city level, but to do it actually as a professional, it's a pretty nice feeling. It may not sink in right yet, but I'm sure in the next couple of days it will."

The mini-tour pro held off Bob Ackerman, 61, of Commerce Township and the Bob Ackerman Academy with a 1-over-par 73 on the final day, while Ackerman netted a 69 on the final day, for a 204 total.

Scott Hebert of Grand Traverse Resort and Spa took third in the event, ending with a 69 on the final day, for a 205 total.

The Champions field included professional, amateurs, women and seniors. For Ruthkoski to come out with the win once again, the feeling of time spent and work put in paying off was definitely there.

"It feels good because of the work I put in at home," he said. "I play and practice with the idea that it's going to get me to the next level. So to see that work that I put in, actually turn into wins at the professional level, is a good feeling."

With a 64 and 66 on day one and day two of the tournament, Ruthkoski built a commanding lead over the field heading into the final day, but even five strokes ahead wouldn't deter Ackerman or Hebert.

Still, Ruthkoski decided to not play outside his game, even as the match pushed within a stroke late and with Ackerman hitting a near 40-foot putt on hole No. 18.

"I told myself, keep making pars, let them come to me," said Ruthkoski. "That's kind of what happened, but I knew I had a five shot lead the whole day. Just played safe and made sure I didn't do anything stupid."

Apart from the win taking a special meaning for Ruthkoski, fellow Muskegon natives and amateur players Reed Hrynewich and Aya Johnson also made the final round and were there to cheer on Ruthkoski as he took the win.

Hrynewich, a University of Michigan golfer, finished with a final 219, while Johnson, a University of Wisconsin golfer and one of three women in the tournament, finished at 220.

"We call it the stable back home in Muskegon," Ruthkoski said. "It's kind of a nice thing to have where we just push each other and help each other become better players, so it's nice to see them play well here and for all of us to be in the same event together."

If not for the golf, Boyne Mountain Resort alone will keep Ruthkoski and his family coming back year after year, something the competition may not want to hear.

"They went to the champions dinner and the cocktail party. They enjoy it," said Ruthkoski of his family. "They enjoy going to the water park, the kids really look forward to coming up. All year long they talk about coming to Boyne. It's just a special place."

Patrick Colburn of Traverse City finished as the low amateur at 216, Johnson finished as the low woman at 220, while Ian Harris of Bloomfield Hills and Mike Fedewa of Canton finished as the low senior amateurs at 220.

J.R. Roth of the San Juan Country Club in Farmington, New Mexico, finished at 206, which included a 70 on the final day, for fourth place. Roth is a five-time champion of the event.

Brian Cairns of Plymouth finished fifth at 207, including a final round low, 68.

Barry Redman of Boyne USA finished with a 73 on the final day of play and 220 overall, while Shaun Bezilla of the Harbor Point Golf Club of Harbor Springs shot a 75 on the final day, for a 225 total.

Charlevoix woman now faces up to life in prison for stabbing

CHARLEVOIX — A jury took about two hours Thursday to find a Charlevoix woman guilty of assault with intent to commit murder.

Kaylee Rose Booth, 32, now faces up to life in state prison after the six men and six women on the jury determined her guilt.

The jury chose the most egregious charge, above the possible lesser charges of assault with intent to commit great bodily harm less than murder, or guilty of either of those counts but mentally ill. The outcome came after the four-day trial that started Monday.

Round No. 2: Charlevoix marina expansion hearing set for Aug. 18

SHERI MCWHIRTER O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — The city's planning commission this week sent forward a proposal to expand the Charlevoix marina in downtown's East Park, about which a public hearing will take place on Aug. 18.

The public will have its chance to weigh in on the latest pitch for a bigger marina, an effort to lure into town more luxury yachts up to 80 feet long. The official recommendations from both the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority Board and the planning commission is for city leaders to approve the larger design expected to provide a net increase of four or five such slips, rather than the smaller design that would bring a net increase of two or three 80-foot slips, along with the possibility of a shopper's dock.

City planner Mike Spencer on Monday told the planning commission members that the prior marina expansion plan to extend existing Pier A "was met with some skepticism from ponents, too.

John Kurtz, a board member with BIBCO, said the company stands opposed to this latest plan to build an altogether new pier in the marina because of the added dangers it would create for the ferry company's crew and passengers. He said BIBCO captains expressed considerable concerns that this latest proposed pier will create safety problems with navigation.

"We are sure they are the best captains we can have in Round Lake," Kurtz said.

Additionally, officials from Irish Boat Shop, Keweenaw Star and Sunshine Charters took issue with the city's proposed marina expansion drawings.

Cliff Biddick, of Irish Boat Shop, said that the currently open water area where the city proposes to build a new pier should remain open.

"You need that space to hail out," Biddick said, explaining that when approaching the drawbridge and it doesn't go up or when a pleasure boater does

Mayor Carlson is back to work

Charlevoix's elected mayor recovered from heart attack

SHERI MCWHIRTER O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. is back in action after several weeks off to recover from a heart attack.

"I'm doing very well," he said after a recent Charlevoix City Council meeting in July.

"I suffered a little heart attack and now I have one stent," Carlson said.

The mayor said his medical emergency happened on May 27, the Sunday of Memorial Day weekend. He thought at the time he experienced a bad case of heartburn, but it turned out to be more serious than that.

During Carlson's time recovering from the heart attack, he said he began to make changes to his lifestyle. He even dropped more than 25 pounds.

"It led to me getting healthy," Carlson said, chuckling.

Charlevoix's elected mayor went back to work in early July and was shortly able to fully resume his duties, including his volunteer role with the late-July Venetian Festival. Now Carlson has been on the job again for several weeks, attending city committee meetings and running city council sessions.

Carlson — frequently called by his well-known nickname, "Boogie" — can be reached regarding city issues at (231) 547-1938. He is expected to run the coming Aug. 18 public hearing about the proposed marina expansion, followed by a regularly scheduled public city council meeting upstairs at Charlevoix City Hall, 210 State St.

Local election participation high

Charlevoix County voter turnout 13 percent above state average

CRAIG CURRIER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

A higher percentage of voters in Charlevoix and Emmet counties went to the polls than the statewide average during Tuesday's primary election, according to unofficial results posted Wednesday.

With five circuit court judge candidates on the ballot and three county commissioner races to be decided, nearly 31 percent of registered voters in Charlevoix County cast ballots in the election. The statewide average for voter turnout was just 18 percent.

County clerk Cheryl Browe visited all polling precincts except for those on Beaver Island during the day and said most agreed it was the judge's race that spurred people to vote.

"It was the consensus that everyone said it was abnormal for a primary to be as steady as it was and everybody thought it had to be the judge's race," Browe said.

Roy C. Hayes and Mary Beth Kur took the top two spots in the judge's race, advancing to the November general election. In two of the three county commissioner races, challengers upset incumbents. Former county sheriff George LaSater was the lone of the three incumbents running to hold his seat. Challengers Nancy Ferguson and Shirley Roloff knocked off incumbents Rich Gillespie and Larry Sullivan in separate districts.

In total, there are 22,191 registered voters in Charlevoix County and 6,829 of them cast ballots Tuesday.

In Emmet County, 23.2 percent of registered voters went to the polls on Election Day, results show.

Voters in Wawatam Township (32 percent) and Cross Village (31 percent) went to the polls most frequently. Registered voters in the city of Petoskey chose to sit out the election with just 181 of the 1,175 registered voters in the city's 4th Ward and 212 of the 1,105 who are registered in the 1st Ward participating.

Voters in McKinley (16.7 percent) and Littlefield townships (17.9 percent) cast ballots at a rate well below the state average, too.

There are 27,629 registered voters in Emmet County and 6,410 of them voted in the primary.

Throughout Michigan, there are 7,413,142 registered voters with 1,326,901 participating in the primary, according to preliminary results.

Health officials encourage whooping cough vaccine

As Michigan continues to see new pertussis cases this year, the Michigan Department of Community Health is reminding residents during National Immunization Awareness Month of the importance of being up to date on all vaccinations including pertussis, also known as whooping cough.

Through the end of July, Michigan has seen 546 cases, about 45 percent more than in the same period of 2013. Several other states, including Ohio, California and Florida, are reporting similar increases.

"Children are routinely recommended to receive a series of pertussis vaccine doses in infancy and early childhood," said Dr.

Matthew Davis, chief medical executive of Michigan Department of Community Health. "Adolescents and adults should receive a booster dose of the vaccine. In addition, pregnant women should get a booster in the third trimester of each pregnancy to help protect newborns, who are most vulnerable to the illness in the first few months of life."

Pertussis is a respiratory infection caused by a bacterium that results in a prolonged illness. Severe coughing episodes are often accompanied by vomiting and difficulty breathing. In some cases, a characteristic "whooping" noise is heard as the afflicted person tries to catch their breath. Once extremely common, vaccines developed in the US starting in the mid-1940s and helped drive down the occurrence of pertussis. But in recent decades, pertussis has been making a comeback.

"Part of the challenge," Davis explained, "is that immunity to pertussis wears off, so getting a booster vaccine dose later in life can help extend the protection. Our primary focus is on preventing the disease in babies — they have smaller airways and less developed respiratory systems, which puts them at higher risk for severe cases as well as hospitalization and death from pertussis."

Babies get a first dose of the vaccine at two months of age, but they are not optimally protected until completing the series of several more doses over the next year and half. The Michigan Department of Community Health strongly recommends that adults or adolescents who will be around infants receive the recommended pertussis booster vaccine dose, and that all residents receive their vaccines on time.

If you are uncertain about whether you or your children have had all recommended vaccines and doses, speak with your doctor or contact your local health department. For more information about pertussis, or any recommended or required vaccine, visit www.michigan.gov/immunize online.

Wanted: AmeriCorps members for literacy program

ERICA KAKOWICZ
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District is calling for interested individuals to become 2014-2015 AmeriCorps members.

Members will have the opportunity to make a difference through literacy efforts, community service projects, volunteering with nonprofits, conducting outreach presentations, improving leadership skills and much more. AmeriCorps, a network of national service programs, engages 70,000 Americans each year. Education, public safety, health and the environment are some of the areas AmeriCorps members address through their services.

In addition to the services members are able to provide to the local public, members have the opportunity to build their resume, make connections, use talents and interests, make friends and have a positive effect on a child or a community member.

Through the service of more than 2,100 nonprofits, public agencies and faith-based organizations, AmeriCorps members tutor and mentor youth, build affordable housing, teach computer skills, upkeep parks and streams, coordinate school programs and help communities respond to disasters.

Charlevoix-Emmet ISD received a grant for AmeriCorps in 1998 and has since created its school-based literacy coaching program. The grant, renewed numerous times since its origination, has continued to aid in the betterment of the ISD.

The federal grant allows 10 members to be placed within local elementary schools throughout Charlevoix-Emmet ISD. Members chosen will be assigned to specific school sites and will be under the direction of site supervisors.

Members are given a living stipend as well as an education award and possibility of other benefits.

The Tuesday after Labor Day through June 30 of the following year marks the operation time for AmeriCorps members. During this time, members will serve a minimum of 1,700 hours.

"They really become ingrained in the elementary school that they're assigned to," said Dianne Litzenhurg, director of communication services for the district.

Individuals must have a high school diploma or a GED, be 17 years or older and be free of any criminal convictions in order to become members.

To apply or find more information, visit www.charemisd.org or call (231) 547-9947.

Responders help man with leg wound

CHARLEVOIX — Emergency responders were called around 3:45 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 10, to a medical call on Round Lake.

A Macomb Township man, Wallace Trine, 54, applied pressure to a wound he received on his leg when he earlier jumped off of the back of his boat into Lake Michigan. The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office marine division responded to where the victim's wife had driven the boat into Round Lake.

Responders rushed Trine to Charlevoix Area Hospital for treatment of the wound.

Sheriff's officials were assisted on the scene by the U.S. Coast Guard and Charlevoix Fire and EMS.

Alien invaders?

When Time magazine puts something or someone on its cover, it automatically becomes nationally important. Many people still remember when many years ago the Time cover declared that "God is Dead," while highlighting a new theological position.

The July 28 cover of Time carries the large print label "Space Invaders." No, it is not about creatures from outer space. It is about organisms already here on Earth, which are moving to new locations. Time describes a whole new area of biological investigation usually called "Invasive Biology." In the language of Invasion Biology, species from some other part of the world are described as "alien," "invasive," "infestations," or even like cancer invading the body.

The focus of the article is on those most troublesome and frightening organisms that have come here from some other place. Burmese pythons are eating up all the wildlife in the Everglades. Zebra mussels take "all" the plankton out of the water of the Great Lakes. Asian carp pummel boats on the Mississippi River and its tributaries by flying out of the water, and again "eating all the plankton." They note that the United States is already home to 50,000 alien species.

The Time article suggests that the "balance of nature" is an ideal state in which every species is in the "right" place, and concludes that it is best for nature if species stay at home.

To all that, what I can say is "whoa." The apocalypse is not yet upon us, and at least part of the problem is the language that Time and others use to describe a biological situation that is as old as life. Almost all species of plants and animals have the capacity to move through space and time. That is a biological necessity for survival. Every surviving species has moved to new locations. They will continue to do so, whatever expense we may go to, to stop them.

Describing some kind of organism as "alien" is an invitation to not like it. The word suggests not just strange or different, but even repugnant. The term "invasive" suggests military aggression, like cancer or other pathogenic conditions. Neither term is the best or even the most appropriate word to describe a kind of organism that has found a new home, and both words are highly negative in connotation.

The best word for a plant or animal that has found a new home is "exotic," which means not native to a place where found. Although even the word "native" is problematic and can only refer to where an organism was at some particular time in the past.

Use of the word "invasive," with its military connotations is an even worse choice than alien. Instead, I would suggest the word "vigorous" as one without negative connotations, and that more accurately describes the organism.

The Time magazine article does point out that there are 20 percent more plant species in the United States now than there were before Europeans arrived, and brought plants with them. That is an increase in biological diversity, which most would agree is valuable.

Time suggests that unless we do something to stop these invasions, the world may become "numbingly homogenized." Plants and animals live when and where they can. And if they arrived a long time ago, we now consider them to be "native." It is only the recent arrivals that we consider a threat. Not liking a particular kind of organism is not a reason to try to eliminate it from our neighborhood.

Beautiful, amazing and successful kinds of plants and animals might be better welcomed if we knew more about them. But Invasion Biology focuses on what is wrong, not on knowing what might be right.

The study of biology makes it clear that all kinds of plants and animals change, adapt, move and colonize new places all the time. The instant gratification of removing what we have called "alien," "invasive," might be mitigated by learning what they do positively, not just for us, but for the rest of the natural world.

The solution to new species arriving is not to eliminate them, but to invite whatever controls them in their original home. That increases diversity even further.

Here is a single case in point, and there are many others. European rabbits were introduced into Australia and became a plague. All efforts to control them by trapping, shooting or poisoning were less than successful. Introduced from Europe a virus disease that kills rabbits, but not a plague. That is the sort of example of biological thinking that we might copy when considering new arrivals.

It is easy to produce fear of the new or unknown in people. Fear does not produce good solutions to what may be real problems.

It is worth pointing out that the "invasive" species of most importance to humans has been humans, where the words "alien" and "invasive" most clearly are correct. Find out what the new creatures in the neighborhood do, and you may learn something important. All "aliens" deserve some sort of recognition of their potential value.

LETTERS to the editor

Haske family is thankful for the support

Editor:
Cancer impacts millions of people around the world everyday. It was to my shock last May, that I was diagnosed with stage four cancer which had centered on a tumor in my left tonsil and moved into my lymph nodes on each side of my neck. This was different because it was my cancer and not someone from down the street, or an old classmate, or a coaching friend from downstate. This was coming after me. Cancer is a very selfish disease. It is very difficult to think about anything or anybody else. This selfish nature is not enjoyable. I am sure experts will tell you it is normal for people to get this way and maybe you need to in order to fight this disease. While in Texas, I felt badly about the many messages that were not answered. I hope that no one was hurt or put off. I apologize if anyone had this happen to them. Cancer is a very selfish disease.

As time began to pass, we heard that Liz Shaw and many others were planning a fundraiser and an alumni game with any past players from St. John's, Charlevoix and St. Francis. They also set up a Facebook page for people to write in and comment on past experiences. These were doled out to me a few every day. These stories were uplifting, humorous, honest and helped me to believe we can all make a difference in others' lives. We thank you for these stories, cards and texts.

As word got out in May, we knew, we needed help from our Lord to get through this experience. As the many prayer chains grew, it felt to Barb and me that we were wrapped in a spiritual cocoon. The rosaries at school, personal prayers, cards and daily spiritual messages were coming from all directions. It was of such great comfort and will continue to be forever. We thank you for all of your prayers.

Words could never adequately express the gratitude we feel toward the tremendous outpouring of love, gifts and unselfish acts of kindness that were extended daily toward our family.

May you know how deeply you touched our family during this difficult time. Local businesses and community members from here and afar rallied around us and the love we felt was palpable. May God bless you all for your kind generosity and time.

Caregiving is a difficult task. Barb has been an angel through this ordeal. Her love, patience and prayers lifted me daily. She was strong when I was struggling and found the strength to help me through the toughest times. Barb, you are an angel and I thank you.

Please know we appreciate all of the thoughts and actions that helped us through the treatment phase. Please continue to keep us in your thoughts and prayers.

Thank you through Christ Jesus,
Keith, Barb, Tyler and Chelsey Haske

Where is outcry about public booze?

Editor:
I am writing to express my dismay as a result of our city councilors followed by the library board banning tobacco and all tobacco products in public parks and beaches hoping the public will comply with the posted no-smoking signs. I agree with Rob Strahel, "The more teens view adults smoking in public, the more likely they are to take up this bad habit." Susan Pulaski further commented, "We are excited to see Charlevoix making this change." Toni Wood expressed, "We want to affirm and promote a healthy environment at the Charlevoix Public Library." David Campbell commented, "...the good example it sets for youth when in public recreation areas."

All of these are admirable comments but I believe they pale and are weak in comparison to the tacit approval and lack of opposition from the same community leaders against the increasing view teens and families are exposed to with alcoholic beverage consumption in highly visited places in our city. Talk about poor examples for our youth! Drawing on over three and one-half decades of law enforcement experience, I could fill this newspaper with accounts brought on directly from the use of alcoholic beverages. I cannot recall a single traffic accident, abuse case, domestic dispute, acts of foolish and embarrassing behavior, assault and battery incident or other criminal behavior, resulting from the use of tobacco.

Where were these concerned and excited officials allegedly protecting our youth when the beer tent was approved in the park during Venetian Festival, alcoholic drinks were approved for restaurant tables on downtown sidewalks and in our only theater? Recently I observed a huge banner promoting craft beer in the picnic area near the Beaver Island ferry dock with no outcry from any of these folks.

Encourage public anti-smoking spending

Editor:
Enough is enough. The cigarette smoking epidemic is an enormous, and avoidable, public health catastrophe. Yet smoking remains the single largest cause of preventable disease and death in the United States. If this current rate continues, 5.6 million American kids alive today will die early from smoking.

It is time our government puts funding toward tobacco prevention. Although the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends Michigan allocate $121 million to adequately fund comprehensive tobacco control programs, the state currently spends just 3.9 percent of that total. And, exactly zero of the $279 million in tobacco settlement dollars coming into Michigan last year went toward tobacco prevention.

Prevention works! Evidence-based tobacco control interventions that are effective include hard-hitting media campaigns, tobacco excise taxes at sufficiently high rates to deter youth smoking, easy-to-access cessation treatment, promotion of cessation treatment in clinical settings, and smoke-free policies. It is time for a change. Please encourage your state legislators to budget the dollars needed for effective tobacco control—it will save lives and prevent disease and disability.

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

In 1947, Earl Young, Charlevoix's master builder in stone, was commissioned by William Sucher, head of the Speedway 79 gasoline company, to build a house on his newly purchased property along Lake Michigan on West Park Avenue. Young walked the Suchers around the large lot, stopped at one point, turned toward the lake, and said, "From this spot you will see one-third sky, one-third water, and one-third grass. The fireplace will go in behind me." That is how Earl Young worked. He never drew a finalized floor plan, blueprint or elevation, but worked from ideas, sketched on pieces of paper at the dinner table the night before or that arrived as inspiration on the spot. If a combination of stone, wood and glass didn't satisfy him a week after he built it, Young would order his workmen to rip it all out and start over. Commissioning a house from Young was an act of faith because the owners never really knew what they would be getting until they got it. The Sucher house is one of his masterpieces, a symphonic structure laid out in a motif of threes both horizontally and vertically. It went through several later owners, who made tasteful but off-balance alterations, until Andre and Lisa Radandt purchased it a few years ago and gave the house a masterful restoration back to its original state. This work was featured in the August 2009 issue of Martha Stewart Living magazine. The house and its magnificent grounds are now one of Charlevoix's most stunning attractions.

New scoreboard arrives in Charlevoix

Gridiron Club organizes new feature for Kipke Field

CHARLEVOIX — A new scoreboard is delivered and installed at Kipke Field.

The Rayder Gridiron Club recently purchased the new scoreboard plus accompanying video and sound system for the Charlevoix football and track and field athletic facility. The financial investment came to nearly $130,000 for the new equipment and installation.

"We've got the board up and now we have to get the electric connected to it and the video up and going, then connect it to the press box," said Dr. Gilbert Noirot, board member of the Rayder Gridiron Club.

So far, the club raised $40,000 and secured a loan for the remaining balance from Charlevoix State Bank. The club will continue to raise dollars and sell advertisements on the board to generate additional money needed to fulfill the loan and provide long-term maintenance for the board.

Many local contractors donated their time and materials to ensure the board's installation by the first home game, officials said. The Rayder Gridiron Club is expected to cover maintenance costs for the first decade of the scoreboard's use at Kipke Field.

Among the scoreboard's amenities is a large, video display screen that is more than 7 feet tall and 13 feet wide.

School officials will next week begin training sessions on the scoreboard's operations, said superintendent Bob Gendron. He also said the school district made a curriculum change as a result of the new high-tech equipment.

"We've actually started a broadcasting class as a result of this," Gendron said.

Advertising revenues from the scoreboard will be used to pay off the remaining costs associated with the equipment, as well as long-term maintenance and eventually upgrades to the entire complex at Kipke Field, Gendron said.

Noirot also said the Rayder Gridiron Club will continue to collect federally tax-deductible donations made to the nonprofit organization to help cover the up-front costs to buy and said.

Raven Hill fundraiser raised $14,000

EAST JORDAN — Robotic demonstrations by area middle and high school teams, a scavenger hunt, a retrospective of artwork by co-founder Tim Leach and themed decorations all featured in Raven Hill Discovery Center's Summer Magic 2014.

"Full Steam Ahead" was the theme of the July fundraising event and it inspired a steam punk theme. Gears and levers decorated every nook and cranny and many guests even enjoyed dressing in steam punk attire for the occasion. The adults-only program on Raven Hill's grounds collectively raised more than $14,000 from corporate sponsors, silent auction, balloon pop and numerous monetary donations, all in support of the center's programs and exhibits.

The weather was beautiful and everyone had a great time, officials reported. The silent auction offered an array of artistic creations, gift certificates and other items on which to bid. Nathan Bates Catering provided delicious finger foods for guests to enjoy with their beverages. Boyne City High School and Petoskey Middle and High School robotics teams shared their robots with guests. Both the Sweetwinds Recorder Ensemble and Irene Seaver, guitarist and vocalist, entertained everyone with their musical talents.

Board president Amy Gillard caught attendees up on the latest happenings at Raven Hill. The proceeds from the annual Summer Magic fundraiser support ongoing programs at Raven Hill, which connect science, history and art, as well as helping with required matching donations for grant awards, such as the Evolving Technology Project.

Raven Hill Discovery Center board and volunteers issued a huge thank-you to all of the people who supported Summer Magic and Raven Hill Discovery Center this year, including the guests, artists and businesses.

BOYNE FALLS

Ronny Cox returns to Aten Place Saturday

BOYNE FALLS — Ronny Cox first performed at Aten Place in 2010 and quickly became one of the most talked about shows. Cox will return to the Aten Place stage at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 16.

Cox's easygoing amiability, unforced charisma and willingness to mingle with the patrons prior to the show was found thoroughly charming. Add to this his self-teasing humor, tart progressive insight and a lulling Southwestern folk sound, and he completely delighted and captivated the audience.

What many people remember most was how accessible he made himself, which was not the normal expectation people had of a person who has been a famous Hollywood movie and television star. This will be Cox's third show at Aten Place.

Cox grew up in New Mexico listening to Texas Swing tunes, but then played rock 'n' roll in high school and was eventually drawn to folk music after graduating from college.

Cox grew up in Portales, N.M., and his craft as a singer and songwriter is a testament to his life on the Southwestern desert. With a career that spans more than 125 films and television shows, Cox is often ironically identified with the villains he played in movies like "Total Recall," "Robocop" and the ruthless politician in the hit science fiction TV series "Stargate." Cox's first film — his first time acting in front of a camera — was as the guitarist in the famous "dueling banjos" scene in "Deliverance."

BOYNE CITY

Women's Resource Center gets $5,000 People Fund grant

BOYNE CITY — The Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan (WRCNM) has received a $5,000 grant from the Great Lakes Energy People Fund.

The grant from the Boyne City-based electric utility cooperative will be used to make necessary improvements and repairs to the Gold Mine Resale Shop North parking lot which is operated by the nonprofit in Petoskey.

"The grant dollars will help us create a safer parking lot and resolve drainage issues on the Gold Mine North property located just south of Oleson's Food Store in Petoskey," said the organization's executive director Jan Mancinelli.

To protect the vegetation adjacent to the parking lot, Harbor Fence Company is also donating fencing and the labor to install it.

Gold Mine Resale Shops are instrumental in generating income to help support the center's programs and services such as domestic abuse, sexual assault, child abuse, child sexual assault and counseling. The stores also provide a place for community members to purchase affordable, gently-used clothing, furniture, household goods, electronics, baby items, books, CDs, DVDs, toys and games.

Gold Mine Resale Shop North is at 1878 U.S. 31 North, Petoskey; the original Gold Mine Shop welcomes shoppers at 1002 Emmet St., Petoskey.

Members of Great Lakes Energy support the People

Fund by voluntarily rounding up their bills to the next highest dollar. The rounded up amount is distributed to nonprofit organizations and charitable activities that benefit people in the communities served by the cooperative. For details, contact Great Lakes Energy at (888) 485-2537 or visit www.gtlakes.com online.

Businesses offer free shuttle service

Grey Gables, Charlevoix Country Club provide transportation for patrons

CAROLYN SHERK
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Two local businesses in Charlevoix recently took customer service to a new level with the addition of complimentary shuttle services for their patrons.

The Grey Gables Inn Restaurant and the Charlevoix Country Club now provide transportation to and from their establishments at no charge. It's a convenience that affords both tourists and locals a safe, practical and convenient way to enjoy the best of Charlevoix for the summer and fall seasons.

Darren Ramono, the owner of The Grey Gables Inn Restaurant, conceived the idea of providing a shuttle service and spent the last two years coordinating with city officials and vehicle dealer Fox Charlevoix to implement the program. The service began in mid-July and now The Grey Gables Inn offers complimentary transportation

The restaurant provides delivery service, as well.

"It's very popular and everyone knows that Grey Gables is always coming up with innovative ideas to provide customer service," Romano said.

Customers who wish to use the shuttle service can arrange transportation by calling (231) 547-9261.

BOYNE CITY

Boyne City Family Practice earns PCMH designation

BOYNE CITY — Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan has designated Boyne Area Medical Center as a patient-centered medical home (PCMH) practice for 2014.

The designation period runs July 1, 2014, through June 30, 2015. This is the third consecutive year Boyne Area Medical Center has earned this designation. This means that they are among a select group of primary care physicians in Michigan who are improving health care quality by adopting the PCMH model of care.

The patient-centered medical home is healthcare centered on the patient. Boyne Area Medical Center takes a holistic and comprehensive approach to patient care, helping its patients meet their health goals and keeping track of all their specialist visits, test results and prescriptions.

The Blues have designated roughly 1,420 primary care practices — with more than 4,020 primary care doctors — as PCMH practices. The program is the largest of its kind in the country and has the potential to affect close to 2 million Michigan residents.

"With the PCMH model, primary care physicians lead care teams that work with patients to keep them healthy and monitor their care on an ongoing basis," said David Share, MD, MPH, senior vice president, Value Partnerships, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan.

PCMH teams coordinate patients' health care, track patients' conditions and ensure that they receive the care they need. They offer extended access to the care team, coordinate complementary care (such as nutrition counseling) and help patients learn to better manage conditions such as asthma and diabetes.

A recent analysis of claims data shows that PCMH-designated doctors are succeeding in more effectively managing patients' care to keep them healthy and prevent complications.

Boyne Area Medical Center is located in Boyne City and is owned and operated by Charlevoix Area Hospital. For more information about Boyne Area Medical Center and Charlevoix Area Hospital, visit www.cah.org online.

Pool issues Great Lakes swim challenge at facility

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Community Pool issued a challenge to all swimmers to figuratively stroke their way across all five Great Lakes within its own lanes.

Swimmers are challenged, to figuratively swim across all five Great Lakes by June 20, 2015. The figures are that 200 yards, or 10 lengths of the pool, equates in one mile across a lake.

The first lake to cross is Lake Ontario and at 200 miles long, swimmers must complete 40,000 lengths of the Charlevoix Area Community Pool before the trek across the next Great Lake begins.

Pool staff will be available to answer questions, give stroke tips and track the progress of swimmers. No successfully completed challenge will go unrewarded, and officials said it is a great and fun way to keep in shape, train for a triathlon and improve stroke technique.

The nonprofit pool offers aquatic recreational programming to the entire community, regardless of age or ability. More information about the pool and program offerings are available at www.charlevoixpool.org, or call (231) 547-0982.

Judge Richard Pajtas, of Charlevoix County's 33rd Circuit Court, set Booth's sentencing hearing for 9 a.m. Friday, Sept. 5, at the downtown Charlevoix courthouse. He also ordered a pre-sentencing investigation be completed before he determines her penalty.

After the court hailiff led the jury members from Pajtas' courtroom, the now-convicted defendant was then also led away, as her ex-boyfriend Joe Reedy stood at the back of the room and watched with tear-filled eyes. He and victim, Justine Murray, both quickly and separately left the courtroom without comment.

Afterward, Charlevoix County prosecutor Alan Telgenhof said he is thankful for the jury's decision.

"It was a very tough case and a very serious charge, but I think they got it right," he said from the courthouse steps.

Defense attorney Jodi Doak, who argued an insanity defense, declined to comment after court adjourned.

During her closing argument just hours earlier, Doak asserted Murray taunted her client about taking away both her man and her home during an emotionally charged series of text messages and an eventual physical confrontation on Sept. 29, 2013, outside the residence at 704 State St. in Charlevoix. Doak argued Booth "lost her mind" when she saw Reedy leave their shared home after they heatedly argued, but Murray remained behind in the yard. "I don't know how a reasonable person wouldn't be overwhelmed with emotion," Doak told the jury.

Evidence shows Booth then took a kitchen knife from the apartment, ran outdoors and stabbed Murray several times before a bystander shoved her away from the victim — facts not disputed in court. But Doak told the jurors the prosecutor asked them to make a decision without considering what was going on in Booth's mind at the time of the attack.

In rebuttal, Telgenhof reminded the jurors how Booth testified to her extreme anger about the break-up and housing circumstances during the 24-hour period that led up to the stabbing.

"Words can't express how angry she felt? So what expresses it? This expresses it," Telgenhof told the jury while holding up a clear plastic evidence tube that contains the bloody knife used in the crime.

"She expressed her anger with that knife," Telgenhof said, further arguing Booth's motive was based on rage and revenge, meaning she is responsible for her actions. "If you're mad, don't stab somebody. That's it."

However, Telgenhof concluded his in-court comments by expressing empathy for the defendant. Empathy, but not a dismissal of accountability.

"I know she's sorry for her actions. I know she is. But she is responsible for her actions," he said.

This is the latest proposal to expand the Charlevoix city marina in East Park.

EXPANSION

something unexpected, many captains use that space to bail out of the Pine River Channel approach so they can turn around and try again.

"I think your committee owes it to you to re-think this proposal," Biddick said.

Joshua Mack, of Sunshine Charters, criticized the city's concept to use an innermost slip for a full 80-foot yacht, suggesting there isn't adequate reversing space because of where his charter boat moors against the seawall — even pointing out his vessel is not included on the marina drawings.

Then Craig Funky, owner of the Keweenaw Star, said he doesn't like this plan, nor where it calls for his ship to use Mediterranean-style mooring adjacent to the northern side of the proposed new pier.

"I don't like the way you've got me there along the floating dock," he said.

Funky explained how he is uncomfortable with the pier design in the event of a storm surge off of Lake Michigan, but close to the channel, there likely will be collision damage at some point, he warned.

Funky also said multiple council members suggested he shouldn't express his critical opinion about this marina expansion plan, particularly because his city lease is up this year for renewal — a clear threat.

However, several in attendance spoke about how a marina expansion will be an economic driver for the community, including Charlevoix resident John Winn, the retired co-founder of Four Winns boat company. Winn even went so far as to suggest BIBCO is opposed to this pier because the company has its own plans for the city-owned space, and he said representatives of the ferry business effectively are threatening to complain about this plan to state and federal regulatory agencies, should the marina expansion be pursued.

"I urge you not to listen to a selfish agenda," Winn said.

In the end, Charlevoix City Council member Peggy Brennan spoke to the planning commission about the proposal. Brennan served as chairwoman of the city's marina expansion committee, and explained how if city council approves the design, it must then be reviewed by engineering, navigation and environmental experts at the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Coast Guard and Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, respectively.

In the end, the temporary planning commission chairman, David Novotny, cast the sole dissenting vote in a 4-1 split decision to push forward the marina expansion plan. Regular chairman John Hess was absent and both Sherm Chamberlain and Judy Clock recused themselves because of business-related conflicts of interest.

"I guess I just have questions," Novotny said. "I guess I'm apprehensive."

The marina expansion public hearing prior to the Charlevoix City Council meeting will begin at 7 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 18, at Charlevoix City Hall, 210 State St., in downtown Charlevoix.

More information about the marina expansion proposal is available at www.cityof-charlevoix.org online, under the link for marina expansion updates.

Your Child's Well-Being Comes First.

A round of check-ups before school starts

A new school year means big changes for the little ones. Help them cope with these stresses by making sure that your children are healthy and in top shape at this important time of year.

Hearing, A Sense That Should Not Be Neglected

One of the most common birth defects in North America is hearing loss. Three babies out of a thousand are born with permanent hearing loss. These days, tests provide auditory screening for children as well as newborns. Hearing is a truly priceless sense and many learning experiences can be compromised in a child with an auditory deficiency. Indeed, repercussions on speech, language, education, or even social integration have been observed. Early detection and treatment of hearing loss is therefore very important for a child's development.

Beautiful Teeth For Life

Parents play a vital role in the health and hygiene of their children's teeth. Even though prevention should start at home with good eating habits and daily teeth cleaning, regular check-ups at the dentist are nevertheless necessary from a very young age. Remember, healthy gums are equally important as healthy teeth; although cavities are a threat, gingivitis, an inflammation that can lead to periodontitis, can severely affect the gums. Oral health problems can have repercussions on a child's quality of life; therefore, parents must work with the dentist to take care for their children's teeth.

Open Your Eyes!

Visual communication between parents and children is vitally important and begins the moment they are born. Throughout a child's life, more than 80% of his or her education will include the acquisition of knowledge through vision. After nine years of age, the nervous system is no longer malleable enough to develop appropriately and any slight defects can become permanent. This is why healthcare organizations and various professional guidelines recommend that parents have their children's eyes examined by an optometrist according to the following schedule:

1. At six months of age;
2. At three years;
3. Before starting school;
4. Once every year or two, from the age of 6-18, or more often if there is a problem.

Chiropractors Also Care For Children

According to a study regarding chiropractic care of children younger than 18 years of age, musculoskeletal problems are the cause of 40% of consultations, prevention counts for 24%, headaches, 7%, middle ear infections, 5%, and other types of problems such as colic, asthma and bedwetting, 23%. Prevention represents a large number of consultations that involve children under the age of 4, in cases where the treatment of musculoskeletal problems increases with age. Spinal manipulation is by far the most common treatment offered by chiropractors, followed by exercises, soft tissue treatments and posture and nutrition counseling.

Charlevoix senior running back and linebacker Sam Hovie charges downhill to break up an offensive pitch play during team defensive drills on Monday in Charlevoix.

DREW KOCHANNY/NEWS-REVIEW

Rayder football team takes to practice field

Season opener set for Aug. 28

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Attitude, toughness and the ability to finish.

It's early, but the focus of the Charlevoix Rayder football team is on three specific areas as they prepare for the 2014 season.

On Monday, Aug. 11, high school football practice throughout the state of Michigan opened, with the Rayders taking advantage with a 7 a.m. showing as a team for the first time this season.

Second-year head coach Ron Bindi already sees a different team leading up to their Thursday, Aug. 28, season opener at Elk Rapids.

"The physicality is going to start showing up and that's our big preach this year," said Bindi. "Like it says on the back of the shirts this year, it says 'my attitude determines the team's success.' Physicality is what we really want to see in camp, physicality and a getting after it attitude. I'm pretty happy with what's going on right now."

The Rayders finished 1-8 last season after shutting out St. Ignace 20-0 in their season opener.

Four of the Rayders losses, however, came within eight points or less, including their final two games against Harbor Springs and East Jordan.

After getting past a tough first season, Bindi already sees changes taking place, thanks much in part to a trip to a Veer offense camp hosted by Rochester Hills for the second straight season.

"I can already tell we're going to be more physical than we were last year," he said. "Numbers are low, but the ones that are here, they understand that football is a demanding sport. You're going to run around with pads on for three or four days and only play once a week. The group that we've got right now, we're all right. I saw that in Veer camp."

LONGBOARDING

New longboard event set for Boyne Mountain

Resort to host inaugural Battle at Boyne Aug. 23-24

BOYNE FALLS — Action Board Shop, a longboard business in East Lansing, partnered with Boyne Mountain Resort to host its first downhill longboard race named The Battle at Boyne.

On Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 23-24, professional skaters and spectators will travel to Northern Michigan from all over the country to compete in a unique high-speed downhill race. Riders will be charged a $95 entry fee. Riders are required to wear helmets and protective pads and gloves. Race leathers are highly suggested but not required.

The race will take place on a mile-long cart path that winds down the side of Boyne Mountain. Riders will reach speeds up to 50 mph. The course ends with a shut down section that leads to the bottom of the Alpine double chair lift that will transport riders back to the top of the hill.

Practice day of the event will begin at 4 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 23, and last until sunset.

The race will take place at 10 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 24. A $3,000 cash prize purse will be distributed to the top riders in the open, women's and junior divisions.

Spectators are encouraged to attend this free event. A spectator section and refreshments will be on site. For further information or volunteer opportunities, contact Jim MacGregor or Loryn Roherson at abshboards@gmail.com online.

GOLF

Plymouth's Cairns claims Senior PGA Championship

STEVE FOLEY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

HARBOR SPRINGS — Early on, Brian Cairns just knew it was going to be his day.

Cairns, a teaching professional at the Fox Hills Learning Center in Plymouth, carried a one-shot lead entering Tuesday's final round of the 2014 Michigan Senior PGA Professional Championship at Birchwood Farms Golf and Country Club over Jack Seltzer, a Michigan Golf Hall of Famer out of the Kendall Academy of Golf.

Cairns quickly padded his lead by opening with a pair of birdies, was 3-under through six holes en route to finishing with seven birdies and an impressive 7-under-par 65 to finish the two-day 35-hole stroke play event at 11-under 133.

Cairns, who last August won the Michigan PGA Championship, won by six shots ahead of runner-up and defending Michigan Senior PGA Championship winner Ron Beermann of the Country Club of Jackson, who finished at 5-under 139 including a final round 3-under 69, and will advance to the 2014 Senior PGA Professional National Championship at PGA Golf Club in Port St. Lucie, Fla., on the Wanamaker and Ryder Courses Nov. 13-16.

"It's nice," Cairns said. "The one thing about playing well is you have to have a good pairing and a good feeling and I had absolute comfort in playing with those two guys in Randy (Ersline) and Jack (Seltzer). They were both so supportive of what I was doing and it was easy playing with them."

Cairns, who played bogey free over his final round and missed just one fairway on No. 15, also caught some early breaks to move ahead of the field featuring the state's 56 top players over the age of 50.

"On the second and third hole I had a couple of good breaks, and it was just like all I had to do was hit a fairway and I'd be fine," Cairns said. "I knew it was my day after on the second hole I hit one up on the green and fringe and as I was walking up to it, the ball rolled back for a 10-footer."

"I was thinking that was a good sign," Cairns said. "I just had to finish it off and I liked the way I finished it off on the back nine."

Cairns also caught a break on No. 4 on the Farms course when his chip out of the trees from 46 yards hit a limb and left him 2 feet for a tap-in par.

On No. 10 playing on Birchwood's Birches course, Cairns holed out to made birdie as his chip from the back of the green just off the fringe put him at 8-under for the tournament.

He then followed on the next hole, a 498-yard par-5 as his 10-foot birdie putt found the hole. Cairns then followed with birdie on No. 14 before collecting his seventh birdie of the round on No. 16, as a long downhill 25-footer found the cup.

Cairns, who just turned 50 in May, will defend his Michigan PGA Championship title later this month at Oakland University in Rochester before playing in several senior Championship Tour Monday qualifiers in New York, Calgary, Quebec, Monterey, North Carolina and Texas.

"I like that course (Oakland University)," Cairns said. "It's a good place."

Cairns also lauded the facilities at Birchwood Farms, a course he hadn't played since he was much, much younger.

"This place was in great shape, it had a good flow

Jack Seltzer of the Kendal Academy of Golf in Ypsilanti plays from a green side bunker on No. 3 on the Birches course during the final round of the Michigan Senior PGA Professional Championship Tuesday at Birchwood Farms Golf and Country Club in Harbor Springs. Seltzer finished at 1-under-par 143 and tied for fifth.

SENIOR PGA

to it and it was easy on the eye," Cairns said. "I know all the players really liked it."

Beurmann, the defending Michigan Senior PGA Professional Championship champion, had five birdies and a pair of hogeys to finish runner-up at 5-under 139, while finishing tied for third was Kevin Muir of the Wyndgate of Rochester Hills and Dave Kendall of the Kendall Academy of Golf as they both finished at 2-under 142.

Seltzer and Boh Ackerman of Boh Ackerman Golf in Commerce Township were tied for fifth at 1-under 143, while Mick DeKorver of Walenmack Country Club and Lee Houtteman of Manitou Passage Golf Club in Traverse City tied for seventh at 1-over 145.

Jim Deiters of Midland Country Club and Bill Mory of Meridian Sun Golf Club tied for ninth at 2-over 145, while Deiters won a playoff for the ninth and final qualifying position along with Cairns, Beurmann, Kendall, Muir, Seltzer, Ackerman, Houtteman and DeKorver for the 2014 Senior PGA Professional National Championship.

For Cairns, advancing to the Senior PGA Professional National Championship in Port St. Lucie, Fla., will be a homecoming of sorts.

"It's perfect, I live in Vero Beach in the winter and it's 32 minutes down the road," Cairns said. "It's the perfect spot for me. I know my way around those courses and it'll be a normal round for me. I teach and spent a lot of time at that facility in the winter and they've done a great job restoring it."

In the Super Senior 70-old division, Larry Mancour of Oden and a Michigan Golf Hall of Famer defeated Nick Berklich of Grand Blanc on the third playoff hole for the victory. Both Mancour and Berklich, PGA Life Members, finished at 9-over 153.

Also, Barry Redmond of Boyne USA Resorts shot a second round 4-over par 76 and placed tied for 22nd at 7-over 151, while former Birchwood Farms Golf and Country Club professional Kirk Seheerhorn, now at Wuskowhan Players Club in West Olive, shot a second round 4-over 76 and finished tied for 27th at 153.

Ron Beurmann of the Country Club of Jackson follows the flight of his drive on No. 1 of the Birches course during the final round of the Michigan Senior PGA Professional Championship Tuesday at Birchwood Farms Golf and Country Club in Harbor Springs. Beurmann, the defending tournament champion, finished second at 5-under-par 139 as he shot a 3-under 69 in his final round.

PRACTICE

with players has helped tremendously as well.

"The coaches have had a year and a winter to work together, so we're all on the same page there," added Bindi. "So I think that's going to be one of the biggest things for us. You can see the practices are a lot crisper because we're not re-teaching everything. We're not doing things over. They have a better feel of what we're trying to do."

One of the biggest changes the Rayders will head through will be the re-shifting of the Lake Michigan football Conference, which merged with the Northwest Conference earlier this year.

Charlevoix will be a part of the Northern Michigan Football League II, consisting of themselves, East Jordan, Harbor Springs, Frankfort, Kalkaska and Suttons Bay.

The way Bindi sees it, the Rayders just took on a tougher task is all.

"We upgraded our schedule from last year in some respects," he said. "Frankfort is a darn good football team, Suttons Bay is a good football program. To us, all we've done is lose our non-conference games and we pick up Grayling, Boyne City, Elk Rapids and we play Coleman."

Being back on the practice field is first step for the Rayders to take on what appears to be a tougher schedule and putting in the time and work like everyone else is all Bindi can ask for from his team at the moment.

That and some good attitude and toughness of course.

"I'm happy about being out. I'm glad we're going," said Bindi. "I already said, we're way ahead because it's not a learning experience for us, so I think we should be very, very competitive."

The Rayders will have three days of shorts and helmets, with the first day of shoulder pads coming on Thursday, Aug. 14, followed by the first day of full pads and full contact on Friday, Aug. 15.

Some things are just better together!
